BLOCKADE ON BORDER

All Passes at Naco are Revoked.

Bliss Stops the Mexican Factions Sending Agents into Arizona.

Warns if Force is Used by America it will be Unfriendly Act.

Washington Understands the Maytorena Troops will be Called Off.

LONGER LIFE NOW ASSURED.

Fifteen Years Added to the Average, Dr. Vaughn Declares.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 12.—The average length of life in the United States is fifteen years longer than it was thirty-five years ago, according to a statement made today by Dr. Victor C. Vaughn of the University of Michigan, president of the American Medical Association, in an address before the City Club here today. Crime, he characterized as a disease due to heredity and environment and the way to eradicate crime was to treat it as a disease and to disinfect its breeding-places. Dr. Vaughn said the death rate from tuberculosis had decreased 54 per cent. since 1880.

CENTRAL AMERICA GOING TO WORK.

THE PEOPLE DOWN THERE ARE MAKING A MOVE TO SUSTAIN THEMSELVES.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

GUATEMALA CITY (Guatemala) Dec. 12.—The curtailment of imports as a result of the European war has started an industrial movement in the republics of Central America, the activities of which hitherto have been directed, for the most part, toward the production of coffee and other commodities which command high prices in the foreign markets.

The increased cost on importing manufactured goods, flour, rice and other staples has aroused the people to a desire of self-sustenance. It is pointed out that in the Spanish colonial times Central America produced all the food and clothing its population required and had a surplus to export.

An outcome of this movement, it is believed, will be an increased demand for machinery of all kinds and an opportunity for American manufacturers to supply it.

COMMENT ON THE SITUATION.

On the heels of the news of the failure of the papal plea for a Christmas truce in the European war comes information that the Germans not only do not want the United States as a mediator when the time comes to talk peace, but resent even the well-meant efforts of Americans of German descent to encourage an honorable and quick termination of hostilities. As for the war itself new developments were rather scarce yesterday, the most significant item probably being the one that details the capture of Prasnysz from which the Germans are menacing the Russian rear.

DESTROYERS REQUESTED

Goethals is Worried About Neutrality.

British Collier Uses Wireless in the Canal Zone to Signal Fleet.

United States Determined to Prevent Such Breaches in the Future.

Belief that Allies Have a Naval Base in American Waters.

[BY PACIFIC CABLE.]

PANAMA, Dec. 12.—Col. Goethals, Governor of the Canal Zone, cabled to Washington yesterday a request for torpedo-boat destroyers to enforce neutrality in canal waters.

Yesterday the British auxiliary collier Lena violated the neutrality of canal waters and canal laws by using its wireless.

The United States naval station here was not at the moment ready to interrupt the Lena's message, and quick orders to the Panama Railroad steamer Advance to do so developed that its wireless was not prepared for duty.

Wireless messages in code have been picked up by official stations here, and the presence of allied warships off the Pacific terminal demonstrates that those waters are being made a naval base for the allies.

The British Minister here has been informed that Col. Goethals will grant absolutely no deviation from President Wilson's neutrality orders.

It is reported today that a squadron of six British warships met four British colliers yesterday at sea, fifty miles south of Panama, and coaled from them. It is believed here that these warships came from Australian waters. One of them is said to be the battle cruiser Australia.

For several days there has been much wireless interference, and it is believed that the colliers and the warships have been in communication. Ships' captains coming into Balboa have reported the nearness of British cruisers.

Six British colliers have called at Panama during the last few days. This concentration of colliers undoubtedly has been for the purpose of supplying the British squadron.

A British cruiser is said last night to have come close into Balboa. She is supposed to have been trying to locate colliers. She left at once.

A Japanese fleet is said to be off the coast of Chile, and the British warships are believed to have sailed for the south to effect a junction with the Japanese.

ADMITS REQUEST BY GOETHALS.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Dec. 12.—Secretary of War Garrison, when the report reached Washington that Col. Goethals had advised Washington that the British collier Lena had violated the neutrality laws of the Panama Canal zone and that he had asked for torpedo boat destroyers to assist him in maintaining the neutrality, made this statement:

"I have not had any dispatches in which any of the facts about the vessel named, or any other British collier, were mentioned. Have no knowledge of any alleged violation of neutrality as detailed in the dispatch shown me. Goethals has requested a swift-moving boat be placed at his disposal, but I have not yet found when or where I can procure one."

Secretary to the President Tumulty made this statement over the telephone:

"This report is news to me. The White House has received no intimation of the statements made in this dispatch. If the facts were as stated, the White House undoubtedly would know them."

NO MORE EXPORTS OF ANILINE OILS.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LONDON, Dec. 12.—A special issue of the Official Gazette proclaims the complete prohibition of the exportation of aniline oil, aniline salt and picric acid and its components, to all destinations. This announcement amends the proclamation of November 10, which permitted the exportation of these articles to the United States and to European ports of the allies.

It was only after considerable effort on the part of Consul-General Skinner that the British government, in its decree of November consented to allow aniline oil to go back to America.

FIRE DESTROYS GERMAN BARRACKS.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

COPENHAGEN (via London) Dec. 13, 8:33 a.m.—News has been received here that the Gottorp barracks, near Kiel, have been destroyed by fire, the origin of which is kept secret.

The Gottorp barracks are about twenty-five miles northwest of Kiel on an island which lies between the Schlei and Burgsee. The old ducal Schloss Gottorp is the main building of these barracks.

DAY AND NIGHT ATTACKS ON RUSSIAN POSITIONS.

PETROGRAD, Dec. 12 (via London, 3:05 p.m.)—Russian military observers contend that the Germans in withdrawing before partial successes of the Russians along the battle front to the north of Warsaw are following their well-known tactics of delaying the advance of their opponents as long as possible by holding each successive trench until it becomes untenable. Reports reaching Petrograd today, however, indicate that the German front has been pierced at least on two points between Ciechanow and Prasnysz, which has resulted in the severing of communication between the German columns.

A German repulse here, military critics say, will be more significant as a strategic advantage than as a decisive factor in the campaign now raging on all sides of Warsaw. It will give the Russian forces operating to the northwest of Warsaw, Russians point out, space in which to maneuver on the right bank of the Vistula their right wing which hitherto has been cramped by the falling back of their own troops upon the Polish capital. The protracted fighting in the last three weeks is now being augmented, it is said, by day and night attacks on the Russian positions between Lowicz and the River Vistula. Constant German reinforcements from other parts of the battle front are reported to be entering the struggle in this locality.

Kaleidoscope.

GERMAN PRESS DISPLEASED WITH VON MOLTKE DEAL.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

THE HAGUE, Dec. 12 (via London, 4:45 p.m.)—German newspapers which have just been received here show that the German press, although prohibited strictly from criticising any acts of the government during the war, is much displeased by the sudden change in the leadership of the German military forces. They state that Count von Moltke has been "politely sidetracked" as chief of the General Staff and that supreme command has been given to "a War Minister whose behavior towards the Reichstag in the Zabern incident was insulting."

In the short biographies of Maj.-Gen. von Falkenhayn, which the newspapers are permited to print, they refer in the most guarded way to what they term his failure up to the present time in the operations on the western front.

"Von Falkenhayn was appointed temporary chief of the German Staff October 25," says the Berliner Tageblatt. "He therefore has held the position since the fall of Antwerp. During this period have occurred the battles of the Yser and Dixmude. In this serious time, therefore, von Falkenhayn has been uniting all the functions which during the war of 1870 were divided between Von Moltke and Roon."

It is intimated in these newspapers that there has been friction between Emperor William and Count von Moltke, owing to a difference of opinion concerning the conduct of the campaign in the west; it being understood that while Von Moltke favored energetic operations against the French center, the Emperor was strongly inclined toward pushing the advance in the direction of Calais. As a result of this conflict of opinion, it is said, Count von Moltke retired to take the cure at Homburg, being, however, in actual need of medical attention.

Gen. von Falkenhayn then continued the operations in Flanders under the direction of the Emperor, with results which are described as not wholly pleasing to the German public. Announcement was made five days ago that Gen. von Falkenhayn would remain at the head of the General Staff, but that Count von Moltke might be given another mission.

The plan of campaign of Count von Moltke, as originally outlined, was to advance on Paris as rapidly as possible, and this led to the swift movement toward the French capital by Gen. von Kluck and Gen. von Hausen in August and September, which was ended by the forced retreat to the positions now occupied by the Germans in France.

It is stated that friction between Emperor William and Count von Moltke first occurred at this time, the Emperor taking the ground that the move tactically was futile.

After the capture of Antwerp, it was Von Moltke's desire, according to these reports, to concentrate efforts upon the Verdun-Toul line, while the Emperor, pointing to the possibility of an enveloping movement by the allies, or a break through the wedge which Von Moltke proposed to advance, favored the continuation of operations against the forces of the allies in Flanders. This is the situation, it is now said, which finally led to Von Moltke's trip to Homburg and the installation of Von Falkenhayn as chief of the General Staff.

WAR REFUGEES REACH MALTA.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

MALTA (via London) Dec. 12.—The steamer Caledonian, which arrived here from Port Said today, had on board a large number of members of religious orders, mostly French. Sixty-six nuns were landed here, but the remainder will proceed to France on the steamer.

A majority of these people were expelled from Palestine by the Turks while the others fled owing to the menace of war.

SWEDEN IS PIQUED BY BERLIN'S REPLY.

STOCKHOLM (via London,) Dec. 12, 11:35 p.m.—Germany's answer to Sweden's request for an explanation of the laying of mines by Germany by which three Swedish vessels were blown up is considered far from satisfactory by the Swedish press, according to the Aftonbladet.

The answer denies that German ships laid mines on Saturday or Sunday, last, but says nothing concerning previous days. It admits that, owing to the intention of Russia to establish a winter naval base, German mines were laid in the Aland Archipelago, "later than Sunday," of which Sweden was notified Monday. That was after the Swedish ships were sunk.

Berlin Admits, However, that the Slavic Resistance is by no Means Broken—Allies are Reported to be Preparing the Way for a General Advance—Further Successes of the Serbs.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

BUENOS AYRES, Dec. 12.—The German cruiser Dresden, one of the squadron engaged by the British warships off Falkland Islands and which took to flight, has stranded on the Argentine coast near the Port Gallegos.

COPENHAGEN, Dec. 12.—A dispatch from Berlin says the Germans have taken Przasnysz, in Russian Poland, which is regarded as an important step onward against the Vistula fortifications on the line of the Narev River. It is thought the advance will eventually menace the Russian rear.

LONDON, Dec. 12, 9:30 p.m.—There have been no very marked developments in the last twenty-four hours either in the eastern or western battles, so far as available official reports disclose, although fighting of a more or less violent character is proceeding along the two fronts. In this the opposing headquarters claim the advantage fell to their respective armies.

As an offset to the Russian claim of having checked the advance of three of five German columns invading their territory, the Germans state today that their cavalry has repulsed the Russian horsemen on the East Prussian frontier; that in North Poland the German operations are developing and that in South Poland the Russian attacks have been unsuccessful.

It is admitted in Berlin, however, that the Russian resistance is by no means broken, although, according to the German estimate in the battles preceding the evacuation of Lods, the Russians lost 150,000 men including the 80,000 previously reported captured, while the German losses, it is stated, were light. The town of Lods suffered little damage.

There is the same disparity between French and German accounts of the battles in Flanders and France. It is apparent from both, however, that the allies have assumed at least a partial offensive. The French announce that this movement is meeting with success, while the Germans assert that the attacks of the allies have been repulsed with heavy losses in killed, wounded and prisoners.

The general impression here is that the allies, with artillery and occasional infantry attacks, are preparing the way for a general offensive and in doing so are meeting with the usual stubborn resistance from the Germans, who are firmly established in intrenched positions. The advance, if it is possible, must therefore be slow, as Gen. Joffre, the commander-in-chief, is not likely to sacrifice the lives of his men in an attempt to storm fortified works.

The Servians continue to announce successes by their troops, who are said to have been led by King Peter and his two sons. The Austrians tried to stem defeat by sending a force from Belgrade southward against the Servian right wing, but this army, like that which is retreating westward, suffered heavy losses after repeated fierce attacks.

The Pope's plea for a Christmas truce has failed, for while a majority of the European powers received it sympathetically, the others did not feel able to support it. From Berlin it is said that Russia would not consent to the truce as the Russian Christmas does not fall on the same day as that of the other states.

ITALY TO BECOME ALLY OF DEFEATED POWERS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, Dec. 12.—Italy probably will ally herself with the defeated powers in the European war when peace is made to prevent them from being beaten down forever, according to Count Giulio Bolognesi, Italian Consul in Chicago, in explaining today enormous purchases of army supplies being made in the United States by his government.

"Italy is preparing to defend herself in case any nation infringes on her interests," Count Bolognesi said. "She is also preparing to be in a position to speak when the terms of peace are being made."

According to the Count, the Italian army will number 2,200,000 men fully armed and equipped for active campaigning within a few months. The war, he said, probably would last until next October or November.

Five million bushels of wheat were bought in Chicago yesterday by the Italian government, he said. A commission now in New York will purchase 25,000 horses for the Italian army. Another set of buyers are in the South and West buying lots of saddles and other supplies.

PASSENGERS VACCINATED AS POLICE GUARD THEM.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

OAKLAND, Dec. 12.—The Oregon Express, which left Portland, Or., at 1:10 a.m. Friday, was surrounded by a cordon of police when it arrived in Oakland Mole at noon today, the exits were locked and the fifty-six remaining passengers who had not dropped off at intermediate points were compelled to submit to vaccination.

The vaccinations were performed by Dr. Allen F. Gillihan, local health officer, and two assistants, operating under orders from the State Board of Health, which had been telegraphically advised by the health authorities of Oregon that Conductor Scheer, in charge of the train from Roseburg to Ashland, Or., was removed from the train at Ashland suffering from an attack of smallpox.

Passengers who got off the train at Sacramento, Berkeley and other points escaped the surgeon's scalpel and the other fifty-six knew nothing of the wholesale inoculation to which the trainload was submitted until Dr. Gillihan marched in with instruments ready and announced:

"You are all under quarantine until you are vaccinated. Your only chance to escape is to take ten days in quarantine."

A wail of protests arose, but the doctors went swiftly to their work. Some women wanted to be vaccinated on the leg rather than the arm. They were refused.

Among the passengers vaccinated were Mrs. M. Maiden and Philomena Maiden of San Jose; Mrs. J. R. Reselle, San Diego; Cecil Jones, Portland, Or.; King Taylor, Los Angeles; Timothy Daley, Los Angeles; Mrs. J. W. Long, Fresno; Mrs. Klocker, Riverside.

SIX INCHES OF SNOW IN MID-WEST STATES.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

KANSAS CITY (Mo.) Dec. 12.—Snow, ranging in depth from two to six inches, fell over most of Kansas, Northern and Western Missouri and parts of Nebraska last night. The precipitation continued tonight in many places.

The government weather observer here said the snow probably would continue well into Sunday and that tomorrow would be much colder than today, when a minimum temperature of 20 deg. was recorded.

In Kansas the fall was heaviest in the eastern portion of the State. Numerous fires due to defective flues were reported and much suffering was incurred. A soup line was established at Atchison, while Topeka charitable organizations were swamped with calls for aid.

Charitable organizations here announced they could handle the situation here.

AMERICA AS ARBITRATOR NOT LIKED BY GERMANY

Cologne Gazette Says United States is Too Friendly to England.

Declares No Feeling of Irritation is Felt Against this Country, but Believes Bankers with Teutonic Names Who Advocate Move are Rendering a Doubtful Service to the Fatherland.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

AMSTERDAM, Dec. 12 (via London.)—In a long article dealing with the possibility of the United States playing an important role in the conclusion of peace among the European powers, the Cologne Gazette says that the "peace movement in America is not inspired by Germany," and that "American bankers with German names,' in urging the desirability of peace, render a doubtful service to Germany."

Such language, the newspaper says, is likely to be misconstrued as an indication that Germany is exhausted by the war, and it adds, such notices only tend to injure German credit with neutral states.

Despite all friendliness with America, the Cologne Gazette continues: "Germans must not allow themselves to be deceived and they must look in the face the fact that America cannot be an arbitrator in the fight between Germany and Great Britain.

"It would be an ostrich policy, the newspaper declares, not to recognize that public opinion in America, taken as a whole, is entirely friendly to Great Britain. It may be argued, it says, that the American government has observed the strictest neutrality, "but one can be neutral in an indifferent way and on the whole American neutrality has been favorable to Great Britain."

The newspaper then says:

"In view of all this we cannot have in America the confidence which we ought to be able to repose in a power which would act as an impartial arbitrator in regard to an arrangement of peace.

"We cherish no feeling of irritation against America because she is friendly to Great Britain. Such a feeling is only natural, as Great Britain is America's motherland; but it is just for this reason that we fear prejudice and we must in a friendly but firm manner reject America as an arbitrator."

Pontiff.

SORROW FELT AT VATICAN OVER FAILURE OF TRUCE.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

ROME, Dec. 12.—The Osservatore Romano, the Batican organ, referring to the efforts of Pope Benedict to bring about a truce during the Christmas season among the warring powers, says:

"The august Pontiff in homage, faith and devotion to Christ, the Redeemer, who is the Prince of Peace, and also by reason of sentiments of humanity and pity, especially towards the families of the combatants, addressed confidentially the belligerent governments to ascertain how they would receive the proposal of a truce during such a solemn festivity as Christmas.

"All the powers declared that they highly appreciated the loftiness of the pontifical initiative. A majority gave their sympathetic adherence to the proposal, but some did not feel able to agree to it. Thus, lacking the necessary unanimity, the Pontiff has been unable to reach the benevolent result which the paternal heart of His Holiness promised himself."

WHY IT FAILED.

The Vatican authorities today made public a document setting forth the efforts made by the Pope to obtain a truce in the European war during the Christmas season. The efforts of the Pontiff unfortunately failed, according to the Vatican announcement, "owing to the opposition of a certain power."

It is stated by persons in close touch with the Vatican that the Turkish and Russian governments declined to agree to a Christmas truce.

The first announcement of an effort on the part of the Pope for a truce in Europe over the Christmas holidays came through the German official Press Bureau two days ago, which then said that Germany was agreeable to this proposal, provided all the other powers concerned accepted it.

Yesterday the Press Bureau said that Russia had declined the proposal.

AMERICANS IN TURKEY UNDER THE GOLDEN RULE

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—Informal assurances have been given Ambassador Morgenthau at Constantinople by members of the Ottoman Cabinet that American institutions in Turkey will receive similar treatment to that accorded foreign institutions in this country. Secretary Bryan made public today without comment the paraphrase of Mr. Mongenthau's message:

"The American Ambassador at Constantinople has had an interview with the Minister of Public Instruction and the Minister of the Interior. They propose that American institutions shall be treated the same as foreign institutions are treated in the United States and will delay for sixty days the enforcement of most of the instructions that are objectionable. They stated that their chief desire was to secure supervisory control and direct relations with foreign institutions without guardianship of the Embassy.

"The Minister of the Interior, now acting Minister of Finance, has assumed temporarily the posts of Minister of War and Minister of Marine. Wholesale deportation of French and English from Beirut to Damascus occurred on the 9th and 10th by order of the Damascus commandant. The Minister of the Interior has promised to stop these deportations, as contrary to his orders.

"Definite assurances were secured that French and others (word not decipherable) employed in American institutions of a charitable and educational character and many employed by American firms, are to remain unmolested as a matter of favor to the United States.

"The Standard Oil declines to assume the risk of transporting money from Smyrna to Scala Nova. The Tennessee is to be sent to Alexandria for funds for Jaffa. Money will also be sent to Jerusalem."

Psychology.

INVASION BY GERMANS A BRITISH FIXED IDEA.

[A. P. FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

LONDON, Dec. 1.—Gen. Baden-Powell shares the opinion of many other English military experts who believe that Germany fully expects to invade England, if possible, and will direct its activities toward the commercial cities in the North of England, rather than toward London and the resort cities of the south. In the opinion of Gen. Baden-Powell, the German Emperor will endeavor to land at least 90,000 troops in England.

"I know that the general idea is," said Gen. Baden-Powell in a recent interview, "that the attempt to invade England will be made on the coast of Norfolk or Suffolk. Personally, I think that the Yorkshire coast is more likely, for the Germans will first desire to invade the industrial centers of the north. They appreciate what effect that would have if they succeeded. Once let them get hold of some of the big manufacturing towns, factories would be smashed up and ruined and I estimate that they could then throw 14,000,000 persons out of employment, rendering them destitute and starving. It is certain that even by a short, sharp raid, they could do a tremendous amount of damage."

Gen. Baden-Powell is far less optimistic about the war than many of England's public men. The hero of Mafeking in discussing the present crisis, said:

"There are still many persons in country districts, and even in some of our large towns, who do not realize what this great war means—that Britain's fight is one for her very existence. We receive encouraging reports that we are doing well, but we must remember that one side or the other must go under and go under forever. At present it looks as if the wind is blowing in our favor, but there is always the unexpected to consider. You never can tell. The right thing to do is to try to smash the Germans now, which means that every man must put his shoulder to the wheel."

The Germans, it is pointed out by the general, have nine places from which they could embark troops in an effort to make a landing in England. He estimates that a greater force than 10,000 probably would not be sent from each of these points, making a total of less than 100,000.

Lowestoft and other towns along the east coast of England which are regarded as likely landing places for an invading army, have made preparations to receive the Germans. The Mayor of Lowestoft has issued a statement to the citizens of that town advising them how to act in case the Germans land. A special force of 150 constables has been named and civilians have been advised to follow the directions of these officers explicitly, should the Germans enter the town.

Walter Long, a member of Parliament, has advised that all foodstuffs stored in large quantities in east coast towns should be moved inland where they can be guarded against seizure.

Gen. Baden-Powell says the 15,000 older Boy Scouts of England are doing everything in their power to assist in the present struggle. These scouts are 16 years of age or more, and would be available as a second guard in case the military authorities lower the age standard. All these boys are fairly well drilled and would be effective in almost any sort of military duty.

CITY OF PRZASNYSZ TAKEN BY GERMANS.

Russia's Rear Menaced by the Invaders—Most Important Factor in the Latest Developments in Eastern Theater of War—Severe Resistance Maintained Everywhere by the Slavs.

[BY WIRELESS AND A. P.]

BERLIN, Dec. 12 (via wireless to Sayville, L. I.)—Occupation of the city of Przasnysz by the German forces which have been advancing on Warsaw from the north, recently reported unofficially, was said definitely by the official press bureau today to have been accomplished.

"This is the most important factor in the latest developments from the eastern theater of war," the press bureau statement continues, "and while in itself it is not important it shows that the Germans have begun active offensive operations north of the Vistula.

"Przasnysz lies on the direct line of communication between Willenberg, East Prussia, and Warsaw. This shows that the advance is directed against the fortified line along the Narew River. If this line were broken the Germans would be in the rear of Warsaw, which would exercise a deciding influence on the Polish campaign.

"News from South Poland and Galicia makes it clear that notwithstanding certain successes achieved by the Germans and Austrians severe resistance is being encountered everywhere. Evidently the Austrian forces in the Carpathians are too small to clear Hungarian territory of the enemy at once and must attack and repulse one column after another.

"The Austrians report that 10,000 Russians have been captured, but they fail to say within what period, making the report meaningless.

"Operations in Servia also are meeting with dogged resistance at some points, but are proceeding to the south of Belgrade.

"The loss of the cruiser squadron off the Falkland Islands is the occasion of general regret, but it is hardly a surprise, since the most optimistic had not dared to expect that the ships could escape from their pursuers."

RUSSIAN LOSSES.

In the battles around Lodz in Russian Poland, the Russians suffered greater losses than they did in their defeat at Tannenberg, East Prussia, according to a statement issued by the German official press bureau today, announcing the evacuation by the Russians of the city of Lodz. The statement reads:

"The evacuation of Lodz took place secretly in the middle of the night and remained unnoticed by us at first, but it was the result of the previous three days' battles. In these engagements the Russians suffered severely from the fire of our artillery. The trenches evacuated by the Russians were literally filled with dead. Not even after the battle of Tannenberg did our troops have to march over so many Russian corpses as they did in the battle around Lodz and Lowicz.

"Although we attacked, our losses were much smaller than were those of the Russians. We lost comparatively few men killed. The Twenty-fifth Reserve Corps, in breaking through the Russian lines, had only 120 killed.

"It is significant that on a height to the south of Lutomiersk and west of Lodz not less than 887 Russians were buried.

"According to our estimates the Russians lost 150,000 men, including 80,000 men captured. The prisoners are now being taken to Germany.

"The town of Lodz suffered little damage during the fighting. Some suburbs and factories beyond the town sustained property losses, but the interior of the place was almost undamaged. The Grand Hotel was not harmed, and the electric tramway is now running as in times of peace."

Famine.

UNITED STATES CONSUL A BEGGAR IN ANTWERP.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LONDON, Dec. 12, 8:40 p.m.—That the famine in Belgium is no respecter of persons was vividly brought home by a letter received today by the American commission from Henry W. Diederich, the United States Consul-General at Antwerp, who appeals for food for his family, for his consular staff and for himself. Mr. Diederich writes:

"About ten days ago, Jarvis Bell of New York, while on his way to Brussels, kindly informed me that if my family and myself needed anything to let him or the Relief Commitee know and that they would provide as best they could.

"At the time the offer was made I did not think it would be necessary to make use of it, but we have been suddenly made to realize that Antwerp is not victualized as common report has it, as a few days ago all the bakers in the city declared they were no longer able to supply bread for lack of flour.

"For the time being they again started their work, but the outlook for a steady supply of bread this winter is very gloomy. In view of this condition I would request the American Relief Committee to let me have at the earliest opportunity some flour for myself and the families of the consular staff."

"Your work should save Belgium from famine."

In these words King Albert of the Belgians replied to a message of good wishes sent to him by the American Commission for Relief in Belgium. "His Majesty," the King's reply continues, "earnestly congratulates your commission on its generous and enlightened initiative. He desires that you should know he is grateful."

BRITISH SEIZE A GERMAN SHIP.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LONDON, Dec. 12.—A German steamer with a cargo of 7000 tons of oil, proceeding to Italy from the United States, has been seized at Gibraltar by a British warship, according to reports received here from Berlin.

HOSPITAL SUPPLIES SENT TO EUROPE.

FOUR HUNDRED AND ONE CASES DISPATCHED BY THE RED CROSS SOCIETY.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—A shipment of 401 cases of hospital supplies and clothing for women and children was made by the American Red Cross today to the war stricken countries of Europe. France will receive eighty-nine cases and an additional donation of 5,000,000 cigarettes. Germany will get seventy-one cases, Austria-Hungary seventy-one cases and twenty bales of absorbent cotton and Belgium 159 cases.

Encosing a check for $100 Vice-President Marshall wrote the Red Cross today in part, as follows:

"I fear the calls for help at home and abroad are to be so numerous and all compelling that many of us must curtail our pleasures at the behest of duty and that larger charity which spells love."

FINDS A GERMAN IN HUGE TRUNK.

LONDON, Dec. 12.—A vigilant customs officer at Gravesend today made a sensational capture of a German army officer whom he extracted from hiding in a huge trunk that was about to be shipped from Gravesend to Rotterdam.

This trunk was going forward as ordinary merchandise on board the steamer Batavier. The customs officer became suspicious and gave orders that the padlocks on the trunk be chiseled off. This was done and when the lid was removed his suspicions were confirmed. A man, later identified as a German officer, was lifted out of the box. He was promptly removed to the Gravesend Police Station. Bedding, food and water were found in the trunk and it was evident that the man was prepared for a long trip. It is believed that this officer made his escape from one of the internment camps in England. It is evident that he must have had accomplices in his effort to leave the country hidden in the trunk.

VAN DYKE RETURNS TO POST ABROAD.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK. Henry van Dyke, American Minister to The Netherlands, sailed for his post today on the steamer New Amsterdam. He said that he had enjoyed his brief stay in America and found his eyes much improved from the treatment he had received. Eye trouble was the chief reason for his visit here, he said.

Dr. Van Dyke was accompanied by his wife and daughter. When he arrived about two weeks ago he refused to comment on the report that he was the bearer of a letter from Queen Wilhelmina of Holland to President Wilson, suggesting that Holland and the United States act together to induce the warring nations of Europe to lay down their arms. Today, however, he denied the report.

Dozens of cases of clothing from societies all over the country and money from individuals and associations for the relief of the Belgians were taken back by Dr. Van Dyke.

A MILD WINTER IN ARCHANGEL.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LONDON, Dec. 13, 1 a.m.—A Petrograd dispatch to Reuter's Telegram Company says enormous quantities of all sorts of goods from England and elsewhere are awaiting shipment at Archangel. These include a half million tons of coal, thousands of tons of herring, machinery, cotton and chemicals. The winter has been exceptionally mild and it is expected that navigation can be kept open until the middle of January with the help of icebreakers.

TURKISH FLEET BOMBARDS BATUM.

LONDON, Dec. 12.—A dispatch received here from Constantinople by way of Berlin, says a Turkish fleet yesterday bombarded the environs of Batum, the Russian seaport on the eastern coast of the Black Sea. One hundred Russians were killed and a number were wounded by the fire.

There [illegible] many more than a [illegible] who believe the time [illegible] the advice of Sir Per[illegible] should be taken. Months ago [illegible] English officer declared that [illegible] was the most effective [illegible] navy of the future and [illegible] cessation in the rapid con[illegible] of dreadnaughts and the [illegible] of the money thus spent in [illegible] larger numbers of subma[illegible] The lay mind has accepted [illegible] of the policy, but the [illegible] officers making up the [illegible] board are convinced that, [illegible] submarines have a large [illegible] play in naval warfare, they [illegible] the larger craft. These [illegible] hold to the opinion [illegible] dreadnaught remains the [illegible] and chief fighting force of a [illegible] navy.

[illegible] general board reiterates the [illegible] has always held that 'com[illegible] the sea can only be gained [illegible] by vessels that can take [illegible] the sea in all times and in [illegible] and overcome the strong[illegible] that can be brought [illegible] them.' [illegible] navy has not neglected [illegible] of submarines will [illegible] by a comparison of our [illegible] in this craft with that of [illegible] navies. It is roughly esti[illegible] that there are built or building [illegible] various navies the following [illegible] of submarines: England, [illegible] France, seventy-six; [illegible] fifty-one; Germany, [illegible] and Japan, seventeen. [illegible] was made in July of [illegible]

[illegible] the relative sizes of the [illegible] the great nations enumerated [illegible] considered, it will be seen [illegible] United States has a subma[illegible] relatively and actually [illegible] England's fleet is [illegible] twice as great as ours, yet [illegible] but little more than half as [illegible] submarines. France has [illegible] larger submarine fleet [illegible] with a smaller navy, but [illegible] in the past taken the lead in [illegible] building. Some years ago [illegible] the dreadnaught policy [illegible] large numbers of submarines, [illegible] the last two or three years [illegible] devoted her energies to repair her deficiency in dreadnaughts. England has overcome this lead, and we are on that road, having in addition to the fifty-one ships already mentioned, eight or more authorized by last year's bill, on which work will shortly commence, and we are asking for eight or more this year, which will swell our total to at least sixty-seven in the next three years. Germany, with a larger fleet than ours, has less submarines, and Japan, with a fleet smaller than ours in strength, only half as many submarines.

"What we have done, however, in submarine construction is but an earnest of what must be done in the future. When we shall have a division of seagoing submarines in commission, we will have added to the battleship fleet a strong fighting unit which must be of large importance in any over-sea operations.

"As far as the submarines themselves are concerned, it is believed that ours are on a par with any in the world. In the appropriation made by the last Congress two types for the first time were included—one of high-surface speed, to accompany the fleet, and one for coast and harbor defense. In the building of two such distinct types we are in accord with what foreign countries are doing, and submarine flotillas in the future will probably be composed of vessels of these two types."

AVIATION FIELD.

Of aviation the Secretary says:

"Aircraft have demonstrated in the present war in Europe that no military arm is complete which lacks them. They will not replace vessels of war, but will extend their field of operations to the air as well as on the surface of and underneath the water. They provide the best means for discovering submarine mines, and have now become an indispensable naval adjunct.

"We are but in the infancy of air craft. The development in the manufacture of these craft in this country needs to be stimulated, and the success of this arm of the military service abroad will be a mighty stimulus to American manufacturers.

"Orders were given, early in the year, for some foreign-built aeroplanes, in addition to larger orders for aeroplanes made in this country. Unfortunately, the war made it impossible for the orders placed abroad to be filled, and the trial of such craft must be postponed. The best types of American manufacture have been ordered, and the department will develop this modern branch of the naval service steadily and rapidly."

GENERAL BOARD DIFFERS.

The general board does not take the same view. Its report refers to its recommendations in 1913 which "brought to the attention of the department the dangerous situation of the country in the lack of aircraft and airmen in both the naval and military services. At the present time, the total number of aircraft of any kind owned by the navy consists of twelve aeroplanes, not more than two of which are of the same type, and all reported to have too little speed and carrying capacity for service work.

"In our present condition of unpreparedness, in contact with any foe possessing a proper air service, our scouting would be blind," says the General Board. "We would be without the means of detecting the presence of submarines or mine fields or of attempting direct attack on the enemy from the air, while our own movements would be an open book to him. The General Board cannot too strongly urge that the department's most serious thought be given to this matter, and that Congress be asked for an appropriation of at least $5,000,000 for the purpose of establishing an efficient air service."

Financial conditions resulting from the European war have caused the department to refrain from asking this year for an increase in personnel, Secretary Daniels states, but says a plan will be presented to Congress next session for the organization of a competent naval reserve force from the men who receive honorable discharges from the navy.

"The board," the report says, "cannot too strongly urge the repeated recommendations to provide the fleet with a personnel active list and trained reserve equal to the manning of the fleet for war. In the opinion of the General Board this is a matter of even more serious import than that of construction, for it cannot be too often repeated that ships without a trained personnel to man and fight them are useless for the purposes of war. The General Board recommends legislation for an active personnel, officers and enlisted force capable of keeping in full commission all battleships under fifteen years of age from date of authorization, all destroyers and submarines under twelve years of age from authorization, half of the cruisers and all gunboats, and all the necessary auxiliaries that go with the active fleet; and of furnishing nucleus crews for all ships in the navy that would be used in time of war, and the necessary men for the training, and other shore stations."

TO RESTORE ADMIRAL.

Secretary Daniels again urges that the grades of admiral and vice-admiral be restored and giving considerable space to the occupation of Vera Cruz by United States naval forces pays tribute to the nineteen men who lost their lives there. The entire record of Vera Cruz, the Secretary states, is "a remarkable demonstration of the all-around efficiency of the navy."

The report discusses at length many other subjects with which the department has been engaged, including the manufacture of powder, investigation of the cost of armor plate manufacture, construction details of new ships, the anti-wine mess order promulgated this year, the educational work for enlisted men for which the Secretary expresses great enthusiasm and reports pleasing results, and the work of the relief ships, North Carolina and Tennessee, still in European waters watching over American interests. In conclusion Secretary Daniels says:

"This has been a proud and solemn year for the American navy. It has shown that it knows how to bear itself under fire, how to obey orders, how to maintain the honorable traditions of the service. Allow me, Mr. President, to congratulate you as its commander-in-chief upon the record it has made, upon its preparedness for duty, upon the reliance you can place upon it in any time of national need."

FULL STRENGTH FOR THE ARMY.

SECRETARY GARRISON FAVORS IMMEDIATE RECRUITING.

Declares it is Premature to Draw Ultimate Lessons from War in Europe, but Meanwhile it is Folly to Continue with Present Weakened Military Establishment.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—That the United States army be immediately recruited to its full war strength, which would mean the addition of 25,000 men and 1000 officers, is urged by Secretary Garrison, of the War Department, in his annual report presented today to President Wilson.

Such an increase would give the regular army a total of about 120,000 men, of whom 50,000 would be available as a mobile fighting force in the Continental United States. The present mobile strength of 21,000, the Secretary points out, soon will be cut in half by additions to the garrisons in the Canal Zone, Hawaii and the Philippines.

The report directly mentions the European war, but once.

"It would be premature," it says, "to attempt now to draw the ultimate lessons from the war in Europe. It is an imperative duty, however, to heed so much of what it brings home to us as is incontrovertible and not to be changed by any event, leaving for later and more detailed and comprehensive consideration what its later developments and final conclusions may indicate."

"In addition to strengthening the regular establishment, the Secretary urges that steps be taken at once to create a more adequate reserve army. He dismisses as impracticable talk of immediate disarmament, and as groundless fears of militarism in America, and recommends military preparedness on the ground that 'eternal vigilance is the price which must be paid in order to obtain the desirable things of life and to defend them.'"

"Whatever the future may hold in the way of agreements between nations, followed by actual disarmament thereof, of international courts of arbitration, and other greatly-to-be-desired measures to lessen or prevent conflict between nation and nation," says the report, "we all know that at present these conditions are not existing. We can and will eagerly adapt ourselves to each beneficent development along these lines; but to merely enfeeble ourselves in the meantime would, in my view, be unthinkable folly. By neglecting and refusing to provide ourselves with the necessary means of self-protection and self-defense, we could not hasten or in any way favorably influence the ultimate results we desire in these respects."

The present full war strength of the United States is summarized by the report as follows:

"The organized militia of the various States totals 8323 officers and 119,087 men. The enlisted men thereof are required, in order to obtain the financial aid which the Congress authorizes the Secretary of War to extend under certain conditions, to attend twenty-four drills a year and five days annually in the field. If all of the National Guard could be summoned in the event of war and should all respond (an inconceivable result) and if they were all found fairly efficient in the first line—that is, the troops who would be expected to immediately take the field—we could summon a force in this country of regulars and National Guard amounting to 9818 officers and 148,498 men. (This would include only regulars of fighting force stationed in the United States proper.)

"And this is absolutely all. The only other recourse would then be volunteers, and to equip, organize, train and make them ready, would take, at the smallest possible estimate, six months."

THE STATUS OF COPPER.

"Progress is Being Made" With Reference to Shipments, Whatever That May Mean.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—A delegation representing the American Smelting and Refining Company of New York, which sought information at the State Department today concerning the status of copper shipments to neutral European countries, was told that progress was being made, but no definite arrangements had been reached.

The State Department has not conceded Great Britain's contention that copper shipments to neutral bottoms to neutral countries must be billed to specific consignees and not "to order" and the shippers are eager that this position be maintained.

Condition.

NAVY SHORT OF OFFICERS.

REAR-ADMIRAL BLUE ADMITS CONDITION IS SERIOUS.

Deficiency in Number of Men Required to Man Our Ships not Regarded as of as Much Importance to the Country as is Present Lack of Commanders.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—The present strength in air war craft of the European countries is indicated in official estimates submitted by the Navy Department to the House Naval Committee and made public today. It shows that Austria-Hungary this month has 600 aeroplanes and 8 dirigibles; Belgium, 60 aeroplanes, no dirigibles; Great Britain, 900 aeroplanes, 12 dirigibles; France 1400 aeroplanes, 30 dirigibles; Germany 1400 aeroplanes, 60 dirigibles; Italy, 300 aeroplanes, 4 dirigibles; Japan, 20 aeroplanes, 2 dirigibles; Russia, 1000 areoplanes, 20 dirigibles.

In a supplementary written statement to the committee, Rear-Admiral Victor Blue, chief of the navigation bureau, said the navy was suffering more from a shortage of officers than from shortage of men.

"There are altogether 4565 men and 203 line officers short of the number necessary to man the vessels of military value which could be used in time of war," the statement adds. "While there is little doubt that this demand would be met by the ex-service men now in civil life, confusion and delay would result unless an organization was perfected prior to the outbreak of war.

"Shortage of officers in the total required is more serious than that of men. It will necessarily be several years before the requirements can be met as the supply of officers is regulated by the Naval Academy yearly output. From captain to admiral, officers are being promoted at an age that will permit of very little service in the latter grade before retirement. A board which has been considering these conditions is now preparing its report."

Of the expense of campaigns carried out on the water at any great distance, Admiral Blue said: "I worked out the figures some time ago and found that in order to keep our fleet supplied with fuel and provisions while operating 5000 to 6000 miles from its base in the United States, about 200 merchant vessels would be required. Naturally we would hope to get these vessels from the merchant marine."

THE WEATHER BACK EAST.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Dec. 12.—Snow and colder weather is the prediction for the Middle West. Snow has been falling fitfully all day. Chicago's maximum was 30 above. All the East, East Central, West and Southwest are colder tonight. Montana, the Dakotas and Western Canada report from two to ten below zero with snow. The "Sunny South" continues to shiver near the freezing point and in some Texas, Alabama and Florida localities, below freezing. Other temperatures:

BRYAN PEEVED AT DANCING.

"OLD DOC" OFFENDED AND QUITS SOUTHERN CONGRESS.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Dec. 12.—Secretary Bryan disapproves of the popularity of dancing. This came to light last night at a reception given in the Pan-American Union building, with the Secretary and Mrs. Bryan and the Southern Commercial Congress as its sponsors. Also, in defiance to the fixed standard of neutrality in music, "Tipperary" served for one of the dancing tunes, to the discomfiture of Josephus Daniels, Secretary of the Navy.

At the reception the receiving line was headed by the Secretary of State and Mrs. Bryan. The handshaking was well under way, when the swish of skirts and the rhythm of feet indicated that the "one step" was being danced. Mr. Bryan cocked his head to one side and listened. Then he turned to one of the leading members of the commercial congress and said:

"I was not apprised of the fact that there was to be dancing here this evening. I do not think it was understood that such was to be the case."

As soon as the greater portion of the guests had passed the handshaking line Mr. and Mrs. Bryan withdrew.

PRE-NUPTIAL AGREEMENT.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

STOCKTON, Dec. 12.—Didymus D. Dayton and Sarah Alice Jones, prominent residents of Lodi, plan to get married in the near future. They plan also to stay married once the step is taken and, in order to make sure their good intentions are carried out, they have filed a pre-nuptial agreement with the County Recorder, which, in part, is as follows:

Whereas, a marriage is intended to be solemnized between the said parties, it is agreed that during their marriage each of them shall be and continue completely independent of the other as regards the enjoyment and control of all property owned by each of them at the commencement of this marriage relation, except as hereinafter provided. Didymus D. Dayton, in consideration of the promise of the said Sarah Alice Jones to marry him, agrees that he will, upon his decease, give to her all his property and Sarah Alice Jones agrees that she will, upon her decease, give him all her property, consisting of five lots in Lodi and the income from $4000.

SCORES DECISION IN LOS ANGELES.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SALEM (Or.) Dec. 12.—Denouncing the decision of a Los Angeles jury which found a verdict in favor of A. E. Spencer against Eugene S. Barnes for $70,000 in a suit involving commission in a mining deal, Judge Galloway today handed down a decision in favor of Grace D. Barnes in an action in which she claimed that $100,000 of Salem property, which had been attached on Spencer's judgment, belongs to her. She based her claim on the assertion that it was her money that purchased the real estate and that through an error in recording title was vested in her husband.

Judge Galloway declared that the decision of the California court was a "lightning flash of snap judgment." He held further that if Barnes saw fit to transfer property to his wife, it was perfectly proper for him to do so. The judge recalled some of the testimony to the effect that Spencer testified he was receiving from $40 to $90 per month and that he put in no time on the deal, while Barnes was employed by the Harriman interests and spent four years in an effort to sell the property. Judgment on the California judgment was secured here a year ago and affirmed by the Supreme Court.

GERMAN REFUGEES COMING TO AMERICA

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—At the request of the German Embassy here the State Department has undertaken to arrange for the coming to the United States of a number of German women and children, refugees of Shanghai, China, most of whom left Kiao-Chow before the siege of that fortress by the Japanese and English began.

The department has referred the matter to the Bureau of Immigration for its opinion, as there might be objection if any of the refugees were liable to become public charges.

Arrangements also have been made for sending relief funds to German prisoners in Siberia. The necessary authority has been given to the American Minister in China to send funds cabled to him to the detention camps where the Germans were reported to be sadly in need of money.

Won Naval Victory in South Atlantic.

Vice-Admiral Sir Frederick Sturdee,

Commander of the British fleet, which sunk three German cruisers off the Falkland Islands, who is said to have applied for the command through his friendship for the late Admiral Cradock, who went down with his vessel, sunk in battle with the same German fleet.

Relief.

SIX THOUSAND TONS OF FOOD FOR BELGIUM.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—Further relief went to the Belgian people today with the sailing of the steamer Neches, carrying 6000 tons of food supplies. The entire cargo with the exception of a few small donations, was purchased by the Rockefeller Foundation and is valued at about $400,000. The bulk of the shipment consists of flour. Consignments of beans, peas, coffee and salted meats also were on board.

It was announced today by the commission for relief in Belgium that an arrangement had been completed through the Postoffice Department whereby it would soon be possible for a person in the United States, who desires to help the Belgians by contributions of packages of food to go to the nearest postoffice and send his donation in at the expense of the commission.

Postmaster-General Burleson, the commission stated, had written that there will be no objection to the commission's sending to each postmaster in the United States for exhibition in the lobby of his office a copy of the notice telling of the new arrangements.

The commission will refund parcel post payments to individuals.

STRINGENT LAWS ASKED TO CARE FOR IMMIGRANTS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—Resolutions calling on the Federal government and the southern States to enact stringent laws to care for immigrants who seek refuge in this country after the European war were adopted at tonight's session of the immigration conference called by the Southern Commercial Congress to consider the feasibility of placing immigrants on farms in the South. An advisory committee was appointed to remain here for several days to work out some practical plan of action.

Secretary Wilson of the Labor Department told the conference that large numbers of European immigrants, many practically destitute, would come to the United States at the close of the European war and would have to be cared for. He also pointed out that there were thousands of immigrant families in American industrial communities that had been saving to return to Europe and purchase agricultural homes and who now were prevented from leaving this country. Many of these, he said, no longer desire to return abroad. He also explained the efforts of his department and the postoffice and agricultural departments in bringing together "the jobless man and the manless job, the landless man and the manless land."

J. J. de Kinder, an expert on Dutch colonization, who had just returned from Holland, said many Dutch and Belgian farmers, ruined by the war, had personally told him of their desire to come to the United States.

TAFT FAVORS BUDGET SYSTEM.

TIME COME TO ELIMINATE THE EXTRAVAGANCE IN CONDUCT OF GOVERNMENT.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—Former President William Howard Taft, guest of honor at a luncheon today at the Lawyers Club, spoke at length on efficiency and economy in the national government and advocated the establishment of a budget system.

"All the countries in the world that have respectable governments except our own have budgets," he said. "We have acted like children. We have had so much money available through taxation that we have not been obliged to consult the revenue side of the ledger.

"Now we are coming to the point where we must, and in view of that necessity, we must pursue the policy that all other governments have found absolutely necessary in order to keep out of bankruptcy."

TO BREAK WILL OF MRS. LESLIE.

GRANDCHILDREN OF PUBLISHER ATTACK MILLION LEGACY TO SUFFRAGISTS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—Mrs. Frank Leslie's million-dollar bequest to the cause of woman suffrage was attacked this afternoon in two suits, started in the Supreme Court by Florence L. Weissbrod and Lonetta L. Hollander, grandchildren of Frank Leslie, the founder of the publishing firm which bears his name. The plaintiffs in these suits demand $400,000 each as their share of the estate and also set forth that $200,000—all that would be left of the money bequeathed by Mrs. Leslie to suffrage—should be paid to Frank Leslie III, and Arthur Leslie, also grandchildren of Frank Leslie, I. The petitioners allege that Mrs. Frank Leslie was entitled to only one-third of the $1,800,000 estate, which she disposed of by will.

Mrs. Leslie's will provided that the residue of her estate be paid outright to Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt. Although she imposed no restrictions upon Mrs. Catt, she expressed the hope in her will that the money would be spent for advancing woman suffrage.

Blockade on Border.

had received no order from Provisional President Gutierrez to stop firing in order to prevent bullets striking in American territory. Maytorena stated that until such orders are received he will continue preparations for a final assault on Naco, planned for next Tuesday night.

Snipers were as active as usual tonight in exchanging shots. Gen. Hill today received two seventy-five millimeter Maxim guns, which were placed in position after dark.

Americans arriving here from Cananea reported today that W. C. McDuffie, who operated an automobile stage between the border and Cananea, had been arrested there by Mexican officials, December 8, and held incomunicado. McDuffie's friends declare Maytorena officers preferred a trumped charge of smuggling against him. The case has been reported to Frederick Simpich, American Consul at Nogales, Sonora.

BLUFF THREAT BY CARRANZA.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

VERA CRUZ, Dec. 12.—"If the United States employs force to stop the firing by Mexicans across the international boundary line at Naco, it will be considered an unfriendly act notwithstanding the friendly motives cloaking the act."

In this manner Gen. Carranza made answer in a statement to the Associated Press to the formal notice served by the United States on both Provisional President Gutierrez and Gen. Carranza that unless such firing ceased, force would be employed to protect American territory.

Carranza's reply to the American note, which is expected to reach Washington tomorrow, will be in general a repudiation of responsibility for any shots that have crossed the line and it clearly sets forth that he and his government will regard intervention at Naco as a hostile and unfriendly act.

At no time since the receipt of Secretary Bryan's note, in which attention was called to the repeated wounding and killing of residents of the town on the northern side of the line, has Gen. Carranza appeared perturbed, but he has had long conferences with those close to him, and in framing his reply, it is said, he has been careful not to let himself remain in any uncertain light.

"Gen. Hill, who is commanding the Constitutionalist forces at Naco, is on the defensive," continued Gen. Carranza, "and since his back was to the line, it is difficult to see how he could be responsible for the firing in question. The fact is that Maytorena's men have been the attacking party and therefore it appears reasonably clear that they, and only they, could have been to blame.

"As a matter of fact, I do not know that the rights of American citizens have been violated. It seems to me that it would be well for the State Department to investigate this question in order to fix the responsibility."

"I remember similar instances at El Paso, when the Maderista forces were attacking there. In that case those shot were for the most part the imprudent and curious individuals who flocked to witness the fighting as if it had been a spectacular show staged for their benefit.

"As to the use of force, of which Mr. Bryan talks, that is something the gravity of which I fear he does not fully appreciate. He says it would not mean an invasion of our territory nor a violation of our national sovereignty. It would. And moreover, it would more certainly be an act against the Constitutionalists who hold the town and in favor of the Villistas, who would be left free to continue their operations. It would be simply tying Gen. Hill's hands and leaving Maytorena free.

"I sincerely hope that the good friendship of the American people towards the Mexican people will prevent the consummation of Secretary Bryan's threat."

THINK MAYTORENA MAY HEED ORDER.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12. — State Department officials were satisfied tonight that orders from Provisional President Gutierrez to desist from his attack on Naco would reach Gov. Maytorena in ample time to prevent his carrying out his intention of resuming operations Tuesday night.

A copy of the message to the Governor conveying instructions already has been received from Mexico City, and officials believe Gov. Maytorena's statement today was issued before he learned the wishes of Gutierrez.

MEXICAN PATROL DUTY.

Patrol duty on the Mexican coast will be left to lighter ships in January, when the battle craft of the Atlantic fleet assemble at Guantanamo, Cuba, for winter maneuvers.

The Minnesota, long on Mexican duty, was ordered to Philadelphia today for overhauling and the Texas and Rhode Island, the only other battleships in the Gulf of Mexico, do not need to visit the yards, but will go directly to Guantanamo, Rear-Admiral Fletcher will leave Hampton Roads with the rest of the fleet about January 15.

The cruiser Tacoma, now in Hawaiian waters, will relieve the Minnesota at Vera Cruz and be joined later by the gunboat Sacramento.

The Brazilian Minister at Mexico City is trying to arrange with the Mexican authorities for the return of thirty-nine Mexican refugees now at Galveston, who fled when Vera Cruz was evacuated by American troops. The Mexican authorities have promised to investigate their cases separately. If they are not liable to prosecution for violation of Mexican laws, the refugees will be permitted to return and will be given free transportation.

Vera Cruz advices state the Freeport Mexican Oil and Fuel Company property has been released by order of Gen. Aguilar.

BULWARKS OF LIBERTY.

DR. ELIOT SO CHARACTERIZES BIG CORPORATIONS.

John D. Rockefeller, He Says, is the World's Best Business Man and His Standard Oil Company One of the "Most Beneficent Works Ever Done."

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

BOSTON, Dec. 12.—Charles W. Eliot, president emeritus of Harvard University, speaking today before the Twentieth Century Club, characterized the organization of the Standard Oil Company by John D. Rockefeller as 'one of the most beneficent works ever done."

Mr. Rockefeller himself, Dr. Eliot said, was "the best business man this country ever produced."

"In the very process of making money," he added, "he has conferred immense benefactions on the entire world."

Dr. Elliot's subject was the work of the Rockefeller Foundation and he declared that lack of information by the public and a great deal of misinformation, were reasons why the community had "wronged Mr. Rockefeller."

The speaker asserted that corporations were the "greatest and most efficient means of carrying on business in great variety," explaining that he referred to the corporation of limited liability, invented about sixty years ago. More than that, corporations are really great reinforcement of public liberty and prevent a paternal system of government, such as that in Germany, he continued.

The New REO The Fifth

The Incompara

$1050.

The New Reo The Fifth—"The Four"

WHAT NEED WE ADD to what you already know of this great car? For of course you do know. If you have not owned one, you have many friends who do. And they have doubtless told you in more extravagant terms than we would care to use.

MORE THAN 40,000 of them are today in hands of users: 12,000 were sold last season.

AND AS PROVING the popularity of this model we need only say that on November 10th the last Touring Car left the Reo factory. And that for thirty days at least there has not been, so far as we know, a Reo the Fifth on any Dealer's sales-floor anywhere.

THE PROOF OF QUALITY in any product is "will it sell in the off-season?" Autumn is supposed to be the off-season for motor cars. Not for Reo cars though—we have never known a time when, even with our splendid factory facilities, we were able to make enough Reos to supply the demand.

WE HAVE JUST INCREASED our plants nearly 50 per cent—necessary to produce the new "Six." And we hope to be able to more nearly supply our dealers this year than formerly.

AS WE HAVE NO AMBITION, however, to be maker of the most automobiles, but of the best, we do not expect, ever, to supply all the demand for Reo cars. That would be our idea of—well the reverse of success.

TO MAKE THEM EVER BETTER—so much better that, always, the demand will beckon the supply—that is our desire.

FOUR YEARS AGO we announced that, after more than 23 years of experimenting—testing—proving—we had produced a chassis that we believed was finality in all essentials of design. And we said so.

SOME FRIENDLY RIVALS laughed at that statement—said that changes would continue to come with the seasons—as they always had.

NEVERTHELESS WE WERE CERTAIN in our own minds that, in the three-unit power plant and in other features that have become known as peculiarly Reo, we had established principles that would not change—so long at least as the principles of gas engines remained as they were.

IMPROVEMENTS? REFINEMENTS? of course—but only in minor details. The world moves and of course we expect to move with it. Reo has from the first been in the van—we mean to stay there.

BUT IN THE FUNDAMENTALS of a self-propelled pleasure car, we were convinced we were right. Events have only served to confirm us in that belief. Reo the Fifth is today, in all essentials, the same as then—and it is still the leader in its price class.

FROM SEASON TO SEASON we have made such improvements as the progress of the science has made possible. And as our facilities have increased and our purchasing ability become greater, we have from time to time reduced the price of Reo cars at the same time that we have increased the quality and the size.

IN THE CASE OF THIS FOUR we have been able to do two things we had considered impossible—we have made a bigger, at the same time we have made a still better car.

READ THAT AGAIN—MULL IT OVER—sense the significance of the statement—a larger, more luxurious car—refined and improved at every point where refinement or improvement was possible—and at a lesser price!

HOW WAS THAT POSSIBLE? you ask. Tell you:—

THE MOTOR PROVED to have more power than was necessary—more than was really desirable for the weight of the car. Refinements, recently made, increased that power still more.

SO WE FOUND we could add three and one-half very desirable inches to the length of the car, give the buyer a more luxurious equipage, and yet have a car of ample power.

THAT DIFFERENCE IN LENGTH—and we made it wider at the same time—makes all the difference in the world in the capacity and the comfort of the car. It gives a full door—without having to cut the corners to let the wheel-house in.

OTHER NOTICEABLE IMPROVEMENTS—in a car which formerly seemed almost perfection—are:

IMPROVED UPHOLSTERING—higher backs to seats. Extremely low-back fad is waning. New back to comfort.

POCKETS in all doors.

INSTRUMENTS mounted flush on instrument board.

HOOD FASTENERS—new and improved type. Stay put—and unfasten readily when you want them to.

ENTIRELY NEW TOP—a real one-man top. Can actually be put up or down by one man—after long use as well as when new. Secret is in the secure attachment mentioned above.

WINDSHIELD—Oval moulding and pressed steel construction throughout. New method of fastening—and top attaches direct to and is immovably supported by windshield.

RADIATOR—New method of securing to frame—more flexible—prevents strains on roughest roads. More cooling capacity. Cover, one-piece pressed steel—same distinctive and "classy" Reo design.

WHEEL BASE—increased three inches.

NOBBY TREAD TIRES on rear wheels and extra wide, oversized, demountable rims with new locking device.

SPRINGS—Improved method of lubrication for spring shackles.

STREAMLINE HUB CAPS—an exclusive Reo feature. Covers all bolt heads, dust and oil proof. Removed by small screw-driver—no need for large special wrench.

ANTI-RATTLER on brakes, and anti-rattling support.

IMPROVED STARTING mechanism—same system but doing away with shifting gears; also with sliding contacts and resistance. Silent; no over-running or roller ratchets nor any part to wear when car is in operation. We think it is perfection.

NEW HEADLIGHTS with hingeless, anti-rattling doors and outside focus attachment.

NEW DESIGN FENDERS—crown type, closer fitting under pan. Not the cheap-looking rolled type, but the kind you see on high priced cars.

NEW METHOD of supporting ignition coil. New design universal joint for generator—impossible for backlash or rattle to develop by wear.

NEW CYLINDER DESIGN—independent exhaust ports. Injector type exhaust manifold. New low-pressure muffler.

NEW THREE-PIECE piston rings giving greater power and acceleration. Ball bearing fan—one piece hub and larger bearings.

NEW ONE-PIECE cam shaft—larger bearings—and hardened and ground.

ADDED FRICTION SURFACE to clutch. New operating mechanism calling for less foot pressure. Improved thrust bearings.

EQUIPMENT—One-man top. Flush instruments; highest priced d'Arsoval type ammeter and usual tools and accessories.

DELIVERIES BEGIN December 15th. Your local dealer will be able to show you and to take your order for this matchless car on or about that date.

WE PROMPTLY TOOK, and are giving you—full advantage of it.

READ CAREFULLY—It's the Silver Lining to the War-Cloud.

YOU ARE OF COURSE AWARE that the Reo Motor Car Company is financially the second strongest Automobile concern in the world.

OR WEREN'T YOU?—We had supposed that knowledge was common property. Anyway, you can easily ascertain the truth of the assertion.

WE WOULDN'T MENTION IT HERE—never have before—but it is necessary to state the fact in order to explain something that is otherwise unexplainable—the wonderful values we are able to give in the two Reo models shown and priced above.

FOR "WONDERFUL VALUES" is the only term that expresses it. Think of it!—The New Reo the Fifth—that incomparable four, improved at many points and a larger car than its immediate predecessor—and at $125.00 less than last season.

AND THE SENSATIONAL REO SIX—A six designed and made the Reo way with the Reo guarantee at the amazing price of—$1385!

THAT CALLS FOR EXPLANATION, for you nor anybody else dreamed it would ever be possible to produce such cars at such prices.

SO SURE WERE WE OURSELVES of that, we went so far as to state in an advertisement a year ago "no maker ever can—not even Reo ever can—give greater value than this"—speaking then of Reo the Fifth at $1175.

YOU RECALL THE STATEMENT doubtless—so when you saw the price, $1050, quoted above—and realized also that this latest Reo the Fifth is a larger and an improved car, you wondered.

WELL HERE'S THE ANSWER—and it's mightily interesting.

FOR IN GIVING OUR CUSTOMERS the full benefit of the Reo purchasing power—instead of retaining the former price and taking the additional profit ourselves—we are only carrying out that policy which, adhered to from the first, has placed the Reo Motor Car Company in the splendid position it occupies today.

SPEAKING OF POLICY—let us correct an impression that we know is abroad.

OUR FRIENDS CRITICIZE US at times for what they call our "ultra-conservatism."

ABOUT THE ONLY COMPLAINT we ever hear from Reo dealers is that we are too modest in setting forth the merits of the Reo product.

WELL, PERHAPS THAT IS TRUE—if adherence to the strict truth in our ads; if a determination not to be carried away by the mania for mere quantities; if we prefer to be second in numbers of cars produced that we may be first in quality—if these be indications of "ultra-conservatism"—why then we plead guilty.

BUT OUR FRIENDLY CRITICS must concede that that Conservative Reo policy has produced tremendous results. Note the statement in the third paragraph of this ad.

WE DON'T CALL IT that, however. We call it conservatism militant. Aggressive conservatism. Alert conservatism. Being sure—absolutely sure—we are right, then going ahead unfalteringly—irresistibly.

DOESN'T THE VERY FACT that we were financially able to and did take advantage of a condition that we knew was transitory; and the further fact that, having bought better, we instantly offered the better values to Reo buyers—doesn't that look like "militant" rather than "ultra"-conservatism?

WE THINK SO—and so we leave the case in your hands.

The Six of "Sixty Superiorities"

THIS SIX IS SENSATIONAL not because it is a six but because it is a Reo Six.

FOR REO WAS NOT one of the first to embrace the "Six" idea. Reo was one of the last.

REO WILL NEVER BE one of the first to adopt any innovation—any new—any unproven idea. For our policy has ever been, not to sell ideas—innovations—but automobiles. Dependable automobiles.

AND YOU WILL ALWAYS find Reo "trailing" to just that extent. We will never be one of those to "take a chance"—with our customers' money.

NOT UNTIL EVERY uncertain or unknown quantity has become a certainty will any new type of car or motor or axle or part be offered with the Reo name-plate.

SO YOU CAN ALWAYS BE SURE—as you have in the past—that in buying a Reo you are investing in no experiment.

THIS SIX IS THE RIPEST result of Reo engineering experience. The very fact that we make and offer it to you is evidence that the "Six" idea has now passed the realm of uncertainty.

AND FURTHER, let us assure you that, every one of the sixty points of superiority enumerated below have been tried—proven—in fact, helped make the fame of Reo the Fifth—the Four that has set the pace for several years and is today setting it faster than ever.

THE "SIXTY SUPERIORITIES":

(1) FLAT TUBE RADIATOR—won't leak through freezing. Flat tubes expand—don't fracture under pressure of frost.

(2) RADIATOR DESIGN—an asset because the sloping, curved visor and graceful contour give class to the entire car. Costs more—worth it.

(3) STREAMLINE HUB-CAPS—protect bearing from dust, keep oil in. Removed with small screwdriver—original with Reo. Will be widely copied.

(4) EXTRA HEAVY, one-piece, forged front axle—50 per cent over-size.

(6) REO CYLINDER DESIGN—guarantees straight cylinders, uniformity of water jackets. No distorted cylinders—no scored pistons.

(7) SAFETY—FIRST—and sure—oiling system.

(8) THREE-PIECE piston rings—more power—quicker acceleration.

(9) FIFTY PER CENT over-size crank shaft. Ever hear of a Reo crank shaft breaking? Never.

(10) EXTRA HEAVY cam shaft—extra large cams. One reason for silence and uniformity of power in this Reo.

(11) ECCENTRIC FAN BELT adjustment—best appreciated after you've owned the car a while.

(12) SPIRAL HALF-TIME gears. Silent—and 50 per cent stronger.

(13) VALVE ACTION—roller lifters. Some high priced cars still have mushroom lifters. But they also have a chauffeur to adjust them every little while!

(14) OVERHEAD INTAKE VALVE—not exhaust. Another reason for greater power and silence.

(15) FIBRE ROLLER tappets on intake—another "silence" feature.

(16) VALVE ENCLOSURE—silences, and keeps them silent—see next paragraph—

(17) BREATHER TUBE exhausts in valve enclosure—keeps parts bathed in oil spray, and—

(18) NO OIL SPRAYED on outside of motor by breather-tube, eliminates most fruitful cause of dirt accumulating.

(19) TWO FLEXIBLE JOINTS between motor drive and generator. Most use one only.

(20) ADJUSTABLE main crank shaft bearings. Only motor made in America in which main as well as connecting rod bearings can be adjusted without taking motor out of car. No shims. See the book.

(22) WATER-HEATED intake manifold—idea borrowed from high priced foreign cars.

(23) REO STEERING gear—different and better. Not a "talking point"—because it's so simple you can see it—but a driving convenience much prized by Reo owners. No backlash—adjustable for wear.

(24) DRY DISC CLUTCH—You know the superiority of this type—no tendency to drag. Saves gears, axles, tires—and the driver's temper.

(25) THREE-UNIT power plant. Always was, always will be a Reo feature. Only excuse for Two-unit idea is cheaper and easier for maker—less accessible, more expensive to owner.

(26) FOUR UNIVERSAL JOINTS—most makers get along with one or two—also at the buyer's expense!

(27) BRAKE AND CLUTCH control system—only one hand-lever. Both brakes lock—both double acting—both "service brakes."

(28) REO ONE-LEVER CONTROL—simplest ever devised. Broadly covered by patents. They all covet—but they copy at a distance.

(29) REO Gear-shift—direct connected lever—you feel the gears as if your fingers touched them. "It's a pleasure to shift gears."

(30) REO patented locking device—impossible for two gears to mesh at once.

(31) HYATT bearings in transmission.

(32) "INDEX" PLATE surrounding control rod—"a novice could drive without a lesson."

(33) FULL FLOATING rear axle—50 per cent over-size shafts.

(34) TIMKEN bearings in rear axle—everywhere.

(35) NEW TYPE torque-arm takes stresses that would otherwise be transmitted to delicate mechanisms. See the book.

(36) WORM BEVEL driving gears—how we were able to incorporate this feature is told in the "story." Read it again.

(37) CANTILEVER rear springs—most luxurious riding springs ever invented. See the book.

(38) RIGID attachment of cantilever springs to axle—act as radius rods—keep axle in perfect alignment at all times.

(39) REMY electric starter and lighting. Made like the car—to stay good. Always starts. Some don't, you know.

(40) STARTER hook-up—exclusively Reo. Worm-drive—connected all the time but no wear when car is running. No shifting gears—no over-running ratchets. A lot of better features—see the book for the rest.

(41) STARTER LEVER—handy, but unobtrusive—you touch it only when you want to.

(42) TIRE PUMP attached to starter shaft—connected at all times. Always ready—no lifting of the hood—hose carried in special compartment.

(43) DIMMING attachments to headlights.

(45) SPECIAL tail-light switch—a little thing but most important when touring. Conforms to regulations of all states.

(46) PRACTICALLY one-piece pressed steel cowl. Pressed steel body on wood frame—so made it can't spring "a creak."

(47) 6½-INCH WIDER tonneau. Measure the others—measure them!

(48) 50 PER CENT OVER-SIZE in all vital parts—the Reo factor of safety.

(49) REO accuracy—Reo care—Reo inspection everywhere. Parts ground to absolute exactness.

(50) 190-odd steel forgings—in many places where others think castings good enough.

(51) REAL LEATHER upholstering—we've never found any substitute that was "just as good."

(52) REAL HAIR—retains its spring as nothing else does.

(53) REAL RUBBER and Sea Island cotton in tires—not cheesecloth and Jersey clay.

(54) VENTILATING, rain-vision, clear-vision windshield—and attached to stay put.

(55) CLEVER—and strong—windshield and top support—have to study in detail to fully appreciate.

(56) GENUINE one-man top. 5-bow type—only other car using same kind sells for several hundred dollars more.

(57) LIGHTER weight in proportion to power—result of using better materials.

(58) EVERY PART—radiator-cap to tail-light—Reo made and Reo guaranteed.

(59) MOST ACCESSIBLE car in the world. Adjustment can be made to any unit without disturbing any other. Value in dollars to the owner is inestimable.

(60) FINALLY—and most important to you, the Reo name-plate. This signifies that the Reo guarantee, with all it stands for in integrity and financial stability, goes with the car.

"PROGRESSIVE" HUNGRY HORDE.

Gather from Far and Near to Grab the Jobs.

Kent and Heney Defection Creates Confusion.

Million and Half Increase in Pay Roll Planned.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN FRANCISCO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Dec. 12.—Gathered here from every corner of California, a hungry horde of "Progressive" politicians, the walking delegates of the State administration, are snapping and slavering over their political loot like wolves over a buffalo carcass. Legislation is enacted and appointments are officially announced in Sacramento after January 1; but the legislation is programmed and the jobs and their holders are agreed upon at secret conferences of the Johnson-Kelly ring in San Francisco in December.

Gov. Johnson is swinging his big stick, but he is reported to have lost control of his political Janizaries. The defection of the Kent and the Heney factions and the Lissner-Earl episode have left the "Progressives" almost as harmonious as the present European concert, and the progress in making the new "Progressive" slate is about as rapid as that of the Germans along the Yser.

Right at the outset it is apparent that there are not half enough jobs to go round. The Janizaries now control the State Senate and the Governor is striving to unite them for a grand rush to capture and organize the Assembly. This would give them control of the machinery by which jobs are made, and the experience of the past has proved that a State job is a salve that will heal the most malignant "Progressive" wound. A true "Progressive" never burns any red fire over a moral victory, unless the moral happens to be a light job with a heavy salary.

ASSEMBLY SITUATION.

Capturing the Assembly looms this year as something of a task. Elected to the lower house are enough straight Republicans, and those carrying Republican indorsement to form a clear working majority. By their own estimate the "Progressives" are fifteen votes shy. This means they must win the support of at least fifteen Assemblymen, each of whom was elected as a Republican or a Democrat in his home district against a "Progressive" opponent. Naturally these votes cannot be won by argument; for in each case the electors of the district have themselves gone on record against "Progressive" propaganda and against "Progressive" candidates. Patronage becomes at once the only medium of exchange for votes. It is proposed to create sufficient sinecures to win over these fifteen; but just as soon as a new position is suggested, the "Progressives" themselves start fighting over it.

Control of the Assembly is vital to the "Progressive" machine, as it is only through this that a bill can be passed, abolishing party designations in State elections and making all State offices "non-partisan." The Johnson-Kelly machine knows that the "Progressive" party is as dead politically as the ex-President who created it. They know that if they go back to the old parties they would at least have to serve a period of probation before they would be permitted to get another chance at the pie counter, and their only hope lies in their ability to make all State offices non-partisan. But in this they are confronted by the opposition of the national Democratic and Republican committees, by the Wilson administration forces and by both the Democratic and Republican State Central committees. It will require a good many jobs to put this through a Legislative body in which there are two Democrats and Republicans for every "Progressive."

JOHNSON'S AMBITION.

Gov. Johnson is programmed to run for the Senate in 1916, or was so programmed three months ago. Lieut.-Gov. Eshleman is to become Governor at that time and is to have the use of the State machine for two years to organize the State for his campaign on a non-partisan platform in 1918. But some of the parties to this contract are already repudiating its terms, asserting that Johnson and Eshleman were the first to break it when they traded Heney for Phelan to insure their own elections in November. Whenever this is broached now in the "Progressive" conferences the howls emitted can be heard clear out on Market street.

NUMBERS ON PROGRAMME.

Here are a few numbers on the programme that have been passed conditionally by all "Progressive" factions.

An increase in the State pay roll of approximately $1,500,000 a year is planned, to be consumed by new commissions and additional deputies and office force for existing commissions. The present State pay roll is $6,000,000 a year; the argument of the natural advance occasioned by the State's growth and prosperity will be used to explain this very substantial extension of the present administrative pie counter.

The State Highway Commission is to be "standardised" and its employees formed into a labor union, after the plan followed under Tom Finn to unionize the State employees on the San Francisco and Oakland water fronts. Andy Gallagher, the fat-neck ex-prize fighter, who is now secretary and ring-master of the San Francisco Union-Labor Council, is to be the new chairman of the State Highway Commission.

Gallagher has organized the walking delegates into a regular "black hand" gang. They exact tribute from contractors, from weak-kneed or crooked corporations and from aspirants for political office. Gallagher is temporarily as powerful south of Market and on the Barbary Coast as was little Tim Sullivan in the East Side of New York. He bargained to turn the union-labor vote over to Johnson in return for the $8000-a-year job on the Highway Commission and a hatful of smaller jobs for his walking delegates. His gang "came through" with the votes and the Governor is to "come through" with the jobs on January 1.

This is one of the deals in which Frank Heney was not included, and in which Johnson is accused of having traded Heney out of a United States Senatorship. Gallagher delivered his South-of-Market vote to Johnson and Phelan. Phelan had been on the blacklist of the Unions for fifteen years, but when the proper financial consideration came in the form of "workers" before the election and "watchers" at the polls, the old score was wiped out and 90 per cent of the South-of-Market ballots carrying the cross after Johnson's name for Governor were stamped for Phelan for Senator.

The State Civil Service Commission is to play a still more active part than formerly in the selection of State employees who are "right." This is a commission after the Governor's own heart. It is the creature of his own brain and his strongest political asset. He has placed at its head one Charles Wesley Reed, as artful a hypocrite as "Holy Hiram" himself. Reed and Johnson first became associated through their dealings with now defunct but notorious California Safe Deposit and Trust Company. Johnson's admiration was won by Reed's manner of valuing "dead mules." In the halcyon political days of Abe Ruef, Reed was a Supervisor. His commission is the medium through which Tom Finn and Gallagher place their heelers in fat water-front jobs, and protect them from a possible adverse administration by a mantle of civil service.

In framing the bill creating this commission, Reed and Johnson made one of their star plays. A provision was placed in the bill to the effect that a commissioner could be removed only by a two-thirds vote of both houses of the Legislature. On its face this looks like high-minded reform. But when one considers that the first commissioners were appointed by Johnson himself and that their terms are so arranged that a majority of them will remain in office for three years and a half after the expiration of the term of any Governor, its "moral" ceases to be obscure.

NEW COMMISSIONS.

Numerous new commissions are proposed; the "high-brow" faddists are to be mollified by the appointment of a special commission to look after each of their pet political experiments. This will at the same time console the faddists and provide more jobs. But this depends, of course, on the success of the schemes to secure control of the Assembly. Commissions are very valuable adjuncts to a State machine. Whenever an open sore appears anywhere on the body politic the Progressives promptly slap a commission over it, just as a clever contractor uses paint and putty to cover defects in material.

Gov. Johnson is giving private assurances to Washington that he has his union labor janizaries under control and can block further anti-alien land law legislation; but the Anti-Japanese propagandists have been busily at work during the last two years in both city and country districts and anti-alien bills are certain to appear.

It is already apparent that there will be a stronger union labor delegation in the Legislature than ever before. A regular union labor bureau is to be established at Sacramento and the union labor lobby will be unusually insolent and aggressive. Los Angeles will feel the effect of some of the bills already approved by the "Progressive" machine, in case it captures the Assembly and is able to put them over. These bills aim to remove all legal restriction from picketing and boycotting. In case of labor disputes they would place the business and property of the employer wholly at the mercy of the walking delegates.

In union circles the boast is openly made that it was not one pound but five pounds of flesh that they exacted as the price of their political support of Johnson; these five pounds are to be taken in the form of five union labor bills to be passed by the Legislature. If a few buckets of the best blood of the State are spilled in taking the meat, that will be all the more to their liking.

THE JOSEPH SMITH OBSEQUIES.

Simplicity Characterizes the Arrangements for the Funeral of the Great Church Leader.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

INDEPENDENCE (Mo.) Dec. 12.—Simplicity surrounded the preparations for the funeral of Joseph Smith, president of the Reorganized Church of Latter Day Saints, to be held here tomorrow. President Smith died Thursday after a lingering illness. Services will be held in accordance with the directions of the dead patriarch, who, in the days when he lay between life and death, calmly arranged for his burial.

A single wreath will adorn the casket, since Mr. Smith urged that money which might be spent for flowers should go to charity and there will be no extra song service as he chose the few simple hymns to be sung.

The casket will be of the plainest and no draping will be seen on pulpit or building. Mr. Smith arranged every detail, even to the number of carriages and the suit in which to be buried.

The quorum of twelve, the highest ruling body in the church, will attend the funeral. U. W. Green, a missionary in Jerusalem, and Homer Griffith, who has been doing similar work in Australia, sent messages today announcing that they will be present. Both had been notified of the president's illness some time ago.

POOR STEAMING, BAD WEATHER.

Coupled Together They Were Quite Enough to Bring the Liner Lapland in Port Two Days Late.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—Poor steaming and bad weather is the reason given for two days delay in the arrival here tonight of the Red Star liner Lapland from Liverpool. The passengers included Carlos Acuna, who will assume the secretaryship of the Argentina legation at Washington; H. R. Childs, American Consul in Zanzibar; Sumner Curtis of Washington, D. C., who went abroad on the battleship Tennessee to assist in distributing relief to stranded Americans; and Norman Brook of Philadelphia.

BANK QUESTION UNSETTLED.

No Definite Understanding is Reached as to How Clearinghouse Function will be Exercised.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—Conferences between governors of the twelve Federal reserve banks and the Federal Reserve Board ended here today without any definite understanding having been reached as to how far the clearinghouse function of the banks shall be exercised.

All the governors appeared before the board in the two days they spent in Washington and argued on the merits of clearings through reserve banks. Board members took virtually no part in the discussion and were said tonight to be waiting to see what developments may follow the deliberations of a special committee appointed among the governors to go further into the subject.

Three reserve banks, those in Chicago, Kansas City and St. Louis, already have undertaken clearances to a limited extent.

GOLD MEDAL TO DR. NAON.

AMBASSADOR FROM ARGENTINA HONORED BY PENNSYLVANIA SOCIETY.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—Presentation of a gold medal to Dr. Romulo Naon, Ambassador of the Argentine Republic to the United States, was a feature of the sixteenth annual dinner of the Pennsylvania Society tonight. Former Gov. Edwin S. Stuart of Pennsylvania, in presenting the medal, alluded to Dr. Naon as the diplomat "who within the past week on behalf of his government has sought to define the rights of neutral nations on principles of right and justice." He expressed the hope that these may have been "the first steps in the restoration of peace."

Dr. Naon in accepting the medal spoke at length of conditions in Argentina, alluding in particular to the problems arising from the European war, and the opening made for the introduction of American products on a large scale into his country. Three things, he said, were needed to obtain a market under the prevailing conditions—competent men, vessels and banking facilities.

CAREY'S LICENSE IS SUSPENDED.

HANALEI'S CAPTAIN MUST STAY ASHORE TWO YEARS.

United States Inspectors at San Francisco Say He was Unskillful and Guilty of Negligence in Running Vessel at Full Speed Through Thick Fog.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 12.—The license of Capt. James J. Carey, master of the steamer Hanalei, which went to pieces on Duxbury Reef, November 23, with a loss of twenty-three lives, was suspended today for two years by James Guthrie and Joseph P. Dolan, United States local inspectors, in an order which adjudged Carey guilty of negligence and unskillfulness.

There remains an opportunity for Capt. Carey to appeal from the decision to Supervising Inspector Bulger or to the officials of navigation in Washington. His sentence or suspension is one of the longest given in recent years here.

When the Hanalei piled up on the reef it was running at full speed, although it was enveloped in a thick fog. Capt. Carey was not on the bridge, having left the vessel in charge of Second Officer Reese, whom he blamed for the wreck. Reese was drowned.

A feature brought out for the first time in the findings of the two inspectors was that, as on practically all vessels, there was a deviation in the ship's compass, in this case 3½ easterly, and that if the navigator of the Hanalei had forgotten to take this compass deviation into consideration, the steamer would have brought in the exact position in which she stranded.

Guthrie and Dolan in their order to Capt. Carey said:

"After careful consideration of the evidence, we are satisfied that the charges of negligence and unskillfulness are sustained.

"First—You were negligent in navigating your vessel at full speed in a fog in violation of the first paragraph of Article 16 of the international rules.

"Second—You were negligent in not having an officer supervise the casting of the lead to verify your position instead of trusting this responsibility to two sailors when you left the bridge and remained away about twenty minutes, your vessel being within four miles of Duxbury Reef buoy in a dense fog. Under the circumstances, it was your duty to have hauled your ship offshore and stopped, provided you did not have an officer at the lead to relieve you during your absence.

"Third—You were unskillful in shaping your course for Duxbury reef buoy and attempting to come in through the North Channel during a dense fog. Had your course been shaped for the San Francisco lightship and through the main ship channel, it would have been safe for you to leave the bridge under the circumstances that compelled you to leave, and the steamer Hanalei would not have been lost, as you admitted at your trial."

Los Angeles Girl Charged with Attempt to Bribe Officials in Chicago Secures Postponement.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, Dec. 12.—The case of Miss Jessie Elizabeth Cope of Los Angeles, Cal., charged with an attempt to bribe government officials in connection with the indictment of Col. Charles Alexander of Providence, R. I., under the Mann Act, came before United States Commissioner Mason here today, but a continuance until December 22 was taken.

Miss Cope was the complaining witness against Alexander. She is charged with having offered to split $50,000 with Dist.-Atty. Cline, his assistant, Michael Igoe, and two other officials of the government, if they would assist her in extorting that sum from Alexander.

AMERICAN FEDERATION

Of the International Association of Nnemployed (Name too Long to Get into One Line.)

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

BOSTON, Dec. 12.—A State committee allied with the American Federation of the International Association of Unemployed was organized today with Robert G. Valentine, former Commissioner of Indian Affairs, as chairman. The purpose of the committee is to be ready to give assistance to any State, city, town or private activity seeking to lessen the burden of unemployment.

Los Angeles Man Arrested at El Paso Declares He Was Robbed at Juarez by Bunco Artists.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN ANTONIO (Tex.) Dec. 12.—Theodore Lodkins of Los Angeles is held at El Paso on a charge of vagrancy while the officers investigate his story of having been robbed by bunco men in Juarez, Mex. Lodkins says he went to the Mexican city with a considerable sum of money which he won at Stockton, Cal. After being fleeced of all he had the American was sent across the border, where he was arrested. Juarez is reported to be full of bunco men recently run out of El Paso.

MAN DIES SUDDENLY IN NEW YORK HOLDING DEEDS WORTH MILLIONS.

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—Examination of the personal effects of Emory Edwards, 43 years old, who was found dead in his room in a modest boarding-house in the Greenwich village section here last night, revealed old deeds and documents indicating that the dead man was the representative of the Edwards estate, which at one time owned the site of the postoffice on Park Row and the Astor House and an $8,000,000 estate in Holland. It was estimated today that the property mentioned in the deeds in Edwards's room is now worth several hundred millions of dollars.

Edwards came to New York about three weeks ago and it is believed that his home was in Colville, Wash. He attracted attention in the neighborhood in which he took lodgings, because of his expensive clothes and jewelry. It is believed he came here to represent the Edwards estate. Physicians who examined the body today said that death was due to natural causes.

RECORD OF EDWARDS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

COLVILLE (Wash.) Dec. 12.—The United States Land Office records show that Emory Edwards proved up a homestead of timber land eight miles west of Colville in 1909. The records show he was married. In 1912 Edwards sold his homestead and since then he has not been seen.

Contracts.

UNITED STATES ORDER FOR SIX DESTROYERS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—Secretary Daniels awarded contracts today for the construction of the six destroyers authorized by the last naval appropriation bill as follows:

Fore River Shipbuilding Company, two ships, $795,000 each; Bath Iron Works, two ships, $800,000 each; Cramp Shipbuilding Company, one ship, $820,000.

The sixth ship will be constructed at the Mare Island Navy Yard, which submitted an estimate of $626,487 for one ship. It will be the first destroyer built in a government yard.

The appropriation bill limited the amount to be paid for each destroyer to $925,000, but made no provision for more than six vessels.

Consequently, the money saved in today's award may not be used for additional construction, but must be turned back to the treasury.

In this connection Mr. Daniels issued this statement:

"The average cost of the five destroyers for which contract was awarded today was $802,000, or $73,268.30 less per vessel than the corresponding cost of the vessels of one year ago; or a total reduction in cost of the five vessels of $366,341.50.

"If the appropriation bill had allowed the construction of six or more destroyers for the amount authorized, it would have been possible for the Secretary of the Navy to order seven destroyers instead of six, and keep within the appropriation. Secretary Daniels will ask Congress to appropriate for destroyers this year as it did for submarines last year, when it made the appropriation read, 'eight or more submarines for a given sum.'"

CANNON TO ATTEND PAYNE MEMORIAL.

VISITS CAPITOL AND CALLS ON SPEAKER CLARK, HIS SUCCESSOR.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—Republicans returning to the next Congress had a gathering today at the capital. Former Speaker Cannon, with spirits as high as in earlier days of his Congressional career, called on Speaker Clark. Senator-elect Curtis of Kansas, Representative-elect Nicholas Longworth and several others visited the House and met their one-time colleagues.

Mr. Cannon said he had made it a rule since he retired from the last Congress not to go into the House chamber until he had a "right" to do so, but that he was going to break the rule to attend the Payne memorial tomorrow.

FOR SAFETY AT SEA.

Democrats More Exercised About that Than About Safety on Land in Europe Just Now.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—Administration leaders determined today to press for ratification by the Senate the safety at sea treaty which grew out of the London maritime conference last year and mentioned by President Wilson in his message. Opposition developed when Senator La Follette sought an amendment which would give the United States authority to legislate against involuntary servitude of sailors and for other amelioration of the condition of seamen. The seamen's bill, passed by both houses at the last session, but later referred to the Senate Committee on Commerce, is championed by labor organizations, and Senator La Follette, speaking on the safety-at-sea treaty today, declared in his opinion that the seaman's bill, if enacted, would be invalidated by the treaty in its present form. The Foreign Relations Committee has an amendment to the treaty, but supporters of the seaman's bill think it is not broad enough. Executive sessions on the treaty probably will be held daily.

Members of labor organizations sent floods of telegrams from throughout the country today urging appeals to Senators in favor of Senator La Follette's position.

M'ADOO TO VISIT SAN DIEGO.

Will Represent the President at Opening of Exposition at Midnight on December Thirty-one.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Dec. 12.—The Secretary of the Treasury has accepted an invitation to represent the President at the opening of the San Diego exposition at midnight December 31. Accompanied by Mrs. McAdoo, he will leave here at 6:15, December 26, via the Pennsylvania and Santa Fe railroads.

Secretary McAdoo definitely promised Representative Kettner this morning that we would visit San Diego although he had not seen his way clear before that time to accept the invitation. Senator-elect James D. Phelan of California, who is in Washington, will also be present at the opening of the exposition, which will not close its gates until the end of the year 1915.

ROADS REALIZE RATE ADVANCE.

FORMAL ORDERS ISSUED BY THE INTERSTATE COMMERCE COMMISSION.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—Formal orders issued by the Interstate Commerce Commission enable the railroads in Central Freight Association territory to realize the 5 per cent. advance in certain freight rates granted to them by the commission in its decision of August 1.

The lines are authorized to put into effect on five days' notice "joint through rates for the transportation of freight between points in Central Freight Association territory and points in western, southwestern and southeastern territories, which shall be in excess of the existing joint through rates only to the extent that may be necessary to allow lines operating within Central Freight Association territory an increase not in excess of 5 per cent. above the customary divisions which the lines in Central Freight Association territory have heretofore received for the transportation of traffic under such rates to and from Mississippi River or Ohio River crossings."

The orders stipulate that "no increased rates shall be established upon commodities as to which increased rates within Central Freight Association territory were not authorized by the commission."

CENTRALIZE WORK FOR GOOD ROADS.

CALIFORNIA MAN ELECTED VICE-PRESIDENT OF STATE HIGHWAY OFFICIALS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—State highway commissioners and engineers from twenty-seven States were represented here today when the organization of the American Association of State Highway Officials was perfected. It is expected that all States will be represented in the organization ultimately.

These officers were elected: President, Henry G. Shirley of Maryland, vice-president, Austin B. Fletcher of California; secretary, Joseph Hyde Pratt of North Carolina; treasurer, F. F. Rodgers of Michigan.

At today's meeting seventeen States were represented by either their highway commissioners or engineers, while ten States were represented by proxy. None but State highway commissioners or engineers will constitute the voting power of the association.

The purpose of the organization is to centralize the work of good roads organizations as far as possible and to secure the holding of one good roads convention annually. It also was decided to co-operate with Federal organizations in the consideration of road problems.

I CURE PILES
FISTULA
and all other Rectal Diseases
WITHOUT OPERATION

I TREAT NO DISEASES EXCEPT THOSE OF THE RECTUM AND BOWELS.

I cure without surgery. My patients are not confined in bed and they do not lose a moment's time from their business.

My method is not a "home cure" or a "correspondence treatment," but it is an application of skilled treatments administered under the most rigid antiseptic conditions in my office.

WELL-KNOWN SANTA MONICA MINISTER CURED.

This is to certify that Dr. C. H. White has cured me of a distressing hemorrhoidal ailment of 25 years' duration. His method of treatment is effective, but not severe. He has the appliances, the knowledge and the skill born of many years of specialization in this fruitful source of physical disease. He accomplishes all he claims in his advertising, and at reasonable expense.

I take pleasure in heartily commending the man and his methods.

WESLEY K. BEANS, Pastor First Methodist Episcopal Church, Santa Monica, Cal.

ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE SUPERINTENDENT CURED.

My Dear Dr. White: I am thankful for the privilege of bearing witness to your ability to treat without pain, and with success, the delicate and disabling diseases which result from sedentary work. To all who need the services of a skillful, sympathetic and experienced specialist in your line I heartily commend you. Very sincerely yours,

ERVIN S. CHAPMAN, D.D., L.L.D., Superintendent State Anti-Saloon League.

WELL-KNOWN PRINTER CURED.

Esteemed Doctor: I cannot refrain from congratulating you and myself on the complete cure of hemorrhoids, from which I had been afflicted for more than 20 years. For the past 5 years I had been practically incapacitated from attending to business. Your treatment is such that no one need fear, as no knife operation is employed. It will be a pleasure to have you refer anyone to me, and I will never be too busy to answer an inquiry. Sincerely yours,

F. A. HARRINGTON, 128½ S. Spring St., Los Angeles, Cal.

STEEL MILL SUPERINTENDENT CURED.

For twenty years I was a sufferer from protruding and bleeding piles. During that time I constantly sought a cure but never saw the time that I thought I could spare the time for a surgical operation. Dr. C. H. White has cured me. This was done painlessly and rapidly. I have renewed my age more than twenty years and can cheerfully recommended him and his methods to all sufferers.

E. J. MOSES, Supt. Cal. Ind. Steel Rolling Mills, 4th and Mateo Sts., Los Angeles.

PROMINENT REAL ESTATE MAN CURED.

I desire to say to my friends everywhere that during the last few months I have been cured of an old and annoying fistula, which had baffled all treatment heretofore employed. This fistula was cured without pain, and without loss of time, by Dr. C. H. White.

RIVERS AND HARBORS BILL.

Official Agreement That no New Projects Shall be Included in the Measure Before Congress.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—Agreement that no new projects shall be included in the Rivers and Harbors Appropriation Bill was practically reached today by the House committee. The bill, for which estimates aggregating $49,000,000 were submitted by the army engineers exclusive of new projects, will carry approximately $30,000,000, according to the present plans. This will include already authorized projects and maintenance of work already completed. The bill will be ready before the Christmas recess.

Cured His Rupture

I was badly ruptured while lifting a trunk several years ago. Doctors said my only hope of cure was an operation. Trusses did me no good. Finally I got hold of something that quickly and completely cured me. Years have passed and the rupture has never returned, although I am doing hard work as a carpenter. There was no operation, no lost time, no trouble. I have nothing to sell, but will give full information about how you may find a complete cure without operation, if you write to me, Eugene M. Pullen, Carpenter, 488A Marcellus Avenue, Manasquan, N. J. Better cut out this notice and show it to any others who are ruptured—you may save a life or at least stop the misery of rupture and the worry and danger of an operation.

NEW INDUSTRY IN CALIFORNIA.

Spanish-Algerian Monopoly is Broken at Last.

Emperor Grapes Sure to Net Growers Big Profits.

Kiln-dried Sawdust Used to Preserve Fruit.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SACRAMENTO (Cal.) Dec. 12.—Emperor grapes, preserved in kiln-dried redwood sawdust for the Christmas market, will return growers about $400,000, according to an estimate given out today by Edgar M. Sheehan, secretary of the State Board of Viticultural Commissioners. According to the figure compiled by Sheehan, between 150,000 and 200,000 crates of thirty pounds each have been preserved in sawdust, and are now stored in New York, awaiting the coming of Christmas.

The new industry, formerly monopolized by Algeria grapes from Spain, has proved a most profitable one this year, the first it has been attempted on a large scale. The price f.o.b. California has averaged about $2.25 per crate, and as the expense is only 86 cents, the vineyardist secures about $1.40 per crate, against 40 or 50 cents in the regular season.

Other methods of preserving grapes, as by the placing of the fruit in a room filled with the fumes of alcohol, are being experimented with by the commission.

ONE LIFE IN PRISON.

It is the Penalty an Elevator Operator Must Pay for Killing Emma Ulrich, a Stenographer.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

PORTLAND (Or.) Dec. 12.—Fred Tronson, aged 24, an elevator operator, was sentenced to life imprisonment today for the murder of Emma Ulrich, a 21-year-old stenographer, who had refused to accept his attentions. Half an hour after he was sentenced, the prisoner was on his way to the penitentiary.

"Had this murder been committed before the recent elections," said Judge McGinn, in pronouncing sentence, "the amendment abolishing capital punishment never would have carried in this State."

The court severely arraigned Tronson. Judge McGinn announced that when he sentenced a man to prison for life, he wanted him to stay there and did not want executive clemency extended to such prisoners.

Tronson shot his victim five times in the back as she fled from him on November 16.

THE GHOSTS DRIVEN OUT.

Fire Destroys the Old Continental Hotel at Virginia City, Nev., a Monument of the Boom Days.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

VIRGINIA CITY (Nev.) Dec. 12.—The ghosts that tenanted the old International Hotel will be homeless tonight. Fire that broke out at 5 o'clock this morning, swept through the high ceiled, ample rooms, hastily climbed the winding walnut balustrades and soon left the richest storehouse of memories in the Golden West a heap of calcined bricks.

The International Hotel was built by Mackay, Flood & Fair in the days when the Comstock lode was making them multi-millionaires, and it seemed that Virginia City would stand forever. There was nothing like it in all the West of those times. Six stories high it stood, solidly built of brick, and it cost the owners $140,000—a huge investment for a mining camp tavern in 1876. The cabinet work of the bar was of mahogany and black walnut; no loftier pier glasses were to be seen than those that lined the walls, and the bartender drew his beer with a silver mounted pump.

Since Virginia City began to crumble away and the citizens took to tearing down the outlying houses for firewood, the old inn had fallen into sad disrepair. A Chinaman had a restaurant in one of the downstairs-rooms and many of the guestrooms on the upper floors were untenanted, though the house will still kept open and the last lodger had not yet left.

Snow on the roofs of adjoining buildings kept the flames from spreading, but the collapse of the heavy brick walls wrecked the saloon of McCourt and Wright, adjoining—another old landmark. All the guests escaped, though one of them, S. Smithers of Reno, had to jump for his life from a second-story window.

The building was owned by Mrs. H. Rolfe of San Francisco and the insurance was nominal.

CHINESE ACCUSE OFFICIAL.

Twelve Testify They Paid Immigration Interpreter to Allow Them to Enter United States.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SEATTLE, Dec. 12.—Twelve Chinese, testifying through an interpreter, have sworn that they paid sums ranging from $25 to $300 to former Immigrant Interpreter Frank H. Tape for his favorable report on their eligibility to enter the United States. Tape is on trial in the Federal Court under an indictment charging him with accepting bribes.

Clifford E. Joselyn and George W. Price, indicted jointly with China Dan for conspiracy to smuggle Chinese into the United States, were arrested yesterday. Joselyn and Prince, according to the indictment, were stationed in Vancouver. It is alleged that they shipped Chinese in the firebox of a Great Northern engine of which George Nelson was fireman. Nelson, according to the indictment, delivered the Chinese to China Dan at Interbay, outside Seattle, and he took them to Chinatown, Seattle. Dan, it is alleged, paid the Vancouver men $125 for each Chinese delivered. The business is said to have been conducted on a large scale.

Maudlin.

SIX MURDERERS SAVED BY HUNT.

EXPRESSED WILL OF PEOPLE DEFIED BY GOVERNOR.

Despite Fact State Voted in Favor of Hanging Dozen or More Murderers and Took Power of Pardoning from Executive He Acts Before Law Goes into Effect.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

PHOENIX (Ariz.) Dec. 12.—Taking advantage of his last opportunity to prevent the execution of death sentences in Arizona, Gov. George W. P. Hunt came to the rescue of six condemned men who were to die on the gallows in Florence Penitentiary, December 19. The sentences of two Americans were commuted to life imprisonment. The case of one Mexican was referred to the Supreme Court, and three others were reprieved until March 19, 1915, with a recommendation to the Attorney-General of the State to do what he could for them because they were affected by drugs when they committed the crimes.

The Governor's action was taken preliminary to the issue of his proclamation which will put into effect the laws adopted by the people in the November election. Among these laws is a measure which deprives the Governor of power to pardon or reprieve or commute sentences, and invests it in a special board.

In a statement announcing his decision to call off the proposed "hanging bee" December 19, Gov. Hunt declared that to permit the executions would violate the spirit of Christmas. Previously, when the defeat of the anti-capital punishment measure at the polls became known, he had declared that he would not interfere with the verdict of the electorate in favor of the death sentence. The alleged responsibility of liquor in the commission of some of the crimes, also impelled him to mercy, the Governor declared. The three Mexicans, who were reprieved until March and recommended to the Attorney-General, pleaded at their trial that they were intoxicated when they committed the crimes for which they were sentenced to die. Gov. Hunt took up this feature in his statement and declared:

"I am impelled mentally to question by what process of reasoning, and by what manner of shallow self-justification a sovereign State deliberately sanctions for a financial consideration the indiscriminate vending of a powerful drug and at the same moment pronounces a sonorous sentence of death upon one of its citizens who, with passions inflamed and reason beclouded by indulgence in alcohol, commits a maximum offense against the laws."

Arizona adopted a stringent prohibition law at the same election, but plans have been made to attack it within a few days, on the ground that it violates articles of the Federal Constitution.

A DOG HERO.

The Pet of a Sacramento Woman Qualifies for One of the Medals of the Carnegie Society.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SACRAMENTO, Dec. 12.—The pet dog of Mrs. T. B. Loniger, No. 3123 Olive avenue, qualified for a Carnegie medal today when he saved the life of his owner and her mother, after they had been overcome by gas fumes from a stove in which lamp black was being burned.

Mrs. Loniger was awakened at 3 o'clock this morning by the dog jumping on her bed and whining. He then ran into the room where her mother was sleeping. Mrs. Loniger followed and found her mother unconscious on the floor.

Mrs. Loniger fell unconscious while trying to revive her mother. The dog then ran to the room of J. Rice, a cousin, and aroused him. Rice fell from the gas fumes in the room where the women lay, but opened all the doors and windows and called a doctor. The women were revived.

APPLIES FOR PENSION.

Man a Hundred Years Old and in Good Health Files His Plea with the Consul at Vancouver.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

VANCOUVER (B. C.) Dec. 12.—Charles Leroy of West Vancouver, who celebrated his 100th birthday last September, filed application today for a pension as a former United States soldier, in the office of the American Consul-General.

He enlisted as a private in the Union army in 1861, when he was 47 years old, and served through the war, rising to a lieutenancy. He had not previously sought a pension, and does so now because he is beginning to feel the infirmities of age though still in good health.

FAVOR "MOVIES" IN THE SCHOOLS.

CALIFORNIA CHILDREN TO BE GIVEN INSTRUCTION BY MEANS OF FILM.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SACRAMENTO, Dec. 12.—California school children hereafter will be treated to a course of instruction through the medium of the "movies," according to a decision reached today by the State Board of Education. Upon a special report by Will C. Wood, Commissioner of Education, on visual instruction, in which proper films for educational work were cited, the board authorized the establishment of moving pictures in the curriculum of the elementary and high schools.

The commissioners of education, cooperating with local school authorities, will act as a board of censorship. Pictures of animal and insect life, travel pictures and scenes and certain fictional photo plays emphasizing some proper instructive moral, embrace the film subjects classed as acceptable.

A RUSH TO GOLDFIELD.

THREE HUNDRED UNEMPLOYED.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

GOLDFIELD (Nev.) Dec. 12.—An influx of men without work and without means is causing a serious situation here. It was estimated today that there are 300 men in Goldfield without employment or hope of it, for the winter, and the authorities do now know how they can handle more.

THE CHECKERBOARD OF THE WAR.

BY HARRY CARR.

If THE ALLIES are to win, some event must take place which will induce the English people to translate their national characteristics of calmness, coolness, self-mastery and tenacity, into action and deadly-in-earnest activity.

This is the verdict of an American officer now in London and printed in the most conservative military paper in the United States.

Although our British friends will fiercely resent the statement and will write me a shower of letters telling me I am a bloody der, there is no dodging the fact that the cause of the allies suffered immeasurably because of the failure of the British to forth their full military strength.

If England could be shaken out of her complacency she should ly be able to show as much strength as France. But the papers state that, of a battle line 280 miles long, the English troops occupy only twenty-five miles. For every man that has put into the field, France has put from twelve to fifteen. No one knows how many men Russia has sent, but the of the Czar have rushed to the battle line in millions.

Not for lack of courage, but because of English self-sufficiency, recruiting of the "Kitchener army" has been a wretched failure. It will be recalled that a recent recruiting party headed by distinguished officers, made the rounds of the big football games in England a few weeks ago to induce men to enlist in the army. One field visited had 15,000 spectators, another 10,000; another 7500 and so on through a long list of big crowds. The net of the rally was one recruit.

A FORCED CONFESSION.

In the issue of Nov. 7, the London Spectator italicized this sentence: "The present recruiting figures can only be described as ."

In the hope of scaring recruits into the army, the English papers shouted about the danger of a German invasion. But the seems to have been quite different from that hoped for. John did not enter the army. He simply pulled down the family piece from the mantlepiece and said: "Let the bounders if they dare."

A letter to one of the British newspapers, re-printed in the Army and Navy Journal, states bluntly that the bouquets thrown by the British at themselves during the first months of the war have hampered the work of recruiting. In their self-adulation, British papers concealed from the public the real extent of the of the allies.

The writer of the letter says: "Some daily recognition, on our French excellence would bring substantial gain in the end, ing our people in the amenities of social intercourse they do not shine. British successes, gallantry, strategy, tenacity fill the bill of fare, but little, very little, is or even mention of our kind, courteous, and gallant French read the British newspapers, as now written, exaggerated laudation of all things British; and the neg- achievement and even of the existence of the French civilian and military, the average Gallic mind must be con- that 'les Anglais' are of the opinion that they have a first on all 'la gloire' to be acquired on land and sea during of wars."

THE GERMAN ATTACK.

The depressing effect this attitude of the British papers has had can only be appreciated by constant reading of the weekly papers which do so much to mould public opin- the other side. In these papers, the Germans were always to contempt as boobs who attacked in masses "like a crowd through the gate after a big football game."

Now, as a matter of fact, the German infantry did nothing of kind. Instead of being boobs who know nothing of the science of modern warfare, the German infantry attack is more carefully out than that of any other foreign army. After long misrepresentation, the truth about the "massed attack" of the German has come out. Walter E. Ives, who formerly served in the Prussian Thirteenth Dragoons, has written an authoritative making it clear.

The German attack is based upon a system called the "Theorie chour" (the string of pearls theory.) It is, in a general theory of attack whereby the German line is made elastic. called because the German soldiers are the pearls and the by this system, can press them closely together or instantly out the string to suit the particular phases of the attack. The German attack begins at from 3000 to 5000 yards—in , as soon as they come within the range of the enemy's . The line is spread out in open order as far as the topography of the country makes it appropriate. The infantry advances of crouching runs, the men taking shelter as they may, they come to a point about 1200 to 1500 yards from the

From this point they advance, No. 1 scooping out a trench No. 2 fires; then No. 2 digging himself a shelter while No. 1 from his shelter. After advancing up to a point 250 yards the enemy, the troops leap up and hurl themselves forward . The finale of the German attack is often made in the last phase of attack the theory of most other armies is wider; but the German idea is to take advantage weight of the closed attack and also of the fact that fire of the defenders rapidly decreases in effectiveness becomes less than 250 yards.

I have given Mr. Ives's account of this marvelous system of in order to accentuate the folly of the British papers in putting army before their public as an armed mob. A candid of the episodes of the war, giving each army its proper certainly have operated to gain for England at least she needs so sorely.

in England indicate that the British War Office are awakening to the real facts. In a recent Pall Mall Gazette, there is an editorial nearly two col- to the French people that the seeming lack of French fighting is due to the fact that the English of raising a volunteer army and this can be done British heroism, etc.

Kitchener is exerting every effort to hurry additional battle line. As many as 200 British transports have in the Port of Havre at the same time. The num- now on the line of battle has been variously and 300,000. This is but a handful of the is able to send to the front. It is only an incon-

CULEBRA CUT AGAIN BLOCKED.

NEW SLIDE WILL CAUSE DELAY OF TWO DAYS OR SO IN SHIPPING.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 12.—A private dispatch to W. R. Grace & Co., received here today from the Panama Canal zone, stated that a new slide in the Culebra Cut would cause a delay of about two days to shipping. No details were given.

COLLIER AT BALBOA.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SEATTLE (Wash.) Dec. 12.—The Blue Funnel liner Protesilaus, in the service of the British navy as a collier, was reported as arriving at Balboa yesterday from Victoria. She can carry 10,000 tons of coal and is supposed to have taken fuel for British and Japanese cruisers scouring the west coast of South America for German vessels. The presence of many British cruisers off the Panama Canal does not indicate a new movement, but shows the great number of vessels that were out after the German boats.

THE SACRIFICES THAT MEN MAKE.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

MONTREAL (Que.) Dec. 12.—A walk of 1300 miles to the nearest railway station in order to report for military service—such was the recent jaunt of Fernand Tromeur of Fort Providence on the Mackenzie River. Tromeur is one of twenty-five French reservists, mostly from the Yukon and Alaska, that left here last night for New York, to sail tomorrow on the steamer Rochambeau for Havre.

SERBS REPULSE AUSTRIAN FORCE.

HEAVY FIGHTING CONTINUES IN THE VICINITY OF KOSMAI.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

PARIS, Dec. 12.—Telegraphing from Nish, Servia, the correspondent of the Havas News Agency reports that the Servians have repulsed an Austrian force with heavy losses at Kosmai, thirty miles south of Belgrade. The message says:

"Heavy fighting continues with large Austrian forces at Kosmai, to the south of Belgrade and to the north of Milanovatz.

"Attacks made by the Austrians on Kosmai, December 9, were repulsed with heavy losses. The Austrians retreated, leaving 2500 bodies on the battlefield. Along the remainder of the front in Servia the Austrians are retreating in the directions of Mokra, Gorbina, Bachta, Rogatchitz, Kotzelivoa and Oub.

"Thirty-five Austrian officers, 45,000 soldiers and a military band were made prisoners by the Servians."

BOY SCOUTS AID SEARCH.

Thousand Search the Hills in Hope of Finding Woman Who Disappeared from Orange, N. J.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—One thousand boy scouts, recruited from several New Jersey cities, searched the woods and hills today in the vicinity of Boonton and Orange in search of Mrs. Walter W. Breck, who disappeared from her home in Orange, December 4.

Friends of the missing woman fear that she wandered away during a period of mental depression, became lost and possibly perished in the woods.

HARRY CHANDLER,
Assistant General Manager, The Times.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this 2nd day of December, 1914.

[Seal] F. L. CHAPIN,
Notary Public in and for the County of Los Angeles, State of California.

The Times is the only newspaper in Los Angeles that does not make a practice of permitting agents, newsboys and dealers to return unsold copies in its issue. Neither does it misbrand or predate its editions, or inflate its circulation by printing more copies than are actually necessary to supply its patrons.

The Times' entire circulation is practically net, and it is more genuine and superior in every respect to that of any other newspaper.

Checkerboard of the War.

siderable fraction of the men that she will undoubtedly send out before the war is over.

When some event happens to really impress England with the fact that a regular war is going on, the real resources of the Empire will be called into play. After that happens, the fighting should rapidly progress to a decision.

MEANS A LONG WAR.

In the circumstances, this delay upon the part of the English will cause the prolongation of the war for at least another year. Had the British been able to throw an army of 3,000,000 men into the field to take position next to the 3,000,000 French, the war would have been in its final stages today. When the Russians rammed home their attack upon the German line in East Prussia, an answering attack by 6,000,000 allies in the other theater of war would have ended it.

As it is, the Germans have been able to stave off the attacks in France with a greatly reduced force while they rushed their great corps to meet the Russians.

The delay will not change the final outcome of the war. In time it is certain that England will "come to" and realize the situation. It is just as certain that an aroused England, with the help of Russia and France, can beat down the guard of Germany.

The Kaiser is now engaged in a most discouraging process—trying to demolish Russia. The most difficult nations in the world to corner and to inflict final disasters upon are the United States and Russia. And Russia is the more difficult of the two. Russia is too big. There is no great artery upon which her national existence depends. If Warsaw is captured, very well, Warsaw is captured; but Russia still lives on and probably most of the Russian people never find out about it. If the Russian army suffers a severe defeat, it can always withdraw and reform for an attack when it feels better.

THE KAISER CAN'T.

Under present conditions, the Kaiser cannot follow the Russian army at all. He can inflict upon the Russian troops a blow severe enough to compel them to fall back and give him time to divert his attention to the fight in France.

If England increases in military strength, as the allies have the right to anticipate, there can be only one result. There will come a day when the Kaiser cannot smite the Czar a blow and rush back to hit the French and English. In the final chapter they will both close in on him together.

In a certain sense the German plan of war has already failed. Reduced to essentials, the German plan was: "We shall smash France within three weeks before she has the help of the English; then wheel about to give Russia a knock-out blow before her mobilization is completed." Both plans failed.

The military papers express great interest in the degree of efficiency of the Kitchener volunteers now en route to the front or being trained with the idea of sending them to the front.

Gen. Von Bernhardi, the German strategist, insists that volunteer troops are not worth thinking about as opponents for any of the trained armies of Europe. The English, on the other hand, say "One volunteer is better than two conscripts." German experts assert that even volunteers, without military experience, from a country like Germany, where they have been surrounded with military men all their lives, are more likely to be good soldiers than volunteers like the English who have had little of military surroundings. The English, on the other hand, point to the exploits of their men in the trenches as showing that the Britisher has a capacity for independent action never attained by men forced to bear arms.

Well, we shall see, and we wait with horror for what we shall see. The phases of the war yet to come will be more dreadful than any of the dreadful events that have shaken the world already.

A FEET NOTE.

P. S.: Way down here in the corner I may be permitted to relate an unsung tragedy of the war. A military sleuth in the French army discovered what he thought was a German spy dressed in women's clothes. He said that the feet were too big for any woman. The "spy" was taken to headquarters by the military Sherlock Holmes. Turned out to be the Major-General's wife. The soldier who arrested her is now of the opinion that just to be shot as a spy would be fun compared to what has been happening to him.

NEW PASADENA SONG.

Official Air and Lyric of the Rose Tournament Heard for First Time in Public.

The new official song of the Pasadena Rose Tournament, "Pasadena, the Crown City," was heard publicly for the first time last evening at a benefit entertainment given by the Rebekah relief board in Odd Fellows' Hall, No. 220½ South Main street. The song was written by Arthur R. Way, and the harmony was arranged by Randall Lucas. Mrs. Margaret Armstead gave a pleasing interpretation of the song, with Mr. Lucas as accompanist.

The proceeds of the entertainment will be given as a Christmas present to the women of the Odd Fellows' home at Saratoga. The fund will be divided equally among fifty-two women. Mrs. Effigen Smith presided at the meeting. The programme included vocal and instrumental music, readings and vaudeville. The latter part of the evening was spent in dancing. Refreshments were served.

MONROVIA PIONEER DIES.

Crossed Plains in Wagon Train Sixty Years Ago—Funeral Held Yesterday.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

MONROVIA, Dec. 12.—Mrs. Mary Ellen Cate died here Thursday afternoon. She traveled overland from Illinois in 1857 to the Los Nietos Valley, and has lived in Los Angeles county sixty years. The family crossed the desert in their prairie schooner, Mr. Cate having previously made the journey by wagon train from his home in Maine to Illinois, then considered an outpost of western civilization.

Mr. and Mrs. Cate came to Monrovia twenty-six years ago, arriving here at the height of the "boom" days. They built one of the first homes erected here and Mrs. Cate lived in it since. Fourteen years ago her husband was accidentally killed when his wagon was struck by a railroad train.

For the past few years Mrs. Cate's health was poor, but her rugged constitution has kept her up, and not until she had passed her 87th year did she give up the struggle.

The funeral services were held this morning at the Baptist Church. A number of old friends of her husband were pallbearers.

JUICELESS WHITTIER.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

WHITTIER, Dec. 12.—Whittier will be "juiceless" during daylight hours tomorrow, for the Southern California Edison Company will tomorrow connect up their wires with the new substation which is just now completed. The management promises to have all connections complete before dark in the evening, and the day's work will mark the final step in a work for which the company has spent locally about $15,000. The new substation is on the company's lots on Penn street, between Greenleaf and Comstock, and is regarded as most complete, containing the latest and most convenient devices. Work on the new building was begun in July.

FIND DEAD BODY.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SANTA MONICA, Dec. 12.—C. C. Cheney, driving the Topanga stage, reported this morning upon his arrival in this city that he had found the body of "Tex" Miller, a teamster who had been employed by the county on its work of putting in the new road through the canyon. The corpse was discovered lying in front of the Topanga postoffice. According to the ranchman's story, no marks of violence were found on the body and it is supposed that the man met death naturally, probably through exposure or heart trouble, or both. The Sheriff's office was notified, and the body will be conveyed to this city.

POMONA CANNERY SOLD.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

POMONA, Dec. 12.—G. H. Waters, who for years has been proprietor of the Pomona cannery, has sold all of his interests in the business to a syndicate of well-known cannery men and the plant will become one of a chain of fruit canneries extending through the deciduous fruit belt from Pasadena to Banning. The syndicate has acquired ownership of all of the land and buildings and equipment of the local plant, upon which many improvements have been made during the past two years. The cannery has a daily capacity of 60,000 quart cans of fruit and millions of quarts are annually canned, giving employment during the season to 300 workers.

CHINESE WOUNDED.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

EL CENTRO, Dec. 12.—In a revolver duel with two hold-up men in which ten shots were fired, Lee Kum Sing, proprietor of a noodle restaurant, was shot in the abdomen and perhaps fatally wounded tonight. As far as is known the assailants, who wore no masks, were not hit by any of Lee's bullets. They escaped. No money was taken.

OFFICER ARRESTED.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

IMPERIAL, Dec. 12.—Indicted by the county grand jury for assault with a deadly weapon, Deputy City Marshal G. L. Hinch was arrested here by Under Sheriff Anderson tonight. He was released on $1000 bonds. The indictment grows out of the same incident which caused the arrest of his superior, Marshal Couthwell, on two other charges. Hinch is accused of bruising a Mexican prisoner with his billy.

SHIPPERS FIGHT FOR ICE-PACKS.

First Refrigerator Steamer to Take on Cargo.

Local Merchants Offer More Freight Than Asked.

Traffic Agents Visit Harbor to Inspect Business.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

LOS ANGELES HARBOR, Dec. 12. —With insulated space for but 1500 tons, more than 8000 tons of fruit, vegetables, fish and other perishable products have been offered to the American-Hawaiian Steamship Company for transportation from Pacific Coast ports to New York on the steamer Ohioan, the first of the refrigerator vessels to go through the Panama Canal.

Los Angeles alone has asked for more space than the Ohioan has under refrigeration, for oranges and celery when the steamer sails from this port December 27. Portland offered enough apples and fish to fill the entire space. Seattle also had enough of the same commodities to take the space. San Francisco wanted all of it for apples, celery and vegetables.

SPACE APPORTIONED.

The available space has been apportioned among the various ports in proportion to the demand and many shippers all along the coast are going to be disappointed.

While other steamers will follow at frequent intervals, offering refrigeration space, it is unlikely that the demand can be supplied this season. Until other lines enter the field and offer refrigeration space it is likely that much of the produce of the Pacific Coast will continue to move by rail to eastern points.

While coastwise business both in lumber and general cargo is considerably lighter than it was a few months ago, before the European war upset shipping calculations, freight to and from Atlantic ports continues to increase. Six steamers to and from foreign and Atlantic ports were included in the arrivals and departures today and yesterday.

PROCEEDS NORTH.

The Peter H. Crowell, which inaugurated the new service of Sudden & Christenson between the Pacific Coast and Gulf ports on the Atlantic, proceeded to San Francisco with balance of cargo today. The steamer J. L. Luckenbach is discharging 220 tons from New York and will proceed to San Francisco Wednesday. The steamer Evelyn proceeded to San Francisco last night and the Nevadan of the American-Hawaiian line completed her cargo for New York and proceeded.

The steamer Portland, owned by the Globe Milling Company, arrived today from Portland for stores bound for Callao with a cargo of grain and flour. She proceeded to the South American port tonight. Included in her cargo are 3000 tons of wheat in bags of 235 pounds each for transportation to the interior on muleback, two sacks to a mule.

Capt. Crossley of the steamer Santa Clara, which arrived today from New York, reported to the United States inspectors the loss of Chris Christensen, boatswain, who disappeared on December 9. Christensen had shown indications of being demented several days previously and it is believed that he committed suicide by jumping overboard. The Santa Clara proceeded to San Francisco tonight with balance of cargo for W. R. Grace & Co.

INSPECT HARBOR.

Fifty Los Angeles railway and steamship ticket agents were guests of the Pacific Coast Steamship Company tonight on board the steamer Congress, which arrived today from San Francisco and Puget Sound. The trip was made on a special parlor car over the Pacific Electric. After a thorough inspection of the ship from stem to stern, dinner was served in the elegant dining-room of the ship.

The party was in charge of Hugh B. Brittan, the agent of the company in Los Angeles, who was assisted in the entertainment by A. S. Jones, city passenger agent; R. B. Schutten, city ticket agent, and W. M. Cline, traveling passenger agent.

NOTE—In the above tabulation of tides the daily tides are given in the order of their occurrence, commencing with the early morning tide in the left-hand tide column, and the succeeding tides as they occur. On some days but three tides occur, the fourth tide occurring on the following morning.

PORT ITEMS.

About fifty members of the Los Angeles railroad and steamship ticket agents were guests of the Pacific Coast Steamship Company at a dinner served on board the steamer Congress tonight, shortly after the arrival of the steamer from San Francisco and Puget Sound. The Congress will proceed to San Diego tomorrow. The only other passenger carrier arriving today was the Yale from San Francisco, which proceeded to San Diego.

While coastwise freight and passenger traffic is light, business from foreign and Atlantic ports continues to increase. The steamer Santa Clara of the W. R. Grace & Co. American fleet arrived from New York and proceeded to San Francisco. The Sudden & Christenson steamer Peter H. Crowell proceeded to San Francisco with balance of cargo from Atlantic Coast and Gulf ports. The steamer Portland, owned by the Globe Milling Company, arrived from Portland for stores and fuel, bound from Portland to Callao, with a cargo of grain and flour. With these six steamers to and from foreign and Atlantic ports arrived and departed today and yesterday.

Santa Barbara.

MYSTERY OF DEATH APPEARS DISPELLED.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SANTA BARBARA, Dec. 12.—The mystery surrounding the identity of Mrs. Alice G. Bush, who committed suicide at Edgerly apartments, a fashionable rooming-house, on November 18, is believed to have been dispelled. The authorities believe she was really Mrs. Frances Allen of Los Angeles, widow of George T. Allen, retired New York banker.

The woman registered at the Arlington Hotel as Mrs. Alice G. Bush of Chicago, on November 15. Her demeanor impressed the hotel people as laboring under profound grief. Two days later she took a suite at Edgerly apartments and on Thursday, November 19, was found dead, seated fully dressed before a gas stove with the jet opened. An odor of gas penetrating the corridors led to the discovery. Guests complained that they had smelled gas all night.

She held a letter, which seemed to be from a sister in Chicago. It was in pencil and signed "Betty." This was the only thing found suggesting a likely clew. The letter cautioned the recipient not to get lonely, saying, "We will be together soon as I leave next week for Southern California and we will take a cottage together for the winter at Long Beach."

It is now believed that the woman wrote the letter herself as part of a well-laid plan to conceal her identity.

This afternoon, Undertaker L. E. Gagnier discovered a news item reporting the disappearance of Mrs. Allen and quickly suspected that she was none other than the woman whose body he embalmed and placed in a vault here to await identification by relatives.

He telephoned to Los Angeles and secured a description of Mrs. Allen, which in every particular tallies with that of Mrs. Bush. Her relatives are believed to be wealthy and prominent New Yorkers.

SURE IT IS SHE.

Mrs. M. Gorsuch, proprietress of the Hotel Berg at No. 918 West Eighth street, and a near friend of Mrs. Frances Allen, who is reported to have committed suicide in Santa Barbara, declared last night she is positive that there can be no mistake in the identity of the dead woman. She said Mrs. Allen left her hotel on November 15, after stating she would return in two or three days. She has not seen the woman since.

Mrs. Allen, according to Mrs. Gorsuch, was the widow of George T. Allen, who died here about a year ago. Soon after his death Mrs. Allen showed marked signs of melancholia.

Mrs. Gorsuch held a long conversation yesterday afternoon with the undertaker in Santa Barbara, who has charge of the body, and from his description she said the identity is positive.

So far as Mrs. Gorsuch knows, Mrs. Allen's only living relative is Mrs. Harry Curtis, a sister, of Sodus, Wayne county, N. Y. Mrs. Curtis has been notified.

ALHAMBRA KNITTING.

Society Women Follow Pasadena in Preparing Warm Clothing for Europe's Soldiers.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

ALHAMBRA, Dec. 12.—Following the example of the society belles and matrons of Pasadena, who are spending every available minute knitting comforts for the soldiers in the war zone of Europe, the smart set here are taking up the work with enthusiasm.

At many of the fashionable homes knitting is the regular order of the day, and in street cars and other public conveyances the click and flash of knitting needles are largely in evidence. Mrs. Frank Ogilvy Wood has invited her friends to bring their knitting and spend Sunday afternoon working on stockings, mufflers and cholera bands to be sent to the needy abroad.

At several of the churches recently work bags have been in evidence and nimble fingers have made many stitches during the hour of worship.

Christmas Gifts frequently are articles that become less valuable as time goes on, and gradually wear out entirely. Why not reverse the order this year? Give something that will increase in value—an El Segundo lot for instance. The plans of Standard Oil Co. cover a plant which will warrant a city of ten to fifteen thousand. Lots which can be purchased now for a few hundred are likely to be worth thousands in a comparatively short time.

THE CITY AND ENVIRONS.

EVENTS BRIEFLY TOLD.

Winter Normal Graduation.

The first class to be graduated from the new State Normal School will be the winter class of 1914. The exercises will be held in the Normal Auditorium on next Friday morning at 10 o'clock.

Drops Dead on Street.

While standing on the curb at No. 764 New High street late yesterday afternoon talking to James Foley, C. B. Gordon of No. 220 North Commonwealth avenue was seized with apoplexy and dropped dead.

Educational Problems.

Superintendent of Schools Francis will speak on "The Attempted Solution of Certain Educational Problems" at a dinner to be given at the parish house of St. Paul's Pro-Cathedral, next Tuesday night at 6:30 o'clock.

Help for Homeless Children.

The Children's Home Society, No. 2414 Griffith avenue, this city, has sent out a letter making a plea for cash Christmas gifts for the support of the work for homeless children. All checks should be made payable to the "Children's Home Society of California."

Florence Crittenton Bazaar.

The managers of the Florence Crittenton Home announced yesterday that their appeal for a vacant storeroom in which to hold a bazaar on December 19 had been answered by J. C. Floyd, who generously tendered them a vacant room in the Mason Opera house block, on Broadway, between First and Second streets.

Condition Improved.

The condition of Mrs. Ella Pearn of No. 1115 West Eighth street, Worthy Matron-elect of Acacia Chapter, No. 21, O.E.S., who was injured by an automobile and unable to be installed at the regular installation of the chapter, is somewhat improved. She will be installed as soon as her condition will permit.

Jewish Chanuka Entertainment.

In commemoration of the Chanuka Festival, the Jewish National Radical Club of Los Angeles will give an entertainment in Blanchard Hall on Saturday evening, next, at 8 o'clock. There will be a concert and interesting programme, on which one of the leading features wil be Mme. Ella Rachlin, pianist, recently from Chicago.

Excursion to San Diego.

Arrangements were made yesterday by the Chamber of Commerce for an excursion to San Diego for Los Angeles day at the Panama-California Exposition. The special will leave here at 8:30 a.m., January 9, and will not return here until the night of the following day, thus giving the excursionists a chance to both participate in the celebration of Los Angeles day and to see the exposition. A luncheon will be served in the Southern California Counties Building the first day, with exposition officials as guests.

Trinity Furnishing Fund.

Trinity Church is making a strenuous effort to complete its furnishing fund and has arranged a series of entertainments in Trinity Auditorium for its benefit. The first will be a concert by Hann's Jubilee Singers, Friday evening, one of the leading colored troupes of the world. Their rendition of the old plantation melodies is said to be unsurpassed, while their operatic numbers are of a high order. Many persons who heard them here last year will need no further commendation, and the cause of Trinity Church will appeal to public patronage.

HOLDS UP AUTO PARTY IN PARK.

INSISTS HE'S GENTLEMAN BUT ROBS TILL SCARED BY NEWCOMERS.

A "gentleman" bandit made a daring attempt to rob an automobile party in Griffith Park about 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon. After taking $1 from the chauffeur, the highwayman heard another machine approaching and without stopping to go through the pockets of the other occupants of the car, fled, escaping in the thick shrubbery.

The bandit's intended victims are A. H. McConnell, a wealthy former leather manufacturer of the East, who resides in Pasadena; his wife and brother, S. M. McConnell, and the latter's wife.

With their chauffeur, E. G. Bates, they were riding through the park and had reached a turn in the road at the top of a hill when the bandit jumped from some bushes and pointing a large revolver at them, ordered all to put their hands up.

Without parley, the five persons complied with the highwayman's command, all standing in a row while he began to search the chauffeur.

"You folks can see by my clothes that I am not a common hold-up man," said the bandit as he thrust a hand into Mr. Bates's pocket. "I am in hard luck and my wife and babies are in need of money. This is the only way I know of to get it for them. I am sure you people will not miss a little change."

The snorting of another automobile making the steep climb from the rear brought a sudden end to the robbing. With a curse, the man turned and dashed down an embankment and soon was lost to view.

Hurriedly the auto party went to Central Police Station and reported the affair and in a few minutes a posse of officers headed by Detective King was on the way to the park. A detail of policemen from the East Side Station also joined the posse and with the aid of a pack of bloodhounds a thorough search was made of the big recreation center. The bandit was not found.

WEDS ARIZONA MAN.

Miss Velma Hale, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Hale of No. 4900 Pasadena avenue, was married at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon at her home to Watt Goodwin Hill of Phoenix. The house was attractive with pink and white roses and carnations. Miss Edith Hale, the bride's sister, attended as bridesmaid and Harold W. Riley as best man. Mrs. Jules Staumm, a sister of the groom, at the piano, and Mr. Staumm, with the violin, played the wedding march. Mrs. Agnes G. Maginn played Mendelssohn's "Midsummer Night's Dream" and "Spring Song." The bride was gowned in a delicate shade of wistaria satin and carried a shower bouquet of bride's roses and lilies of the valley. The bridesmaid wore wistaria satin and carried a shower bouquet of white roses and violets. A beautifully appointed wedding supper was served to sixty relatives and close friends.

ANIMALS ARRIVE WITHOUT MURMUR.

BOSTOCK SHOW HAS BEEN HERE TWO WEEKS AND MAY STAY TWO YEARS.

That an animal show containing more than 100 tamed denizens of the wild can come to Los Angeles and be here for two weeks, its manager lease property near the ball park at Washington and Main streets for two years, with an option for five, and secure a permit from the city and even start construction of the arena, with none seeming to know of it, at least publicly, seems impossible. The Bostock Arena and Jungle, an English show, is here and proposes opening, with two shows a day, by January 1. It is owned by David Horsely, a prominent showman and motion-picture producer of New York City, and is managed by Harry E. Zudor.

Two weeks ago Tuesday the consignment of animals came here direct from the Anglo-American Exposition at London, and located temporarily on East Fourth street. It was planned that the show should tour Europe for the next two years, but the war abrogated all contracts with managers on the continent, and so Los Angeles was chosen as the best show place available, the animals having shown some years ago at New York.

A show ground, 595 feet by 350 feet, which will in reality be an animal park, with a stage in the rear, and the cages forming a circle around the outer walls, is under construction now. The entrance will be on Main street, near Washington street. The total cost of the layout is estimated at $85,000.

The animals are said to be trained much differently than any others in the show business and exhibit none of the ferocious instincts that are attributed to most caged animals.

It is also planned to show the animals in the making of jungle films for the Mina Film Company.

RAILWAY CONSOLIDATION.

Illinois State Officials Approve the Merger of the Lines in the New York Central System.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, Dec. 12.—Consolidation of the railroads comprising the New York Central lines was approved today by the Illinois Public Utilities Commission.

The merger already has been approved by Pennsylvania and New York, and according to the Illinois opinion, Michigan remains the only State having jurisdiction in the matter which has yet to make a decision.

The proposed consolidation includes eleven railroads, but only two, the Lake Shore and Michigan Southern and the Chicago, Indiana and Southern are incorporated in this State.

Perfect Blue-White Diamonds

When you buy diamonds, you want only the highest grade stones—each one without a flaw, and the true, blue-white color.

Through the twenty-two years that represent the life of this establishment, we have been building up our diamond reputation. It has long been well known that we carry nothing but absolutely perfect, blue-white diamonds.

To the plan of buying only flawless stones, we have added that of selling these at the lowest price consistent with fairness to the customer and to ourselves.

Our diamond display is beautiful this Christmas. Besides diamonds, it includes diamond combinations with other precious stones—all in platinum settings of exquisite workmanship.

We are offering excellent values in single stone-rings at $10, $25, $35, $50, $65, $75, $85 and $100.

COUNCIL'S FLOP KILLS YEAR-END ELECTION.

rdinance Calling a Charter Tinkering Loses by One Vote.

President Whiffen Leads Two Colleagues Back to the Opposition, at Close of Sensational Five-hour Session, Joining Original Holdouts, Betkouski and Snowden. Acrimonious Debate Marks a Spectacular Meeting.

ERE will be no charter amendment election the 31st inst., after ... The City Council yesterday, ... vote of 5 to 4, killed the $30,000 ... ordinance, although a fort... ago its members adopted by a ... of 6 to 3 a resolution declaring ... intention to call the election.

... action of the Council yesterday ... quietus upon the proposed city ...ger and nine other municipal ... at least for the time.

... who voted for the election ... are Councilman Conwell, ... Roberts and Wheeler.

... who voted against are President ... Whiffen, Councilmen Betkouski, ... Snowden and Williams.

... flip-flop, as forecast some days ... The Times, was complete, except that it lacked the presence of ...man Roberts, who remained ... the flip-flop two weeks ago. ... Whiffen and Councilmen ... and Williams gave the classi... of gymnastics and com... will go down in the un... romance of City Hall politics ... somersault.

Seldom in the history of Council proceedings has there been a spectacle so grotesque, so unusual in many aspects, so bitter in invective as that which attended the five-hours' session yesterday. The Council chamber was packed. The clock was stopped at noon and the debate went on. Citizens spoke for and against the election, for and against the proposed amendments, and for and against each other.

Personalities were hurled back and forth by the citizens and later by the Councilmen, and out of it all came an utter rout of the Efficiency Commission and others who proposed the matter, and of the Earl-Haynes-Gibbon combination which tried to force it through the Council.

The reasons for the action of the Council in repudiating the city manager idea and the nine others that came with it are generic. Some of the Councilmen were frank enough to state their specific reasons on the floor of the Council; others made extended remarks which explained everything but the true reason underlying their change of heart.

President Whiffen, who vacillated between both sides of the question and remained an uncertain quantity until he cast his vote, originally opposed the election. Overnight he changed his mind and voted for the resolution. When the time approached for vote on the ordinance, called for by the resolution, he stated that he would support it, as he had supported the original resolution. Then rumor became current that he was in process of changing his mind again, and yesterday he asked to have read a lengthy statement of his position.

WHIFFEN'S REASONS.

Mr. Whiffen's reasons for voting against the election may be summed up as follows: The ten amendments are poorly drawn; no reason why the Council should submit question of writing into the charter defective amendments; people do not want the election; too soon after the November election; too costly; too hastily called; need money for the poor, but not for elections; Efficiency Commission wandered from its duty in asking the people to vote on the amendments.

President Whiffen said, however, that he is in favor of a new charter and will vote to submit to the people at the next city election, the question of electing a board of freeholders to frame a new charter to be ratified by the 1917 Legislature.

"It is not my duty as a Councilman to interpret in advance what the people want," said Councilman Roberts. "It is up to the people to decide for themselves. I am for the ordinance."

"President Whiffen's address expresses my sentiments," said Mr. Bryant. "It is quite a coincidence that he has said just the things I was going to say. Not knowing what he was writing, I wrote a speech of my own and it contains many repetitions of what appears in President Whiffen's address."

Mr. Bryant then read an extended statement purporting to contain the reasons for his flopping from one side to the other of the election question.

"I had also prepared a speech," said Mr. Williams, "but at 11 o'clock last night a special delivery letter came to my house and I have no speech this morning. I am against the ordinance."

He did not explain the source or contents of the letter.

Councilman Wheeler favored the ordinance. He cited his colleagues to the fact that they had asked the Efficiency Commission to suggest amendments. He also said that seventeen cities are now using the city-manager plan.

"I voted for the resolution, because I believed in submitting to the people," said Councilman Langdon. "I don't approve of several of the proposed amendments, but I have confidence in the intelligence of the people, and I am for the ordinance."

"If the people knew what most of these amendments mean they would turn them all down," said Mr. Betkouski. "I am against calling the election."

STAKES HIS FUTURE.

"I have failed to find many people who want this election," said Councilman Snowden. "The proponents of these schemes are asking us to cram down the throats of the people that which they do not want. I will stake my political future on my vote here today. The people don't want the election. I have felt the pulse of seven-tenths of the voters and I know."

"If Mr. Snowden has felt the pulse of seven-tenths of the voters," said Councilman Conwell, "he must have had his fingers on the wrists of 126,000 persons. And if he has done that he has worked harder than I ever saw him work during his term of Councilman."

"I spend more time in the city de-

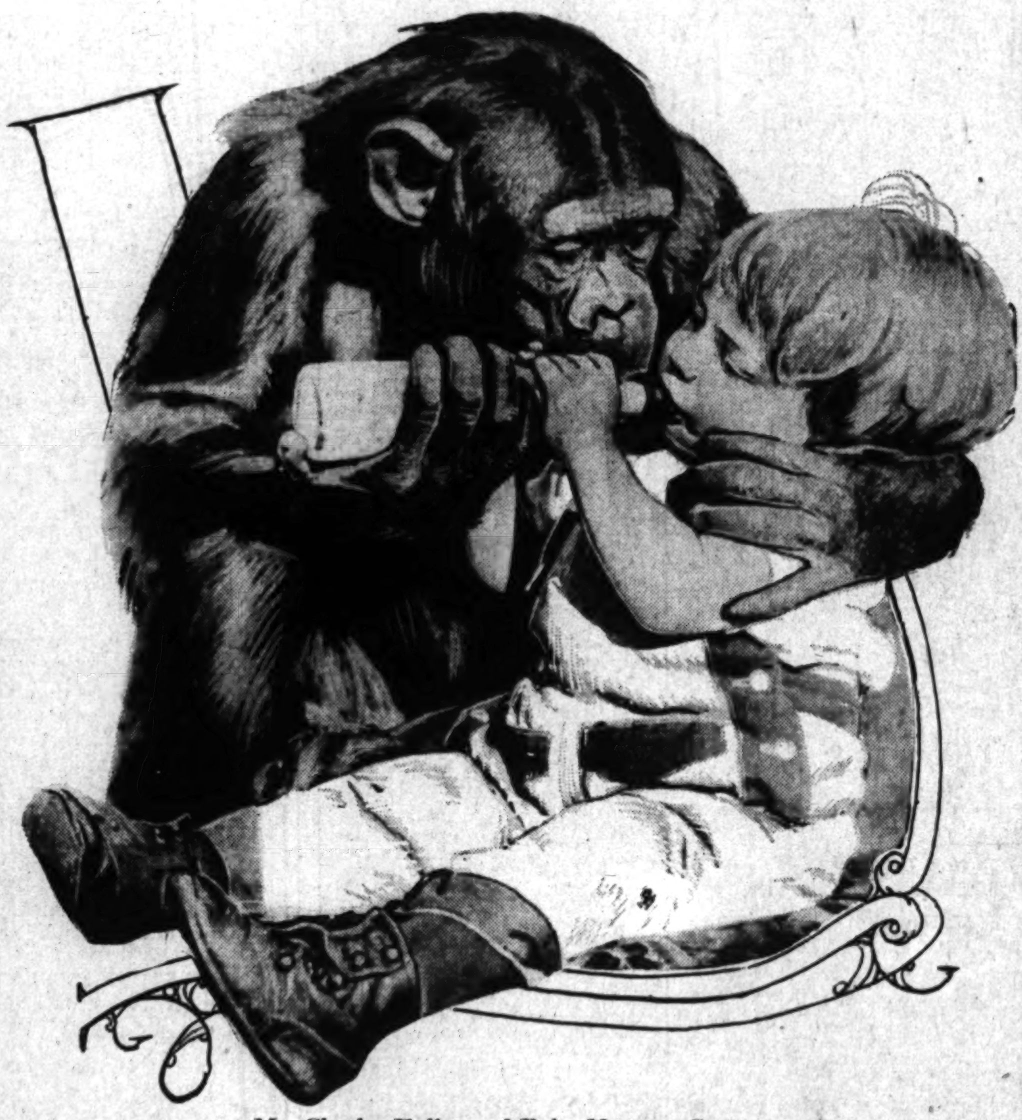
How Would You Like to Have Him for a Nurse Maid?



Mr. Charles Fuller and Baby Norman Carter.

The famous chimpanzee rises to remark that he is not the Edgar Allan Poe kind of a beast at all. In proof of it he points to the affection which babies have for him and that he is trusted to act as their nurse.

Note for Mr. Poe.

FAMOUS CHIMPANZEE DRY NURSE TO BABY.

REPUDIATING calumniators who say that Mr. Charles Fuller, the "human chimpanzee," habitually terrorizes children and residents of Pasadena in general, that eminent monkey has undertaken to show how kind-hearted he really is by his fondness for Lucille and Norman Carter, children of Charles Carter, of near Eastlake Park. He became so attached to them that he has finally insisted on acting as their nurse, and he sees that 2-year-old Norman gets his bottle every day as often as he should.

Although he has been disowned by E. W. Knowlton of Pasadena, after acquiring the pernicious habit of smoking cigarettes and having been forced to earn his own living since, as an actor for the E. & R. Jungle Film Company, Mr. Charles Fuller's kindness, especially to children has been the subject of much comment by those who know him best. Though driven from the Knowlton home because of smoking, his former master has nothing but praise for Mr. Fuller. "He is accused," declared Mr. Knowlton, "of trying to kidnap a baby at Eagle Rock last spring but, knowing his kind nature as I do, I am sure that if he touched the child at all it was only to fondle it, as he is wont to do all children he comes in contact with. He is the biggest-hearted fellow you ever saw, as kind as a little child. His disposition would put to shame half the men in the world. It is true that once in a while he does imbibe too freely, and he is a cigarette fiend, but where is the man who does not indulge?"

Mr. Fuller has the very nicest of table manners and when carrying his food to his mouth on his fork is as dainty as a debutante. Nor is he altogether masculine in his habits, either, having acquired some of the finer traits of femininity and become quite domestic. Every morning before seeing that the baby has his bottle, he sweeps several floors and gets his apartment in shape for the day. While not on duty he looks after the welfare of the Carter children all through the day, seeing that they never go thirsty. He takes their little cup to the hydrant and even holds it for them while they drink.

He is fond of athletics and athletes and learned to play tennis last year.

He spends part of his time every day darning socks and embroidering. He learned these accomplishments several years ago while watching Mrs. Knowlton and her daughter. It is expected that he will learn to knit shortly, since knitting has become the rage, and he could do such a good turn in the name of charity.

At present he is drawing pay as a film actor. Most of his salary goes for cigarettes.

DECLARE WEALTHY PROMOTER GUILTY.

WOMAN SCREAMS WHEN JURORS SPRING SURPRISE IN FRAUD CASE.

Arthur W. Bull, promoter of a dozen townsites, reputed millionaire and apartment-house owner, was yesterday afternoon convicted in Judge Craig's court of obtaining $640 by false pretenses from Charles J. Webb, an engineer. The jury deliberated half an hour. He will be sentenced December 18. His attorneys announced they will ask for a new trial.

The verdict came as a great surprise to the wealthy defendant, who took the court proceedings as more or less of a joke. He was continually laughing and jesting with friends during the trial and appeared absolutely at ease.

When the verdict was announced by the foreman of the jury, a stylishly gowned woman, who was seated in the front row, jumped to her feet and shouted, "It's an outrage!" She walked up to the complaining witness and threatened to kill him. Deputy Sheriff Bell then took charge of the screaming woman and led her from the Hall of Justice. The defendant was given his liberty in $3000 bail.

According to Mr. Webb, the dedenfant gave him a relinquishment on a quarter section of land in Orchard Valley in San Bernardino county for $640. He said Mr. Bull showed him a level section of land, suitable for cultivation, but that the land purchased was not the same land he was led to think he was to receive. He testified that the land he received was hilly and uneven, covered in part with drifting sand and gravel and entirely unfit for cultivation.

Mr. Bull came back with a dozen witnesses, who testified that the property in Orchard Valley near that purchased by Mr. Webb is worth anywhere from $15 to $35 an acre, and that it is splendid soil. Mr. Bull is a Shriner and prominent in the fraternal and club life of the city. Deputy Dist.-Atty Helms prosecuted the case vigorously.

SEARLES LAKE "SISTERS."

Three more suits at law, "sisters" of the complaints disposed of by Judge Bledsoe, and involving placer mining claims of borax in what is known as the Searles Lake region, were filed in the United States District Court yesterday. The names of the plaintiff and defendant are the same in all of the complaints, the plaintiff being Cecil C. Carter and the defendants, Thomas W. Pack, Stella Scueller and Joseph K. Hutchinson. In the first case twelve such placer-mining claims are involved; in the second, 175, and in the third, forty-four.

WHO WROTE THE TWO SPEECHES?

President Whiffen and Councilman Bryant made formal speeches in the Council yesterday, explaining why they changed their minds on the charter amendment election. Mr. Bryant read his after the president had finished and the Boyle Heights statesman asserted that a "coincidence" occurred in that they are so nearly identical. How nearly identical the two speeches are is shown by the following brief excerpts:

BY PRESIDENT WHIFFEN.	BY COUNCILMAN BRYANT.
The foes of municipal ownership have been constantly on the alert, and have tried the patience of honest representatives of the people with their multiple activities, the never-ending resourcefulness, and their pertinacity to attain their ends, whether it has been to thwart us in obtaining municipal water, and power, cheaper gas, electricity, and improved service from the public service corporations.	The foes of municipal ownership, the foes of those great municipal enterprises—the aqueduct, power and harbor projects—are constantly alert, and strive in every manner possible, and with never-ending resourcefulness, to attain their ends.
Now when Los Angeles is confronted by problems of the most compelling importance. . . . After mature deliberation and the most painstaking investigation, I have decided that I cannot vote for the adoption of this ordinance calling an election on the ten charter amendments proposed. I take this position after due consideration of all circumstances and the revolutionary character of the reorganization of the city government that these amendments would effect.	We are now called upon to face and decide a problem of momentous importance to the city of Los Angeles. When we voted to permit the measures for which this election is now asked, we did it for the purpose of permitting further study and careful consideration of the measures contained therein. After mature deliberation and the most painstaking investigation I have decided that I cannot vote for the adoption of this ordinance. This position I take after carefully considering all the circumstances and looking at all the different angles of the controversy.

Icy Tragedies.

STEFANSSON PLODDING TOWARD NORTH POLE.

Word of the Great Explorer Brought Down to Los Angeles.

Intensely Dramatic Story of Mishap, Death, Heroism, Rescue and Suffering Comes Out of Arctic Circle, Where Search for Blonde Eskimos Continues—Meet in Coronation Bay Early Next Summer.

VILHJALMUR STEFANNSON is not dead. In the drifts of the Arctic snow the great Norwegian explorer is boring through the playground of the Northern Lights toward an unexplored land that is his goal. It is snug to the North Pole where he wishes to be, and only a native companion is with him—he and a dog train and a perilous scarcity of supplies. And just before the ice freezes in Coronation Gulf, far up on the skull of the continent, in 1915, he has an engagement with a rescue ship to return to America.

Last word of this boldest figure of the frigid zone, has just come to Los Angeles, in the authority of Fred Le Roy Granville, who toted a motion picture camera into the Arctic Circle farther than a film had ever been reeled before, and there saw Stefannson and became instrumental in the rescue of Stefannson's tragic boat crew.

Many were dead, and murder was done in that forlorn crew of the North before the saving schooner came to them, and the heroic details of tragedy are told of the rescue and the men who survived. And above all comes the assured word that the great Stefannson is alive—he, whom another explorer, Ernest de Koven Leffingwell of Pasadena met on a tundra beyond Alaska, and brought word here that he believed him surely dead.

The story that Mr. Granville tells of the North is as typical as a dog team or a pemican roast. In it men go mad, and men grow bad, and they eat the tops of their walrus hide boots with the toughness soothed into soup. Much of it has been filmed, and more of it will be filmed on another excursion there. And it is all recorded in the log with its torn leather covers.

FOR A BLONDE STUDY.

In April, 1913, the Canadian Arctic expedition left Vancouver in the ship Karluk under the direction of Explorer Stefannson to go to the north of Banksland, and there study the customs and characteristics of a rare tribe of Esquimaux. It was the blonde tribe, the tribe that Explorer Leffingwell denied existed, but that Stefannson had proclaimed he had found. And this goal was less than 500 miles from the North Pole.

The commander of the boat was Capt. Bartlett, the man in charge of Commodore Perry's ship on the successful search for the North Pole. At Point Barrow the Karluk was halted by a platform of ice thrown over the sea, two feet thick, and too tough for the vessel to break. One afternoon Stefannson, his secretary, Bert McConnell, and three natives, went over the side of the boat to hunt caribu, and the hour of their departure brought a heavy southeaster that ripped the ship from her ice wharf and turned her to the sea.

When Stefannson returned to board ship, with a successful hunt behind, he saw in the distance only the top of her mast wallowing amid the bergs in the distance. That is the way he left his boat and the crew that took him North. Later he met the Belvedere, an ice-anchored whaler of the Swenson-Hibbard line, and from her he bought supplies for more than a year, a dog team of unusual capacity, and the necessities for the most terrific trip that a man ever intentionally faced.

His last words to Capt. Andrews of the whaler were: "Meet me in Coronation Gulf in 1915, before the ice freezes," and they waved good-by, and the party was off. Since then members of the party were sent back until it was reduced to only the explorer and his single native companion. And they can live comfortably on an ice pack for more than a year if the worst comes, says Mr. Granville.

It was September 22, last year, that the Karluk was torn away from the ice case, and left Stefannson forever. After drifting aimlessly through the sea in an effort to return to get the explorer the steamer stuck fast against a wall of ice 200 feet high in December, sixty-five miles from Wrangell Island. On Christmas Day the members of the crew went ashore and made merry with holiday games and on the chops and steaks and fat roasts of monster walrus they feasted for a season.

HOPELESSNESS.

A warning had come to Capt. Bartlett to expect disaster. With his experience of the Arctic he forecast a short thaw, and in preparation he placed ashore fifty tons of coal, a quantity of provisions, all the dog teams and other materials of most urgent necessity. Two days after the preparation had been made, there came a sudden movement of the ice. Far beneath the surface of the water the jaws of one mighty berg closed, and the bottom of the vessel was crushed, another berg gored the hull, and a third point battered the side. In sixty-seven fathoms of sea she sank without a man on board, and the great Arctic expedition had become a parcel of hopeless men on a floe.

Wrangell Island was sixty-five miles away. Herold Island was nearer. A caucus was held. It happened that it was held at nearly midnight when things were as light as mid-day and TORRENS' TITLE METHOD HERE.

New Land Law in Effect End of this Week.

First Application to be Made Saturday.

Not Compulsory to Register Under the Act.

The Torrens land law, under which all property may be registered under States guarantee of title, will go into effect next Friday at midnight, and the first application for registration will be filed in Los Angeles county the following morning.

The land title law was adopted at the November election by a vote of 259,757 to 224,846.

County Recorder Logan becomes Registrar of Titles under the law and will receive the first application from C. L. Butterfield, who is placing some of his property under the Torrens Act. The application has been prepared by Earl Newmire, an attorney in the Washington building.

The law does not make it compulsory for property owners to register their property under the Torrens Act, but gives any one that right who so desires. All land registered under this law becomes known as "registered land."

Under the Torrens method the instrument of conveyance is merely a contract before registration. The transfer takes place when the Registrar notes upon a certificate of the filing of such a document. In a word, registered land titles mean that a judicial decree has been entered quieting title in a secure manner; that a certificate of title has been issued by the authority of the State, which becomes conclusive evidence of title. From the date of registration an inspection of one book or document at the Registrar's office will show at once the condition of title and all incumbrances. The State becomes responsible for loss arising from a defective certificate.

The entire expense to transfer and register tite is $1. Application is first made to the Superior Court by petition to have title registered. Anyone having had property in his possession for five years, upon which all taxes have been paid, may register it without having a certificate of title, even though there may be a mortgage outstanding.

MUST PAY INTO FUND.

The law provides for the creating of a State assurance fund. The value of land must be stated at the time of registration, when the owner must pay one-tenth of 1 per cent. of the value to the Registrar, who turns the money over to the State fund. Only one payment is necessary for this insurance.

Lands lying partly in one county and partly in another may be included in one application and any number of adjoining lots or acres may be included in one application, and for which a single certificate may be issued.

When an application is filed an entry is made upon the land register. Actual written notice is then given to all persons having an interest to appear and file answer to the application. Notice is also given by publication. When an answer is filed an issue is raised as in an ordinary lawsuit and the case may be tried either by judge or jury. The court's duty is to pass upon the title, but he may appoint an expert examiner of titles to assist. The decree of the court forever quiets title in the land registered. All incumbrances, particular estate, rights of husband and wife, etc., are set forth in the decree, which cannot be assailed.

Land titles heretofore have been handled under a system known as registration of deeds. Title in such cases passes with execution and delivery of the instrument. Most purchasers have therefore placed an escrow with some bank or trust company to await the search of the record, which determines the guaranty of the title and the issuance of insurance to protect it against defects.

AS TO FEES.

The new system, its proponents declare, will do away with the fees of title companies for repeated examinations of title, if the property owner elects to register his land. Upon the new certificates to be entered every incumbrance must be shown and it is supposed fraud is eliminated by a method of examination and comparison of the signature of the owner. It is stated to be a simple matter to ascertain whether certain land has been registered, and if so, it is not difficult to find, by property index or owner's name, all the pertinent facts concerning the title and incumbrances.

The registration of land titles is not a new idea. Austria-Hungary adopted it in the twelfth century. In South Australia in 1858, Sir Robert Richard Torrens devised a system, which was immediately adopted in the British-Australian colonies. Switzerland and Canada have operated under the Torrens Act since 1870. The Torrens Act was adopted in 1895 by Illinois, but was declared unconstitutional. In 1897 it was adopted again with objectionable features eliminated, and was declared constitutional. Ohio adopted the Torrens act in 1896 and Massachusetts two years later. Other States are now using this method of land registration.

In 1893 an act was passed by the California Legislature creating a committee of five to examine the Torrens system. The result was that in 1897 the Legislature adopted the Torrens Land Act, which is now on the statute books, but which will be repealed at the coming session.

The act passed in 1897 did not provide an assurance fund and the titles were not guaranteed by the State. Title insurance by the State is really the one big feature of the Torrens law, and the absence of it in the law now seventeen years old is the reason why advantage was never taken of it.

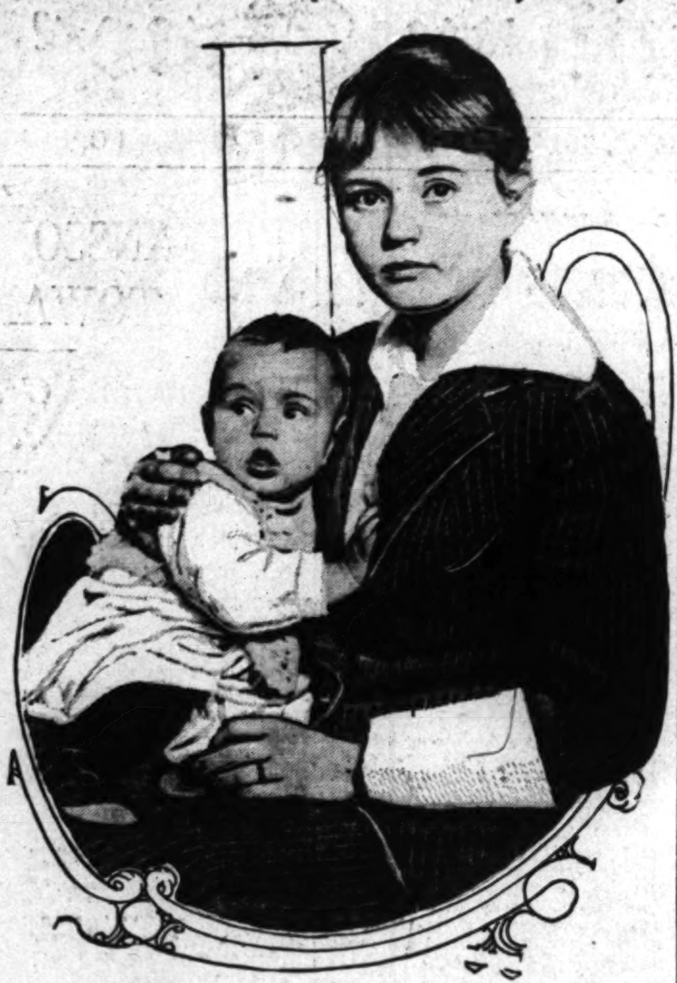
HIS SCALES WRONG?

M. Kaplan, a junk dealer of No. 619 Ducommun street, will be tried in the Police Court tomorrow morning on a charge of using defective scales. He was arrested yesterday by J. E. Harshman, city sealer of weights and measures. The officer said the scales are adjusted so as to register fifteen pounds in favor of Kaplan.

OPIUM SMOKER SENTENCED.

Charged with having an opium pipe in his possession Wong Wing was found guilty in Police Judge Frederickson's court yesterday morning and sentenced to serve 100 days in jail or pay a fine of $100.

Will Anyone Adopt this Pretty Baby?



Mrs. Joseph Russell and her baby,

Which she must give away because of stress of misfortunes which have pursued her all her life. The case appears to be a worthy one.

Who Will Take It?

MISFORTUNE'S DAUGHTER MUST GIVE HER BABY UP.

A LOSING fight against misfortune and poverty has caused Mrs. Joseph Russell, a mother, 18 years old, three years married but without a husband, to decide to give away her handsome baby boy, 10 months old, if she can find a suitable home to receive him. The whole life of the young mother has been crowded with unhappiness. She lives at No. 409 West Third street.

Mrs. Russell came here one year ago from Shawnee, Okla., where she separated from her husband, the son of a wealthy farmer. Her intention was to find a position in the city that would enable her to support herself and her baby. She says that the remuneration for her work has not been sufficient for this purpose. She is earning $8 a week at lunch counter. Her board costs $6 a week, leaving $2 a week for her clothes, miscellaneous expenses and the support of the baby.

Trouble began early in life for Mrs. Russell. Her mother died when she was 1 week old. At the age of 2 months her father abandoned her. She has never heard from him.

"I was having such a hard time when I was 15 years old that I gladly accepted a chance to marry," Mrs. Russell said. "The young man who wanted to marry me was the son of a well-to-do Oklahoma farmer and it looked like a good chance for me to get a pleasant home, but in this, as in all other things in life, I was disappointed.

"My husband, who had been a charming lover, turned out to be very disagreeable after we had been married a few months. We did not get along at all. He left me a few months before the baby was born. There seemed to be no opportunities for me to earn a living in Oklahoma and so I came to Los Angeles.

"I was sick several months after the baby was born and spent all of my money. I thought that when I recovered I could earn enough to take care of both of us, but in this, as usual, I was mistaken. I have thought it all over and it seems to me that as fine a boy as Charles Wilbur ought to have a better chance in the world than I will be able to give him. I reached this decision in tears. I guess if I manage to take care of myself I will be doing pretty well."

Because of the peculiar pathos of the case an effort is being made to persuade the father, now instructor in a high school at Shawnee, to provide for his child. There has been a legal separation, however, and he cannot be forced to do so against his will.

GOLDFIELD PIONEER.

Death of Man Who Followed Gold Excitement with Mule Team and Stock of Groceries.

James Prescott Randall, who died suddenly at his home, No. 2340 West Thirty-first street, on Wednesday, aged 55 years, was quietly laid to rest yesterday afternoon in Rosedale Cemetery, the service being attended by many of his neighbors and friends.

The deceased was a native of Maine and in his time was a familiar figure in the hotel business in Bangor and Augusta. About thirteen years ago he came to Los Angeles and for several years was a dealer in groceries in the city. In 1905, when the gold excitement began in the Bullfrog district, he started for Goldfield with a pair of mules and a load of groceries, going by way of Daggett. He stopped at Beatty and became the pioneer merchant and president of the Gold Gulch Mining Company.

He was in apparent good health last Wednesday when Mrs. Randall left him sitting in the house, but returning shortly afterward, she discovered that he had been suddenly taken apparently by apoplexy, and was dead when she entered the room. He was a man of retiring disposition but his good qualities endeared him to all who knew him. He leaves a widow and two sons in this city, James R. and Carl G. Randall, and two grandchildren.

WHAT IS THE MATTER WITH THE UNITED STATES?

BY HERBERT N. CASSON, IN "ASSOCIATED ADVERTISING."

"What is the matter with the United States?"

As I have been residing in London since the beginning of the war, I have been hearing this question asked on all sides. I have never heard any satisfactory answer. No one seems to know.

Why are the American factories not running night and day? Why are the railroads not opening up new territories and getting ready for the millions of immigrants who have already made up their minds to leave Europe as soon as the war is over?

Why are there not fifty American drummers in London right now, trying to sell $200,000,000 worth of American goods in place of the goods that were bought last year from Germany and Austria?

Why have advertisers become quitters, just at the time when their advertisements were most needed and most effective in cheering on the business forces of the United States?

From the European point of view, the United States is a haven of peace and security and prosperity. It has no troubles that it dare not mention to Belgium or Austria or France or Germany or Servia or Great Britain or Russia.

Every tenth Briton has enlisted. Every tenth Frenchman is at the front. Every tenth Belgian is dead. What does the United States know of trouble?

If I could afford it, I would charter the Mauretania and Lusitania, and convey a party of 5000 American advertisers to Europe for a trip of education. I would give them a week in London, a week in Paris, and a week in Antwerp.

I would let them look at the United States from the scene of war. I would give them a look at REAL TROUBLE. I would let them see trains, ten at a time, five minutes apart, packed with the maimed and the dying.

I would let them hear, from fragmentary survivors, the incredible story of battlefields 150 miles wide, and armies that are greater than the entire population of Texas.

I would let them see graves 100 yards long and full, and Belgium, the country that was, nothing now but 12,000 square miles of wreckage.

Then, when they began to understand, to some slight extent, the magnitude and awfulness of this war, I would say to them:

"Now go back and appreciate the United States. Realize your opportunities. Don't start digging trenches when nobody is firing at you. Don't fall down when you have not been hit. Don't be blind to the most glorious chance you ever had in your life.

"Go back and advertise. Get ready for the most tremendous business boom that any nation ever had. Build your factories bigger. Train more salesmen. Borrow more money. Go ahead, and thank God that you are alive and that your family is alive, and that you are living in a land that is at peace, at a time when nearly the whole world is at war."

Council Kills Election.

partments in one day than you do in a week," retorted Councilman Snowden.

Mr. Conwell, who engineered the election matter in the Council up to yesterday, pointed to the fact that hundreds of persons crowded the chamber as an evidence that there is widespread interest.

"We were elected to represent the people, but we misrepresent them when we deny them the right to vote," he said.

The original "holdouts," Councilmen Betkouski and Snowden, held a levee following the vote at City Hall. They opposed the resolution and remained consistent to the end, finally welcoming with a hurrah the return of President Whiffen and Councilmen Bryant and Williams.

City Attorney Stephens ruled that unless the clock was stopped at noon any action taken after that hour might invalidate the proceedings. Citizens had taken up all the morning with debate and the Council decided to halt the timepiece and skip the lunch hour to get the election matter off its mind for all time.

Dr. Peter Janss opened the debate by stating that he favored the election, because Director Burks asked it.

"He knows more than all the Council put together," said Dr. Janss.

"Haw! Haw!" said the crowd.

"He knows more than all the people in this room," the capitalist continued.

The crowd emitted another guffaw.

"He knows more than the whole city put together," said Dr. Janss. He didn't stay longer to take in any more territory.

CITIZENS TALK.

A. D. Warner spoke against the amendments and George H. Dunlop for them. T. E. Gibbon threatened the Council that if it did not call the election the city will have to pay $4400 a day in interest on the aqueduct bonds for two years without getting a cent of returns because it cannot distribute the water.

"The Council says the people are not intelligent enough to act upon these matters for themselves. Since the people elected this Council, isn't that rather a shameful admission to make?" he asked.

S. C. ("Highline") Graham spoke mainly against the aqueduct water amendment. He said that instead of making it easy to market the city's water the adoption of No. 3 would make it impossible forever to do anything of the kind. H. S. McCallum objected because one amendment will make the city a bond broker, taking up irrigation district bonds with money it derives from the sale of its own.

Proportional representation was bitterly assailed as a log-rolling scheme that would restore partisan politics to city affairs.

"We have spent $180,000 patching our charter," said Mr. McCallum, "and we haven't any relief yet. The election is asked in the interest of big business and big politics."

J. H. Shelton spoke for the election and John Topham spoke against. Secretary Wilson of the Realty Board spoke for the election and said the governing committee of the board favored it.

Ralph L. Criswell favored the election. He said that big contractors who were opposed to the amendments had hired a gallery to come and applaud anti-election speeches.

Mrs. E. K. Foster urged that the election be called and F. W. Miller opposed such action. J. M. Guinn of the Board of Education opposed all the amendments and particularly that which makes the school board appointive.

Lee C. Gates explained that the proposed consolidation of city and county tax offices would more than pay the cost of the election. Bernard Fry saw a vicious combination back of the amendments and warned the Council accordingly. Ben F. Groves delivered a brief oration with a punch in every word, and Alex McKeigan made a short reply favoring the ordinance.

"The women are too busy shopping and the men are too busy getting the money for the women to spend," said one irate taxpayer, "neither will be able to stop long enough to study these things."

"Doc" Haynes appeared early in the morning, but he didn't remain. The action of the Council voted him out of the job of chairman of the committee of 100 on amendments.

The general verdict on the action taken by the Council was that the people are sick of elections, sick of the expense, sick of constant voting, suspicious of the haste, and not in the frame of mind to vote at the holiday season of the year.

LONDON'S FOOD CHEAPER.

Letter Declares Quotations are Settling Back from Rise Caused by Outbreak of War.

Food products in London have returned to almost normal figures, according to a letter received in Los Angeles by Preston McKinney from Theodore Reece, one of the principal grocers of the English metropolis. At the outbreak and immediately after the beginning of the conflict, prices soared to almost unheard-of figures, but these have gradually settled until they are almost as low as during other years at the same season, according to the missive.

"The government," the letter says, "published a list of quotations at their maximum and enforced these prices as far as possible. The principal products were bacon, butter, cheese, lard, margerine and sugar. Bacon then sold at 36 cents a pound and is now back to 24 cents; butter at 36 cents, where it remains; lard at 16 cents, where it remains; margerine at 20 cents, is now 18; sugar at 10 cents and this commodity is now back to 7 cents.

"Rice, beans, biscuits, eggs and dried fruits have fluctuated backward and forward with the supply and demand. There is little fear in this country of an absolute shortage of food, particularly as long as the communication with America can be kept up, many of our staples, such as those mentioned, selling for less this year than in former years and it being merely a matter of securing sufficient transportation facilities to bring them over."

Mr. McKinney states there is a gradual increase in demand for all California food products, particularly for beans and dried fruits, which have gradually advanced in quotations.

Finest Market in the World.

[Pittsburgh Press:] Much is being said about markets abroad. And properly, because we have got a rare chance to capture a lot of them, thus driving more pegs to keep our big tent up. But let us not meanwhile forget what a whale of a home market we have. Adding all we bought from abroad to all we sold abroad last year, the total is not a hundredth part of what we bought and sold among ourselves. It would not amount to a penny on the dollar,

AUTO SERVICE FOR BIG PARK.

FIFTEEN-MINUTE SCHEDULE TO BE STARTED TODAY.

Will Connect with Pacific Electric Cars at Vermont Avenue and Later will Carry Passengers to Ginger Scenic Incline Railway—To Popularize Griffith Park.

Announcement was made at the City Hall yesterday that the auto-bus service is to be used for the greater popularization of Griffith Park. Through arrangements that were closed yesterday, several of the "jitney" busses now holding permits from the city will be transferred to this new line of service. The Griffith Park auto service will start today, on a regular fifteen-minute schedule.

This service has been made possible through the generosity of William Mead, John T. Allen and Col. Griffith J. Griffith, who have felt that some definite movement should be undertaken to more extensively acquaint the people of Los Angeles and its visitors with the beauty of the city's largest park holdings. These men have agreed to donate funds to be used for subsidizing the auto busses until June 15, 1915. Van M. Griffith has been engaged to superintend the service.

The fifteen-minute schedule from Hollywood and Vermont avenues to the main picnic grounds in Griffith Park will be maintained from 8 o'clock in the morning till 5 o'clock in the afternoon. A 10-cent fare will be charged each way. This line will take the passengers to within 100 yards of the municipal golf links and directly to the zoo, which has become an object of much interest.

If the permission of the Park Commission is secured, it is probable that the auto service will be still further extended, so as to have vehicles ready for travel throughout the park, over the scenic driveways only recently completed. It is believed that through this new method of transportation, provided on a regular and dependable schedule, hundreds of people will visit the park daily who now have no conception of its beauties.

If the franchise for the proposed incline railroad is granted to Col. Lewis Ginger, this road will be rushed to completion, and it is a part of the plan for the auto-bus service to have it carry passengers directly to the foot of the incline road. An especial attempt will be made to attract the attention of 1915 visitors to the city's greatest park. The project has the hearty indorsement of various city officials.

NEW HONORS. PROMOTIONS-APPOINTMENTS.

The Fire Commission gave its approval to the action of Fire Chief Eley in making promotions from lieutenancies to captains and in appointment of new members of the department.

The lieutenants promoted to the position of captain included Eugene T. McGann, Ernest Rhoades, Kurt F. Neitzke, Robert H. Welts, Frank O. Edwards, George A. Loebel, Bert M. Blake and Charles J. Howley.

The firemen promoted to the position of lieutenant are Rodney P. Alger, Winston E. Gould, Robert E. Williamson, Eugene H. Enos, William Hoguewood, Edward Dusoe and Victor Eugene Pierret.

The men appointed as firemen are Fred J. Kreis, Cecil V. Brink, Isadore K. Krauss, Harmon G. Piester, John F. Drymon, Joseph J. Trabucco, Fremont H. Cupp, John L. Barber, Walter W. Stephens, Richard Powers Frank C. Lowasser, George P. Mayer, Leo H. Mayer and Royce L. Holser.

THAT INVESTIGATION. LEAGUE TO PROCEED AT ONCE.

After several weeks having elapsed since the Municipal League proposed to make a thorough investigation of the Board of Public Utilities and its work, and the granting of its request that no change be made in the personnel of the board's employees until this report is made, the league has at last concluded to get busy.

This conclusion, however, was not reached until the City Council refused to grant an extension of time until after the charter amendment election and told the league to act at once or drop the subject.

The league sent an official communication to the Council yesterday, stating that it is now prepared to proceed with the investigation. Its maneuvers saved to Chief Engineer Mohler his $300-a-month job for a while longer, anyway. The Board of Public Utilities some time ago voted to abolish the position filled by Mr. Mohler, but it finally granted the requests that he be continued in the service "for a reasonable time."

PUBLIC AFFAIRS. RECORD OF PAST DAY.

Protests against the opening of Sixteenth street between Pacific and Normandie avenues were before the City Council yesterday, and were referred to the City Engineer for checking the frontage represented.

The City Council yesterday adopted the final ordinance for the improvement of Avenue 26, from Griffin avenue to Pasadena avenue.

The application of the Pacific Electric company for a spur track from Ceres avenue on Central avenue to the site of the proposed new building for the Wells-Fargo Express Company was referred by the City Council yesterday to the Board of Public Utilities for its recommendation. The board is asked, at the suggestion of Councilman Roberts, to provide, if possible, for the location of the tracks at the rear of the building.

The Fire Commission as a committee of the whole yesterday began its investigation of the case of Ernest W. Welty, a fireman who was discharged for insubordination, and who appealed to the commission. "Rev." William Francis Ireland was again before the commission yesterday, to represent Welty, but was told that the committee would make its report and he could then take such action as he chose.

The City Council has referred to its Finance Committee the proposal to sell to the city the Lincoln Hotel property, adjoining on the north the fire house on Hill street, near Second street.

The fire loss for the week just closed was $15,295, according to a report submitted to the Fire Commission yesterday by Fire Chief Eley. There were thirty-three fire alarms turned in, of which seven were false, and in eleven cases there was no loss.

The proposals to furnish fire boats and patrol service at the harbor, sent by the City Council to the Fire Commission, were referred by that body yesterday to Fire Chief Eley for a report and recommendation.

Members of the fire department were given a vote of thanks by the Fire Commission yesterday for their earnest efforts in behalf of the benefit for the Children's Hospital.

At the Courthouse.

TOOK OWN LIFE OVER DISGRACE.

ARREST WAS TOO MUCH FOR MANUFACTURER.

Deputy District Attorney Says Self-slayer Planned to Commit Suicide the Day Before—Was Charged with Failure to Provide for Little Daughter.

That the disgrace of his arrest for failure to provide for his daughter, Ida, aged 3 years, was the underlying motive of Daniel M. Leary for committing suicide, is borne out by the statement of Deputy District Attorney Joos. The latter stated yesterday that when Mr. Leary, manufacturer of fire escapes and ornamental iron, appeared in court last Thursday he declared his intention of taking his life.

"I told him to stop joking," said Mr. Joos. "But he went on to say that never before had a member of his family been arrested, and he keenly felt the disgrace."

Judge Monroe released Mr. Leary on his own recognizance and set the case for trial for tomorrow. The following day he took poison, after appearing at the Builders' Exchange apparently without a cloud on his mind.

Mrs. Leary, in applying for a complaint, told Deputy District Attorney Heinecke that she had handled Mr. Leary's business for a time while he was drinking. She also said that he had run through nearly all his money.

ELEVATOR FIGHT. SOME MORE DETAILS.

"Deacon" Anderson, elevator man at the Courthouse, eyewitness of the scrap between Oliver O. Clark and George H. Kelch, attorneys, Friday afternoon, states that when Mr. Clark told Mr. Kelch he lied, the latter gave a lightning right jab. Mr. Clark says that Mr. Kelch did not hit him, because he dodged the blow and rushed into a clinch.

"Mr. Kelch challenged me to fight," said Mr. Clark, "but I am not a fighting man, and I ignored him. I probably shall not do anything in the matter, although I have been met with offers from attorneys to represent me in a suit."

Mr. Kelch says Mr. Clark called him a liar and that's a word he cannot tolerate. He further says he is not afraid of being sued or being the subject of a report to the Bar Association. The matter bids fair to end, although the attorneys will face each other in Judge Taft's court on the 21st. inst., when further argument will be heard in the suit of George C. Ponessa against A. E. Harshman, out of which the encounter in the elevator grew.

Mr. Clark says the question involved is the veracity between his clients and Mr. Kelch's. He states that documents absolutely necessary to prove his contention, have been stolen. The court, he says, was inclined to believe his client, and that made Mr. Kelch sore.

Mr. Kelch says there was no evidence that the papers were stolen and that the matter is open for argument. The court did make an order tending to support Mr. Clark's contention, he said, but continued the case for argument.

"Deacon" Anderson answered many queries about the fight yesterday.

"Why didn't you interfere?" was one of them. "You are a six-footer."

"Who; me?" replied the "Deacon." "I'm running the elevator."

HINDUSTANI GREEK. THAT IS, TO REPORTER.

E. C. Thompson, stenographer in Judge McCormick's court, who is reporting the Boland-Tufts suit for attorney's fees, pulled off a stunt which would indicate that shorthand has no limitations.

Jorham Tufts, Jr., was shown a letter written in Hindustani and asked to read it. Being acquainted with the language from long service as a missionary in India, Mr. Tufts read the letter in sonorous tones. Mr. Thompson jotted down a lot of hen tracks.

During recess a juror remarked:

"I'll bet you can't read that Hindu stuff."

"I'll bet I can," replied Mr. Thompson, and to the amazement of the juror and the attorneys in the case, Mr. Thompson repeated the Hindustani.

"That's fine," remarked Mr. Tufts, also a spectator. "You have got it perfectly."

"Yes," retorted Mr. Thompson, "but it's all Greek to me."

COURT PARAGRAPHS. PROCEEDINGS IN BRIEF.

CASE STILL ON. Argument in the suit of Joseph Mesmer against the city of Los Angeles attacking the validity of the street improvement act of 1913, growing out of the lowering of the floor of the North Broadway tunnel and the change in the grade of Hill and California streets will be resumed tomorrow afternoon. Attorney Walter, for Mr. Mesmer, closed his argument at noon yesterday in Judge Myers's court. He quoted much law and elucidated his twenty reasons why the act is invalid. The city and the contractor will be heard in argument by Deputy City Attorney James and former Judge Bordwell tomorrow afternoon.

QUIET TITLE SUIT. The city of Santa Monica brought a quiet-title action yesterday against Abbott Kinney, R. F. Fraser and G. M. Jones to property which the city is seeking to acquire for a public park. This land adjoins the Promenade at Venice, and the defendants claim an interest in it.

CHANGES HIS PLEA. Ralf F. Windsor, former night watchman, who pleaded guilty to contributing and asked for probation, changed his plea in the Juvenile Court yesterday to not guilty and his trial was set for January 7. The girl in the case had formerly been acquainted with Windsor, and their friendship was renewed when she came to this city. He is married, but is not living with his wife.

UNDER THE LAW.

The Society of American Indians has asked to have laws passed especially for the government of their own people. We suggest that the inadequate laws of the pale faces would be sufficient even for red men if they were fully obeyed; but perhaps the reds have heard that nothing is less interesting that being a good Indian.

A WICKED WORLD.

At least it is becoming very cruel. At San Francisco two girls used force on a pair of burglars, and at Naco President Wilson threatens to fire on the Mexicans if they do not cease firing upon the American part of the town. The country is getting so squeamish that a bus driver cannot run down a pedestrian without having somebody raise a protest.

A FRESH HORROR.

It has been our painful duty to expose the fact that possibly Richard Croker did not marry a Cherokee princess, but only a plain Indian girl. We trust that this will not start any lamentable domestic complications. Mr. Croker should remember by way of consolation that every man who marries a real woman weds a queen, and it is his business to see that she is forever after held upon love's glory throne.

IDLE TEARS.

Once upon a time tears were woman's strongest weapon. That they are so no longer is a wonderful tribute to the stronger personality of both sexes. Since women are now the true helpmates of men, they no longer attempt to rule them with the weapons of weakness. Women with personalities don't weep, except alone. In great grief they cannot cry. Weeping in solitude restores the balance of the soul, but the easy weeper has never a strong personality.

Idle tears belong to weakness and sentimentality. Tears that are red with the sweat of anguish are never seen and never spoken of. It requires a trained will-power and genuine emotion to hold back the tears that gather in the eyes, a stronger will-power than that that carries the soldier through a rain of bullets.

CITY AND COUNTRY.

The old saying, "God made the country and man made the town," has led to a general impression that rural existence is generally more virtuous than town life. A Bible student once argued that because Judas Iscariot was city bred and ten of his colleagues were agriculturists and fishermen, therefore nine-tenths of the world's misery is today manufactured in the cities. A townsman is not necessarily a Judas, nor is a countryman always a Peter or a John. But it is easier to learn deceit in crowded surroundings than in the large open spaces of nature.

Per capita the proportion of crime is about equal for urban and rural districts, per square yard it is vastly against the morality of the city. Sea and soil teach truth. Streets emphasize the artificial, and "artificial" is akin to "artifice." Nature, the sea, the mountain, large horizons broaden the mind and elevate the soul.

A CURIOUS FACT.

Margaret Anglin, who is a capable producer as well as a bright actress, Florence Stone of Los Angeles and half a dozen clever women of the American stage were graduated from the Montreal convent. It seems to be a fact that convents have developed more actresses than almost any of the other schools, including those given up entirely to the drama and expression. Perhaps this is due to the fact that parents who follow this profession often send their children to a convent because they feel perfectly safe about them. They do this regardless of church preference. Frederick Warde is an Episcopalian, but his big family of charming girls are all convent bred. Another influence is the attention which the convents pay to amateur theatricals as a matter of entertainment for the girls. They produce the same plays year in and year out and accumulate a fine stock of accurate costumes and stage properties. In this way the girls who have a talent for the stage have a chance to develop it and they acquire a nice appreciation for correct stage values.

CHANGE THE NAVIGATION LAWS.

Before the war in Europe changed conditions, the rates of freight on high-grade cargoes, such as laces, ribbons, silks, etc., from New York to Central and South American ports were $9.94 per ton higher than from Liverpool or Havre, although the distance is 1000 miles less. On cotton goods, domestic linens, etc., the rate was $7.30 per ton higher; on canned goods, $9.82 per ton higher; on edible cargoes, such as crackers, meal, flour, sugar and so forth, $3.82 per ton higher.

On shipments from these ports to the United States the rates to the United States were, on coffee, $3 to $3.80 per ton higher than to Europe, 1000 miles further; on sugar, $5.43 higher; on hides and skins, $13.30 per ton higher.

This difference is due in part to the greater cost of building and running American-built ships, and in part to the vexatious provisions of our navigation laws. We have remedied these conditions in part by allowing American registry of foreign-built ships. Now then let Congress remove the only remaining obstruction to the restoration of American shipping by making the necessary changes in the navigation laws.

BUSINESS BETTER.

Business conditions grow better daily. As Henry Clews puts it: "Only two things stand in the way of a sharp recovery—business depression at home and the war abroad."

One might think that these two factors were quite too important to be overcome readily, and yet the orders that are coming in to the leading business houses of the country show that there is a very marked tendency toward business recovery. How far it will go remains to be seen, of course, but with all our rivals in manufacturing busy with the war, our outlook must be regarded as particularly good. Cheerful symptoms in Los Angeles are the reopening of the railroad shops, the starting of new industries and the big demand for our products.

There were symptoms of evil before the war began, as Mr. Clews points out, evidenced by declining bank clearings, lessened railroad earnings, increase in unemployment, decrease in values, and so on.

The business interests of our country cannot help being promoted by the situation abroad until after a reaction comes, owing to the destruction of capital that is going on. While millions of men are under arms, there must be a drawing upon the industries of those who are still at peace, in order to supply the wants of the people, even though capital is consumed at an enormous rate without reproduction on a corresponding scale.

That, of course, is the view to take from an international standpoint, but as far as American business is concerned, we cannot help being favored in every way, owing in part to the huge crops of the year and in part to the increasing demand for labor, which must reduce the army of the unemployed and perhaps leave it at only ordinary proportions before many weeks are passed.

The reopening of the New York Stock Exchange is conducted in a wise way, being a method of partial resumption, increasing as the business warrants. Some of the smaller exchanges are opening without restrictions, but the great stock market of the country is in New York and there is no desire on the part of the managers of that exchange to run the risk of having vast quantities of securities returned from abroad to be thrown on the market at any price, for that would demoralize the prices of stocks held at home as well as those held abroad.

The country is certain to gain confidence with the opening of the various exchanges and with the knowledge that circumstances are making business better. We only need to keep up our courage and to go right ahead, full steam up, with enterprises in hand for both domestic and foreign trade.

THE STOMACH ACHE AND THE RAILROADS.

It is a distressing thing to be a railroad these days. Everybody is after it with a club. If the President doesn't whack it with a special message, the Interstate Commerce Commission makes a sharp decision that shaves off the profits. Now comes an expensive prima donna with the stomach ache, alleging that the railroad caused the gastronomic disturbance which began in New York and accompanied her with the tenacity of a shadow until arriving in Los Angeles. The small sum of $50,000 is requested as an indemnity. The railroad is alleged to have furnished forth the ingredients of the ache which Madame consumed in the dining-car. We deeply sympathize with Madame. We have had the stomach ache; but, sorrowful to relate, it was never acquired under circumstances that would warrant so princely a valuation. And if Madame can get a court to agree with her, we are sure that many people will hasten to the dining-car and experiment with every strange and potentially painful dish in the hope of being able to truthfully swear to a complaint similar to Madame's. The government prosecutors have accustomed the railroads to making payments of damages to a degree that one may expect to find the aforesaid railroads so intimidated as to be almost gracious in giving away thousands to alleviate the mental anguish of having to ride on the train with an ache in the innards. It is almost as bad as having to occupy a top berth with a fat companion.

TOYS AND FOOD.

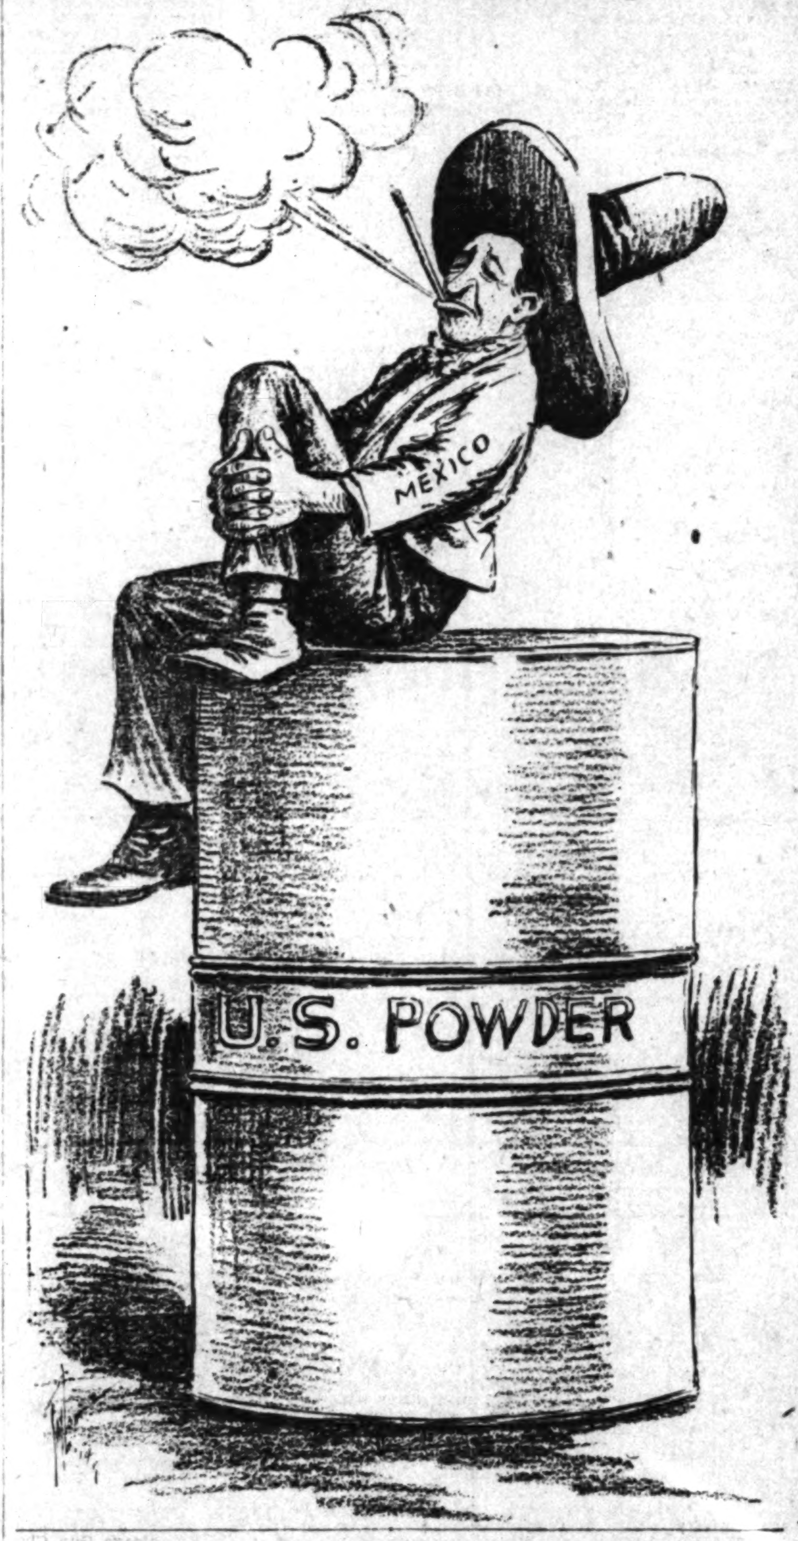
Indignation over the sending of a carload of toys to the children of stricken Europe has been expressed by some hypercritical recipients of America's voluntary bounty. A certain Miss Evelyn Falkner in particular has compared this warm-hearted action of the children of America with the suggestion of Marie Antoinette, when told there was no bread for starving Paris, that the people be fed on cake.

This philanthropic worker also characterizes the sending of toys to desolated homes as "mock sentimentality" and talks of the "misguiding spirit of their elders which turned youthful enthusiasm into such channels." There is an old saying that you should not look a gift horse in the mouth, yet these critics would look the good ship Jason in the hold and find fault with the cargo, because it had not been made up according to their specifications.

Had a shipload of toys been all that America contributed to the starving people of Belgium there would indeed have been a cruel irony in filling childish hands with playthings while their mouths were crying for food. But generous supplies of provisions in immense quantities preceded the toy ship to the victims of the European war. The Jason was just a Christmas supplement to the general contribution. No mother, and certainly no child, will see any "mock sentimentality" in trying to brighten the Christmas season in a thousand cheerless homes by adding to the Christmas meal these small remembrances of happier seasons past, these promises of brighter years to come.

Moreover, we may be sure that the toys will not be distributed among the children till their more pressing creature comforts have been first attended to. The very presence of these toys in the countries where they have been unloaded will spur on the charitably-inclined to see that every child to whom one of them is sent is first fully fed and warmly clad. The most callous would not dare to put toys into the hands of a starving child. But having the toys to distribute, any man or woman would feel a sense of duty in seeing that recipients of them were first in a proper condition to enjoy the gifts.

Don't Start Anything!



A toy may be as much comfort to a fatherless child as the chance to criticise is to some childless philanthropic workers. Even the really charitable sometimes show strange streaks of selfishness in demanding that the love must be shown only as seems right in their own narrow range of vision. A toyless child at Christmas may be as pathetic a sight in the eyes of some good people as a dinnerless man or woman is in the sympathies of others.

If it is incongruous to send Christmas gifts to hungry children the fault lies with the nations who caused the bread winners to be slaughtered, so rendering the children hungry and toyless. Complaints come with a bad grace from them to the people who are trying first to reduce the hunger and afterward to supply some toys. The enthusiasm with which the Jason was received in every port is the best answer to the assertion that the charity which equipped it could have been put to better uses.

These adverse critics say that the money spent for toys might have bought considerable food, clothes and medicines. So it might. And we remember when the woman broke a precious vial to anoint the Christ his disciples grumbled and said: "To what purpose is this waste? For the ointment might have been sold for much and given to the poor."

ENGLISH AND GERMAN OPTIMISM.

Premier Asquith in a speech at the Lord Mayor's banquet at the Guildhall declared that the sword of Great Britain shall not be sheathed before Belgium has recovered more than she has sacrificed, nor until France is adequately protected against all menaces, nor until the rights and independence of small nations are placed on unassailable foundations, and German military domination finally destroyed.

That is rather a large order that Mr. Asquith has taken. He may be able to deliver the goods and then again he may not.

Four months of the fiercest and most extensive war known to ancient or modern history seem not to have daunted the spirit of the German people or lessened their purpose to fight to a finish. In a recent issue the Frankfurter Zeitung says that of all the belligerents Germany has had the most success and is suffering less from the war. It warns its readers not to be deceived by any simulated optimism on the part of the allies. It says: "The desire to win, the spirit of glad self-sacrifice, and the absence of despondency among the people at home are the most powerful source of strength for our brethren in the field—a source of strength as important as the supply of fresh troops, commissariat arrangements, and the provision of arms and ammunition. Therefore, as must be said again and again, every one who stimulates anxiety by his own weakness or by thoughtless repetition of gossip and rumors is doing harm and is guilty of treason to the cause of the Fatherland and its defense. It is no empty phrase, but a description of the innermost source of the strength of the people, when we say that we must win and will win, and that, while we must and will win, we shall win."

It is announced that the Panama-Pacific Exposition in San Francisco will be open on time and complete in every detail. If this proves true, a record will have been smashed

CAN'T FOOL COLORADO AGAIN.

Outside of California there was no State in the Union where the Progressive politicians made so much noise and claimed so much strength as in Colorado, and in no part of the Union did they strike the earth with such a dull, sickening thud as in the Centennial State.

At the election November 3 last, the voters went to the polls upon the sole and direct issue of law enforcement. The candidate on the Republican ticket canvassed the State from boundary line to boundary line, stating that he would enforce the law to the limit, and that was the main issue.

The candidate on the Democratic ticket, ex-United States Senator, and the candidate on the Progressive ticket both took the opposite course. They promised exceedingly mild enforcement of law to farmers, and disregard or evasion of law to the striking miners. At Denver they said the law must be respected. At Cripple Creek and Leadville they said: "Strike, brothers, strike; down with all predatory capitalists who oppose the closed shop." At Trinidad they said: "Hurrah for Waite," who promised to ride up to his horse's bridle in the blood of loathsome millionaires.

As a result, the Republican ticket was elected by a majority of more than 42,000 votes, and a plurality of about 6000 votes over both the Democratic and Progressive tickets.

You can't fool all of the people of Colorado all of the time.

THE PRICE OF COLIC.

A lady who sings is making a stomach ache the basis of a $50,000 damage suit. Most of us have endured this kind of torture without finding it worth 5 cents, however much we might have been willing to pay to get rid of it at the time.

RIPPLING RHYMES.

FRAIL HUMANITY.

Alas, we are but sorry critters, we human beings, one and all; we do our best, we are not quitters, but our results seem beastly small. You know how earnestly we swatted, all through the stifling summer days, and many a peck of flies we potted, and reveled in your well-earned praise. With patient zeal and purpose sober we carried on our endless quest, from early June until October we slew the flies and took no rest. With hardly time to eat our dinner we soaked the flies from sun to sun; but were their legions any thinner for all the swatting we had done? Perhaps some highbrow statistician might prove there was a million less than when, with high and pure ambition, we started out—but that's a guess. Worn out by weary months of slaughter, we rest at last, our muscles lame; and then Dame Nature takes her swatter, and shows us how to play the game. She sends some weather cold and foggy, or springs a frost that paints things white, and lo! the flies are rendered groggy—a hundred billion in a night! When Nature does her wholesale killing, man looks as helpless as a doll; he does his best, his heart is willing, but his results are cheap and small.

SOME LETTERS FOR SANTA.

BY EUGENE BROWN.

Works for Uncle Sam.

Dear Santa Claus: Please do not forget our number this Christmas. We live in the big white house at the head of the street—the one with the fat chimney. I have got to work hard for my Uncle Samuel for two years more and he keeps me as busy as a one-armed pallbearer at a holocaust. I don't get much time to myself. When I do have any I like to play school and the boys always have me for teacher. If they don't have their lessons well I keep them after recess or take away their pie for lunch. I wish you would bring me a set of rubber Congressmen made out of wood in a stone quarry. I want them mounted on rollers so that they will lie down, roll over or jump through a hoop when I crack a whip or press a spring. We are watchfully waiting for your coming and wish you would also fetch me a hairless Mexican dog. They bark worse than they bite, but I will call him Huerta and kick him when he makes a noise. I wish you would also bring me a new platform to stand on when I work. The one I had has been all shot to pieces. So no more at present.

Your friend,
W—DR—W W—LS—N.

Willie and His Cross.

Dear Santa Claus: We are dreadful poor and need so many things this year. I have hardly anything to live on except about $45,000 a year, and you know, Santa, that that is not much to support a growing child. It takes a heap of money to keep a boy orator going in the corn belt. My chums tell me I look like Lincoln, but they mean Lincoln, Neb., where the clouds have a silver lining. I am awfully fond of grape juice and wish you could send us a few barrels in case of sickness. Also I would like a cash register to take with me when I go out on the road entertaining people with my wonderful juvenile statesmanship. You can't be too careful about these money matters. Somebody unloaded a plugged quarter on me at Zanesville a year ago last Tuesday. I wish you would give me a gold cross for a watch charm. I had a silver one but it got tarnished from exposure and I am ashamed to wear it. I also want a celluloid ship with the name Piffle painted on it. I want it so that I can sail it round, and round, and round. I once had a little calf named Piffle and I want something to remember it by. Also I could use some white handkerchiefs. They are not only good to keep your nose clean but are handy for Chautauqua salutes. This is all I can think about today.

The Boy Basso.

Dear Santa Claus: When you come out our way whistle or make a noise like a goat and I will come up on the roof and milk your reindeer. It is important you should bring some new gunboats with shooting cannon on them. Mike Adoo, the Japanese boy who lives across the creek from me has a lot of ships to play with and I want some better ones than his. I also want some iron soldiers that carry guns on their shoulders. Be sure and bring me a tin sword and a book of kissing games. Although I am a mere child I am raising a bass voice and when I put on a sheet and make a noise like Hamlet's father it pretty near scares Aunt Philopena into fits. So be a good boy and you will grow up into a good man. Kindly yours,

A Speaker Speaks.

Dear Santa Claus: We had almost given up hopes of your coming as we suppose you cannot find Missouri. But I will hang up my stockings in Washington and 'most anybody can tell you where that is. Can you give me a map and guide book to Baltimore. I got lost there once and I don't want it to happen again. I also want a book with pieces in it so that I can speak. The boys I am with say I am a good speaker, but I notice they never let me speak. They want to talk all the time and I just have to sit still and listen to them. Oh, yes, Santa, I want a folding bed so that Willie Bryan can sleep with me when he comes to our house. We are having a rather hard winter and hope you are carrying a good pack. From your little friend.

CH—MP CL—K.

An Elastic Currency.

Dear Santa Claus: Beg your pardon, mister, but when you are out our way I wish you would bring me a big iron bank. I want one made so that I can take the pennies out and spend them and then leave it where uncle can fill it up again. I had one once that I couldn't get a nickel out without using a hatchet. I got the money all right but there wasn't much left of the bank when I got through. What's the use of money until it's spent, anyhow? You know me, Santa.

W—LL—M G. M—AD—O.

Santa Has a Chance.

Dear Santa Claus: In these progressive times it is right we should stick close together. You and I should make a good team—especially if you can arrange to deliver the goods. Lots of the boys are expecting something nice and if I can't take care of them you can. I think this is very thoughtful of me and I hope you can grasp the opportunity afforded you. By the way, I think we should give Frank Heney a burglar-proof muzzle. He is about due for another explosion and we should hate to have it take place on the reservation. There's Jack Eshleman, now. He's got his and doesn't need a blooming thing. All I need is a State Legislature, a Presidential nomination and plenty of room to breathe in. That'll be about all.

H—R—M J—HNS—N.

A Shocking Stocking.

Dear Santa Claus: I am a poor working girl with no place to live except seven or eight homes I own. When I go to a strange town I have to stop at a $10-a-day hotel and I have hardly anything to eat or drink except angel food and champagne. I am borrowing a stocking from the janitor to hang up. My own is so small and torn that it would hardly hold anything but a bunch of raisins. I would like an oil stove, a pearl necklace, a box of sardines, a coupon cutter and two thousand dollar's worth of lost beauty sleep. Never mind the rest of the family as long as you come and see me. Yours for health.

HOW SHALL "JITNEY" MENACE BE HANDLED?

SMASHING their crazed way through the traffic in the scramble for nickels, the jitney busses operating in this city, according to the police reports, are responsible in a single month for two deaths, forty persons injured, and seventy accidents in which no one was injured, but property loss sustained. The grand total was 112 accidents in November.

Throughout November person after person was carried into the Receiving Hospital as the result of the slaughter-house methods of the bus drivers. Few of the injured persons were given the attention of the driver or owner of the busses for more than a few minutes, and then the scramble after the coins would be on again.

Police detectives, uniform men and the traffic officers, enforcing the law to the best of their ability during the entire month, were forced to neglect their other duties to watch the jitney drivers. Many times the officers had to search for the bus drivers who had run down pedestrians, as in many cases they refused to stop even after having knocked some one to the pavement.

Over 1000 busses running on the public streets of the city and carrying from five to ten passengers in excess of their capacity, regulated in no manner by the law, and paying little attention to traffic rules, form, the police declare, one of the most serious menaces to life and property that has ever presented itself to this city.

Of course not all the jitney operators are reckless or irresponsible. On the contrary, there are many careful, conscientious men among them trying to serve the public to the best of their ability and make a fair income for themselves. These suffer through the actions of the rougher element that has taken hold of the business with the sole object of grabbing every possible nickel.

According to the police and other officials who have averaged the number of persons traveling by bus upon the streets in one day, 25,000 risk their lives with no protection. Persons seeking to collect from the owners for injuries sustained while riding in one of the automobiles would be unable to do so, according to the police, for the reason that a large proportion of the drivers are paying for their automobiles on time and have no income except that derived from the cars they drive. Pedestrians are menaced even more, and have no recourse when hit.

Added to the danger of accidents some of the jitney bus drivers have, according to many complaints received by the police, developed a brand new bunco game. Explained by the police the bunco game is played by the drivers when they find upon reaching a point many blocks from their destination that they are carrying only one or two passengers. Stopping the car the driver complains that something has gone wrong with the machine and that they can go no farther. As soon as the unfortunate victim alights and starts on his weary walk of many blocks, the driver turns back for another load of passengers. And there are other tricks also.

Reports received at the Central Station indicate that unloading of passengers before the destination is reached is carried on mostly by busses running between First and Main streets and Fifty-eighth and Moneta. Plainclothes officers have been stationed near the half-way stop of these busses to compel the drivers to carry their passengers to the end of the "line."

Overloading the busses in spite of the complaints of the passengers already in the car is another feature of the business which has been brought to the attention of the police. Little machines designed to carry only five passengers are used by most of the persons engaged in the bus business. From ten to a dozen persons are crowded into and on the little cars during the rush hour. No matter how bitter the complaints may be from the persons already in the automobile the drivers insist upon loading to the limit. Unable to handle the overburdened machines, many of the drivers come to grief against the curb or other automobiles and street cars.

Although the bus drivers have formed an organization to which a considerable number of them belong, and rules have been drawn up by a committee of bus drivers and owners with which to regulate all busses operating, none of the rules has been adopted by any of the drivers outside of the committee-room. On the street all rules seem to be laid aside, as would appear from the large number of persons injured.

"What is to be done to regulate the bus traffic?"

This is the question asked of the City Council by Chief of Police Sebastian and Traffic Lieutenant Butler.

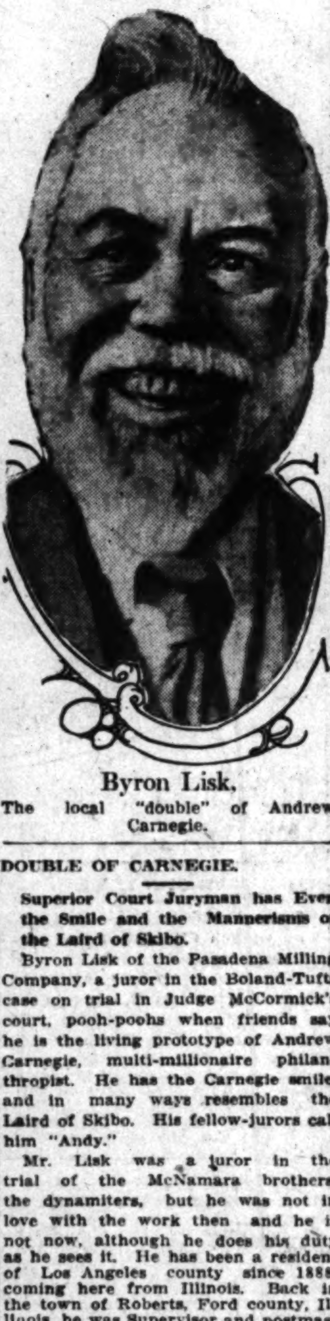
Rules have been drawn up by Lieut. Butler and recommendations have been made by the Chief, but still the jitney busses are sending their long list of injured to the Receiving Hospital daily. No protection is given persons who use the busses or pedestrians and others on the streets, where they operate.

"Someting must be done to force the busmen to drive their little cars with some regard for the traffic laws and also some plan must be adopted making certain corners regular stops for the busses," said Chief Sebastian last night. "As it is, the bus drivers stop their automobiles where and when they please, and in doing this hold up all traffic behind them. If regular stops are arranged for the busses and the drivers compelled to stop their cars at the regular stations only the traffic in the downtown districts will know what to expect and no trouble will be had by the traffic men on the corners.

"A very close examination should be given each applicant for a license to drive a bus. A short time ago a driver of a bus had an accident in which a pedestrian was injured. Upon arriving at the Police Station the driver of the bus was found to be unable to speak or read or write English.

"In the future when any one presents himself at the station for a license to drive a bus one of my traffic officers will be sent with him through the business section of the city and will observe his driving. If the officer is satisfied with the man's driving then he shall have his license.

"All we wish to do is to regulate the traffic in such a manner that every one will be protected. We will protect the bus driver and owner as well as the passenger and pedestrian. Because of the growth of the bus business we are forced to take some kind of action, and through the police department the City Council will be asked to take action at once and establish some kind of rules which must be followed by the bus drivers."



Byron Lisk,
The local "double" of Andrew Carnegie.

DOUBLE OF CARNEGIE.

Superior Court Juryman has Even the Smile and the Mannerisms of the Laird of Skibo.

Byron Lisk of the Pasadena Milling Company, a juror in the Boland-Tufts case on trial in Judge McCormick's court, pooh-poohs when friends say he is the living prototype of Andrew Carnegie, multi-millionaire philanthropist. He has the Carnegie smile, and in many ways resembles the Laird of Skibo. His fellow-jurors call him "Andy."

Mr. Lisk was a juror in the trial of the McNamara brothers, the dynamiters, but he was not in love with the work then and he is not now, although he does his duty as he sees it. He has been a resident of Los Angeles county since 1888, coming here from Illinois. Back in the town of Roberts, Ford county, Illinois, he was Supervisor and postmaster and always a staunch Republican.

More than one person entering Judge McCormick's court since the Boland-Tufts case was called, has glanced twice at the jolly-faced, gray-whiskered man sitting on the end seat, wondering how Andrew Carnegie came to be a juror here.

WOMAN CITIZEN OR JUST ALIEN?

SHE MARRIES AN AMERICAN BUT IS ARRESTED AS AN UNDESIRABLE.

An interesting question involving the right of an alien woman to become an American citizen is presented in the habeas corpus proceedings instituted by H. S. Bettinger, a railroad man of Bakersfield, in behalf of his wife, nee Louise de Young, who has been apprehended by Immigration Officer Albert L. Anderson on the charge that she is an undesirable alien and subject to deportation. The writ is made returnable before Judge Bledsoe in the United States District Court, tomorrow, but the argument will not follow until later, the proceedings of that day being limited to fixing the bond of the woman.

On November 16, last, the accused became the wife of Bettinger, and on that same day registered as a Democrat in Bakersfield, giving her residence at No. 1836 R street. It is claimed on her part that by marrying an American citizen she also becomes a citizen, and is therefore not liable to deportation, but is naturalized through the citizenship of her husband. The provision of the law that says: "Any woman who is now or may hereafter be married to a citizen of the United States, who might herself be lawfully naturalized, shall be deemed a citizen," is depended on to assist the petitioner, it being claimed that the prohibition as to citizenship only applies to racial bars sinister, such as being a Chinese, etc.

The government will rest its contention on the quoted section, but will claim that a woman who for any reason may not become an American citizen, cannot become eligible to such citizenship by marrying an American citizen. In the case at bar, it will be argued that the woman, on account of the charges against her, never could become a citizen, and that the fact that she married an American does not relieve her of the disability. She is now listed as an alien charged with an offense that will send her out of the country. It is understood that the specific allegation against her, forming the foundation of the proposed deportation proceedings, is that she has been connected with the management and control of a house of ill-fame in Bakersfield.

It is the first time in this jurisdiction that the question has been raised.

BACK-EAST GIFTS PLEASE.

Boxes of Choice California Food Luxuries Made Up in Tasteful Form Grow in Popularity.

For several seasons an ideal California gift has been gaining in favor and in representative value until now it has become the essence of Southland remembrances.

The fruits of California, crystallized, conserved, evaporated and preserved —raisins most regal of their kind, figs and nuts, olives, ripe or stuffed, dates filled with nut meats, the golden oranges of our fair land—each, two or more combined, or all together in a delectable concourse of epicurean delights and so packaged as to form a beauteous greeting to the eye, this is what has helped more, perhaps, than anything sent out in the way of literature to acquaint the East with the charms of California.

These delightful gift boxes, which have become more attractive and perfect from year to year, originated with H. Jevne & Co., and this house is sending out an immense number this year. Other dealers were not slow to profit by the example and a great business is done here in this line, and there is no Christmas gift that could be more pleasing to Eastern friends or so completely satisfactory to the sender. It is the bestowal of a bit of real California sunshine.

DEDICATION OF NEW SANATORIUM.

CEREMONIES TODAY AT PLANT OF JEWISH CONSUMPTIVE RELIEF BODY.

A special train, to leave by the Santa Fe at 11 o'clock this morning, will carry many persons to the dedication today of the tents on the ten-acre sanatorium tract of the Jewish Consumptive Relief Association at Duarte. The train will stop at Pasadena and arrive at Duarte at 12 o'clock.

The ceremonies at the grounds will include a programme of merit, with speakers of ability, music and games. Among participants will be Rabbi Isidore Myers, B. Cohn, president of the association, and Dr. H. Sugarman, president of the day.

The association, with a membership of more than 1500 and auxiliaries numbering 500 persons, has in the two years of its existence made a reality of its undertaking to fight the spread of disease. On the ten-acre tract in the Monrovia foothills it has installed a water system and has erected buildings for temporary use in which fourteen patients are now being treated. The institutional buildings planned will be among the finest in the country.

TRI-STATE GOOD ROADS.

Executive Secretary Comes from San Francisco to Recruit Members of the Association.

George E. Boos, executive secretary of the Tri-State Good Roads Association, with headquarters in San Francisco, has come to Los Angeles—the municipality of the loose pursestring—in search of members for the association. The object is declared to be the promotion of lateral good roads between the rural districts and the main highways leading to the markets of the larger cities. Los Angeles county already has the improved laterals leading from every possible direction into the city, the citizens of the county having paid between $3,000,000 and $4,000,000 for them, and they are justly proud of seeing their county standing at the head.

They can, however, by becoming members of this association, assist other counties and other States in reaching the same high degree of perfection in road-making. The directors of the association are Walter Coggeshall, president, Eureka; W. S. Worder, treasurer, Klamath Falls, Or.; Geoffrey Winslow, engineer, Tacoma; J. H. Albert, Salem; George E. Boos, secretary, San Francisco. The annual convention will be held in San Francisco, August 2 and 3, 1915. During his stay in this city Mr. Boos is making headquarters at the Westminster Hotel.

Chicago will very likely hold the 1915 grand American handicap shoot. The Chicago Gun Club plans to hold the blue ribbon event for trap shooters in Grant Park.

Yale's football receipts this year are expected to foot up $100,000.

POLITICAL TIPS.

The defeat of Gov. Glynn of New York has raised the question of whether the labor vote can be controlled in the interests of any candidate or in the defeat of any person believed to be hostile to the interests of organized labor. At the time of election Ernest Bohm, secretary of the Central Federated Union of New York, discussed in an interview the labor vote of the State, and said he believed it would be true to its pledge to support the Governor. The Governor was defeated, and the labor vote therefore was cast as the individual voter felt or else the labor vote, if concentrated on a candidate, is of such small effect as to have no influence on an election.

The Cleveland Plain Dealer calls attention to the effect of the stay-away vote on the election results in Ohio. In one county a judge was elected by three votes; in one Congressional district the successful nominee received a plurality of seventy-three votes; in another district the successful candidate for Congress had a plurality of ninety-nine votes, and another one of 110 votes. A comparison of the vote cast with the number of voters registered showed many stay-away voters, who, if they had gone to the polls, might have materially changed the above results. Nevertheless the Republicans were the gainers and will have thirteen members in the next Congress as against nine Democratic members.

Champ Clark, Speaker of the House of Representatives, made a sorry spectacle of himself during an address before the Board of Commerce of Detroit on the 2nd inst., as the result of having been around with his friends, and the lights had to be turned out in order to cause him to terminate his address, which had become maudlin. In an interview the next day he explained his condition as being the result of a nervous breakdown due to his disappointment over the action of the Baltimore convention. As the convention was held about two and one-half years ago, the nervous breakdown has been pretty slow in getting in its work.

Recently Dr. Sanaye Takata, president of the Waseda University, Japan, called upon Secretary of State Bryan in Washington to convey Count Okuma's greetings. Mr. Bryan in return recalled the fact that when he met Count Okuma he was himself a defeated candidate for the Presidency and Count Okuma was an "out." Now, he said, the Count is a Prime Minister and I am something of that nature.

Vice-President Marshall is evidently more thin-skinned than some of the other members of the administration who go about delivering lectures for pay. In reply to recent criticism he said he did not think that the people of the country cared whether he was paid or not for his lectures, but they did care whether he was on his job as presiding officer of the United States Senate. "I was on the job when that body adjourned and I shall be there when it convenes on Monday." He was true to his word and was on the job last Monday. Some of the other Chautauqua speakers who go and come from Washington as they please, regardless of the work in front of them, might see in the Vice-President's reply a pretty sharp criticism.

The story comes from Washington that Mr. Bryan seeks to force prohibition into the Democratic campaign in 1916 as a paramount issue. The party would be supposed to adopt issues recommended by Mr. Bryan with a great deal of reluctance. He forced the free and unlimited coinage of silver at a ratio of 16 to 1 and the Democratic party went down to defeat. Another issue he forced was imperialism, and there was another Waterloo for the Democracy. If experience of the past counts for anything, the Democratic party will refuse to take any more paramount issues from Mr. Bryan.

While in Detroit last week Speaker Clark permitted himself to be interviewed and in the course of his remarks said the Republican party should nominate Congressman Mann of Illinois for the Presidency in 1916 and paid him this tribute: "I always thought I was the most industrious man on earth until I met Congressman Mann. He is the most industrious, persistent and pestiferous man I ever met. He is the ablest parliamentarian, too. I am Speaker of the House of Representatives, not only in fact but in name, and I get more information and trouble out of Mann than out of all the rest of the people."

DID SANTA CLAUS MISS HIS DATES?

THIS MAN LOOKS LIKE HIM; CHILDREN LAY SIEGE TO HIS HOTEL.

The children along West Seventh street are greatly excited. They fear Santa Claus has become absent-minded, and has arrived two weeks too soon. At least someone has bungled badly in the arrangement of his itinerary.

The alarm came when Robert W. Burgess, a wealthy manufacturer of Toledo, O., arrived at the Balboa Hotel for the winter. In appearance he is prosperous and jovial. His beard is long and white, his face red and full, and his stomach is not outdone by his face in reaching goodly proportions.

Because of a cold that he contracted on his journey here, Mr. Burgess affects a heavy knit article of apparel called a "comfort," a bulky and highly-colored affair that loops about his throat to protect it from all exposure. Its length is so generous that it hangs in a fold over his shoulders. A young imagination might mistake it for a pack.

In the morning he goes out to take a walk. At the same hour, mothers and maids in charge of a great variety of children are also taking strolls. The day he first went out, Mr. Burgess was detected as Santa Claus by a startled youngster. When the boy's mother denied that the pedestrian was the famous and historic annual visitor, the boy became skeptical, for the appearance was absolute.

He told other children. The following morning more were present to view the distinguished suspect, and daily they have increased their number until the district for blocks on each side of Seventh street has been drained of its child population during the hour when the portly Mr. Burgess takes his stroll.

A young girl was the first who dared put the identity of Mr. Burgess to the test.

"Is you Tanta Claus?" the little girl asked him with a terrific assembly of nerve and daring.

Mr. Burgess laughed loudly. "No," he said, "but I would like to be if I could have such little friends as you."

Then he gave the girl a tremendous bag of candy, sweets with much color intermixed, and that settled it for all time that he was Santa Claus. And now the low windows that front the hotel are filled hourly with little ones peering within the lobby to see if they can find the Santa Claus that came to West Seventh street two weeks before time.

BATHS NEARLY FATAL.

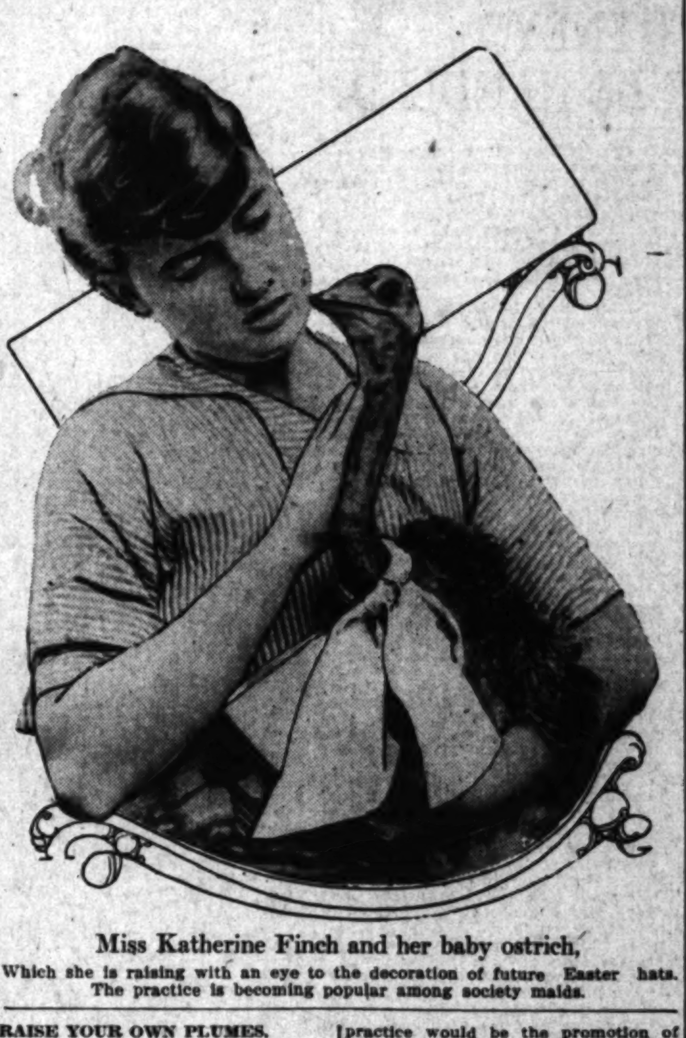
Girls Romping in Tub Become Weakened and Are Rescued in Nick of Time by their Mother.

Overcome by exhaustion while taking a hot bath at their home yesterday morning, Elva and Eva Binnell, sisters, 10 and 12 years old, respectively, had a narrow escape from death. Hanging limply over the side of the tub the girls were found in the nick of time by their mother.

The police ambulance was summoned but by the time it arrived the children had so far recovered it was not deemed necessary to take them to the Receiving Hospital. The girls said they had been in the tub about thirty minutes and were having a lot of fun splashing each other. It is believed the energy consumed in play coupled with the weakening effects of hot water rendered them helpless.

Mrs. J. E. Binnell, mother of the children, declared she thought they were dying when she found them and believed they had been asphyxiated.

Why Pay Twenty Dollars for a Feather?



Miss Katherine Finch and her baby ostrich,

RAISE YOUR OWN PLUMES.

South Pasadena Maid Bringing up an Ostrich Chick with Eye to Future Bonnets.

With ostrich feathers coming back into style, the logical thing to do is to raise your own, according to Miss Katherine Finch, a South Pasadena society miss, who is raising a rapidly-growing chick for her private feather-bearer for future beautiful bonnets.

Already the chick shows indications of growing magnificent feathers, and even now has tiny plumes ready for the feather decorations of Miss Finch's evening gowns.

Miss Finch is much interested in the work of the Audubon Society and is among the many society girls pledged never to wear aigrettes and plumage for which it is necessary to slaughter songsters and other birds. Her new pet, says she, is to grow the feathers to supply her friends and spread the movement, and indicates his future prowess as a plume bearer by his remarkable diet. He broke his own record yesterday when his mistress fed him nearly half a pint of nails, pebbles and other ostrich delicacies.

The Supply of Money.

COLEGROVE, Dec. 10.—[To the Editor:] Much injustice and often great hardship come from fluctuations in the value of money. Money is universally treated as a measure of values, the presumption being that it alone of all things is uniform and stable in value; whereas, money is as variable in value as almost any other thing. Like other commodities its value at any time depends upon supply and demand. When money is flush it is cheap; at other times, when scare, it is dear. Financiers understand this, hence they frequently speak of the "money market;" meaning thereby the market value of money. When they say times are hard it is the same as saying money is scarce and dear; and when they say times are easy it is as much as to say that money is plentiful and cheap. Everybody knows that a debt contracted, when money is plentiful is harder to pay when money becomes scarce; and that an obligation incurred when money is scarce is easier to discharge when the money market happens to be flush.

Since, then, money has a market value, depending upon the supply, and since the supply is under the control of financiers, it follows, as night the day, that they can control the value of money; and it follows, as day the night, that they will produce changes in the value of money when it is greatly to their advantage to do so.

These facts conceded, the conclusion is inevitable that when great gains may thus be produced, great losses are as likely to follow; resulting, of course, from changes in the volume and value of money. To obviate such a result is, to say the least, desirable, and it is the province of government to prevent, as far as may be, fluctuations in value of its legally provided and lawfully protected circulating medium.

If the market value of money, like other commodities, could be ascertained periodically, that fact might, with great propriety, be proclaimed by the head of the Treasury Department. As a matter of fact, the Secretary of the Treasury already has it in his power to exercise control over the value of money. He can at pleasure augment or diminish the volume in circulation, and that necessarily affects its value. To give that officer more ample authority than he now possesses may require further Congressional action. In our greenback legislation precedents for such action may be found; and besides, the Constitution of the United States expressly declares that Congress shall have power to regulate the value of money.

It would seem just and reasonable to settle obligations with money at its actual value at the time of payment, and on the other hand, unjust to require the payment of a debt with money at a face value different from that it had when the obligation was incurred. For example, a debt contracted when money was of a certain value might well be satisfied with a per cent. less in amount when money in the meantime had advanced in value. In other words, obligations may justly be satisfied with the true value of the medium in which it is to be paid.

The chief advantage of such a practice would be the promotion of stability in the money market. It would remove the motive for producing fluctuations. No one then could be cheated, as is now the case, when money at the time of payment may differ widely in value from that it had when the obligation was incurred; if worth more the debtor is cheated, if worth less than the creditor is cheated.

The Prompt Curtain.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 10.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Your "pink" of today gives a statement from the manager of one of our theaters in which he declares that his curtain will hereafter rise at 8:15 p.m. Good. Most people who enjoy the play will indorse this act. Now, if the thoughtful manager would make a rule not to seat late comers during action of the play, and another to muffle the faces and gum-shoe the feet of the ushers, he would be doing a fine thing.

People who are forced to sit in the balconies are annoyed by the talking and running around of ushers. The Mason top floor is very bad. During the performances of Arliss and Warfield the writer sat in the family circle and both plays were marred by the ushers talking and shuffling their feet, running up and down the aisles, etc. One night, not long ago, in the balcony of the Orpheum, two ushers talked for twenty minutes on one side of the balcony. Eevery one on that side heard more of their talk than that of the performers.

The house employees should not add their noise to the annoyance of ones being obliged to witness a play from such a high point of view.

IMPORTING HOUSE HERE.

Splendid Shipping Facilities Given Los Angeles by the Canal Bring Big Linen Concern.

After visiting and investigating facilities of shipment in every large community of the Pacific Coast from Vancouverto San Diego, the H. W. Baker Linen Company, one of the largest linen-importing concerns in America, is establishing a western branch in Los Angeles. This is the announcement made yesterday by Charles P. Coulter, vice-president of the corporation, who has been at the Gates Hotel here for several days.

"We are able to ship goods to Los Angeles from New York by way of the Panama Canal at less than a third the cost of former transcontinental freight," said Mr. Coulter. "From Los Angeles we can ship to all points on the Coast, to Salt Lake, Denver and various interior points, even beyond the Rocky Mountains, for less than we can ship directly from New York. Our shipments travel almost as rapidly by fast freight steamer as by train. Quick shipment here will not be essential, since some of our goods will come direct from Europe to the local branch, while others will be shipped from New York, giving us a large and continual stock to draw from."

Mr. Coulter yesterday concluded a long lease on several floors of a local loft building for an extended period, at the end of which time the Baker Linen Company will probably erect its own building, as it has in New York.

Norman Kings as Financiers.

[The Argonaut:] The Norman kings had a way of their own of making money from their warlike preparations. William Rufus, in the sixth year of his reign, "caused 20,000 foot to be lifted in England to rendezvous in Normandy; but when they were come to the sea coast in order to be transported, he sent them all home again, after exacting ten shillings from each of them for their diet." Years afterward Richard I, according to the old chronicle, "Ordained that there should be jousts and tournaments throughout England, for the better exercise of men in martial affairs; yet so that all persons should pay for their licenses to bear a part in these exercises, after the following rates: Every Earl 20 marks, every Baron 10 marks, and such as had no land, 2 marks."

The Authors of Mt. Vernon.

[Indianapolis News:] Mt. Vernon, the estate of President Washington, in Fairfax county, Virginia, was originally named Hunting Creek and comprised 800 acres. It was inherited by Washington in 1752 from his brother Lawrence, who had changed the name of the place in honor of his former commander, Admiral Vernon of the British navy. The central part of the house was built by Lawrence, and the wings were added by George Washington. The house and 200 acres were purchased by the Mt. Vernon Ladies' Association, in 1859, for $200,000, and it was carefully restored to its original condition.

Letters to Santa Claus Her Undoing.

Teresa Ceconia,

Whose love for pretty clothes caused her to resort to an unusual scheme and resulted in her arrest.

TOO MANY APPEALS TO SANTA CLAUS.

YOUNGSTERS APPREHENDED IN WRONGDOING AS RESULT OF BEGGING LETTERS.

Teresa Ceconia, a comely girl, 15 years old, and Andrew Marquez, three years her senior, were arrested yesterday afternoon, the former being accused of delinquency and the young man of contributing. They were taken into custody by Special Officer Felts who found them while he was investigating a report from the City Charities Commission of alleged fake Santa Claus letters.

The commission had received eight letters addressed to Santa Claus, all apparently written by the same person and each giving an address on Fickett street. Officer Felts started to visit each address, but upon arriving at No. 1049 Fickett street found Miss Ceconia and she admitted having penned the letters.

The letters contained urgent appeals for clothing and food, special stress being laid upon the need of Mary Jane shoes, No. 7½, and men's shirts, No. 16½. These requests were explained when Miss Ceconia said she and Marquez, without money and lacking clothing, thought it would be a good scheme to get them through Santa Claus.

The youngsters declared they were married in Bakersfield. When asked to produce their certificate, however, they broke down and confessed that they had been lying.

In the city jail, Miss Ceconia said she and Marquez ran away from San Fernando two months ago following a quarrel she had with her mother, Mrs. Maria Ceconia. The girl is a native of Austria, but has lived in Los Angeles and vicinity nearly all her life. Marquez is a Mexican and has been working in San Luis Obispo.

"I have always longed for pretty clothes and resorted to the Santa Claus letters because I thought it was the easiest and quickest way to get some of them," said Miss Ceconia. "The real reason that I left home was because my mother would not buy good dresses for me. She never would buy me decent hats and for that reason I have gone bare-headed since I was a little girl."

MUST ATTEND TO BUSINESS.

A Londoner Devises a Way to Keep His Wife Happy Without any Loss of Time.

[London Answers:] The other morning, as a departing trans-Atlantic steamer was casting off its lines and swinging out into the stream, an elderly business man hastily embraced a lady who was one of the passengers and rushed down the gangplank to the wharf.

Going hurriedly up to a melancholy loafer who was watching the busy crowd, the gentleman drew him behind a pile of baggage and said:

"Want to earn a shilling or two?"

"You bet I do."

"You see that lady in black on the bridge there?" said the elderly one.

"Certainly."

"Well, that's my wife going abroad. Now, of course, she'll expect me to stand here for the next twenty minutes, while the steamer is backing and filling in, waving my handkerchief and watching her out of sight. D'ye see?"

"I do, sir."

"Well, I'm too busy to humbug about here; stock to buy, biz to attend to. She's a little near-sighted, so I'll just engage you to wave this handkerchief instead. It's a big one, with a red border, and as long as she sees it she'll think it's me. Come up to No. 202 Bangup street when they are well off, and I'll pay you."

"S'posin' she looks through a telescope, or somethin'?"

"In that case you'll have to bury your face in the handkerchief and do the great weep act."

"That'll be extra payment."

"All right. Time is money. Look sharp, now. You can kiss your hand a few times at, say, a penny per kiss."

And closing his watch with a snap, the over-driven business man rushed off.

There can be no excuse for a man if he allows a cold to develop into pneumonia. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy counteracts any tendency toward this disease.—[Advertisement.

Archeological Puzzle.

MYSTERIOUS EASTER ISLAND.

INSCRIPTIONS ON TABLETS FOUND ARE UNREAD.

Language of Present Inhabitants Resembles that of the Hawaiians, but There is no Record of There Ever Having Been Any Connection Between the Localities.

[Christian Science Monitor:] Among the collections in the national museum at Santiago are curious antiquities that visitors are told came from Easter Island. This island, which belongs to Chile, is about 2000 miles from the mainland of South America. To archeologists Easter Island is one of those unsolved problems with which they grapple more or less successfully; and stone images, remains of terraced structures and other evidences of a race that formerly dwelt in the island continue to draw investigators to the barren spot in the Pacific Ocean.

The relics on Easter Island find archeologists of opposite opinions regarding the people who occupied the place centuries ago. As it is at present the island covers about forty-two square miles in area, and it is looked upon as the most easterly of the Polynesian group. It derived its name from the day on which it was discovered by one Jacob Roggeveen, a Dutch skipper, who in 1722 is supposed to have been the first to sight the land. Some Spanish sailors arrived at Easter Island about fifty years after Capt. Roggeveen; but their claim to discovery was later set aside.

Present inhabitants of Easter Island have distinct Polynesian characteristics, but to these few hundred people the antiquities, with their curious signs, mean nothing at all. Their language, however, bears a very close resemblance to the speech of the Hawaiians. Nearly all of the words could be converted from the Easter Island language to that of Hawaii with similar meanings. And yet these two groups are 2000 miles apart, and there is no record from historic times of any connection whatsoever between the two peoples.

As to who were the builders of the truly remarkable remains of a former civilization, this is the great puzzle found by all investigators. Some of the terraces, erected on headlands, with a wall toward the sea, must have been thirty feet high when built, and their length is indicated at from 200 to 300 feet. The terraces were constructed of large cut stone, fitted together with cement, and the large stone pedestals with images evidently served as deities. No less than 550 of these stone images have been found.

There are three craters of extinct volcanoes on Easter Island, and one of these is nearly 2000 feet deep. Inside one of these craters are about half a hundred of the stone images, and the wonder is what means were employed to get others like them out, as at the foot of the slope of the crater are more images, some of them in various stages of formation. In height they range from four feet to nearly eighty feet. These figures clearly are all of the same type and general characteristics. The head is long and the eyes close under the heavy brows; the nose large, low-bridged and very broad at the nostrils, the upper lip short and the lips pouting. The head is nearly always tilted backward. The forms generally end at the waist, and some only at the shoulders, very little work having been done below these points.

Wooden tablets found on the island, specimens of which are now in the Santiago Museum, are incised with hieroglyphics, which show that the carver must have been very skillful. Figures of men, animals, geometric designs, constitute the alphabet. It is easily believed that these tablets contain the history of the ancient people, but thus far no archeological expert has been able to decipher them.

A noted traveler who has examined the Easter Island antiquities and the remains of the Inca civilization in Peru and Bolivia, gives it as his opinion that the original inhabitants of this Pacific island were of the same race that later founded the Incan empire and that of the Aztecs. His theory is that these people at one time reached Easter Island by traveling from one island to another across the ocean and at last found their way to the American continent, over land that has since disappeared beneath the waters. While this theory is picturesque, there are other investigators who fail to see the logic of such deductions.

GERMANY'S GREAT GUNS.

They are the John L. Sullivan of the War, but are at the Mercy of the Allies' Artillery.

[New York Tribune Correspondence:] "Shells can play more odd tricks on a battlefield than the fires of heaven ever did during a storm. After the French three-inch rapid-firing gun, the most interesting as well as probably the most discussed weapon used by civilized men to knock into kingdom come their equally civilized brothers, is the 420-millimeter (about seventeen inches) mortar used by the Germans and built by Krupp—in the utmost secrecy. It was said, and it has since been verified at Maubeuge, that the concrete foundations from which these mortars can only be fired had been prepared for years by representatives of the German military authorities in various spots near the fortified cities of Belgium and France. Such representatives were generally welcomed into those countries as managers, or proprietors of various factories.

"The 420-millimeter mortar is the John L. Sullivan of the present war. Big, husky, formidable, if its punch lands you're a dead man; but it is slow, and while it is figuring where it will place its blow, wiry, alert 'Jim' Corbett—under the circumstances, the French three-inch gun—smashes him once, twice, three times just above the belt, and John L. is knocked out.

"Two of those big fellows were met by the writer on the way from Soissons to St. Quentin not long ago. They had been put out of business and lay sadly on the side of the road, their breech blown off by the owners, evidently. Dragged all the way from Maubeuge, near the Belgium frontier, which had been conquered through the very weight of their shells, and meaning to carry on their work up to the very fortifications of Paris, the two monsters had floundered ignominiously in the road leading to Soissons, these having been transformed by two days' rain into a second Everglades. A company of French sharpshooters specially selected for this occasion had three times successively within a day killed the forty horses needed to drag each piece, and finally a battery of three-inch rapid-firers, quickly placed in position on a small hill in front of Soissons and two and one-half miles away, had in about twenty shots knocked to splinters their underpinning.

"In the opinion of all military authorities, French included, not a fortified town, fortress or protective work of any sort or description can exist any length of time under the fire of these German monsters. It is said their number is very limited, only eight having been seen in Belgium; nevertheless, a few are sufficient for any work they may be called upon to do.

"But—and, like many other 'buts,' this one is of tremendous importance to the Germans—these mortars can be used only—in fact, can only exist—when the opposing artillery is too far to be used effectively, and at two, three, five or even seven miles they stand no chance against lighter weapons. As only skilled engineers can handle the very delicate and intricate mechanism of the mortar, these are not easily replaced, and the allied sharpshooters have already played havoc among the ranks of these specialists, who have followed the German siege batteries from the very doors of Krupp, where they were born.

"At long-distance shooting—ten or twelve and even fifteen miles—when plenty of time can be devoted to range finding, these mastodons are wonderfully effective. Closer, they are at the mercy of the French and British artillery, and, as has once been the case, at the mercy of a bayonet charge.

"One thing has been amply proven—if all the engineering skill of Krupp has been devoted to the birth of these huge mortars, less care has been used in the manufacturing of the shells used by them. At Maubeuge only one out of three exploded. The others made holes through five feet of concrete, but caused very little damage.

"The mortars, mounted, weigh about 16,000 pounds. Each shell weighs nearly half a ton, and the German government loses $6000 every time one fails to explode."

Saving a Railway Franchise.

[Indianapolis News:] Pittsburgh still has a horse car on the Sarah street line on the South Side. The preservation of the railway company's right to the tracks is the cause for keeping the car in operation. Many days it passes back and forth on its trips without a passenger. Francis B. Campbell, driver, says he is the oldest employee of the Pittsburgh Railway Company, both in age and in length of service. He is more than seventy years old, and has worked for the company for about forty-five years.

A Decalogue of Conduct.

[The Atlantic:] Always be master of yourself; never betray any irritation or disappointment, or any other weakness; never slop over; never give yourself away; never make yourself ridiculous—what American would not admit that these are foremost among the rules by which he would like to regulate his conduct? It can be hardly denied that this habitual self-mastery, this habitual control over one's emotions, is one of the chief reasons why so much of American life is so uninteresting and monotonous. It reduces the number of opportunities for intellectual friction, it suppresses the manifestation of strong individuality, often it improverishes the inner life itself. But, on the other hand, it has given to the American that sureness of motive, that healthiness of appetite, that boyish frolicsomeness, that purity of sex instincts, the quickness and litheness of manners, which distinguish him from most Europeans; it has given to him all those qualities which insure success and make their possessor a welcome member of any kind of society.

FACE FULL OF PIMPLES AND SPOTS

Would Pain. Itched and Burned. Used Cuticura Soap and Ointment. In Two Months Was Well.

4240 So. California Ave., Chicago, Ill.—"About a year ago my face was full of pimples and red spots. To sleep one night without itching was almost impossible. Some of the pimples would get big and red and if I touched them they would pain, while others would get white heads on them and when they broke open some matter came out. They would burn and itch and I scratched them so that sometimes they would break and bleed. That always caused them to be worse.

"I bought all kinds of salves and creams and I found out that they did me no good. I noticed the Cuticura Soap and Ointment advertisement and I sent for a free sample. I started to use them that night. I went to the drug store and bought a cake of Cuticura Soap and some Cuticura Ointment and I found the pimples were drying out. In two months I was well." (Signed) Chas. J. Peck, May 7, 1914.

New Home Treatment for Banishing Hairs.

(Beauty Topics.)

With the aid of a delatone paste, it is an easy matter for any woman to remove every trace of hair or fuzz from face, neck and arms. Enough of the powdered delatone and water is mixed into a thick paste and spread on the hairy surface for about two minutes, then rubbed off and the skin washed. This completely removes the hair, but to avoid disappointment, get the delatone in an original package.

Toward North Pole.

one crowd voted to go to Herold Island and the other to go to Wrangell. It was Capt. Bartlett who selected Wrangell Island for his friends. So the party split and those that went to the nearer island jested with those who chose the longer and more perilous trip; but they were never heard from again, and the survivors diminished by half. Never an igloo was built on Herold Island, for never a person reached there. They had become martyred tenants of the great North's tombs.

With a thermometer baffled to register the cold, the Bartlett party struggled for Wrangell Island. Sixty-five miles meant an eternity of striving and the focused horrors of life, little food, no warmth and no hope and no friends. But they got there.

The party consisted of Capt. Bartlett, Chief Engineer Monroe, a few men green to the North, a native and his squaw, and one black cat, Digger, the mascot of the party, who was carried on the inside of Monroe's coat.

Technically, the place on which they landed on Wrangell Island is 71 deg. and 12 min. north latitude, and ninety-seven miles off the coast of Siberia.

Bartlett knew nothing of the arrival of the Belvedere with supplies for Stefannson. And the crew of the Belvedere knew nothing of the fortunes of the crew that was supposed to be lost with the ship. So Capt. Bartlett knew that there was no hope of rescue from a searching ship, that the supplies were short, that the future was very black. It was then February, 1914.

BARTLETT'S TERRIBLE TRIP.

Because hunting was so poor, two camps were established at distant points on the Island, one at Cape Warring and one at Rogers Harbor. Then Capt. Bartlett took two weeks' rations for himself and native companion, food for a month for his dog team, and started across the ice plains of the winter-locked Arctic seas for the mainland of Siberia, in hope of reaching some one who would rescue his people.

For nineteen days he spent the trained forces of his body upon one of the most appalling physical tasks that the North has ever recited to a southern people. His companion remained in splendid physical condition. So great was the exhaustion daily that more food than allotted was necessary and the supplies ran short before the two weeks were over. Then came the final week. Raw tea was the only nourishment, that and finally the tops of the stout walrus boots. Ever the night was on them, a night of almost twenty-four hours, with only the illumined face of the compass to guide them and the play of the reluctant light to tell them time.

Bartlett gave up. He could walk no farther, and his faithful native packed him on his back the last twelve miles—packed him to the mainland and then on until a native's hut was reached, and strength was brought back with hot soup. Because he was white and a Caucasian, Capt. Bartlett became practically an invalid, and his companion, by trussing him into a dog sled, took him down the mainland of Siberia 3000 miles to the village of Dashneff, where they met Charles Campendale, an Australian trader, who hadn't seen a white man for nearly five years. There they feasted and talked for a month. Later they went to Emma Harbor, in Providence Bay, and connected with the San Francisco whaler, Herman, that took him without fare to Nome, and tried to land him there. The stout craft was ridden out of the harbor on the back of a great "bull" berg, and tossed far out to sea, so her master continued to St. Michaels. There Capt. Bartlett was put ashore.

DOWN WITH FIFTY MEN.

He told the plight of the abandoned crew, and the United States revenue cutter Bear offered her service to rescue the party on Wrangell Island. Three attempts to plough through the ice fields that guarded the island failed. Then came a Russian iceboat that carried a battering ram, and repeated onslaughts were made to reach the island; but always failure, until one afternoon the iceboat was caught in the hug of a flock of bergs and disappeared like a blasted bubble, with all on board, fifty men, into the depths of the tragic sea.

The Bear took Capt. Bartlett back to Nome and he went through the streets of that historic and romantic city begging help for the rescue of his people. He met there the giant trader, Olaf Swenson, of the Swenson-Hibbard Company, who had in the harbor the King and Winge, a stout old whaler under charter of his company and the Sunset Moving-Picture Company of San Francisco, represented by Mr. Granville.

With the simplicity of appeal that only amazing tragedy could bring, Capt. Bartlett put his arms around the shoulders of the tremendous sailor, Mr. Swenson, and begged that the boat go north in another effort to find the survivors of the Karluk.

And with a liberality that only the North could duplicate, Mr. Swenson agreed to sacrifice the whale harvest of the next sixty days, which meant approximately $15,000 to his company, and sailed away for the rescue to Wrangell Island. Capt. Jacobson was the master of the King and Winge, and in September they sailed out of Nome—six hours after Bartlett and Swenson had met in the streets of the city and the appeal for help had been made.

The King and Winge is a 140-foot gas schooner, with 140-horse power. It fought through the 300 miles of ice to within three miles of Wrangell Island. There one blade of the propellor was bent so the boat couldn't move. Happily the ice opened for a time, the stern was relieved and by improvising a battering ram of the crude materials at hand, the engineers perfected an implement that pounded the huge blade back into a semblance of its former shape, back until it could almost pass the rudder stem. But it was eight inches too long, so the cherished meat saw of the Japanese cook was forcibly taken from that loyal guardian of his implements and was used while the tears came to the cook's eyes at the irreverence and sacrilege, to cut away the damning eight inches of the blade that wouldn't pass the stem. The cook got back his saw, the propellor revolved as of old, the rescue ship threw its shoulders to the ice pack again and by pushing, hammering and driving, with bucks and rushes and roundabout skirting runs, came within one mile of the island and then to within half a mile of Cape Warring.

WOULDN'T BELIEVE IT.

On shore they saw a "pup" tent—one of the crude makeshift residences of the North. The crew of the King and Winge blew the whistle, and the siren roared through the silence without answer. Guns were fired, and all possible signals were given.

Within the little tent sat three men, shoulder to shoulder, so they could touch each other. They were cringing.

They had heard the shatter of the desolate silence, they said, when the siren boomed, but they wouldn't believe it. They looked at each other and hugged closer. The end was near, they knew, and this was but another hallucination that came with aching stomachs and freezing limbs. A week before their food supply had been exhausted. They had but two cartridges with which to hunt animals, and none that bore edible flesh could they find. Their fire was low, and the hell watch of the North was theirs—the wait for the end.

Neither dared rise and establish the lie of the whistle. Neither dared move, for that made for more cold, and besides, blood was sluggish and the bodies ached for food. They, too, had known how good the tops of their walrus boots could be when softened in water, flavored with a touch of pepper. And they sat there, locked together, while the whistle continued to roar.

At last Chief Engineer Monroe began to doubt that the sound was entirely an hallucination. He got up and walked to the stooped doorway, and looked out. Then he fell on his knees and when a boat that was immediately lowered and dispatched to shore arrived with its men, all he could do was grab the legs of the great sailor, Swenson, six feet, five inches tall, and say, "Christ, oh, Christ, oh, sweet, sweet Christ." And that brought tears to men.

They took Monroe and his fireman, Marrar, and his natives and the black cat, Digger, that was still alive, and Foster, to the ship.

THE GREAT CROSS.

Then they went on to Rogers Harbor. There they found another pup tent and beside its door a great cross conspicuous, tragic and explanatory. They blew the whistle again, and again there was the silence, and again a man, this time alone, was sitting within the tent, with but little food before him. He too, doubted the reality of the whistle, for the North creates strange sounds to tease and torture the prisoners there.

He came out at last, and as he came his shoulder touched against one of the arms of the cross. So it had touched every time he had left that tent. Always there had been first the cross, then the drear region, and then the frozen sea.

And he, too, dropped on his knees and prayed, and cried, until he was content that all was real.

He was Stuart Templeton, and had gone to Rogers Harbor with the geologist, Mallock, and the assistant geologist, Mannen, to establish the camp there. The two scientists had died of exposure. Templeton alone remained, but the cold was so intense and the food supply was so low that when they expired Templeton did not dare exert himself by going into the open, where the mercury was never visible, and bury his companions. So he remained there in the pup tent with them for more than thirty days, the three men friends, and two of them dead. And the dead had the right end of the tent and the living the left, and Templeton's mind survived.

Later the weather moderated a little and he went forth with his knives and a small hatchet and carved shallow graves in the ice for his friends. Then he struggled across the mainland for more than three miles and came back with a log that would do for the upright of the cross, and across it he tied with the sinews of a walrus a simple board. The grave was just at the door of the tent, and the cross was there where he always had to lower his shoulder as he went out.

It took time to build up Templeton's mind, but it took little time to carry on board all the effects of the party. A few robes, a dog sled or two, a little raw tea, and the black cat, Digger, that at once made friends with the Japanese cook and lived by the fire all day.

There had to be all haste about the taking of the rescued party on board for the small boat in which the men from the King and Winge had come ashore was being gnawed to pieces by the ice, and in a short afternoon Wrangell Island had given up its prisoners and the boat was under way for the Alaska coast.

On the return, the King and Winge met the revenue cutter Bear going north again in a final effort to rescue the party.

All lived until they reached Alaska. There a romantic fancier of cats offered $200 for Digger and was severely rebuked for levity. There the party gorged on greens. In groups they returned to the United States.

AN ENGAGEMENT.

Among the last to leave was Mr. Granville and his camera man, Charles Zallabra, who assisted him in all the experiences. And Mr. Granville will return North again next year under the direction of another film company, the Navajo, with which he has joined forces.

He intends to be at Coronation Bay just before the ice freezes in the summer of 1915, to meet Wilhjalmur Stefannson. During the pleasant months of the Los Angeles winter he is perfecting his plans to keep his engagement with the great explorer of the North, who is wandering with his native companion on the shoulders of the Arctic Circle—the boldest figure of the frigid zone.

NEW ENGLANDERS TO CELEBRATE.

FOREFATHERS' DAY TO BE OBSERVED BY LOCAL SOCIETY WITH BANQUET.

Former residents of New England will celebrate Forefathers' Day, the anniversary of the landing of the Pilgrims, next Saturday night at Gates Hotel, Sixth and Figueroa street, at 6:30 o'clock. The New England Society of Southern California, under whose auspices the celebration will be held, is planning a unique and happy occasion and an effort will be made at this time to increase the membership.

Miss Josephine M. Scott, No. 215 West Sixteenth street, is secretary of the society and is attending to the sale of tickets and other details.

After the banquet there will be speeches by several residents of Southern California who formerly lived in New England. The affair will close with songs, "Hurrah for New England" and "I Love You California" having the place of honor on the programme.

DULCIT COMES HIGH.

Worth Twice as Much as Gold Since War, and has Advanced Four Thousand Per Cent.

To be presented with a bill for $41.25 for an ounce of a chemical compound is not a pleasant experience, much less so when that price happens to be nearly forty times higher than what you are accustomed to paying. The health department underwent a convulsion one day last week when it received a bill for dulcit at the aforesaid price.

The order had been placed as per the schedule in force before the war when dulcit, a valuable compound for analyzing water, was $1.25 an ounce. It happened, however, to be among those products which has been manufactured in Germany.

Needless to say, the health department has determined upon some other way of testing H-2-O, while there is a rumor that the dulcit is being returned to New York, under an armed guard.

This is the season when sickness stalks through the land in the form of pneumonia. The surest defense against the disease is Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.—[Advertisement.

W. T. Singleton,

Pioneer Missouri railroad man, now of Los Angeles, who was held up and robbed by the Jesse James gang in 1875. The reported illness of Frank James, the ex-bandit, recalled the exciting experience.

HOST TO BANDIT WHO ROBBED HIM.

OLD RAILROAD MAN RECALLS VIVID MEMORIES OF JAMES GANG.

A news dispatch telling of the serious illness of Frank James, the notorious ex-bandit, at Excelsior Springs, Mo., called up vivid memories for W. T. Singleton, this city, Southern California representative of a northern copper company. Mr. Singleton was held up and robbed by the James gang while he was depot agent for the Wabash railroad in Lexington, Mo., in 1875.

"It was Frank James who pointed a revolver in my face in the most exciting experience of my life," Mr Singleton said yesterday in his office in the Stimson building. "A few years after that I entertained him unawares at Richmond, Mo.

"Three members of the terrible James gang swept down on us one Sunday afternoon. The Wabash train had stopped at North Lexington Junction. The passengers for Lexington boarded a stage coach for the ferry which operated across the Missouri River.

"About half way between the station and the river, three masked men rode out of the timber, waving revolvers and shouting to the stage driver to stop. I was on the seat with the driver. The smallest man of the three, who I afterward learned was Frank James, pointed a revolver in my face and ordered me to get down, which I did in a hurry.

"All of the passengers were lined up, made to hold up their hands and were robbed of their money and valuables. The bandits took their time and did the work thoroughly. They threatened to shoot one man because he wanted his watch returned.

"A minister who was a member of our frightened party suffered humiliation at the hands of the robbers. He wore an expensive black suit. Apparently one of the gang was attracted by the neat cut of the Prince Albert coat and the divine was forced to change costumes with the robber. Earlier in the day the three men had been seen by a woman in the neighborhood who recognized them as Jesse and Frank James and Liddle.

"Six or seven years after the hold-up and after Jesse had been killed by Ford and the rest of the gang had surrendered to Gov. Crittendon of Missouri, Frank James came into the station while I was agent at Richmond, Mo.

"It was a rainy night and I saw a man, dressed like a traveling salesman, standing on the platform. I invited him to come inside to the fire. He accepted the invitation and we chatted pleasantly for several minutes. After the train left I learned that he had been recognized as Frank James."

Mr. Singleton was a pioneer telegraph operator in Missouri. Beginning in 1871, he served as depot agent at more than a dozen Missouri towns and later was promoted in the service. He was general agent for the Erie Railroad in Kansas City when he retired from the railroad business in 1896. He came to California ten years ago. He lives at the Cynthia apartments in Long Beach.

EAGLE ROCK CELEBRATION.

People Parade, Hear Concert and Rejoice in Completion of Civic Improvements.

The first public celebration of Eagle Rock City, held Saturday, the 5th inst., was a successful civic function through which the people of the town expressed their gratification with the recently-completed civic improvements. The newly-organized Eagle Rock Chamber of Commerce had the affair in charge.

The festivities started with an automobile parade through Pasadena, South Pasadena, Highland Park, Tropico and Glendale. There were thirty-two cars in line, each decorated with Eagle Rock pennants, flags and banners.

The evening programme consisted of a band concert and the following addresses: Mayor Galpin, on "Cluster Lights;" Mrs. C. W. Young, on the "Woman's Twentieth Century Clubhouse; Godfrey Edwards, on the" "Carnegie Public Library."

PICTURES COME TO LIFE.

Character Portrayals to be Important Feature of Ad Club Jinks at Venice, Thursday Next.

The advertisements usually seen in magazines and newspapers will appear in real life at Venice Thursday night, when the Los Angeles Ad Club will hold its annual jinks, and will award prizes for the best characterizations of the famous persons in advertising literature.

The keys of the seaside city will be turned over to the members of the organizations, their friends and invited guests, and fun and frolic promise to be the sovereigns of the evening.

The dance hall will be the scene of most of the festivities of the ad writers and their friends, and the "tf" waltz, and the "dc" rag will be among the dances performed.

Competition is keen among the wives and sweethearts of the organization to see who can sell the largest number of tickets. At present Miss Pauline Elsasser, the mascot of the club, is leading by a considerable majority.

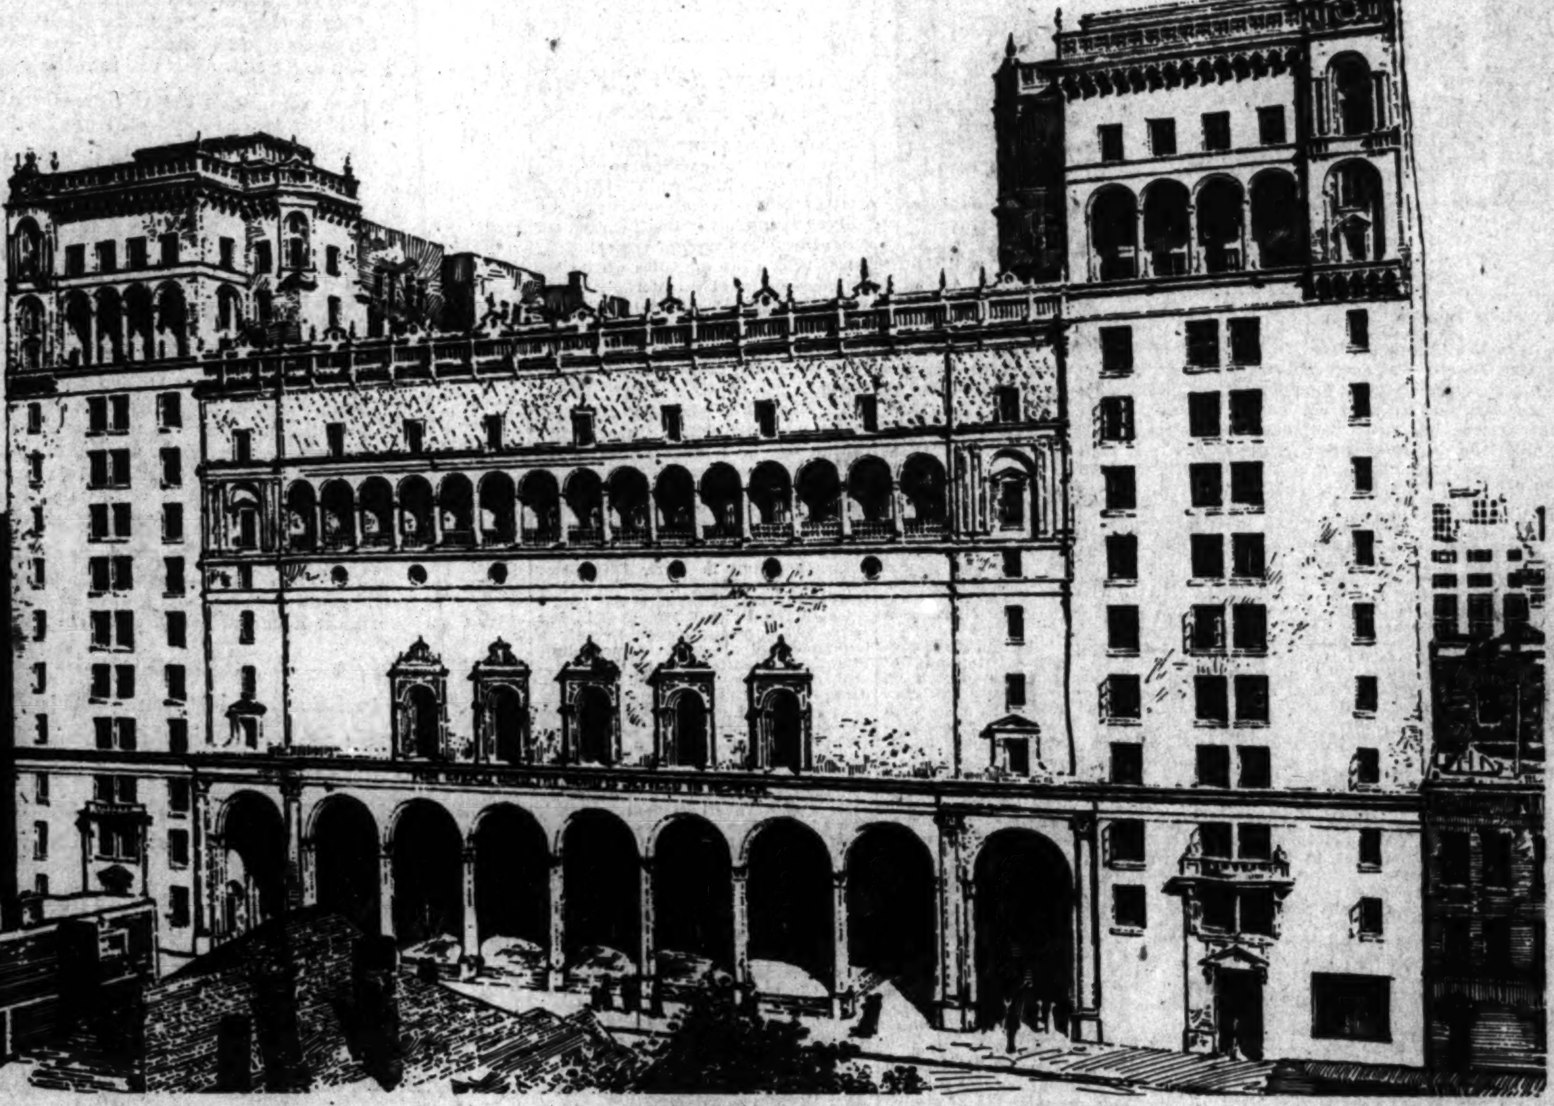
Largest Structure Ever Built Exclusively for Religious Education.



Magnificent new Los Angeles Bible Institute, Hope street, just north of Sixth.

The picture is reproduced from a pen and ink sketch made directly from the completed building by John T. Vawter during the past week. Mr. Vawter is a member of the firm of Walker & Vawter, architects of the splendid new edifice, which is generally regarded in structural circles as one of the architectural achievements of the year in the United States.

The school work of the institution is to be housed in the basement story, large courts at the rear furnishing ample light. Here will be an auditorium seating 900, together with a large number of classrooms. Dining-room facilities will be provided in the north wing basement and a complete printing establishment is to be maintained under the south wing. Provision is made in each wing for 350 dormitory rooms.

The main auditorium will be one of the largest audience rooms in the country, and will contain approximately 4500 seats. The choir loft will seat 250. The acoustical arrangements required months for perfection.

At the present time a large portion of the north wing of the building is in use, some 300 dormitory rooms being occupied. Work is being rushed on the interior finish of the auditorium and school departments in order that the structure may be complete and ready for formal dedication early in the coming year.

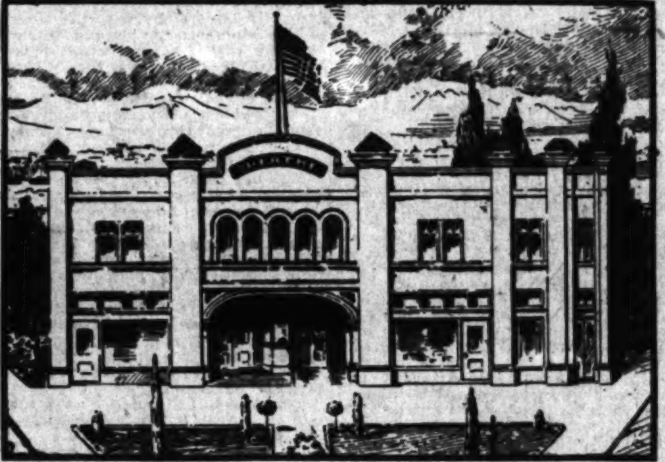
The Los Angeles Bible Institute numbers on its board of directors a number of the leading men of the city, these including Lyman Stewart, H. A. Getz, J. M. Irvine, T. C. Horton, E. A. Hackett, the Rev. A. B. Pritchard, R. A. Torrey, W. F. Blackstone, S. I. Merrill, Giles Kellogg and Robert Watchorn. The institute was organized to offer men and women the opportunity for a careful, critical study of the Bible under the direction of thorough Biblical scholars. It is a training school for those desiring to qualify for active Christian service of every kind. The organization is in its seventh year and at present occupies temporary offices in the Auditorium building. At its head as dean is the Rev. R. A. Torrey, for many years in charge of the Moody Bible Institute of Chicago. Lyman Stewart is president and T. C. Horton, superintendent of the institution.

FINE HOUSES CHANGE HANDS.

BROKERS REPORT TRANSFER OF RESIDENCES ON LA SALLE AND MARIPOSA.

Two important deals in high-class residential property were concluded during the past week through the Land Mortgage Corporation. One was the sale by Herbert A. Reed, executor of the Frank Vickrey estate, to Julius Harris of a ten-room house at No. 2017 La Salle avenue. The house is finished in hardwoods and has two baths. Its site is 60x166 feet in size. The consideration is given at $10,500.

The other transaction was the purchase by Warren D. Isenberg from Mrs. Florence L. Wood of a twelve-room residence at No. 258 South Mariposa avenue. The dwelling is finished in quarter-sawed oak and has handsome fixtures throughout. The lot is 60x150 feet in size and has a sightly Japanese garden and summer house at the rear. The consideration is reported at $13,000. Mr. Isenberg, it is stated, will expend about $2500 in additional improvements to the place.



Culver City theater.

NEARING COMPLETION.

New Picture Playhouse in Culver City to be Opened First of Year. Houses Projected.

CULVER CITY, Dec. 12.—Culver City's new theater and office building on the triangular block bounded by Main street, Washington and Del Rey boulevards, is rapidly nearing completion, and will be formally opened about January 1. The structure is being erected by Mrs. Fanny A. Henderson of Ocean Park, who has extensive real estate investments in various parts of Southern California. The auditorium will seat about 800 people. The foyer will be finished in white tile and marble. In addition to the theater itself, there will be stores and offices in the building.

Leslie Cranbourne of the Harry H. Culver Company's sales force reports that several residences will be erected under his supervision in Culver City during the next sixty days. Among these is a seven-room bungalow to be started next week on Main street for Arthur L. Eaton. A seven-room residence is being built on Warner avenue for Mrs. Addie C. Tripp and James Miller is building a six-room bungalow on the same street.

TO STRAIGHTEN DRIVE.

Workmen in the near future will begin the straightening and improving of Lincoln Drive, in the Brentwood Park tract, the work having been authorized by the County Supervisors a few days ago when they ordered the vacation of a portion of the street. In return the county will be deeded a portion of a circular park at Lincoln drive and Euclid avenue, in the same subdivision, this ground being added to the drive, thus enabling the county engineer to complete the straightening of the roadway. Other street improvement work is to be done in the same suburb within a short time, according to an announcement by the Braly-Janss company, subdivider of the property.

BUILDING RECORD IS SATISFACTORY.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

REDLANDS, Dec. 12.—Despite the fact that no large structures have been erected in this city during the year, the building operations will total close to what they were last year, according to M. E. Armstrong, building inspector. Last year several big buildings went up that swelled the amount expended in structural work.

Mr. Armstrong says that reports of contractors indicate that building will be heavy during the winter months. A. E. Taylor has just completed a brick building for the Redlands Day Nursery, on Orange street, an improvement costing about $7000.

Work was started this week on a temporary gymnasium for the Y.M.C.A. The structure will be large enough to house basketball, volley ball, indoor baseball and handball courts, besides showers and lockers. As soon as the association vacates the present building, the last of this month, the work of remodeling it for a City Hall will be started by the city. The Trustees recently purchased the building at a cost of $25,000.

The finest packing-house in this section is just being finished for the Redlands Co-operative Association. It is in the mission style of architecture and will cost $15,000 when completed.

WILL TAKE CENSUS.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Dec. 12.—The Huntington Beach Water Company, a subsidiary of the Huntington Beach Company, is making practical tests of the condition of the local pipe systems, with the view of installing new machinery with which to meet the growing demands upon this public utility. At the meeting of the Board of Supervisors this week it was decided to take a census of the Huntington Beach townships. The growth of the population has been so rapid that the last census figures furnish no basis whatever for the determination of salaries of township officials. A similar census will be taken of Talbert, Wintersburg and Westminster, communities suburban to Huntington Beach in the farming section.

COTTON ENTERS NEW PROVINCE.

Threatens to Displace Linen for Many Uses.

Stands on Merit as Rival in Damask Field.

Demand for Textile Mills in Southland Shown.

Cotton growers of the Imperial Valley and Arizona cannot fail to be interested in knowing that while the European monarchs have been fighting, old King Cotton has invaded and is annexing a very important province, which has been for a great many years ruled over by Queen Linen—the province of hotel tablecloths and napkins. The raid has come, it is significant to note, at a time when the linen industry of the Old World is practically at a dead standstill.

The first raid into the territory exclusively held by linens was made by Joseph Beifeld of the Sherman and Fort Dearborn Hotels in Chicago. Mr. Beifeld, in furnishing his two mammoth hostelries found, in Austria, a manufacturer who was able to turn him out damasks, woven all of cotton, which looked like linen, laundered like linen, lasted like linen—and cost only half as much. American weavers of damasks then took the matter up, and declared that they could do whatever could be done in Austria.

At a meeting of all the hotel men of New Orleans, held on November 18, the question of substituting cotton for linen was presented by R. D. Bowan of the Southern States Cotton Association. The association had decided it would take up the movement and call upon the wholesalers to deliver all supplies to New Orleans hotels in cotton sacks.

Similar action, it was reported to the New Orleans hotel men, had been taken by the St. Louis association, including the exclusive Planters and Jefferson hotels. The same question is to be brought up at the convention of the Southern Hotel Association, now in session at Houston.

The question is of particular importance to the Pacific Coast because the cotton grown in the Imperial Valley and in the Salt River Valley of Arizona is especially well suited to mercerizing and to damask weaves. Cotton which has not been rained upon, it is claimed, bleaches whiter than the cotton of the Old South, launders better and can in many ways be used in place of linen, where the yellower, shorter-fibered stuff shows its inferiority.

Inquiry at some of the Los Angeles stores shows that the "mercerized" or cotton linens have been steadily increasing in good quality, and in consequent popularity. No attempt is made to substitute for linens, the cotton damasks standing squarely upon their merits and relative cheapness.

Investigations into the feasibility of establishing cotton textile mills upon the Pacific Coast have shown that the "coarse yarn" fabrics—damasks, towelings and the like—can be made here to much better advantage, considering all the elements which enter into the manufacturing situation, than the finer goods, such as muslins and fine calicoes. If a major part of the damask consumption of the United States is, therefore, to be turned to cotton instead of linen, this may have an important effect upon the industrial future of Los Angeles.

SELLS RANCH ACREAGE.

Sales of acreage at Nuevo Rancho, in the Lakeview-Perris-Hemet Valley district, are reported by the James R. H. Wagner Company as follows: To R. C. Halsey of Baldwin Park, thirty acres, which buyer will plant to English walnuts in the spring; to T. N. Brown of Glendora, five acres, and to H. Deardorff of San Dimas, five acres. Announcement is made that Andrew Cock, who recently purchased forty acres of Nuevo Rancho land, is preparing to set out an orchard of Smyrna figs in the spring. The Wagner Company announces that it is preparing to straighten and otherwise improve the waterway running through the Nuevo ranch from the San Jacinto River. The plans call for the establishment of a large drainage ditch.

RAMONA ACRES ANNEX.

Sales by the Janss Investment Company at Ramona Acres Annex are reported as follows: Mrs. Sarah Crabbe, one acre, $1650; P. B. Christian, two acres, $2800; Mrs. Frances A. Richardson, a recent arrival from Honolulu, one lot, $800; E. B. Merdel, lot, $1000; H. H. McCollum, acre, $1140; and John A. McCall, acre, $1140. Some of the buyers, it is stated by the brokers, will build houses at once.

Let Me Show You HOW You Can Make
$21,120

Men are doubling and trebling their money raising hogs in California—and you can do the same. In three years you should be able to pay entirely for your land—have a big herd of money-makers, and a bank account on the side. A few hundred dollars CASH now should make you independent.

I have only two hundred acres of this choice land in 20 and 40-acre ranches, and if you are in earnest, I can arrange remarkably easy terms. Finest alfalfa and fruit land. Abundance of water. Four miles from town. Come in and see me, I will give you full information. If out of town drop me a line—G. H. MacGinnis, with

BARLEY

Calipatria Farms
Imperial Valley

125,000 acres planted in 1914 crop; worth $3,500,000.

Best-producing barley land in the world; thirty-five sacks to the acre. Only place in the world where you can pasture three times on your barley and then have it grow up thicker and produce heavier than ever. Pasture pays $6 per acre per year. No grain crop failure ever known in Imperial Valley.

Why can we do all this here?

Because we have better soil, more and cheaper water and 365 growing days of sunshine each year.

Go to Calipatria and see for yourself—seeing is believing.

Buy this land now while you can for

$65.00 Per Acre, On Easy Terms

Your water stock (giving you all the water you can use all the time) is only $17.50 on terms or $15 cash.

Will you investigate? It costs you nothing. Do it now.

HEARING IN BIG OIL SUIT SOON.

Legal Fight for Coalinga Lands Next Month.

Government-Espee Litigation to be Revived.

Both Sides have Accumulated Ammunition.

[SPECIAL CONTRIBUTION.]

The Federal suit against the Southern Pacific to regain possession of oil lands at Coalinga, which it is alleged were acquired by fraud, will come up some time in January in Los Angeles. From a government employee who has been in touch with the case it is learned that the attorneys have some evidence of fraud in reserve which will astonish those who are "not on the inside," and may prove an unpleasant surprise to the railroad attorneys. No information is obtainable as to the nature of the evidence.

The great trouble with the government's case is that it is "up against" the statute of limitations. It is admitted that the fraud, if committed at all, was committed more than six years ago. It is contended, however, first, that the statute of limitations does not take effect until the legal period of six years has elapsed beginning at the time the land is patented, but only at the time that the fraud is discovered. The government contends that this fraud was discovered in 1910, and the suit was filed within less than three years thereafter.

To sustain this contention the government will take the ground that the fact that the mineral character of the land, or many tracts of it, had become publicly known long before 1910, a fact to which many persons could testify. This fact does not constitute a notice to the government. Not even the fact that individual employees of the government may have known all about it did not constitute a notice to the government.

The fact that special agents of the General Land Office charged with the duty of investigating such matters may have known of the character of the land prior to 1910, according to the contentions of the government counsel, has no bearing upon the matter of when the alleged fraud was discovered by the government. Only when an official report on the matter was received at Washington from a special agent does the government admit having received notice sufficient to cause the statute of limitations to begin to operate.

The railroad attorneys will doubtless contend, first, that the statutory period of six years began when the patents were issued; second, that the company was guilty of no fraud and did not conceal any of the facts from the government, hence the failure of the government to know what was a matter of public knowledge was simply due to its own negligence, and that of its employees, for which the railroad can not now be held responsible.

A Southern Pacific attorney some time since pointed out to the writer that in the case in Colorado in which it was held that the statute of limitations period begins only at the time when the fraud has been discovered, the defendant corporation had deliberately taken precautions to conceal facts from the government and from the public. He held that because of this the case did not apply to the present action, because, he contended, the company had done nothing to conceal knowledge from the government.

The Elk Hills land suit will be argued before Judge Bean in Los Angeles this month by Asst. Atty.-Gen. Mills for the government and Charles R. Lewers for the railroad. This case is entirely different from the Coalinga suit, inasmuch as it was filed well within the statutory period.

One thing that is likely, if persisted in, to militate against the success of any of the government's land suits is the parsimonious policy of the Democratic administration. Reliable information is to the effect that special field agents and others employed in gathering evidence have actually been refused permission to spend $5 for abstracts, maps and similar necessities, and have had their expense accounts pared down to the last nickel.

BELGIAN CONGO.

American Vice-Consul McBride at Boma, Belgian Congo, reports the oil development of that colony is seriously handicapped by the defective pump equipment installed on the 220-mile pipe line between Matadi and Leopoldville, completed in 1912. The oil is quite heavy and the pumps can only handle it with such difficulty that the enterprise is not a commercial success, and will not be until extensive alterations are made.

Meanwhile the oil is moved by tank cars to Leopoldville and the railroad freight charges are so high as to eat up all the profits. The use of oil fuel on the Congo River steamers has also proved a failure so far because of defective engines, they being too heavy for the light draft boats.

Topics of Interest.

That a much brighter view of the trade is being taken by those prominently connected therewith, is indicated by expressions generally on the part of men engaged in the oil industry in the west side fields. The prevailing sentiment appears to be that the situation will exhibit a very decided improvement soon after the advent of the new year.

The production in the McKittrick field for November is likely to exceed that for October. The October figures showed a small increase over September, with three less producing wells. The McKittrick district has maintained its reputation as a consistent factor in the matter of production, and its record for the present year promises to show very satisfactorily in comparison with that of 1912.

The Associated, with eighty-four yielding wells, is the largest producer, and the Kern Trading and Oil is second. Considerable improvements have been made by various companies during the year. The installation of gas engines was an important one. The erection by the Kern Trading and Oil Company of a separating plant, with a capacity of 2000 barrels per day, has also been of valuable service. This plant handles the same amount daily as the one on the lease of the Reward Oil Company.

ON SOUTH MARIPOSA.

Attractive Ten-room House in Wilshire District Has Several Interesting Features—Nearing Completion.

An attractive ten-room residence is now nearing completion for Sidney A. Murdock on Mariposa street between Second and Third streets. The dwelling has a cement plaster exterior and green cement shingle roof. Green tile inlay in varied designs relieves the plain surfaces of the porch walls.

The principal rooms are finished in mahogany. An interesting feature is an octagonal breakfast-room. Among the upstairs rooms are a large sleeping porch and a combined library and laboratory for the owner. Each chamber has a private dressing-room. The baths are in tile. There is a garage for two machines at the rear of the lot. The walks, steps and drives of the place are to be laid in brick.

The house was planned by Needham & Cline. L. M. Hatfield has the contract.

RANCH TRANSFERS ARE ANNOUNCED.

STANISLAUS COUNTY ACREAGE AND CITY REALTY INVOLVED.

The following recent realty transactions are reported by Harry C. Norris: A. Hunter of Los Angeles to A. H. Swartz of Oakdale, 162 acres at Riverbank, Stanislaus county, consideration $20,250, Mr. Swartz turning in a residence on Marengo avenue in Pasadena as part payment on the land. In the deal Miss Nellie McCrea represented Mr. Swartz.

H. C. Norris, Jr., of Los Angeles, to George S. Henry of Modesto, 294 acres under Oakdale irrigation ditch, consideration $22,000, of which $5000 cash was paid as first payment. It is Mr. Henry's announced intention to immediately improve this tract of land and stock it with cattle and hogs.

E. H. Stagg of Highland Park to John Durston of Highland Park, five-acre, full-bearing Washington navel grove at Pomona, consideration $12,500, Mr. Stagg taking as part payment on the grove Mr. Durston's house in Highland Park. Mr. Durston was represented by A. G. Westfall, with the Kleinberger-Edwards company.

H. C. Norris, Jr., to Adeline Stanton, two lots in Seal Beach, consideration $2500.

PLANS FINE CHALET.

South Pasadena Man to Build Large Dwelling of Swiss Type—Double Flat Structure Projected.

SOUTH PASADENA, Dec. 12.—Contracts have been let for a handsome new residence for John Wadsworth, who will build on Garfield avenue a two-story chalet. Brick terraces, overhanging balconies and heavy timber work will be features of the exterior. Walls and roofs will be of white cedar shingles. There will be thirteen rooms, three baths and two sleeping porches. Oak and birch finish will be used on the first floor, and white cedar enameled on the second floor.

Mrs. L. J. Mack is having plans prepared for a double-flat building of frame construction to be erected on Brent street. The building will contain two flats of five rooms each, with rustic exterior, shingled roof, pressed-brick mantels and hardwood floors. The estimated cost is $3500.

The Huntington Drive boulevard, now being paved, will be open for traffic throughout its entire length within the next two weeks. The north side of the drive has been entirely completed, and the west end of the south side as far as Marengo avenue on the east is now finished and being used by the traveling public. All that remains is the stretch between Marengo avenue and Pine street, a distance of five blocks.

The Mission bakery at No. 1517 Mission has been sold to Henry Simon and Paul Lauter of Los Angeles.

TO HELP BUILDERS.

Salt Lake City Concern to Assist in Financing Construction Operations at Standard Oil Town.

EL SEGUNDO, Dec. 12.—An increase in construction activity is anticipated in El Segundo within the next few months, as a result of arrangements just completed with the Western Loan and Building Company of Salt Lake City, whereby this concern will engage in the financing of building operations for local property owners. The corporation has appointed a local board to pass upon loans, consisting of J. D. D. Gladding, general manager of El Segundo Land and Improvement Company; E. C. Lewis, cashier of El Segundo State Bank; W. J. Rose, S. McLean and W. W. Phillips. A number of new homes will be needed as soon as the Lambert Manufacturing Company plant is opened and the contemplated increase in the Standard Oil force made effective.

During the week surveyors have been in El Segundo running the lines of the proposed new boulevard from Venice to Redondo, which, according to present plans, will pass through some part of this town. The Santa Fe Railroad is said to have recently determined upon a number of improvements in El Segundo and Redondo Beach, the latter town having been made a terminal point of the system. The details have not been made public. There is also a persistent rumor that the Standard Oil Company intends to build a breakwater at this point.

ADD TO HOLDINGS.

Investment Company Operating in San Gabriel Valley Enlarges Original Subdivision by New Purchase.

A large deal in suburban acreage in the San Gabriel Valley was closed during the week, when the Janss Investment Company secured eighty acres of car line frontage lying between its recent subdivision of Wilmar Acres and its original Ramona Acres tract. The property borders the Pacific Electric Railway on both sides for a distance of nearly three-quarters of a mile, between Gaston and Wilmar stations.

The Janss company plans to immediately begin subdivision work upon this eighty acres and to place it upon the market at an early date under the name of New Ramona Acres. The improvements, it is announced, will include graded and oiled streets, cement sidewalks and curbs, and water.

NEW BUNGALOWS.

Several new bungalows are reported to have recently been started in Hollywood Park. W. S. McKee of Los Angeles, is building a two-story house on Highland boulevard. May L. Clark of Hollywood has let the contract for a seven-room chalet, at Holly way and Cahuenga avenue. Mrs. Mabel Stevens of Salt Lake City has nearly completed a five-room bungalow at Highland and Cahuenga. Benjamin Arnheim has completed the foundation for a six-room home, and G. S. Badger has the foundation laid for a seven-room chalet. Contracts have been let for several new streets in the same tract, work on which is now under way.

GERMAN BUYS GROVE.

The sale of a six-acre, two-year-old lemon grove in the North Whittier Heights citrus and walnut land subdivision to Werner Bartels at $1025 an acre is reported by Edwin G. Hart, manager and general sales agent of the property. The buyer has arranged to build a house on his property immediately, and expects to grow vegetables between the rows of trees on the place, while they are coming into bearing. Mr. Bartels is a German and only recently came to this country from the war zone of Europe.

Belridge Company.

The Belridge Oil Company this week added a string of tools to its operations on section 35, 27-21, making three. This work is being carried on at camp No. 2, six miles northwest of the main camp, and where a new well was recently brought in with a production of 100 barrels per day. The drill in another well has reached a depth of over 3000 feet, and indications are reported to be quite favorable for a good output.

ITS ACTIVITY SIGNIFICANT.

Land Owners Watch Standard in Kern Field.

Judgment is Delayed in the McCutcheon Case.

Developments in the Valley Oil Districts.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

BAKERSFIELD, Dec. 11.—A great deal of interest revolves around the drilling operations of the Standard Oil Company to the west of the old Kern River field. The activities of the big company are adding materially to the value of the land, which has been in the possession of some of the holders for many years. Their retaining of these properties seems likely to be rewarded.

The Santa Fe Railroad is much interested in this region, where it has several hundred undeveloped acres which, like Mr. Young's holdings, lie between the western limit of present commercial production and the new land which the Standard is developing. The Santa Fe lands are a part of those of the Petroleum Development Company in Kern River and Fullerton purchased from E. L. Doheny and associates years ago.

The Kern River Oilfields, Ltd., has some 400 acres developed to only a trifling extent along the eastern line, directly affected in value by the Standard's operations. The Kern River Oilfields is owned in England.

The Perseus Oil Company of Los Angeles owns eighty acres on section 15, adjoining the land on which the Standard is drilling one of its prospect wells. The Perseus is a small company that has been in existence since the Kern River field was first opened. It has ten acres under development in the heart of the old field. These are leased by George W. Betts. The company has paid some dividends in the past.

The Sapphire, the Kern Star, the Kern Union and a number of small companies with holdings slightly developed or wholly undeveloped, located along the west edge of the field from the extreme south at the edge of the Southern Pacific tracks north almost to Poso Creek road, are waiting anxiously for the outcome of the Standard's work. Their own future depends upon this, and some of them are holding onto their lands with no other thought in mind.

Water Control Bill.

The bill drawn by State Mineralogist Hamilton for the control of the water situation differs from that passed by the Legislature two years ago and vetoed by Gov. Johnson. The bill of two years ago gave the control of the funds into the hands of the authorities of the several counties, and provided that, in case the oil men failed to organize a district and named commissioners to handle the water problem, the County Supervisors should appoint commissioners. This is one of the reasons advanced by the Governor for his action.

The bill passed two years ago was indorsed by the Independent Producers' Agency and by many oil interests. The active opposition came from a few, but these few were influential with the Governor. Their contention was a political one, namely, that the handling of the funds would be left to enemies of the administration, the local Supervisors, whom the opponents of the bill professed to believe would be likely to misuse them. The Governor listened to them and put the bill into his pocket.

The new bill indorsed by the State Mining Bureau is now in the hands of the Legislative Counsel Bureau.

Judgment Delayed.

Still more delay is to be faced by the McCutcheons in their efforts to get a title to the southwest quarter of section 32, 12-23.

The case was heard before the Register and Receiver of the Land office at Los Angeles, and decided in favor of the claimants and against the government. At first it was thought from the delay in appealing that the decision would be allowed to stand, but the case has been taken before the Commissioner at Washington, and now E. J. Justice, assistant to the Attorney-General, who is in charge of all oil land litigation, has registered a protest against any decision being rendered until the courts have passed upon litigation pending therein, which affect the operating company, the Obispo, on the ground that if the money now in escrow be released and paid over, the company will be rendered insolvent, and the government will be unable to enforce a judgment obtained in the courts.

It is believed that the General Land Office will defer to the wishes of the Department of Justice, and withhold its judgment.

For Fire Protection.

The Standard is adding to its refinery in the Kern River oil field, four miles from Bakersfield, a complete plant for the making of foam for the purposes of fire protection. A few weeks since the company had what might have been a very disastrous fire where a gasoline tank at the refinery caught fire. Fortunately there was no wind, and the blaze was extinguished after doing only slight damage, but it served to call attention to the need for more complete fire protection.

The company has ninety ninety-foot tanks, with a capacity of more than 3,000,000 barrels of oil at the refinery to protect, besides many buildings which would be endangered should the blaze get beyond control.

Besides installing the system at the Kern River refinery, the Standard will erect similar fire apparatus at all of its sales stations, to guard against the danger of a recurrence of a fire like that at San Diego last fall. The work of installation at the various points is already under way.

In the Standard Oil Bulletin for November there is a description of the unique process employed.

Oil Men Mining.

Lost Hills is well represented in the Amalie mining district, one of the claims of promising note being called the Lost Hills claim. Other claims held by Lost Hills people are the Gilt Edge, Hurry Up, Wished On, and the Butts.

Fred Cushman, Don Ritchie, Del Butts, Tom Sedgwick, J. H. Butts and Roy Crow are among those who have the mining fever. Cal Boyd is looking after the interests of the greater number, and is spending the most of his time in the hills around Caliente.

Celebrate this Christmas on Your Own Farm

The man or woman with the land has the real Christmas feeling. The farm is your home, and your fortress against the vicissitudes of life. It feeds you in times good or bad. It is the one unfailing insurance, it will provide for you and yours after you into the generations.

The man who lights the Christmas candles on his own farm can have the feeling that he has removed from his family and children all the uncertainties of food and shelter.

Buy your family a farm for Christmas;
$50 to $100 down will do it at
HUNTINGTON BEACH
(One hour's run from Los Angeles on electrics.)

This will secure you one to two acres. There are no better small farms at any price. So warm and frostless you can have fresh vegetables for your Christmas table. There is no better nor more prolific land for berries, fruits, lemons, garden truck, alfalfa, lima beans, potatoes, cantaloupes. Soft water in abundance. A block or two from electric cars and paved boulevards. High, sightly ground. Ten degrees warmer than Los Angeles in winter, cooler in summer; a climate where the farmer is never hot or cold.

Adjoining Huntington Beach, a city of 3000 people, which has doubled in size in 18 months. It has a perfect bathing surf and high water front, and beach, residential, farming and industrial resources, which in the coming ten years, will make it one of the three or four largest cities near Los Angeles.

Arrange with us to take you down.

1-3 to 1-2 acres, in town, $400 to $550.
1 to 5-acre farms, adjoining town, $500 an acre.
15 to 40-acre farms, $300 an acre, somewhat further from town.
50-ft. city lots, $500 cement sidewalks and curbs, dustless streets in and paid for; a stone's throw from water front and interurban electric.

RARE MINERALS, METALLURGY, CHEMISTRY.

INQUIRIES FROM AND ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS.

Albite and Garnet.

PASQUAL, Nov. 21.—Q.: I am mailing today a sample of rock and gem stone over which there is some dispute. One California authority is of the opinion that the gem is Hyacinth, and the rock is said to be amblygonite. The sample is from a claim northeast of Pasqual, San Diego county, Cal. B. W.

A.: The gem is of Hyacinth color, but it is not of the zircon variety. It is of the garnet family, and closely allied with Essonite (cinnamon stone.) The accompanying mineral is albite (soda feldspar.)

Rocks.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 22.—Q.: Three samples from San Bernardino county. Please name them. J.

A.: The three samples are rocks. No. 1 is a greenish lava carrying matter on the order of spherical pebbles, and these pebbles are a variety of quartz (chalcedony.) No. 2 is Basalt; it is composed of the minerals chrysolite, augite, and feldspar. It is green-gray in color, and iron is present in the mass. No. 3 is classed by some authors as "porphyry." Composition feldspar only, and feldspar crystals are imbedded in the matrix of massive feldspar (orthoclase.) The sample is an Agglomerate. "Agglomerate are those in which the pebbles and the cement are the same materials, while in Conglomerates they are of different materials."

Slate Waste.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 24.—Q.: I am interested in some land in California which in time past was worked for roofing and other slate. There is a very large tonnage of slate waste at the quarry. Can you inform me if there are any uses to which this waste can be applied? G. K. L.

A.: A. T. Coons in 1912 "Mineral Resources" covers the slate industry fully, and from his paper we will give some facts of interest.

"Many reasons have been advanced in the trade papers for the lack of continuous increase in the slate trade. Generally the first reason advanced is that the quarrymen are more and more hampered by the continually increasing quantity of waste slate in the large quarries. This waste which is said to amount to 60, 80 or even 90 per cent. of the material quarried, must be handled by the quarrymen, and necessarily adds to the cost of production and forms huge mounds of scrap, some of them lying in the path of future development, or obstructing roads and passageways to and from the quarry."

Mr. Coons further refers to the facts that the subject of the waste matter has been studied by the survey, the Bureau of Standards, chemists, etc., with the results that "no use which will quickly obliterate the obnoxious heaps has yet been found."

The paper gives certain uses in which some of the waste can be utilized for paint (pigment;) other portions being imbedded in an asphaltic mixture for roofing purposes; some for foundations in stucco work, and a small portion is sold for structural material and flagging. Shale brick manufacture is one other source for the use of the material, and "almost innumerable uses have been found for milled slate, and although no great increase in its output has been made from year to year, there seems to be no adequate reason why the output should not be increased if a demand for the material can be created by exploiting in the markets." Other uses are noted in the report on slate for 1909.

You are respectfully referred to the authorities set forth, and, in a general way it may be noted that California may find many uses for the utilization of milled slate in the manufacture of brick, certain fillers, cements, and so forth.

Baryte.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 25.—Q.: I have a mining prospect in San Bernardino county, and there are small veins of rock like sample. I thought this was lead carbonate, but I have an assay from a Denver firm that tells me it carries less than one-half of 1 per cent. Please tell me what kind of rock the sample is. A. L. N.

A.: The sample is barium sulphate of sufficient purity for use as a paint base and in the manufacture of certain barium compounds.

Not Apatite.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 25.—Q.: Package herewith contains samples picked up in Eldorado Canyon, Nevada. Is it apatite? Please name it. C. M. J.

A.: The sample consists of 11 thumb specimens, and each of them are of different composition. The little geode is a mixture of silicates of carbonate of lime and magnesia. The pearly-glassy lustered rock is pearlstone, and the circular shaped mass is simply eruptive rock. The brownish-red, and the yellowish, sample represent jasper of no value. The gray-brown matter with fern-like markings is contaminated with iron, manganese, and chalcedony. The gray sample carries a low per cent. of phosphoric acid.

Pegmatitic.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 26.—Q.: Gold (?) Found near San Bernardino, Cal. Please test the rock and publish results in "In the Earth." B. J. A.

A.: While the rock is not strictly Pegmatite (quartz, with feldspar) both minerals are present. Iron oxides traces. Microscopical pyrite (iron disulphide) sparingly appears, and in one iron oxide (limonitic) crevice a microscopical color of free gold shows up under a powerful microscope.

In Part Igneous.

DELANO (Nev.) Nov. 26.—Q.: Herewith three samples which I will be glad to have you test out! etc. E. F. C.

A.: No. 1 is a blackish igneous iron-froth. No. 2 in part almandite with zinc traces. No. 3 (wrapped with No. 1) is impure Dumortierite; opal silica, chalcedony, lime silicate, epidote in the mass, and trace of phosphoric acid. The other "No. 3" is lava.

Chiefly Silicates.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 27.—Q.: Please find accompanying four mineral samples from near Brauman, San Diego county, Cal. You will confer a favor on the sender and his associates if you will give the mineralogical names of the samples and what they contain. All of the samples come in dykes from twenty to thirty feet in width, associated with aluminum silicates, and walls of gneissic-granite, altered to the porphyritic; a hard, dark-green and fine-grained rock is also associated with the dykes, and as "horses" (as called by your mining boys.) The differing strata of the dykes show vein action, as their edges are smooth (slickensides.) The walls of the dykes are free; likewise the "horses," and not frozen to the walls. Thanking you in advance, I beg to remain a friend of The Times. W. C. M.

A.: Your polite expression of friendship is reciprocated.

REPORTS ON WAGES AND CONDITIONS.

Timely Bulletins from All Parts of the World.

Bulletin No. 153, just issued by the Bureau of Labor Statistics of the United States Department of Labor, gives the rates of wages paid and hours of labor in our lumber, millwork and furniture industries, as follows:

Lumber Industry.

Work—	Average weekly wages.
Doggers	$11.[illegible]
Laborers	10.40
Machine feeders, planing mill	11.24
Carriage men	12.94
Trimmer operators	18.20
Edger men	16.25
Sawyers, resaw	15.77
[illegible]	15.71
Sawyers, gang	19.02
Sawyers, band	33.90
Sawyers, circular	31.71

The average full-time weekly earnings in this industry in 1913 were 3.4 per cent. higher than such earnings in 1912, 4.9 per cent. higher than in 1911, and 5.4 per cent. higher than in 1910.

Rates of wages or earnings per hour in 1914 were 4 per cent. higher than in 1912, 5.4 per cent. higher than in 1911 and 5.7 per cent. higher than in 1910.

The full-time hours of labor per week in 1913 were 0.7 per cent. lower than in 1912, and 0.5 per cent lower than in each of the years 1910 and 1911.

In 1913 the average full-time weekly earnings of employees engaged in lumber manufacturing varied from $10.40 for laborers to $33.90 for band sawyers.

In a few mills the working time was less than sixty hours per week, and in a further few it was it was sixty-six. The predominating working time was sixty hours per week, although for quite a percentage of the employees it was sixty-six hours.

All of the lumber employees are males. The United States census gives the total number of lumber employees as 547,178, of which California has 15,614. Louisiana leads with 43,996, followed by Washington with 41,684, and Mississippi with 32,106.

California's share:

Work—	Average wages per hour.
Doggers	$0.2286
Edger men	.3402
Laborers	.2071
Machine feeders, planing mill	.2280
Sawyers, band	.5366
Sawyers, circular	.5208
Sawyers, gang	.2875
Sawyers, resaw	.2482
Setters	.2721
Trimmer operators	.2668

These wages rank among the highest paid in any of our lumber States.

Mill Work.

Work—	Average weekly earnings.
Laborers	$10.47
Bench hands	16.90
Machine hands	15.57

Full-time hours of labor in this industry in 1913 were 0.4 per cent. lower than in 1912 and 0.9 per cent. lower than in each of the years 1910 and 1911.

Rates of wages per hour in 1913 were 2.4 per cent. higher than in 1912, 4.9 per cent. higher than in 1911 and 6.2 per cent. higher than in 1910.

Full-time weekly earnings were 2 per cent. higher in 1913 than in 1912, 4 per cent. higher than in 1911, and 5.4 per cent. higher than in 1910.

The full-time hours of labor per week in 1913 varied in the several establishments from less than forty-eight to sixty, the average being 56.7 for laborers, 54.5 for bench hands and 55.5 for machine hands.

The country has 122,392 millwork workers, of whom 6341 are in California. These latter are paid as follows:

Work—	Rate of wages per hour.
Bench hands	$0.4000
Laborers	.2587
Machine hands	.4086

No other State pays anything like as high wages for similar work.

Furniture Manufacturing.

Work—	Average weekly wages.
Cabinet makers	$13.30
Carvers, hand	17.41
Chair assemblers	11.32
Finishers	11.81
Machine hands	12.50
Upholsterers	16.42
Veneerers	12.45

Full-time hours of labor per week in this industry in 1913 were 1.6 per cent. lower than in 1912, 2.1 per cent. lower than in 1911 and 2.7 per cent. lower than in 1910.

Rates of wages per hour in 1913 were 3.6 per cent. higher than in 1912, 5.8 per cent. higher than in 1911 and 7.9 per cent. higher than in 1910.

Full-time weekly earnings were 1.8 per cent higher in 1913 than in 1912, 2.8 per cent. higher than in 1911 and 4.1 per cent. higher than in 1910.

The average full-time hours of labor per week in 1913 were:

Cabinet makers	57.2
Carvers	55.1
Chair assemblers	57.8
Finishers	57.2
Machine hands	57.6
Upholsterers	55.8
Veneerers	57.2

It will be observed that in this industry, as in the lumber and millwork industries, the general of each occupation is toward a reduction of working hours and an increase in rates of wages per hour and of earnings per full week.

Railroad Car Building and Repairing.

Work—	Wages per hour.
Cabinet makers	$0.2854
Carpenters and car builders	.2651
Car repairers	.2560
Fitters	.2501
Machine woodworkers	.2750
Machinists	.3142
Painters	.2902
Pipe fitters	.2344
Riveters and buckers	.3058
Tinners	.2405
Truck builders	.2645
Upholsterers	.3014
Laborers	.1766

The United States has 325,360 persons engaged in this industry, of whom 9488 are employed in California. Pennsylvania leads with 54,411.

More Workers and Shorter Hours.

More people were employed in the factories of the State of New York in 1913, and the working hours were shorter than ever before, according to the State Commissioner of Labor, James M. Lynch.

The total number was 1,364,070, which is 128,000 more than in 1912. Of the total of 1,286,043 shop employees, 373,907 were women and 15,926 were children between 14 and 16 years old. In 1912 there were 12,519 children of these ages similarly employed.

On September 30, 1913, more than one-fourth of the factory operatives were working eight hours a day or its equivalent, more than one-half nine hours a day or its equivalent and one-sixth on a ten-hour day or its equivalent. In 1912, 20 per cent. were working eight hours, 46 per cent. nine hours, and 32 per cent., ten hours.

"The reason for the change in hours," says Commissioner Lynch, "the therefold. Part of the decrease was due to the general movement toward shorter hours, part was due to the depression in industrial conditions and part was due to the new nine-hour law for women."

This applied particularly to conditions in the textile group, where there were 42 per cent. working nine hours and the rest working ten hours, in 1912. The law which went into effect October 1, 1912, shifted the figures in 1913 to 84 per cent. doing nine hours, and only 9 per cent. working ten hours a day.

There were 51,118 factories in the State in 1913, against 43,851 in 1912. The largest industry group was the clothing, millinery and laundry group, which employed 377,525 workers, or 28 per cent. of the total.

In Greater New York there were 35,849 factories, an increase of 1721, and 100,000 more persons worked in factories than during the previous year. The clothing group of industries employed 312,254 persons of the total of 782,566, which is 40 per cent. of the total. Forty per cent. of the city factory workers were under an eight-hour schedule and nearly 50 per cent. under a nine-hour schedule or its equivalent.

LABOR UNIONS MAY NOT BE EXEMPT.

EDITORIAL.

When James A. Emery, counsel for the National Council for Industrial Defense, addressed the convention of the National Founders' Association a few days ago, he expressed the opinion that the exemption clause of the Clayton law does not really exempt the labor and farmers' organizations from the prohibitions of the anti-trust act. He said that it was a sop thrown to the labor lobby, whose language even does not convey the exemption which to some, especially of those (Gompers and Co.,) who made the demand on President Wilson and Congress for special favor, it seems to express. At the same time he conceded that there is considerable ambiguous language in the law, so that decisions of the higher courts must be awaited until the effect of certain provisions can be known.

The general understanding has been, among laymen, says the Journal of Albany, N. Y., that the exemption clause was intended to make the favored labor union and farmers' organizations immune from the operation of the anti-trust law. The expressed gratification of some labor leaders (especially Gompers and Co.) is evidence of such interpretation of the language of the exemption clause (it was for securing the passage of this class legislation clause that Gompers got his salary raised from $5000 to $7500 a year, with a jump for his chief aid, Frank Morrison, from $4000 to $5000 a year—all to come out of union labor's shrunk or shrinking wage-money.) On the other hand, doubt has been expressed that a provision of law seeking to establish inequality of various groups of American citizens before the law, would be sustained by the courts. But Mr. Emery believes that it was not the intent of Congress to grant to the union-labor and farmers' organizations special immunity. As he is a lawyer, and one of prominence, his opinion has weight.

But in that case, Congress has deceived the labor lobby. The Democratic majority, which lacked the moral courage to refuse a demand for special privileges, and at the same time would not enact law which in all probability would be declared unconstitutional, put together a mass of words which seem to, but do not, grant that demand. This is Mr. Emery's view:

The Iron Trade Review says, in an article in which the exemption clause is discussed:

"The claims made by labor leaders since the passage of the Clayton law differ radically from the views expressed by such men as Daniel Davenport, Mr. Emery and others, and it is probable that if the views of the latter prove to be correct, the labor unions will not be slow in making demands on Congress for further legislation. But that is a matter of the distant future. The important fact at present is that business men need not entertain feelings of apprehension in regard to the effects of the Clayton law."

Not less important is the disclosure—if Mr. Emery's opinion is correct—of the fact that the Democratic Congress has been guilty of double-dealing, expecting that thus it would gain partisan advantage in the form of support at the elections of last month and in November, 1916, for its party of those who should be made to believe that they had been specially favored at the expense of other American citizens—at the expense of the country at large.

Johnsonian.

TO SPEND THREE MILLIONS IN CARE OF UNEMPLOYED.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SACRAMENTO, Dec. 12.—In response to an oral request for plans for handling and providing for the destitute and unemployed, made by Gov. Johnson a few days ago, the State Commission of Immigration and Housing has recommended the establishment of a municipal lodging-house in every city in California for the winter months. The expense to the cities of the State is estimated at about $3,000,000. The plan provides for work tests for the deserving needy.

Merely as a tentative suggestion, the commission recommended that the various local authorities consider it essential to stop immediately the practice of driving the unemployed out of one city or town into the next.

The commission urges that every municipality be asked to establish a municipal lodging-house, furnishing sleeping quarters and food. All homeless and destitute men who apply voluntarily should be furnished accommodation in return for work a certain number of hours per day. The work referred to would include street and road work, cleaning lots, work in public buildings and institutions—in fact, all sorts of public or municipal work.

"Looking toward industrial relief measures, all State and local public departments should be encouraged to enlarge their work wherever possible, such as State highway and county construction, sewer construction, etc.," the report adds. "The commencement of public work for which appropriations have been voted should be hastened, and public work which is usually done in the summer should be done this winter, where the climate always permits."

Climbing Up.

STEADY GAIN OF THE WOMEN.

FEWER MEN ARE ENGAGED IN PROFESSIONAL PURSUITS.

During Past Ten Years Female Architects Have Increased Two Hundred Per Cent.; in Literary Field One Hundred and Twenty-six, and in Law Thirty Per Cent.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—More than a half-million more persons over 10 years of age were engaged in professional pursuits in the United States in 1910 than in 1900, according to figures of the Census Bureau. In 1910 the number of persons engaged in professional pursuits was 1,825,127, compared with 1,258,538 in 1900.

Of those engaged in professional occupations in 1910, 1,151,709 were males and 673,418 females. This compares with 827,941 males and 430,597 females in 1900.

During the decade the proportion of males decreased in the professions from 65.8 to 63.1 per cent., while that of females increased from 34.2 to 36.9 per cent. In 1910 there were four women to every seven men engaged in professional service, a large proportion of the women being teachers.

Some of the most noteworthy increases follow: Architects, males, 110.5; females, 200.7; literary and scientific persons, males, 102.9; females, 126.0; actors, males, 95.6; females, 88.1. The smallest increase was in the number of lawyers, males being 6.5 and females 23.0.

GIRL USHERS ARE A FAILURE.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, Dec. 5.—Girl ushers in theaters are declared to be a failure by the Municipal Bureau of Fire Prevention. An ordinance requiring all theaters to employ men ushers was sent to the Council last night at the instance of John C. McDonnell, chief of the bureau. "Girl ushers are not equal to men in times of emergency, such as fires and panics," said McDonnell. A number of Chicago theaters have employed girls as ushers for several years.

Persona Non Grata.

LONDON BARS ALIEN WAITER.

FOREIGN CAFE EMPLOYEES IN HARD LINES.

War has Resulted in Triumph for British Union, Which now Finds its Members in Demand in Many Large Eating-houses and Hotel Restaurants.

[A. P. FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

LONDON, Nov. 30.—"No alien enemies employed in this establishment," is one of the signs now confronting Londoners in the majority of the restaurants, tea shops and eating places of the middle and cheaper grades. Some go even further and announce "No Alien Enemies are Employed or Served."

This is a triumph for the British Waiters' Union. Before the war foreigners from the continent monopolised the waiters' calling throughout England, except in a few of the old-fashioned British establishments, particularly those in the heart of London, where an old guard of business men living up to the traditions of former generations remain faithful to their turtle soup and beefsteak and bottle of port, for their midday meal, and cling to famous old resorts which may have been clean and comfortable according to the standards of Dickens's and Thackeray's time, but would command the attentions of the board of health in an American city.

The staffs of the larger English hotels, from the manager's office to the kitchen, were manned by foreigners. Most of these hotels are owned by companies and the stockholders placed dividends before loyalty to British servants, when British employees had been proved less profitable than aliens. Germans, Swiss and Italians had taken the hotel and restaurant business by storm.

The British Waiters' Union clamored for recognition vainly until the war. Then the newspapers took up its case, and there has resulted a clean sweep of Germans, Austrians and of Swiss who speak with a German accent. The big hotels are too dignified to placard their windows with the signs that alien enemies are not employed, but they make a more conspicuous and more diplomatic show of patriotism by covering their fronts with flags and loyal mottoes.

The case of German restaurants and shops which have professed to purvey genuine German foods and beers, is especially pathetic. One of the latter, which has many branches in London, has filled its windows with signs that its sausages are made from British pork at its own factory in the North of England, and also makes announcements of its contributions to the Prince of Wales' Relief Fund. Another explains that the alien owners were bought out by British capital years ago, but the German name was retained to keep the old customers.

WOMAN FIGHTS UNION TYRANNY.

VICTORIOUS STRUGGLE AGAINST ORGANIZED LABORISM.

Gives an Example in San Francisco of the Nefarious Tactics the Unionites will Stoop to to Secure Recognition of Their Organization, and Their Contempt for Injunctions.

[San Francisco Review:] This is not the story of a poor "woikin' goil," whose trials and struggles have been so tearfully and sadly exploited by squads of sob sisters in recent years. Nor is it romantic fiction, where gallant heroes woo and win fair maidens, or where the rich merchant finally marries the saleslady from the glove counter.

It is a business story—the story of how a woman and her husband have struggled for the right to live and mind their own affairs in this big American city of San Francisco. Of how a woman has struggled against being overcome—not by cunning, scheming monsters of whom the sob sisters write—but by an organized band of pirates more barbarous and ruthless than the hordes of Ghengis Khan.

Being only an independent working woman—one of millions in this country—and laying no claim to public interest in my individual affairs, there is no need to enter into details concerning the early struggles of my life. The purpose of this story is only to show how a small minority of the people of San Francisco—only 15 per cent.—are permitted, through public indifference, to worry and harass honest effort and industry.

Suffice it to say that I am a native daughter, born in Solano county, Vallejo, and came to San Francisco at an early age to earn a living. I was totally dependent on my work, for my parents were dead. On arriving here, penniless and friendless, I found work in a place where vests were made. I sewed on buttons. My father, by the way, was a veteran of the Civil War, having been a soldier in the cause of the Union. He had taught me to respect the flag and what it stands for.

After working in the vest establishment for several years I saved enough money to furnish a small rooming-house. I not only conducted the rooming-house, but did all the work connected with it.

It was during this time that I met a young man by the name of D. N. Edington, who was working at Clarke's bakery. The story of our eventual marriage is, of course, our own affair, but I will say that the best we could do in saving after our wedding was to lay aside $2 per week. This we did until we had $64, and I will never forget my feelings of exultation and success and complete independence when we had accumulated that amount.

Clarke's bakery, I must explain, was established in San Francisco in 1880, and was boycotted by the unions in 1884. This boycott continued from time to time until 1901, as I have since learned from Mr. Clarke. It was in 1901, when Clarke's was running "open shop," that the young man who is now my husband went to work for Clarke's. He was satisfied with the hours and wages and tells me he received the best of treatment.

In 1903 all the restaurant employees in San Francisco were called out on strike, which caused Clarke's to close. My husband was forced to join the union, but found conditions under the domination of the leaders very unsatisfactory. He refused to do what they told him and dropped out.

In September, 1906, Clarke's bakery opened again for business on the "open shop" basis. This time it was on Van Ness avenue. My husband was employed as steward and all the old employees were brought back to work.

The union again made their demands, which were refused, and very soon there was another boycott. They placed pickets in front, but an injunction was obtained and they were removed. But they continued their tactics till Mr. Clarke was worn out, and decided to quit.

The bakery was owned by a stock company, but the stock, of course, wasn't worth very much. My husband and I were given an opportunity to buy the place on very easy terms. We had managed, both working all the time and saving all we could, to accumulate a little money and we thought for a long time about investing all we had in such a dangerous proposition. Mr. Clarke advised us to leave it alone.

But, as I said before, my father had fought for his country and I must have inherited his belief that American citizens had a right to live and attend to their own business so long as they did not interfere with the rights of others. My husband is also a native of California, from Napa county, and luckily he and I had the same idea about our independence. We didn't have much, we said, so couldn't lose much. And if we did lose out, we could go back to working for some one else. I knew I could make a living and so did he.

So, on January, 1908, we bought the place, No. 429 Van Ness avenue, and started in as an "open shop" bakery and restaurant. We had difficulty in buying our goods, but finally stocked up from various "open shop" houses throughout the city. A theater happened to buy some of our goods, but the unions quickly heard about it and the order was cancelled. It meant much to us then, for the order was a good cash one, and we needed the money.

Then our customers, few as they were, began to receive anonymous letters warning and threatening them to stay away from our place. They were followed to their homes, insulted and annoyed in every possible way by the pickets who were constantly posted in front.

This continued until November, 1913, when we were called upon by a delegate of the Cooks' Union, who informed us we must discharge our employees and hire union help or we would be closed.

Ten of our employees had been with us from four to six years and were our real friends. They were working short hours, for we always insisted upon best conditions for those working for us, and they were paid union wages. They were contented and satisfied and we were also, so why should we obey the demands of this walking-delegate? We had done fairly well so far, so we decided to ignore his threats.

In December, 1913, the real fight of the unions began. Almost a regiment of pickets was stationed in front of our place. The insults and annoyances to our customers were renewed. When either my husband or myself went out into the street to protect our employees or for other reasons we were shamefully insulted. When our employees went out to deliver goods they were set upon and followed.

At last my husband and myself decided to deliver the goods ourselves. We got up so early in the morning that we were able to deliver them before daylight. But even this did not escape the relentless vigilance of the pickets. They followed us on motorcycles and watched where we delivered it.

Then they obtained the names of our customers and began a systematic boycott and series of insults and threats against them. This continued until April, when we went before the Superior Court and obtained an injunction prohibiting such annoyances.

This injunction, issued by a Superior Court, was absolutely ignored by the pickets and unions. I myself served twenty-nine writs in one day. I am ashamed for my sex to say it, but one of these picketts was a woman. I handed her one of these writs and she tore it into bits, throwing them on the street. She swore and dared me to meet her in the alley.

She dared a policeman to arrest her and other pickets told the officer he couldn't do anything—they wouldn't stay in jail two minutes, even if he did have the nerve to arrest them, they said.

A high official of the Labor Council called upon us. He said he had nothing against us, but we must make our employees join the union.

"We have nothing against you," he said, "but your help must join the organization. You make too good homes for them and they hide behind your skirts, so they won't pay dues. They must be made to join the union and help contribute to the organization."

On May 1 we opened another place at Bush street and Van Ness avenue. This place we fitted up with nothing but "open shop" material and with "open shop" help. It is also picketed and will probably continue to be.

Against these pickets themselves we have no grievance whatever, for they are only following the commands of their bosses. But we feel very sorry that they should permit themselves to be such dupes, and can't understand why they fail to see that the real work of life is to produce something, to be a real factor and not a parasite.

This long struggle on the part of the unions to crush us has cost us much money and much unnecessary work. I cannot go into all the sordid details, but we are convinced we are right. We know that we have violated no laws, that we have injured no human being nor set of human beings, and we are convinced that the principle of the "closed shop," the dominating, dictatorial, destructive methods of the labor leaders of this city are wrong.

But we have had many friends during this long struggle. The unions must not think they are the whole population of San Francisco—they are only 15 per cent., as a matter of fact. Some of our customers and friends have patronized our place continuously all these years, and they have brought other customers, for the majority of our citizens are just and fair and resent this unjust persecution.

We shall continue to run our place "open shop." We have no fear of this cruel organization, called "Organized Labor," that has usurped power from the public at large and has presumed to say who shall work and who shall not, and what wages shall be paid and hours observed. We shall continue to treat those who work for us as we would be treated if we were working for them.

I do not believe there is a chance for us to be subjugated by this despotic organization, and we are not asking favors at their hands. All we ask is justice, and we ask the protection by the constituted authorities that should be given to every citizen of the United States, this "home of the free" that we have been bragging about. Don't think for a minute that I, daughter of a veteran of the Civil War, mean by this to reflect in the smallest degree upon our nation's laws or flag. San Francisco is not the nation, and while I have never traveled over this country to any great extent, I positively know that citizens of every city are protected from organized destruction and other dangers to a greater degree than we are here.

But let me, in conclusion, a plain, independent working woman, offer a prophecy in regard to San Francisco. It is this: The public is beginning to understand the utter unfairness and injustice of the labor oligarchy that dominates San Francisco, and it will not be long before such experiences as I have here related are impossible in this city.

Meanwhile, the Superior Court injunction still exists—it has never been annulled, but the pickets continue their promenades before our place.

RAILROAD MEN LOSE STRIKE.

The Three Years Strife on the Harriman Lines is Ended Without Recognition of the Federation.

[Chicago Herald:] After three years the Harriman railroad strike is ended.

More than 15,000 employees in the shops on practically all Harriman lines have voted that their strike was a failure, and that they would return to work without recognition of their system federation.

On September 30, 1911, officials of the boilermakers, blacksmiths, carmen and machinists of about thirty railroads called on their men to lay down their tools after negotiations were broken off with Julius Kruttschnitt and Robert S. Lovett, then the heads of the Harriman lines. Negotiations had been in progress for three months. The strike affected the Union and Southern Pacific railroads with their western subsidiaries, and the Illinois Central.

Strikebreakers for the Illinois Central were fired upon at Macomb, Miss. Tony Musser was shot and killed by Carl Person, editor of the Illinois Central Strike Bulletin, at Clinton, Ill., and there were many instances of damage to rolling stock on various lines. Person was tried and acquitted.

Railway clerks of the Illinois Central lines south of the Ohio River joined in the strike on a grievance of their own. Painters, sheet metal workers and others aided the strikers in many cities.

Several riots occurred in New Orleans, in which cars were burned and other railroad property destroyed. In a few weeks railroads operating in fifteen States and representing more than 25,000 miles of track were involved.

The Illinois Central obtained an injunction in New Orleans and many of the strikers were cited for contempt of court for participation in riots. Police guards were placed about the Burnside shops of the railroad here and for several weeks more than 150 policemen guarded the property of the railroad.

About a month ago officials of the unions at the demands of the striking men called for a referendum vote of the members to decide whether the strike should continue or peace be declared.

According to dispatches from Omaha the vote was overwhelming in favor of peace, and an official announcement of the ending of the conflict will be made in a few days.

GIVE VETERANS PAYING RUNS.

ENGINEERS TESTIFY IN WAGE HEARING AT CHICAGO.

Railroads Show that Under the Seniority Rule Men are Given Choice and Take Long Hours When They Find Their Work is Made Profitable.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, Dec. 10.—Four engineers engaged in switching or "helper" service, testified today in the arbitration proceedings involving wage questions between western railroads and their engine men.

They were called to the witness stand to show the long hours and hardships of their employment. The three switch engineers confessed working thirteen and fourteen hours a day and the "helper" engineer to eleven or more.

James M. Sheehan, attorney for the railroads, on cross-examination, dwelt on the fact that, under the seniority rule, the men chose their own runs, and he exhibited information bringing out that the veterans had runs considered profitable in comparison with the earnings of other industrial workmen.

John C. Goulding, a switch engineer of Chicago, who works nearly fourteen hours a day except on his day off, and who catches up with his sleep by spending most of this day, and five or six other days that he lays off, in bed, confessed to be earning about $140 a month. To do this, Mr. Stone pointed out, he works the equivalent of thirty-nine eight-hour days in a month.

WITNESS FROM OREGON.

C. R. D. Jones of Ashland, Or., the hardships and peril of whose run have made him one of the most widely-known locomotive engineers in the country, was a witness today.

He is on a Southern Pacific run on the route between Portland, Or., and San Francisco, where a number of tunnels pierce portions of the Siskiyou Mountains. In negotiating these tunnels engine crews wear respirators over their faces. The masks, as they are more commonly called, are fed by compressed air, filtered to the nostrils through a sponge saturated with water. Heat in an engine cab in one of these tunnels reaches a temperature of 160 deg., and six engines are required to handle a freight train through them.

TUNNEL BLOCKED.

Some time ago Jones told the arbitrators he was engineer on one of five engines pulling a train through tunnel No. 13, which is 3120 feet long. He said the tunnel became blocked, and knowing that the men could not stand the deadly fumes for long, he took the desperate chance of abandoning his respirator in an attempt to arrange for backing out of the tunnel. He became asphyxiated almost immediately and other engineers backed the train out without him, he having fallen into a gutter by the side of the track. He was missed and three attempts were made by rescuers before they were able to recover his unconscious form.

He was thought to be dead, but good fortune in the near presence of a physician saved his life, though he lingered in delirium and convalescence for several weeks before leaving his bed.

"And I was 'docked' for the time," added the witness.

The testimony of Jones was designed by the men to illustrate previous assertions that the perils and hardships of their work are a factor which should be considered in their request for more pay. Switch Engineer A. Skoog of Minneapolis, engaged in transfer service between Minneapolis and St. Paul, also testified.

JOCULAR MANNER OF LABOR LEADER.

CARTER LAUGHS AT HIS OWN SUGGESTION OF SHARING PROFITS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, Dec. 3.—Charles Nagel, former Secretary of Commerce and Labor, and a member of the board of arbitration appointed to settle the wage demands of the enginemen of ninety-eight western railroads, interrupted today the hearing to cross-examine W. S. Carter, president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen.

Mr. Carter's cross-examination came after he had made thinly veiled accusations that, since the wage question had been submitted to arbitration, the railways have been using the fewest enginemen possible in order that their rate of pay may appear high.

In speaking of the intermittent nature of the work of enginemen, Mr. Carter submitted a table purporting to give the earnings of firemen and enginemen in the first two or three years of their service, beginning with the year 1912. According to the table of 4098 promoted (from firemen) engineers, 2349 have earned an average of less than $80 per month worked and that of the total number only 419 have earned more than an average of $80 per month for the months worked.

WORST CASTE SYSTEM KNOWN.

Has Been Created in the United States by Unionist Opposition to Apprentices in Trades.

[Pierre N. Biringer in American Industries:] A factor aiding the forces of evil filling the jails and penal institutions is found in the opposition to the apprenticeship of boys, enforced through so-called union "law" and, en passant, it is a commentary on our boasted civilization that less than a million "organized" men and women may, through their unions, decide that the system of apprenticeship shall cease or be so applied as to provide for hereditary plumbers, brick and stone masons and that this heritage shall extend only as a privilege to one son in every five families of the crafts mentioned. A practice established by union "law" in some places, a rapidly growing evil. It will soon be so that the disinherited as to trade apprenticeship opportunity will be denied access to all trades in the wild endeavor of the present generation to keep the "jobs" for the clansmen of the present day. The clan has created the caste and the worst caste system the world has ever known exists in the United States today under the benign patronage of the highest executive officer of the land and by virtue of partial or total exemption from prosecution through the action of the assembled place seekers in Congress. But that is another story.

IS BENEFICIAL FOR SMELTERS.

Important Decision in the Selby Case.

Clarifies Air for Other Fume Litigation.

Angelenos Reopen Property Near Oroville.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

REDDING, Dec. 11.—A highly important decision, certain to have a clarifying influence on future smelter-smoke litigation, was rendered last week by the commission appointed to decide the long-standing friction between the Selby Smelting Company and the farming interests of Solano county. After a comprehensive investigation the commission decided the smelter is not damaging vegetation or otherwise harming agriculture in the district, and the complaint of the grangers was found to be without merit.

As a result the Selby smelter will continue to operate at full capacity and is freed from further danger of interference on the part of the farming interests. The commission was composed of Dr. J. A. Holmes, director of the United States Bureau of Mines; Edward C. Franklin, professor of organic chemistry at Stanford University, and Ralph A. Gould, the chemical engineer and former chief of the bureau of chemistry, Department of Agriculture, at San Francisco. The commission found the smelter had formerly caused damage, but since installing a baghouse and Cottrell electrical controller, all objectionable elements had been handled satisfactorily.

This decision is expected to have an important influence on the action of the Farmers' Protective Association against the Mammoth Copper Company, now being heard before Judge Van Fleet, at San Francisco. Last week Judge Van Fleet made a personal inspection of the agricultural conditions in the vicinity of Redding and Kennett, a move that was welcomed particularly by the smelting interests.

The Mammoth plant is equipped with a magnificent baghouse and the splendid fertility of surrounding agricultural lands convincingly proves the efficacy of the system. A decision favorable to the company will be followed by the addition of 100 miners to the force and enlarged activities at the big smelter.

MINE REOPENED.

The Bumble Bee quartz mine, near Oroville, has been reopened by Los Angeles people, and vigorous work prosecuted at depth. The shaft has been carried below the 400-foot level, and from this point a crosscut is being extended in expectation of opening the extension of rich shoots formerly mined in the upper levels. The driving of new levels will commence as soon as the shaft has attained sufficient depth. The property is near the Banner mine, formerly a producer of bonanza ore.

What is believed to be the long-sought Union Hill vein has been intersected at a depth of 700 feet in the Union Hill mine at Grass Valley. The vein consists of white quartz, two feet wide, with free gold showing. Drifts are being pushed on the ore body to determine its extent, and sinking of the shaft still continues.

The Union Hill vein produced lavish values above the 600-foot level, but was later lost and eluded recovery despite the expenditure of $200,000 by former operators. A shoot of mill ore has also been uncovered in the Georgia vein, on the 300 level, the quartz showing streaks of rich ore.

The Union Hill adjoins the Brunswick Consolidated, a consistent dividend-disburser, and is owned largely by Pasadena people. Among these are John E. Pelton, long connected with the famous National mine, at National, Nev.; Tom Reed, discoverer of the famous Tom Reed mine of Arizona; John McDonald, E. W. Fluke, E. W. Knowlton and Daniel Craig. The Union Hill is equipped with a twenty-stamp mill and good mine plant. Thirty-five men are employed.

Unable to raise sufficient funds to carry out work agreed to, the Idaho-Maryland Development Company has surrendered its bond on the Idaho and Maryland mines, Grass Valley district. The company, largely composed of eastern people, has done much work on the ground, but without profitable results. The Maryland Gold Quartz Mining Company has resumed possession of the noted old producer and is forming plans for active work.

The Telegraph Mining Company is installing a centrifugal pump at its property near Downieville, and expects to be able to resume development work in a short time. The pump has a capacity of 180 gallons per minute and is expected to handle all water encountered without difficulty. Sinking of the shaft is to be resumed immediately. A fair reserve of mill ore is exposed in the old workings. The Telegraph is largely controlled by local and Southern California people.

AFTER MORE HOLDINGS.

Engineers representing the Natomas Consolidated Company have completed an examination of placer lands along the Sacramento River, near Redding, and negotiations have been opened for bonding of several thousand acres of ground. A considerable area has been already prospected with diamond drills, and has proved very rich.

News was received in Redding last week from Indianapolis containing the information that steps had been taken to refinance the Afterthought Copper Company. A large sum has been placed in the treasury, and gold bonds are being marketed to provide for new development and the building of a modern smelter.

The property contains approximately 1700 acres with more than two miles of underground workings. The ore carries high zinc and copper values, with important percentages of gold and silver. It was recently announced that the management had developed a satisfactory process for the recovery of zinc and copper, eliminating the metallurgical troubles which had hitherto hampered production.

Good results are attending the vigorous operation of the Republican mine near Sonora, with the mill running steadily on profitable ore. The main body averages sixteen feet wide, with most of the ore showing milling values. Occasionally rich shoots have been uncovered and prospecting of virgin ground is being conducted in expectation of striking high-grade rock.

Further details germane to the sale of the Dutch and Sweeney mines, at Quartz, to a syndicate of New York capitalists, have been given out. The company will be known as the Dutch-Sweeney Mining Company, and one of the first acts of the new owners will be the sinking of the 1800-foot Dutch mine shaft several hundred feet deeper. On the 1800 level the ore showing is exceptionally fine, with all indications favoring persistence of the ledges. The Sweeney ground will be vigorously developed from the Dutch workings. The price paid has not been revealed, but is said to be high.

Arrangements have been made by California dredging interests thoroughly to examine the extensive holdings of Conway, Miller, Hilton and Burke in Mono Lake basin, Mono county. The property contains 2000 acres, estimated to embrace 14,000,000 cubic yards of profitable placer ground. A considerable portion of the area has been thoroughly prospected.

DEAL AT LAST SEEMS CLOSED.

WORLD'S FAIR MINE IS UNDER LEASE AND BOND.

Property Operated in Strange Fashion Appears to have Changed Hands After Repeated Negotiations—Price Believed to be About a Million Dollars.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

BISBEE (Ariz.) Dec. 11.—After repeated negotiations with various interests, Frank Powers and wife appear to have definitely disposed of the World's Fair mine in the Harshaw district, near Patagonia. The property now is under lease and bond to Smith & Swatling, who are working it vigorously. The price to be paid has not been made public, but is believed to be not far from $1,000,000, the amount the Phelps-Dodge Company was to have paid.

The property has been worked since 1892, and has been developed by a 500-foot tunnel. Some of the ore broken down by Powers was so rich that canvas was spread to receive it as it fell. One vein of almost pure native silver was a full foot in width, and was taken out without the use of powder. Several lenses of marvelously rich ruby and silver sulphide were found by Powers, who was a practical miner of the keenest sort, though curious in habits and suspicious of all comers. He worked the property irregularly, sometimes for months keeping the tunnel locked in behind a heavy bulkhead door.

Investigate Coal.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SAN CARLOS (Ariz.) Dec. 11.—During the past week there has been some investigation of the Deer Creek coal field, lying about seventeen miles from this point on the Globe branch of the Arizona Eastern. It is also about twelve miles from the Gila River at a point a short distance above Christmas, the terminus of the Phoenix-San Carlos branch of the Arizona Eastern.

The coal is a grayish lignite, of poor quality on the surface, but improves with depth. Development has been completed at one point to 150 feet, in a shaft now in bad state. The surface showing is of a large number of almost vertical veins, from one to ten feet in width, in very badly shattered sandstone and limestone. With depth the veins bend and flatten and the ground is firmer and the coal much better. Some of the coal was used years ago at the Christmas smelter of the Saddle Mountain Copper Company and it is told that even a batch of coke was made.

Water is decidedly scarce at the coal field. It has been suggested that the field may be made valuable by the installation of works for burning the coal at the pit mouth and for the generation of electricity for transmission to the near-by mining camps of Christmas, Hayden, Ray, Superior, Miami and Globe.

ATTENDANCE IS DISAPPOINTING.

CONGRESS NOT ATTENDED BY EXPECTED NUMBER.

Recently-enacted Laws are Discussed—That Mining is Discriminated Against in this Country, is the Impression Brought out at Meeting.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

PHOENIX (Ariz.) Dec. 11.—The American Mining Congress session just concluded in Phoenix has not had as large an attendance as hoped, possibly due to the condition of the metal market. There was a fair attendance of Arizona mining men, however, and so a number of the discussions naturally were given a local flavor, covering the recently initiated laws prohibiting the employment of more than 20 per cent. of alien labor and denying employers the right of inquiry into the antecedents of prospective employees.

Some of the delegates expressed the belief that betterment of taxation and labor conditions would come if the mining corporations followed the example set by the labor unions and took the public more into their confidence, fighting in the open all unjust and restrictive legislation.

There seemed to be a general impression that mining as a whole is discriminated against in the United States, considered a gamble, rather than as a legitimate business, and plans were considered for better presentation of the industry before the public.

Support was urged for a bill now in Congress for the establishment of fifteen mining experiment stations, similar in a way to those maintained by the Department of Agriculture at fifty-two points, and it was shown that mining, with nearly half the annual product of agriculture, receives Federal appropriations of only $2,000,000, compared with $28,000,000 for the farmers.

"Safety first" had a large place on the programme, and was introduced by a letter from President Wilson, mainly devoted to the subject, while written as a word of greeting to the congress and of appreciation of its work. A mine rescue car was in Phoenix during the period of the congress and the car's crew gave one public demonstration.

Boom.

GOLDFIELD IS REJUVENATED.

Lively Spirit of Old Days is Renewed.

Consolidated Declares a Large Dividend.

Jumbo Extension's Earnings are Growing.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

GOLDFIELD (Nev.) Dec. 10.—The rejuvenation of the Goldfield district is no longer a matter of conjecture; it is an accomplished fact. After passing through a period of depression lasting more than four years, during which the "home guards," who are entitled to be known as "giants of the desert," never once wavered in their faith in the ultimate outcome of their efforts to prove that the area of enrichment was not limited to the original discoveries, the camp of Goldfield is again on the mining map more prominently than at any time in its entire history.

It has been demonstrated beyond doubt, particularly by developments at depth of late, that the ledges which, in the early boom days of the camp, yielded millions of dollars at shallow depths were but offshoots of the main gigantic orebody lying between the shale, at one time the surface of a large area of the locality, and the latite. It is along this contact of latite and shale that the great discoveries of today are being made; it is through their development that Goldfield will win is enduring fame. Of this there can be no doubt.

Skeptics need only glance at reports of the stock exchanges of New York and San Francisco to be convinced that Goldfield has "come back." Such reports leave no doubt that the investing public has renewed its confidence in Goldfield. Within the past two weeks the trading in local issues not only in New York and San Francisco, but elsewhere as well, has reached a volume that can only be compared with the early boom days of the camp.

In consequence of this general revival of interest in Goldfield, all the pioneers of the camp who strayed "from home" during the period of depression to other fields are returning in large numbers, and the resumption of operations on properties that have lain idle for years is now going ahead by leaps and bounds. Goldfield has "the call."

Goldfield Consolidated.

A notable item of news this week was the declaration by the board of directors of the Consolidated Mines Company of a dividend of 15 cents a share, payable on February 27, 1915, to stockholders of record on January 30. It is the twenty-first dividend declared by the company, and the sum of $533,872.20 will be distributed to stockholders. This will bring the total disbursements up to $27,952,078.20. The declaration of the latest dividend makes comment upon the conditions prevailing in the various mines of the company unnecessary.

Jumbo Extension.

Through the yield of the Velvet claim the Jumbo Extension Mining Company has been enabled to establish new production records far overshadowing those of the early days. The October earnings amounted to $101,000 gross and $76,000 net, while those of November, according to a preliminary estimate just made public by Consulting Engineer J. K. Turner, totalled $125,000 gross and $100,000 net, an increase of $24,000.

With neither wall of the vein exposed, the northeast and southwest drifts and the "air" raise, extended along and upward in the orebody from the top of vertical raise 503C above the east crosscut off the main southeast crosscut on the 1017-foot level, are all yielding high-grade ore. The roof of the "air" raise is exposing six feet of ore that averages $112 per ton. This raise will soon make connection with a hanging-wall crosscut from the east drift on the vein on the 952-foot intermediate or shale "B" level. The northeast and southwest drifts are advancing on five and six-foot faces of $158 and $183 ore, respectively. It is officially announced that preparations are being made for the extension of the east crosscut on the 1017-foot level beyond the point at which raise 503C was put up.

Florence Goldfield.

Like numerous other properties, the Florence mine has again come to the front with an important discovery. In an area of previously unprospected ground on the 250-foot level, in the vicinity of the old Baby Florence and Zinn leaseholds, an east crosscut from the drift on the Baby Florence vein has revealed a new vein, which stands perpendicularly.

The full width of the new discovery has not yet been determined. However, the first eleven feet of quartz exposed gave values of $4 to $5 per ton and the next four feet returned assays varying from $5 to $30.

The November output of the mine totaled approximately 700 tons of ore, according to General Superintendent Harry B. Clapp.

Great Bend Deal.

The firm of Charles S. Sprague & Co., which controls the Jumbo Extension mine, has just concluded a deal with James R. Davis and associates whereby it has acquired control of the Goldfield Great Bend Mining Company. While no reorganization of the company is likely, the Sprague interests will select new officers and directors. These will probably be the men constituting the official personnel of the Jumbo Extension Company.

Plans are already being outlined by the new owners for the development of the Great Bend territory, comprising seven claims in the Diamondfield section of the Goldfield district, on an extensive scale. In the early days of this camp Great Bend stock sold above $2 a share and the property was developed to a considerable extent in a systematic and miner-like fashion, the operations yielding quantities of ore averaging from $70 to $100, with occasional lots of high-grade rock.

Silver Pick.

The new strike on the 500-foot level of the property of the Silver Pick Consolidated Mines Company is responding splendidly to exploratory operations. In a raise to the hanging-wall of the vein, started just below the collar of the winze in the south drift from the east crosscut, there has been exposed four feet of $68 ore. A branch raise has revealed the same ore body, which at the new point measures three feet in width and gives values of $18.

Merger and Atlanta.

Streaks of low-grade ore are being revealed by a crosscut raise in the St. Ives claim of the Goldfield Merger Mines Company. This crosscut is above the east drift along the latite-shale contact, from the 1265-foot level workings of the Goldfield Consolidated's Grizzly Bear shaft. The new pumps recently installed in the Merger shaft to make possible the resumption of exploratory work in the Union Jack claim of the Atlanta Mines Company are successfully handling the large volume of water flowing from the Atlanta workings.

Goldfield Oro.

After a brief suspension of operations, the Goldfield Oro Mining Company is again active. Operations are at present confined to the drifts on the 800-foot level and the west crosscut on the 700-foot level, in all of which nighly encouraging conditions prevail.

Other Properties.

Important discoveries have lately been made in the property of the Reorganized Booth Mining Company. The south drift on the 590-foot intermediate level has exposed one foot of $26 ore and six feet of quartz, giving average values of $12.20. The same ore body has been revealed in a short raise above the east crosscut on the 625-foot or bottom level.

At the Sandstorm-Kendall a new winze has gained a depth of twenty-five feet below the south drift on the 350-foot level on ore assaying from $2 to $5 per ton across the entire bottom. Another winze will soon be started from the east crosscut on the 500-foot level on a foot and a half of $44 ore.

The Diamondfield Black Butte Reorganized Mining Company has increased its operations from one to three shifts of miners. The main shaft will be unwatered from the 150 to the 300-foot level, following which lateral work will be resumed on the latter level.

The following named companies have already started or are preparing to inaugurate or resume operations: Goldfield Mining and Reduction Company, Lone Star Consolidated Mining Company, Goldfield Spearhead Mining and Leasing Company, Goldfield Commonwealth Mining Company, Conqueror Consolidated Mining Company and Reorganized Blue Bull Mining Company.

Numerous other companies which have been idle for several years are also preparing to resume operations, but no official announcements have been made.

MINING CONGRESS ELECTS OFFICERS.

ADJOURNMENT DAY IS ENLIVENED BY A TRIP THROUGH SALT RIVER VALLEY.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

PHOENIX (Ariz.) Dec. 10.—Carl Scholz of Chicago was re-elected today as president of the American Mining Congress. The following vice-presidents also were chosen: Harvey Day Wallace, Idaho; M. S. Kemmerer, New York; Walter Douglas, Bisbee. James F. Callbreth of Denver was re-elected secretary. Scholz, Douglas and Charles S. Keith were named as a committee to select the city in which the eighteenth annual session of the congress will be held next year. The selection will be made later. St. Louis, San Francisco, Salt Lake City, New Orleans and Spokane all have bid for the next session.

The convention adjourned at noon today, after passing a number of resolutions, among them one recommending the establishment of a national department of mines and mining, with its head a member of the President's Cabinet.

Immediately after adjournment the delegates were taken on a hundred-mile automobile trip through the Salt River Valley, and many of the delegates will visit the Roosevelt dam before returning home. Tonight there was a demonstration of mine-rescue work.

FAVOR A MINER ON TRADE BUREAU.

COAL OPERATORS TELL LANE EXPERT IS NEEDED AT WASHINGTON.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—In an effort to secure the appointment of at least one member of the new Federal Trade Commission "who shall be a capable, experienced man, familiar with mining conditions and requirements, who is acceptable to the coal industry," a delegation of Illinois coal operators conferred today with Secretary Lane.

C. M. Moderwell, president of the Illinois Coal Operators' Association; F. C. Honnold, secretary, and F. S. Peabody, all of Chicago, explained to the Secretary that conditions in their industry, "second in importance only to agriculture," had become deplorable, largely because they were not, under existing laws and regulations, able fairly to conserve the coal resources of the country. Much of the coal, they pointed out, had to be left in the mines, and was abandoned forever, because of the large expense of mining all of it. They gave statistics showing that on coal operations the "net returns in Illinois and Indiana were only 2 cents per ton in Illinois and less than 1 cent. per ton in Indiana."

Secretary Lane advised them of his determination to urge for appointment to the Trade Commission thoroughly experienced and sound business men, but not men intimately identified with their own industry.

MINE SHAFT AT FAIR.

Unique Exhibit at Panama-Pacific Exposition is Planned by the United States Bureau.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 10.—Work was begun today at the Panama-Pacific Exposition on the exhibit of the United States Bureau of Mines which will be one of the unique features of the Palace of Mines and Metallurgy.

On visiting the completed exhibit, spectators will enter the mouth of a mine shaft in a regulation mine bucket. Rapidly shifting scenery and realistic vibration of the bucket will give the passengers the illusion of a descent to great depth.

At the bottom of the "shaft" spectators will step from the bucket into a tunnel illuminated only by the candles which each will carry. The tunnel will extend several hundred feet, and at intervals drifts will take the visitors into gold, copper, iron and coal mines.

CLOCK TOWER UPON GARAGE.

Unique Building is Put up by an Angeleno.

Tolling of the Hours Can be Heard Miles.

Large Herd of Deer on the Slopes Near-by.

If you had the good fortune to be owner of a palatial foothill home, had no "stable" for your machine in connection therewith, would confine your efforts to merely one reproduction of the hundreds of garages in the surrounding country? Brockman, owner of the man building, faced just such a problem and settled it by building a clock tower on his Casa Verdugo estate — one of the unique garages of the world.

Constructed of the same material as the house, which stands near it, the tower carries on the ground floor a garage containing sufficient space for cars. On the second floor is the billiard room, opening out on a balcony overlooking the entire estate. The third floor provides sleeping quarters for the chauffeur, and is connected with an outside door, obviating the necessity of the chauffeur's disturbing those in the billiard room in going to his room. Then on the fourth floor, in a room with a great clock's face on each wall, except that facing toward the hills, is the huge clock itself.

Every Sunday the head gardener on the Brockman's estate winds up the clock and its hourly toll can be heard several miles. It keeps time accurately. The clock's weights run from the fourth to the first floor. This length for the weights is necessary to keep the clock running a week and was one object of the tower's height. The clock automatically lights its three faces at 6 o'clock each evening and extinguishes them at 2 a.m.

Vying in interest with the clock tower on the Brockman estate is the artificial lake which has been nearly completed. It is charmingly situated in a grove of eucalyptus trees, and ferns have been planted on several of the miniature islands dotting the lake. The feature which makes this lake unique among all others of its kind is a huge granite crown built in the center on a level with the water. This crown is a copy of the German imperial insignia of royalty. On the four uppermost projections of the crown statues of some of Germany's great will be placed. Two hundred and forty electric lights are used to illumine the crown at night, and an electric spray placed at the crown's center will further beautify this novel decoration.

The trees in and surrounding the lake have been electrically wired. At the touch of a button, they are decked out like so many Christmas trees with their colored lights, and this reflection in the water will transform the scene into one of enchantment.

A rustic bridge spans the water from the bank to one of the diminutive islands, and concrete steps placed beneath the water mark lead to another of the islands, on which seats are placed here and there. An abundance of palms and ferns are awaiting removal from the courtyard at the rear of the residence to give the final embellishment to the lake and its habiliments.

Improvements recently completed on the grounds are a large addition to the house itself and a stucco and tile archway over the drive at the west of the house. Altogether, the improvements, which are continually being furthered, will aggregate an output of about $30,000.

Mr. Brockman's estate covers seventy acres of Casa Verdugo foothill country. A large part of this is reserved for a deer park. Five years ago Mr. Brockman obtained seven deer from Mexico and now a herd of more than sixty of the beautiful animals range the higher slopes of the estate.

At the beginning of the year Mr. Brockman, at present occupying his residence at No. 814 West Twenty-eighth street, hopes to make his permanent home at the Casa Verdugo estate.

FIVE HOMES ENTERED.

Burglars Secure Trivial Amounts in Residences of the Southwest District Leaving no Traces.

Burglars entered five homes and took trivial amounts early yesterday morning.

At the residence of R. Maxwell, No. 900 West Fifty-seventh street, a burglar raised a front window and ransacked the house. The only thing of value taken is a purse containing $2.50.

The living-rooms of William Sylvester at No. 1400 Lawrence street were entered by means of a pass key, the burglars getting $35. After ransacking the house the burglars went into a grocery store next door and carried away a few provisions.

Several articles of jewelry and $91.50 is the loot taken from the home of A. Lopez at No. 352 South Glass street. The burglars entered by breaking the front window.

G. E. Harrison, living at No. 825 West Sixtieth street, reported jewelry and a purse containing $2.50 taken from his home.

A watch and several articles of jewelry were stolen from the home of C. F. Charenberg, No. 820 West Fifty-seventh street.

ASKS FOR NEWS, IS ARRESTED.

SPOKANE HORSE TRADER IS CHARGED WITH EMBEZZLEMENT BY PARTNERS.

His anxiety over the folks at home resulted in the undoing of J. C. Noland, alias John Howe, a horse trader of Spokane, yesterday morning when he went to a newspaper stand at Third and Spring streets and asked the vendor, "Have you a paper from Spokane?" Detectives Carroll and Boyd held a warrant for his arrest charging him with the embezzlement of $1400 and when they heard him inquire for his home paper they were convinced they had been following the right man.

While Noland was digging into his pocket for a nickel to pay for the newspaper, Detective Carroll stepped up to his side and said: "Say, old man, what is your name?" Taken off his guard, the man replied, "John Noland," but in the same breath added his alias "Howe." The officers then placed him under arrest and took him to Central Police Station.

For several minutes Noland stubbornly refused to admit his identity, but when the detectives told him they knew he had run away from Spokane with Mrs. Edith Traeger and they had been shadowing both of them for two days he broke down and requested that they summon the woman to the jail.

"I will admit that I am J. C. Noland, but I want to tell you that this charge against me is tommy rot," said the prisoner. "I was in partnership with J. G. Gibson and A. Yarbor in Spokane. We bought a string of horses and I have been using the $1400 as I thought best. You know a partner can do as he pleases with partnership money."

A telegram was sent to the Spokane authorities and it is expected an officer will arrive early this week to take Noland north.

Detectives Carroll and Boyd are elated over the capture, first because it was made after some hard work, and second because a reward of $300 was offered for his arrest.

There is no charge against Mrs. Traeger and she was not arrested, but the officers will keep her under surveillance, believing she may be wanted as an important witness in the case.

When searched Noland was found to have $43 in his pockets and a bank book showing a balance of $600 in a local bank.

CHRISTMAS SUGGESTION.

Glendale Woman Offers Hint How One's Friends May be Remembered at Small Expense.

Suggesting a suitable and dignified way to remember one's friends at Christmas time, Mrs. Edith L. Braswell of Glendale writes The Times in the interest of persons with many friends and a limited exchequer. She suggests that a 10-cent bottle of gold ink will decorate 100 cards with monograms, a brief sentiment or verse of poetry, sufficient to tenderly remind the recipients that they are not forgotten. One of the cards, a scrap of ribbon and a trifle of the gold ink will also produce a bookmark that will be treasured for its personal touch and originality.

Live Drama.

FAMOUS ACTOR IN NEW PLAY.

"The Shepherd of the Hills" Leads at Mason.

Popular Kolb and Dill New Morosco Attraction.

Mysterious "Georgia Magnet" to Mystify Pantages.

"The Shepherd of the Hills," Harold Bell Wright's dramatization of the novel of the same name, is the offering at the Mason Operahouse next week.

It is said the author has made a play that is gripping and sincere.

The story of the shepherd, the man who came to the hills and remained to teach, of Old Matt and Young Matt, is well known. The scene is in the high hills of the Ozark Mountains, and it is said that all the skill and ingenuity of the scenic artist and electrician have been utilized to reproduce the beauties of the valley mists, the glories of the sunsets, and the magnificent vistas from the mountain summits.

It is said that all the subtle charm of the book is in the play.

Majestic.

George Bernard Shaw's brilliant satire, "Caesar and Cleopatra," will be the offering of Sir Johnston Forbes-Robertson at the Majestic on Monday and Tuesday nights and Wednesday matinee the forthcoming week. The piece was written by Shaw especially for Forbes-Robertson, and has never been played by any other actor.

"Caesar and Cleopatra" tells of Caesar's invasion of Egypt in B.C. 48. Cleopatra was then only 16, and she met Caesar in the Syrian Desert, where she was hiding in the Sphinx in terrible fright of the oncoming Romans. She had not yet developed into the courtesan of later days, but Shaw has shown all the incipient traits in his picture of the wilful, impish girl who obtains a Caesar to fight her battles for her.

On Wednesday and Saturday nights Forbes-Robertson will appear in "Passing of the Third Floor Back." "Hamlet" will be played on Thursday night and Saturday matinee, and "The Light That Failed" on Friday night.

Morosco.

Kolb and Dill open tonight at the Morosco Theater in their latest and biggest success, "The Girl in the Train," a Viennese musical comedy, with book by Victor Leon, librettist of "The Merry Widow," and music by Leo Fall, composer of "The Dollar Princess." The American book is by Harry B. Smith.

The lanky Kolb and the rotund and jovial Dill are great favorites in Los Angeles, and should make a tremendous hit in their new play.

Kolb plays the part of Judge Van Tromp in the new piece, and Dill plays Cornelius Scrop, a conductor on the train with which the plot is thickened. The story centers round a beautiful actress, to whom a married man surrenders his stateroom on the train because she was unable to secure one at the last minute. Further complications follow when the wife finds out about the stateroom.

It is said the story is highly amusing and the music full of tuneful melodies, liberally interspersed with lively modern dances.

Piquant and pretty Nana Bryant, well remembered here, will sing the role of Olga Van der Loo, the actress who causes all the trouble; James R. Liddy will be Karel Van Myrtens, secretary to the Queen of Holland, and Nannette Flack will play Jana, the jealous wife.

The chorus is said to be a barrel of pippins.

Burbank.

"The Man from Home," with Forrest Stanley as the "man," is to be the pleasing offering at the Burbank next week.

The piece is the one in which William Hodge starred for several seasons, and was written by Booth Tarkington and Harry Leon Wilson.

"The Man from Home," Daniel Vorhees Pike, is one of the most delightful of stage characters, and with his strong Yankee common sense and quick wit meets every thrilling emergency that arises.

The action of the piece takes place in Sorrento, and the stage settings promise great beauty.

Miss Selma Paley will have the charming role of Ethel Granger Simpson; Thomas McLarnie will appear as the Grand Duke Vasili Vasilivitch. Howard Scott, Florence Oberlee, Walter Catlett and other favorites of the company are also well cast.

Orpheum.

Nine big acts comprise the Orpheum bill for next week.

The new topliner is Will Oakland, whose voice has been heard by millions in phonographic records. Mr. Oakland and company will give a lively act called "At the Club," wherein a travesty of moving pictures will be a feature.

Elphye Snowden, said to be a dainty miss of ability, will sing some new songs, and dance with the assistance of Walter Ross, in "Dances of the Hour."

The Traville Brothers, fancy divers at Catalina, will exhibit their famous diving seal. Sascha Piatov and Kitty Glaser are billed to give some whirlwind dancing of the classic ballet school. Hubert Dyer and Pater Alvin guarantee "a laugh a second" on the flying rings. John Geiger has a real novelty in his talking violin, and E. Alyn Warren and company will present "The Last Trick," a sketch of the underworld.

The holdovers are Hunting and Francis in "A Love Lozenger," and Eunice Burnham and Charles Irwin in their piano and song stunt.

Hippodrome.

The Hippodrome promises a good bill next week. The most unique act will be the Carrolls, a European novelty, and the Creightons, in a potpourri of Australian features, promises well.

The Mayes have a big feature under the guise of a trapeze act, requiring the full stage of the Hip.

Much is also expected of Roy Clair and Babe Barker, of musical comedy fame. Others on the bill are Ray Healy, whistler and imitator; Anna Moore, in songs and dances; and a playlet by Charles Royal and Edith Elliott, "The Hole in the Wall," said to be their brightest comedy.

Pantages.

Annie Abbott, known as the Georgia Magnet, because of her peculiar powers, will be the headliner at the Pantages, next week. She will demonstrate her mysterious force in various ways. Among the stunts which Miss Abbott will demonstrate are the following: She lays a wooden rod across her upturned palms and no physical strength can remove it; she rests her finger tips against a door, open or closed, and the door cannot be moved against her; with her open palm she supports a bar upon which six or more men support their weight, and with

FORBES-ROBERTSON, THE MAN.

Pleasant Glimpses of Delightful English Actor Who is Giving Los Angeles Two Weeks of Excellent Entertainment—Caesar and Cleopatra to be seen Tomorrow Night.

BY HENRY CRISTEEN WARNACK.

ENGLAND honored itself when it knighted Forbes-Robertson. Sir Johnston's king could have paid himself no greater compliment. They could not make him a prince in name, but he is a prince in fact—a prince of gladness and of light, and from his throne on the stage he is a ruler of men's hearts. With the delightful command of his art he enforces a reign of smiles.

His face is a classic study. It marks him as one belonging to the high-born. It is a fine thing, bearing the stamp of beautiful thought and inviolate living.

When I went to his room at the Alexandria for a call (twenty minutes late, as always) I found that he had placed the pictures of his wife and his little girls along the top of the divan on which he sometimes rests in the day, and I remembered that these sweet and smiling faces were the first objects in his room which had attracted my attention on a similar visit two years ago. I remember he said then that he expected to retire from the stage before the people could wish to retire him, and that he had not brought his beautiful wife, Gertrude Elliot, as his leading woman because he wanted her to star for herself since his public work would necessarily be done long before hers. He confessed the extent of that sacrifice because, in all their years together, they had never before been separated in their work.

On this last visit I took Jack, and Sir Johnston gravely offered her a cigarette after he had passed them to me. She smiled her thanks and refusal, and he said pleasantly and quite flatteringly, considering Jack's joyous immaturity: "So many women do now, you know; but my own little girls do not and I am very glad of it."

Giving up the stage does not mean retirement for Sir Johnston. He will find something worth while to do so long as he lives. He is one of those understanding souls endowing body and mind with a precious energy, and a man whose health and happiness depend upon action. I don't know what his recreations may be or his forms of exercise and play. Somehow the light of his mind and the gentleness of his spirit makes a presence so luminous that it does not occur to one to associate him with the incidental.

He is beautifully deliberate in manners and speech, and the velvet and gold of his voice are not stage properties. The same vibrant qualities reach the ear like music in his most casual conversation. He is much the same when he says, "Ah, Benson is a wonderful chap," as he would be in reading the most tender passage in "The Passing of the Third Floor Back." He says to you with charming sincerity: "Yes, Shaw is a big man and growing all the time! I am just as enthusiastic about him as I was, although I don't follow all of his ideas because I am not such an out-and-out socialist as he is," and when he does so it is with all the nice emphasis that he uses when talking of art in "The Light that Failed."

He smiled over my question about dream plays and thought them not as different now from what they had been for a long time. "Dreams have always been used in plays, more or less," he said, "although plays have not always been just dreams. You know nearly all of Maeterlinck's earlier works are really dream things, but for all that there is vivid and beautiful action in 'Pelleas and Millicent.'"

Sir Johnston says "My Lady's Dress," by Knobloch, is exceedingly healthy and pretty as a study in several episodes, and he regards it as a very fine sort of art. He is peculiarly constructive in criticism and had nothing bad to say about anything excepting the distorted efforts of the futurist art, a judgment that delighted me, since this is one of my pet aversions.

"We have seen these things come and go too often to be disturbed by them," he said. "In my day I have known twenty such schools to appear and vanish. They are only fads and they never last. They are always cheap and they usually have no better motive than to advertise somebody or some clique. They are never to be taken seriously."

Sir Johnston did not seem to think that the war would have any immediate influence on the stage. He thought a few big plays might grow out of it seven or eight years from now.

He likes playing "Hamlet," and remembers as perhaps the greatest moment of his life the hearty appreciation by Sir Henry Irving of his first attempt in the great role twenty years ago. Sir Henry saw his last rehearsal before the first appearance and was unstinted in his praise. He had persuaded Sir Johnston to try it when he was eager enough for the chance, yet filled with that reluctance which the truly great always feel in approaching something of tremendous worth. By the way, one always feels Sir Johnston's reverence for every character he portrays. He has only to be convinced that he is taking the part of a big personality, and then he always does it in a big way.

Since witnessing "The Light that Failed", it has aroused considerable speculation in my mind as to whether it would not be a vastly greater work if Dick Heldar's great picture should have been destroyed by the woman he loved, out of pride in her own art and her jealousy of his work instead of having it smeared and slashed merely by an ungrateful little beast who had been picked up in the streets when she was starving and employed as a model. I am more and more impressed that this girl is quite too inconsequent for a motive of such power and a minute so supreme to the vitality of the drama. If Kipling had been making a play, and not a story at the start, it seems to me that he might have done it in this way. A woman like Maisie would have hated herself and have loved Heldar just as much, and even more, if she had also been guilty of this crowning meanness just before learning of his blindness.

Happily we are to get a chance at "Caesar and Cleopatra" for at least two performances this week, one of them tomorrow night. Of course, a five-act play of that length would of necessity have to be cut a great deal in order to adapt it to the stage both because so many of the scenes are impossible to the stage, and because there could not be time for all of the lines and the action. Those who have read the book would be as jealous as the author over every line sacrificed because Shaw's brilliance has outdazzled itself in the beauty and the purpose of each short speech in this big work. It is a play without an unnecessary character, and interesting in spite of the fact that Shaw violates the true purpose of the drama in creating a situation which he flatly refuses to face or at least adroitly avoids an expected climax.

Knowing the full possibilities of the work and the necessary limitations of the stage, Sir Johnson seems to offer it as a sort of apology for himself and for Shaw, but the people here have wanted it, and I think we will not be disappointed in the version. At least a large number of us are curious

SECOND CONCERT FOR SYMPHONY.

HARPIST WILL BE FEATURED IN WEEK-END PROGRAMMES.

Henry Schoenefeld Conducts People's Orchestra Today—New Oratorio Society Sings Next Sunday. Behymer Announces Elaborate Christmas Feature.

Backed by the unqualified success of its first appearance of the season, the Los Angeles Symphony Orchestra, under the direction of Adolph Tandler, will give its second concert Friday afternoon and Saturday night of this week.

There have been some changes in the programme since it was first announced, and this time there will be a soloist, too, a fact which should add no little interest to the occasion.

This soloist is Sig. S. R. Valenza, the harpist, and, speaking from the rehearsal of a few days ago, his performance will be as noteworthy as any on the programme, as he has selected a charming and not too intricate concerto as his number.

The birthday of Beethoven has not been overlooked, and instead of the Mozart number Tandler will offer Beethoven's Eroica Symphony No. 3.

Then, too, there will be Debussy's "Afternoon of a Faun," and the closing number will be "The Bartered Bride," by Smetana. Tandler now has his big organization well in hand, there has been no skimping of rehearsals, and the perfection already achieved warrants the prediction that this second concert will totally eclipse the first from every viewpoint.

Guest Wields Baton.

The fortnightly concert of the People's Orchestra comes this afternoon at Clune's Auditorium, and, following out the original plan, a visiting conductor will direct. On this occasion the baton falls to Henry Schoenefeld of the Woman's Symphony Orchestra, and the ladies, by the way, have taken a block of seats for the express purpose of watching their leader direct a men's organization.

Henry Schoenefeld,

Who will be guest and conductor of the People's Orchestra concert today.

Schoenefeld is a composer of note, as well as a splendid conductor, and one of the features of his programme is his nocturne for strings, with flute and 'cello obligato, which took so well at the first concert of the Woman's Symphony.

Marjorie Nichols, the girl pianiste, will be one of the soloists, and the other is Dwight Edwards, a really talented baritone, who can always be relied upon. Following is the complete programme:

Alice Lohr,

Who will be contralto soloist at the Messiah concert, to be given by the Los Angeles Oratorio Society at the Auditorium, Sunday, December 20.

Henry Schoenefeld, Conductor.

1. Egmont Overture .... Beethoven
2. Concerto in A Minor, First Movement.....
   (for pianoforte and orchestra) .... Grieg
   Miss Marjorie Nichols, Soloist.
3. (a) "Consolation" .... Mendelssohn
   (b) "Southern Roses" .... Johann Strauss
4. Aria from "Ballo in Maschera" .... Verdi
   Cyril Dwight Edwards, Baritone Soloist.
5. Nocturne for strings, with flute and
   'cello obligato .... Schoenefeld
   Miss Minnie Victoria Percival, Flute.
   Miss Lucie Fuhrer, 'Cello.
6. (a) "Arabesque" .... Debussy
   (b) "En Automne" .... Moszkowski
   (c) Prelude in G Minor .... Rachmaninoff
   Miss Marjorie Nichols, Piano.
7. "Merry Wives of Windsor" .... Nicolai

Next Sunday.

Skipping from today to next Sunday, one finds listed the wonderful Handel oratorio, "The Messiah," which will be given at Clune's Auditorium. The new choral organization, the Los Angeles Oratorio Society, made up of the members of the People's Chorus and the Festival Choir, over 250 strong, will render the impressive music, the occasion being doubly notable, as it will be the first appearance of the new chorus.

Frederick Brueschweiler will direct, and the soloists as announced include Mrs. Prybil Colby, soprano; Alice Lohr, contralto; C. Hayden Jones, tenor; Fred C. McPherson, baritone, with Ray Hastings at the organ.

It would be impossible to have selected a more appropriate and majestic Christmas-week attraction than this, and belief is universal that it will prove one of the banner events of the year.

Jubilee Singers.

This week, too, on Friday night, the 18th, Hann's Jubilee Singers are announced for Trinity Auditorium under the auspices of the church.

It is one of the best as well as most unique colored musical organizations on tour, and made a decidedly favorable impression when they sang here before. Their work was neatly summed up by President Bovard of U.S.C., who remarked: "I have heard a great many jubilee singers, but none who gave greater satisfaction than those under the leadership of Prof. Hann. If they should return to Los Angeles, I am sure the announcement would bring out a large audience to hear them."

Grand Christmas Novelty.

It has remained for Manager Behymer to announce the most unique, and what also promises to be the most tuneful, picturesque and impressive of the Christmas-week events.

Beginning Christmas week, and ending New Year's night, Trinity Auditorium will house a music and motion-picture feature which will give a new grandeur, beauty and understanding to the life of Christ, His birth, youth, manhood, crucifixion and ascension.

REAL SOLDIERS IN THE REELS.

Expert Military Officers Employed in War Spectacles as Advisers. Crowds in Battle Scenes Moved by True Bugle Calls. Veterans of Many Wars.

BY GRACE KINGSLEY.

WAR spectacles in the movies! Motion picture wars nowadays are no papier-mache affairs, fought off-stage with percussion caps and rolled barrels. Motion picture armies are no mere handfuls of knock-kneed supers repeating themselves from behind prop trees. Nowhere in mimetic art is realism more pronounced than in "movie" battles, in which tens of thousands of men, many of them real soldiers, take part.

All the leading directors of the big companies tell me that war pictures are greatly in demand at present, owing probably to the titanic European war now being waged, and military men are more and more needed in order to advise regarding the correct atmosphere and military technique in the big battle pictures now being filmed.

Every motion picture company employs several actors who have served in army or navy. Many of them are men of martial rank, capable of directing battle pictures, and who advise in all motion picture matters relating to the technicalities of fighting and war.

LASKY AIDES.

House Peters of the Lasky company served through the Boer War, on the English side, and received his military training in the British army. He has also made a study of American military tactics, and is at present advising in relation to the production of the battle series in "The Warrens of Virginia," which the Lasky company is staging. Red Harris, one of the Lasky cowboys, was in the Spanish-American War, serving in the Philippines, and often helps advise in the production of pictures through his knowledge of military matters.

GRIFFITH'S STAFF.

Donald Crisp of David Griffith's company, at the Majestic-Reliance, was a member of the Tenth Hussars in the English army, at the time of the Boer War, a crack regiment, of which King Edward was honorary captain. He went to Africa and fought all through the campaign, was wounded three times, and promoted to the rank of color sergeant for bravery. He carries several scars and wears a lot of medals, and is Griffith's right-hand man when it comes to staging battle scenes, as in Griffith's "The Clansman," in which hundreds of real soldiers were employed. Mr. Crisp also plays big leads, as in "The Battle of the Sexes," which is being shown at the Republic this week. He is also a skillful wrestler and boxer.

The Famous Players, who have just established a studio here, are to put on some war dramas, notably "Brother Officers." Guy Standing was to have had the leading role in this piece, but a few months ago went to England to look after his wife and daughter, and go into the war if he was needed. Being an English army officer, he was at once appointed commander of Capt. Montague's yacht, and has not been heard from since.

"Mr. Standing left for England on the Lusitania that dark night in August," said Al Kauffman. "There were only forty passengers aboard the huge steamer, wont to hold thousands. All the ship's lights were out and it seemed like a funeral ship. I have written to Standing several times, but have received no word since his letter telling me of his appointment. I do not know whether he has been in battle, nor even whether he is living."

SELIG ADVISERS.

The Selig company has quite a crowd of military advisers, too.

The intrepid Tom Mix served through the Spanish-American War, and did scout duty in the Philippines, where he was wounded in the jungle by one of the head hunters. He also served in the siege of Peking, in china. He is a devil-may-care fellow, with no end of pluck, who will take any chance to make a thrilling picture, and his knowledge of military matters is of tremendous help to his company in the staging of war pictures.

A. D. Blake, also of the Selig, is a United States navy man, and a bugler. In staging the "Days of the Thundering Herd," in which Tom Mix is the hero, Mr. Blake directed the pictures by means of bugle calls. This was of great assistance, as large crowds of people were used, and calling them together and directing them was a big task.

Another Selig army man is Fred Huntley, who plays important parts in the Selig dramas, and has the rank of sergeant. His advice is often sought in military questions.

"Daddy" Green of the Selig is a Confederate war veteran.

FAVORITE CADET.

In the Favorite Players Company, Carlyle Blackwell has made a study of military tactics, though he has had no military training. Henry Kernan, who plays leading parts, was a member of the Fourteenth Regiment, Volunteers of Pennsylvania, and served ten months in the Spanish-American War. He assists in directing all military scenes.

UNIVERSAL VETERANS.

The Universal, with its fifteen companies, naturally employs several military men. Scott Taylor is a Civil War veteran, and also served as an Indian scout in the West. Doc Crane is another Civil War veteran, who has also had a big record as an actor, having played at one time with Booth and Barrett.

There is an interesting story connected with these two old warriors. They were friends when they went to the war. In the battle of Bull Run, Taylor was wounded. Crane searched for him on the field after the battle, gave him a drink of whisky, and carried him into camp. They drifted apart after the war, and lost sight of each other for years. Not long ago they met and clasped hands out at Universal studio, comrades once more!

Dr. Harry Stafford is another Universal man, scenario writer and occasional actor for the 101 Bison Company. He was on the medical staff of the United States army in the Spanish-American War, and always advises in war scenes staged by the company.

A famous swordsman and a graduate of West Point 's Maj. J. A. McGuire of the Masterpiece company, of which Max Figman is leading man. Besides helping in the staging of battle scenes for the Masterpiece company, Maj. McGuire works for other motion picture concerns whenever an expert swordsman and military man is needed in pictures.

INCE STOREHOUSE.

The Ince company is a storehouse of military knowledge. A walking encyclopedia of war technique is Arthur Maude, an English army officer, and cousin of Cyril Maude, the noted English comedian. Maude has the rank of lieutenant, and served in the Boer war.

Lieut. Charles Swickard of the Ince company is a most interesting man, being a lieutenant-colonel of the Uhlan Cavalry, and subject to military call at any time. He plays leading parts with the Ince company, and is a literary scholar as well, having made an English adaptation of Sudermann's "Taps," which was produced in New York a season or two ago.

Another thoroughly experienced military man is C. C. Raw, secretary and book-keeper with the Ince company. He served in the Spanish American War, being one of the first men to climb San Juan Hill. His advice is always sought in cases of military pieces filmed by the Ince company.

An ex-officer of the Japanese navy is Tomas Kurihara of Ince's company. He has had theatrical experience as well as military training in Japan. The Ince company contemplates putting on a big oriental play, with a war atmosphere, and it is expected that Kurihara's advice will be of vast help in the undertaking.

Spencer Valentine, brother of Grace Valentine, a great favorite with Morosco audiences last season, is a director and actor of the Ince company. He went to Mexico with Jack London, did some fighting and writing in the Madero revolution, and came near getting shot as a spy.

The Ince company also boasts a number of militiamen, who on occasion advise in the making of battle pictures.

War Loss is Insignificant.

[Engineering Magazine:] The destruction of war is not nearly as great as it seems. If people do not produce, neither do they consume, and the man who may have been making and spending $10,000 a day, comes down to the $1 or even to the $0.10 level without particular detriment to himself or to his similarly-placed neighbors. The total wealth of Germany is $60,500,000,000, and even if the actual war wastes were $2,000,000 a day, this in a whole year would amount to less than 1 per cent. of the accumulated wealth of the Fatherland. The average death rate in Germany is probably 20 per 1000, or 1,200,000 a year. Kill 1,000,000 soldiers and you have only doubled for one year the normal outflow. In four years, if the normal rate were lessened from 20 per cent. to 15 per cent., the loss would be numerically made up. The loss of life, the loss of time, the loss of property in a six-months' war is after all insignificant compared to the great enduring life of the nation. Recuperation will be rapid.

"The Union Eternal" Promises Thrills at Garrick.

"The Ghost-Breaker," starring H. B. Warner, one of the younger artists of the stage, is to be the offering at Tally's Broadway during the coming week. Mr. Warner was the star of the original stage production of the piece, as well as of the present film-drama. The film form of the play is said to be even more fascinating than the production. The story deals in mystery and is said to be entirely out of the ordinary among film plays. Besides Mr. Warner, other distinguished artists are included in the cast, among them Rita Stanwood, Roberts and Mabel Van no apparent effort carries the bar and its human freight about the stage.

She is a fragile little creature, weighing less than one hundred pounds.

Other attractions for the week will be Walter Terry and his ten Fiji girls, in a tabloid musical comedy, "Cannibal Isle;" a fast and sensational club-juggling act by the Five Mowatts; the two Kerns in a "rube" acrobatic turn; Dick Gardner and Anna Revere in song and piffle.

Loew's Empress.

Svengali, who exercises his power on a beautiful girl, his companion in the mysterious turn which he does, so that she is able, at his suggestion, to play and sing any selection from ragtime to grand opera, is the headliner at the Empress. Svengali passes among the audience and transmits to his beautiful medium the wishes of the public as to the selection which any particular person wishes to hear.

Miss Elsie Terry is the medium's name, and it is said she plays and sings, without a moment's hesitation, any selection suggested to her by Svengali, as received from any person in the audience.

Others on the bill are Hadyn, Burton and Haydn, in song and patter; George Dobbs and Billy Dale, in a sketch, "It Happened in Paris;" Black and White, two girl acrobats; Canaris and Cleo in Parisian magic, and Bill Robinson, colored comedian.

Republic.

Film fans will see D. W. Griffith's famous masterpiece, "The Battle of the Sexes," at the Bert Levey Republic Theater, commencing next Monday, the engagement of Florence Roberts in "Sapho" ending on Sunday night.

"The Battle of the Sexes" is the story of a woman of the underworld, who breaks up a happy home. It is a powerful argument for a single standard of morals for both men and women.

All of the Griffith stars take part in the production. Fay Tincher, now with the Keystone company, has the principal if not leading role, while the Gish sisters, Dorothy and Lillian, have important parts. It is a story of down-to-date metropolitan society life, with the scenes laid in the fashionable parts of New York. From start to finish the film has a decisive punch, and critics, who have seen advance showings, agree that it is one of Griffith's biggest efforts.

Six new acts of vaudeville accompany the picture.

The "Buy a Bale" Hurrah.

[Washington Post:] "No; I haven't bought my bale of cotton, and don't intend to," said Representative Frank Clark of Florida, at Congress Hall. "I never play to the gallery. Did you ever analyze the 'buy-a-bale' hurrah? If 1,000,000 bales are taken care of this way, it would be just about one-fifteenth of the crop. That would be a payment to the hard-working farmer of about 7 cents on the dollar. Let me tell you my idea of constructive legislation and good sound business.

"If 1,000,000 bales are taken care of at $50 a bale that would mean $50,000,000. But if the same money were placed in manufacturing enterprises to make the fleecy staple into merchantable goods, it would be fifty manufacturing enterprises of $1,000,000 capital each, giving employment to thousands of working people, and multiplying the value of the fleecy staple at least five times, or $250,000,000, with the untold blessing of caring for idle people."

enough about it to go, and, as I have said before, I doubt if the public will let the company play anything else this week.

Upton Sinclair comes forward with the claim that he furnished the plot for the play called "The Big Idea" now offered at the Hudson Theater in New York, under the direction of Cohan & Harris, and the authorship of A. E. Thomas (not Augustus Thomas) and Clayton Hamilton. Sinclair says he first wrote it under the name of "The Potboiler" and later called it "The Great American Play." He may have done something very like it, but the good faith of Clayton Hamilton with his readers for twenty years, and the splendid character of his works on the stage, will be a sufficient guarantee of his integrity as far as the public is concerned.

In the collaboration the two authors have affected each other rather curiously. Clayton would have made it all tragedy while Thomas would have had nothing but comedy. As it is we have a near tragedy treated with a saving humor. The least one can say is that it would be humorous indeed to expect any manager to pay an untrained and unknown playwright $22,000 as advance royalties on a first effort that he had not yet completed. It was indeed a big idea in the young man's sweetheart to expect her idea to get across, but it works in the play.

It is pleasant to discover Holbrook Blynn at the Princess this season in five one-act productions that are neither brutal or unclean. It is said that there is nothing offensive in any one of his fresh offerings. I am glad of this. He is too excellent both as actor and stage manager to be thrown away on the cheap and the sensational.

"A Stubborn Cinderella" has passed at the Morosco and it deserves a kindly place in the memory of us all. The droll face and dry lines of William Clifton as the engineer is a piece of work that sticks. I do not know how old or young he is, but an actor of that quality could never be too old to have his future before him.

ACTIVE WOMEN.

Although she is only 31 years old, Mrs. Winfield Stoner of Quarryville, Pa., is the mother of nine children, and in a competition with 350 others she was proclaimed the champion cake baker.

Mrs. L. W. Caswell of Saugus, Cal., is manager of a garage, where she can be found daily tinkering about automobiles, preferring this kind of work to that of attending to household duties.

Miss Martha Palmer of West Falmouth, Mass., recently lived six weeks alone in the woods on acorns and cherries as a "nature cure." She says she has regained her health and enjoyed the experience, but the increasing cold of the nights caused her to seek shelter. Miss Palmer is 40 years of age.

The former Anna Gould, now a French countess, has opened a workshop in Paris to give employment to needy women who have been made destitute on account of their husbands going to war.

Miss Ida Vera Simonton of New York has personal supervision of the American Tropical Trading Company's activities on the western coast of Africa. She knows the country thoroughly, having been the first white woman to penetrate it.

Mrs. Edward D. Winslow, wife of the American Ambassador to Denmark, entertained at a Thanksgiving dinner about 200 Americans who are in Copenhagen awaiting transportation to the United States.

Mrs. Cornelia Adair of Texas, owner of the Ja ranch, now in England, has chartered a steamer and completed arrangements to bring 1000 Belgian women and children war refugees to her ranch and give them permanent homes.

BITS OF VERSE.

'Twas Ever Thus.

I tell you what, your friends come round and slap you on the back
And friends you never knew before hand you a hearty whack.
The things they say all make you feel just like you are a king.
They listen and they laugh right out when you say anything.
"There's nothing in the world too good for you." That's what they say.
They tell you that the world will talk about you some fine day.
They go and kill the fatted calf whene'er you heave in sight.
They spread the pleasant salve on you and surely spread it right.
They're proud to know you, yes they are, and flatter as they should.
Your friends besiege you day and night,
When you are
Makin'
Good.

You never see a single soul you know from morn till night.
You gaze around quite anxiously but no one heaves in sight.
You wonder where those friends have gone you used to know so well.
You somehow miss the hearty laugh when your best yarns you tell.
Nobody slaps you on the back or treats you like a king.
You cannot find an audience. You feel the dreaded sting
Of failure in the atmosphere and cannot tell just why
The flattering friends of yesterday are wont to pass you by.
You miss the glad acclaim they gave, the ever-welcoming shout,
For very few will stick to you
When you are Down and Out.

Strangers and Pilgrims.

Strangers and pilgrims through the world we wander,
Like exiles longing for their native land,
And all our longing for the sweet rest yonder
The homesick hearts of earth will understand.
Pilgrims and strangers, wearily we roam,
But in God's own good time we'll all get home.

Strangers and pilgrims! When, like souls benighted,
We grope through darkness for our Father's hand,
Lo! just ahead we see the heaven-lamps lighted,
To guide our footsteps to the Fatherland.
Be patient while a little time we roam—
At eventide will come the gathering home.

O rapturous thought! Beyond the world of sorrow,
Beyond the hills of earth where now we roam,
We'll find the rest of God some glad tomorrow,
And all our dear ones, safe in God's sweet home.
Be patient, heart, till He shall call to thee:
"Come home, to dwell forevermore with me!"

—[Eben E. Rexford in the Christian Herald.

Largest Fog Signals.

[Indianapolis News:] The largest fog signals now made use of are supplied with horns thirty feet long and their blasts are so powerful that they can be heard from twenty-five to thirty miles at sea. They are generally operated by compressed air, the generator being driven by a gasoline engine of about twenty-five horse power.

ART AND ARTISTS.

ANTONY ANDERSON.

At Queensferry.

The blackbird sang, the skies were clear and clean.
We bowled along a road that curved a spine
Superbly sinuous and serpentine
Thro' silent symphonies of summer green.
Sudden the Forth came on us—sad of mien,
No cloud to color it, no breeze to line:
A sheet of dark, dull glass, without a sign
Of life or death, two spits of sand between.
Water and sky merged blank in mist together,
The Fort loomed spectral, and the Guardship's spars
Traced vague, black shadows on the shimmery glaze:
We felt the dim, strange years, the gray, strange weather,
The still, strange land, unvexed of sun or stars,
Where Lancelot rides clanking through the haze.

—[W. E. Henley.

For European Artists.

When Mars, in the hard, cold panoply of war, steps arrogantly forward and seizes civilization by the throat and forces her to dance to his wild tune of death, what becomes of the artists she has reared and trained with loving patience—those gentle toilers in the sacred silence of the sun, those eager messengers that carry her torch from generation to generation, lest darkness fall upon the world?

Their great occupation gone, they starve miserably and die—unless we, the saving remnant freed from the menace of Mars, also step arrogantly forward with him to deny his claim, to declare that he may not stamp truth and beauty utterly from the face of the earth. We assert our right to keep the makers of beauty alive.

This is no easy task, for, being gentle, the artists themselves cannot be of much assistance to us. They cannot announce their plight in the market place and from the house tops. Being gentle, they would rather starve than beg. Being gentle, they do not reveal their woeful plight to the world.

Nevertheless, we know that there are thousands upon thousands of artists in the great art centers of Europe who are literally on the point of starvation—they and their families. There is no market for pictures and statues in Europe today, for no sane man buys what may be wantonly destroyed or torn from him tomorrow. European trade has turned toward bullets and bayonets, and pictures are left to crack and shrivel in their frames.

Artists of New York, painters, sculptors, architects, are rallying nobly to the rescue of their brothers in need, and artists of Los Angeles are doing the same under the guidance of Hamilton Wolf, who was delegated by the eastern men to carry on the good work here. Tomorrow the artists of Los Angeles and all Southern California will open an exhibition of pictures and sketches in the Blanchard gallery, the proceeds of the sales to go to the indigent artists of Europe.

The idea of such an exhibition was no sooner broached than the artists took hold of it with the generous and heartfelt enthusiasm characteristic of artists everywhere. The California Art Club had the matter in hand. A committee was formed, a gallery was hired, a date was set—and the pictures have been pouring in ever since, good pictures, not the discards and unsalables of the studio.

And hand in hand with the artists worked the women's clubs of Los Angeles, fourteen of them offering any number of their members required as hostesses for the fourteen days of the exhibition. The Ebell will be there on the 15th; Ruskin Art, 16th; Daughters of the Confederacy, 17th; College of Women's Clubs, 18th; Hollywood Club, 19th; Daughters of the American Revolution, 21st; Amateur Players' Club, 22nd; Wednesday Morning Club, 23rd; Palette Club of Los Angeles School of Art and Design, 24th; Woman's Press Club, 26th; Cosmos Club, 28th; Highland Park Ebell Club, 29th; Harmonia Club, 30th; Fine Arts League, 31st.

At the time when this article went to press the following artists had sent in pictures—most of them donating the best examples of their work:

Arthur B Dodge, Clyde Ellis, W. A. Sharp, Marco Zim, Helena Dunlap, Karl Yens, Arthur Hurtt, W. L. Cheever, Maurice Braun, A. A. Paul, C. A. Rogers, H. W. Cannon, Benjamin Chambers Brown, Charles Percy Austin, William Lees Judson, J. H. Sharp, J. Duncan Gleason, William V. Cahill, Warren E. Rollins, J. S. Raymond, Val Costello, John Hubbard Rich, Harry Lewis Bailey, William Swift Daniell, Susie M. B. Dando, Frank W. Cuprien, Detlef Samman, Mrs. Katherine Leighton, Henry Lovins, Frederick Roland Miner, Ralph Fullerton Mocine, Hamilton Wolf, Henry Wolf. (Henry Wolf, one of the greatest of our wood engravers, sent a fine example of his work from New York.)

On New Year's night, January 1, 1915, there will be an auction sale, with different well-known men in charge taking turns in auctioneering off the pictures and other objects of art.

It now behooves Los Angeles lovers of pictures and lovers of humanity to respond gallantly to this splendid venture of the artists. Let the contribution from our city be as generously big as the spirit behind this excellent scheme of charity. The artists gave their work, give you your money. Your returns will be two-fold—a good picture and an approving conscience. Don't let your opportunity pass by.

Loans at Exposition Park.

Some beautiful new pictures have been loaned recently to the gallery in Exposition Park, where many of them will remain throughout the winter.

A picture whose stay will probably be brief, but which you cannot afford to miss, is John Hubbard Rich's recent portrait of Miss Theresa Cloud of Pasadena, painted in the garden of the Cloud home. Miss Cloud, gowned in a blue fabric wonderfully painted is holding an amber-colored sunshade over her head, and a sort of shimmering golden light falls on her face and tawny hair. The hands are beautifully modeled, the character of the sitter is truthfully and sympathetically rendered, and the whole picture has decided distinction. It is one of the best things this capable portrait painter has so far done.

When John W. Mitchell, that indefatigable picture buyer and patron-lover of art, was last in Paris he left with a big stack of new canvases under his arm—speaking metaphorically, of course, because some of them are too big to be transported over-seas in such a free-and-easy manner. Leroix's "Modern Dinner Party," for instance, a tremendous canvas as to size, a splendid picture as to merit.

Mr. Mitchell has most generously lent the gallery all his new finds, with a promise that they may stay for a long time. William Matern has sent in a lovely "Evening in the Gelderland," by Walter C. Hartsoni; Mrs. Anita Baldwin McClaughry, a fine figure study of Jules Pages, "The Unwilling Dancer" (once reproduced in Art and Artists;) Mrs. J. A. Harvey, a noble example of the work of her father, William Mouncy, "Tongueland Church;" Paul S. Rattle, a beautiful little twilight effect by Iwill, "Dans Les Sables, Ile de Noir Moutiers;" while the Alexander Culver collection of magnificent American landscapes still remains, examples of the art of William Ritschel, E. Irving Couse, Charles Melville Dewey, Charles Warren Eaton, Jonas Lie, Chauncey F. Ryder, H. O. Tanner and Cullen Yates.

Elizabeth Borglum has donated to the gallery two fine bits of sculptured bronze by Gutzon Borglum—"The Dying Chief" and a portrait bust of Jessie Benton Fremont. The bust was executed in 1888. "The Dying Chief," a group of an Indian and his horse, elected the now famous sculptor to associate membership in the Societe Nationale des Beaux Arts, Paris.

Helena Dunlap, William Wendt, Granville Redmond, Hanson Puthuff, Marion Kavanaugh Wachtel, Elmer Wachtel, Jean Mannheim and Henrietta M. Shore have all lent good examples of their works.

To come back to a brief mention of the new pictures owned by John W. Mitchell and shown in the gallery. G. P. Leroix's magnificent dinner party is being held at night-time under the sky-roofed pillars of Villa Medici. It is a huge canvas, wonderfully painted, with many figures of grand lords and dames around a flower-strewn table. One beautiful woman is singing, all the others in the party are listening. The elegance and distinction of this painting is worthy the consideration of all artists. Here are no hasty nor ill-considered passages, and the difficult composition is held together with superb quiet and dignity.

The "Repos l'Apres Midi," by Clovis Cazes, while a trifle heavy in the painting, is yet so full of poetry and imaginative power that it holds one enthralled. A nude man, seated on a bank near a little pool, is piping to a woman, while a reclining mermaid and sleepy little satyr are listening dreamily.

Beautiful tawny browns and yellows are found in Anna Dannenberg's "The Dunes, Hiddensee;" lovely greenish tones in Remond's "Evening, River of Pont-Croix;" bigness of feeling in the large canvas with many living figures, "Return of the Fishermen," by Gaston Balande; vital color in Charpentier's "Port of La Rochelle."

Two canvases of notable beauty and interest, also the property of Mr. Mitchell, are Myron Barlow's "Peasant and Grandchild" and Jean Paul Laurens's "Dream of the Valkyrie." The first named is full of tenderness and sentiment; in the second we see Brunhilde asleep, surrounded by the magic flames.

Here and There.

An exhibition of recent water colors from the brush of Karl Yens will open on Tuesday in the Royar gallery, continuing to the end of the year. Yens, who is an instructor in the College of Fine Arts, Garvanza, is a free and able technician in the water-color medium, and his pictures are alive with color and feeling. About forty-five will be shown.

A dozen pictures or so by Henrietta M. Shore, who recently came from Canada to Los Angeles, will be shown in the gallery in Exposition Park on Wednesday. They will remain to December 31, when paintings by Elmer Wachtel will be exhibited. Miss Shore deals with the figure in genre and portraiture, and is mistress of an impressionistic handling of great freedom and breadth.

Carl Oscar Borg has returned from Paris and Rome. He is now in San Francisco, and may be expected in Los Angeles any day. It will be a pleasure to Los Angeles artists and art lovers to see again this talented young Swedish-American, who has been abroad for some years, and who has held exhibitions in some of the big are centers of Europe.

The exhibition which the Los Angeles Arts and Crafts Society has been holding at Exposition Park will close this afternoon. A few of the objects shown were recently exhibited in the Blanchard gallery, but there are many new things, many of them of remarkable originality and beauty. Go out to Exposition Park and see this exhibition today if you have so far passed it by.

On the first Monday in 1915 Benjamin Chambers Brown will give a talk on etching before the Pasadena Music and Art Association at the Stickney Art School. His etching press will be on hand, and his brother, Howell Chambers Brown, will give practical demonstrations of etching processes.

A landscape of Edgar Keller has been passed upon favorably by the New York jury of the United States exhibit in the Fine Arts building in the Panama-Pacific Exposition, San Francisco. Though Keller is a Los Angeles painter, he prefers to exhibit in the United States section rather than that of California.

Florine Hyer, the well-known flower painter, recently returned from an extended trip to Honolulu. She may now be found in her Los Angeles studio on Avenue 66, Garvanza.

SOCIETY SAILORS OF SAN DIEGO BAY.

BY THE MERMAID.

Yachting in the beautiful, landlocked bay of San Diego, known as "the harbor of the sun," has been a most popular sport, among the athletically-inclined, but of late the society women have more and more taken it up until the San Diego Yacht Club, established in 1891, has now a membership of 300. The clubhouse, which is located on the Coronado side, having been moved during the summer from the foot of Hawthorne street, where it has been located for the past ten years, is nothing more nor less than a picturesque old ferry boat which at one time plied between San Diego and Coronado. This is drawn up on the shore and the big saloon is a very attractive dance and lounging-room.

There are at least 110 boats of different classes now anchored at the club, with the lovely yacht Venetia, belonging to John D. Spreckels, the big prize. Mr. Spreckels is a life member and the beautiful yacht when she swings at her anchor rope is the pride and joy of all old sailors.

Commodore P. A. Giraud, who owns the Spring Maid, a cruising boat which will accommodate four people comfortably, is a seasoned old sailor and with his wife and daughter goes for long trips of several months. Undoubtedly one of the most interesting of the old tars, though, is Capt. William Cox, who has now reached the age of 70 years and who has been an honorable old naval officer. He designed and built his boat, the Amanda, and Mrs. Cox is known as one of the best sailors among the women. This past summer they cruised about the Catalina and the Clemente islands for three months or more.

There is a group of the younger set who are fast becoming experienced sailors and the ladies' race of last summer, which is an annual event, tried out the skill of many of these and they covered themselves with glory. To be seen often hoisting sail for a trip up the bay are the Misses Joy and Lucille Holcomb, who have their own boat; Miss Helen Hambley, the Misses Catherine and Lucille Leovy, who are to be seen in their thirty-two-foot sloop-rigged boat nearly every day, and Miss Jean Shaffer, who of late has been sailing the Junior, owned by Ed Seller. The Donna Belle, which won three cups last summer and is owned by William P. Cary, a young attorney in San Diego, won the ladies' race, being sailed by Miss Lena Falk Gjertsen, a stunning and talented young newspaper woman, known as the "Tribune girl," daughter of the late Bishop Gjertsen. The Donna Belle, a little thirty-five-foot sloop-rigged boat, which is known as the "Queen of the Light Zephyrs," ran away from the others in a heavy gale from the start and had crossed the line before the second boat had rounded the buoy for the last leg.

The Clipper, owned by William Barker, often carries Mrs. Terry Barker these days, and it is said that Mrs. Barker will soon be an expert sailor like her husband. Mrs. Barker was formerly Miss Augusta Illich of Los Angeles.

The biggest and best-kept power boat now housed at the club is the Virginia D., owned by C. A. Fellows of Los Angeles, one of the big and brainy business men of Los Angeles, who is always accompanied by his handsome and accomplished wife. The Virginia D. carries six people comfortably for cruising and is beautifully fitted up with artistic furnishings.

Bryant Howard, Jr., who owns the Albacore, is the dashing young bachelor who is known as the Beau Brummel of the members, and together with Ed Haupt, who also owns a boat, creates most of the spicy atmosphere which makes for yacht club gossip. Mr. Haupt, who is to marry Miss Rosaline Merritt of Pasadena, December 23, is one of the most daring sailors.

Mrs. Frank K. Wyatt, who sails their boat, the Aeolus, won the Panama gold cup and the Lipton silver cup. The Aeolus has a length of forty-one feet and is one of the prettiest sails on the bay. Mr. Wyatt is a well-known contractor of San Diego and is in no way jealous of the expert reputation of his attractive wife.

THE UNCHLOROFORMED.

Mr. John Zelman of Detroit, 106 years old, appeared as a witness in one of the courts of that city recently. He came to the United States from Germany forty years ago.

At the age of 30, Mrs. Mary Ann Miller, a resident of Greenwich, N. Y., one of the older Manhattan villages, was told by the doctors that she could not possibly live. The other day Mrs. Miller celebrated her one hundredth birthday at her home in the Bronx, and declared that she "felt like 50."

Charles C. Willson, dean of the Olmsted county (Minnesota) bar, celebrated his eighty-fifth birthday anniversary recently. Mr. Willson daily gives personal attention to a lucrative law practice, attending to all of the details himself.

This fall Eben Allen, aged 87, of Ellsworth, Me., has dug 100 bushels of potatoes, gathered 100 bushels of vegetables, threshed a bushel of beans, gathered forty bushels of apples and has sawed two and one-half cords of wood, besides doing numerous other duties about the house.

"Live on a mountain" and be young. This is the secret of youth which Mme. Charlotte de Gallere Davenport of Vienna, mother of eleven sons, a Russian lecturer and teacher, gave to a Chicago audience recently. She is in her ninetieth year and just beginning to be old, she says. The madame tripped the Argentine tango and exhibited some marvelous exercises to show that her "bones would bend." Fifty years ago she made her first trip to America and has not aged, she said. The eldest of her eleven sons is 75, and the youngest 47 years old. Six of these are fighting for Austria.

Mrs. Hannah Dech Woodring of Freemansburg, Pa., celebrated her one hundred and first birthday anniversary recently. She is in splendid health. She was born during the administration of James Madison, fourth President of the United States.

After visiting his daughter, Mrs. Alice Judd of Pawtucket, R. I., for nearly a year, John Gurney has returned to his old home in Waterville, Me., to spend the rest of his days. Mr. Gurney is 102 years of age, reads without glasses and is very active physically.

Mrs. Melissa Fouts of Connelville, O., who recently died, was born a mute and was never able to talk until just before she died, when she surprised her daughter by telling her how much she was suffering. She called her daughter by name several hours later and then passed away. Her husband, who died several years ago, also was a mute. Mrs. Fouts was [illegible] years old.

THE HELPING HAND.

"How far that little candle throws his beams!
So shines a good deed in a naughty world."

In Kansas City, late in the afternoon of "tag day" for hospital fund, a stooped and worn woman walked into the new Union Station, leading a pale little boy. She asked for Miss Rosa Golden, superintendent of the Mercy Hospital.

"My little boy was taken care of out at the hospital," the worn woman told the nurse. "He wants to give all the money we have to the hospitals that treat poor people without charging them anything."

The smiling boy held up a penny and dropped it into the slot in the aluminum bank carried by Miss Golden.

"Do you live near here?" the nurse asked curiously.

"No, my little boy and I live alone out near the Blue on Fifteenth street."

"And you came all the way down in a street car to make this offering?"

"We walked," corrected the woman sadly as she turned away to march back a distance of five miles to her cottage on the river bank. The cent, it appeared, was all the money the woman had.

A month's rent free to each of the tenants of his many dwelling houses in Baltimore is a unique feature of the will of Robert J. Devenny, a large owner of real estate, who died on November 19. This privilege, the will states, is in token of Devenny's esteem for his tenants.

Mrs. Henry Payne Whitney has arrived in Paris from New York with fifteen trained nurses and four physicians. She is organizing a so-called flying hospital for work near the firing line. This hospital will be affiliated with the American Ambulance as an auxiliary, but will be directed, it is understood, by Mrs. Whitney herself. She will contribute $200,000 to the hospital.

The Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching has since its establishment paid allowances amounting to $2,551,000 to 482 professors and 114 widows of professors, representing seventy-two seats of learning throughout the country, according to a statement made by Dr. Henry S. Pritchett, president of the foundation, at the ninth annual meeting of the board of trustees of that body. It was also stated that a report on the case method of instruction, asked for by the American Bar Association, was now in press, and that this was the first part of a comprehensive study of legal education. Progress also was announced in a study of engineering education.

Clauses in the will of William A. Leckie of Joplin, Mo., provide $2.50 a month for the support of his dog, Lassie, and that his 23-year-old driving horse, Tony, be maintained by his estate. Leckie had no relatives. The bulk of the estate, estimated at $59,000, goes to the Joplin Y.M.C.A. and Y.W.C.A. in trust.

If a plan proposed by Jackson College girls today is carried out—and there is every indication that it will be—students will become foster mothers of waifs who otherwise might never have homes.

The classes are to adopt homeless children as class babies and find homes for them among relatives of the students.

The plan originated with Miss Lena Greenwood, president of the senior class, and was taken up by the presidents of other classes, Miss Dorothy Hart, '16; Helen Rowe, '17, and Jane Davis, '18. Miss Davis is daughter of the dean.

"The girls would get some benefit from the plan," said Miss Greenwood, "for besides creating a certain amount of college spirit it would give the girls an insight into social service work which many plan to take up as a life work."

A gift of 10,000,000 cigarettes has been made to the Irvington and Ardsley-on-Hudson auxiliary of the Westchester County (N. Y.) Chapter of the Red Cross, for the allied soldiers in France.

The cigarettes have been given by the P. Lorillard Company, through Thomas Staples Fuller, a resident of Ardsley-on-Hudson and represent a value of $20,000.

The chapter has communicated with the Rev. Cranston Brenton of New York, a director of the Red Cross Society, and he is arranging to forward the gift to Europe.

For the twenty-first time Mrs. Frederick W. Vanderbilt gave a Thanksgiving dinner to New York newsboys and messenger boys in Masonic Hall. In all, Mrs. Vanderbilt, who gave up her Thanksgiving at her own home, entertained 350 guests.

The Rev. W. I. Ward, pastor of the First Methodist Church, while the boys were at table, addressed them briefly, bringing out the lessons of the day. He asked them what they had to be thankful for, and one little chap quickly cried out, "Turkey."

While the boys were eating, Mrs. Vanderbilt went from table to table. The boys marched into the hall to the music of an orchestra playing a march. The musicians later played some popular songs, of which the boys sang the chorus.

James J. Phelan of Hornblower & Weeks, Newton, Mass., was the donor of a turkey dinner to the 114 boys at The Working Boys' Home at Newton Highlands, Thanksgiving Day. Throughout the dinner, which was served at noon, Phelan was present, and in his honor an enjoyable musical programme was given, together with several cheers.

Future War Correspondents.

[London Chronicle:] The day of the civilian war correspondent seems to be over, and in future we shall have to be content with whatever news the commander of the forces, working through the censor's office at home, may think it wise to impart. It is highly improbable that officers who may have sufficient leisure to indulge in correspondence will be allowed to contribute to the public press, as they have done in smaller expeditions. During the second Ashanti campaign, for instance, two officers who distinguished themselves on that occasion, and have since attained a wider fame—Sir Edward Ward and Sir Robert Baden-Powell—acted as joint correspondents of the Daily Chronicle. They did so well that this journal was able to announce the fall of Coomassie two or three days before any other newspaper. There was a suggestion at the time that after the message the telegraph line to the coast had been mysteriously cut, but that, no doubt, was the result of professional jealousy.

W. Hanley of Barby, near Selby, England, a signalman on the Northeastern Railway, has been forty years in one signal box and has walked to and from his work 61,000 miles.

Charles Scofield, an 80-year-old retired New York Railway employee in reduced circumstances, has received a legacy of $40,000 from a woman he had divorced twenty-five years ago.

MEN AND EVENTS.

Thirty-three years ago, when Mrs. A. F. Frantz of Wenatchie, Wash., was a girl, she swallowed a needle. Recently the needle made its appearance in her left leg and was removed by Dr. Congdon. During all these years the needle has been traveling through her body. She never felt the presence of it until a few days ago. A black and blue spot, accompanied by soreness, was the first indication that anything was wrong. Next the sharp point of the needle showed itself. It was then that she sought medical attention.

Leo Ugardi, a Naples hairdresser, married his sweetheart subject to an undertaking on the part of her father to spend $60 for tonsorial attentions within two years of the wedding in place of a dowry; otherwise the wife is to be returned to her parents.

The three little children of Archduke Francis Ferdinand, heir to the Austrian throne, who was assassinated, together with his wife, at Sarajevo, on June 28, make daily pilgrimages to the tomb of their parents at Atstetten, in Lower Austria, where they place wreaths of blood-red flowers. They will not place white flowers upon the grave of their parents until the crime of Sarajevo has been avenged by Austrian victory over her enemies.

WOMEN'S WORK AND WOMEN'S CLUBS

BY AGNES THURNAU.

BACK of nearly all our charity is selfishness. How apparent it is in all society's efforts to benefit the poor and needy! A social affair that represents an outlay of a fine sum of money is announced for the benefit of charity. Very good, if we can have charity no other way. But why not the charity minus the "affair?" Do we in the twentieth century, after the life and teaching of the teacher on whose ethics our civilization is based, have to be petted, teased, cajoled, flattered, bullied, persuaded into lending a helping hand to our unfortunate brothers? We do. We will give a dollar to charity—oh, yes, gladly, provided a striped watermelon or a celluloid pickle dish is given us in return, to remind us of our beneficence.

There is a movement, afield, afloat, or afoot, as the case may technically be known, among a certain lot of men—good fellows at that—to go out slaughtering the little feathered folks called ducks, and give the dead bodies to the poor of our town for a feast. This reminds one that whatever else the God of the twentieth century Christians is or has, He is enormously patient, and has a tremendous sense of humor. His creative force, which we call nature, created the duck and the man. If the life of the man is sacred, the life of the duck is sacred. They are God's creatures alike. These are not sweet words to certain ears. But those who stand pledged to plead the cause of all who suffer, while there is voice left to raise, do not work for personal popularity. There is no religion higher than truth.

Why not put the guns back in their racks on the walls and give the price of the day's shooting to the poor? The price of transportation, the ammunition, and the "incidental expenses," which do sometimes figure up considerably, would be far more than the ducks would amount to. Nothing permanently good or lovely can be built on suffering to any creature in any part of space. The dead, blood-stained, bedraggled little bodies of those to whom St. Francis of Assisi referred as "My little brothers, the birds," can bring no real relief to the poor. In God's name, stop, ask yourselves if this is not so. Let us bestow our gifts in quietude and love without the torch light and brass band. The suffering world needs love without selfishness, bestowed in selflessness.

Lutie Stearns, Fine Woman.

In her pleasant apartment on Rampart street, Miss Lutie Stearns, member of the board of directors of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, librarian, teacher, lecturer, fine woman generally, talked knowingly of club life to me yesterday. "As I have gone about from State to State," said Miss Stearns, "having spoken at State federation meetings, district conventions, and to individual clubs in no less than twelve States since the first of October, I have been struck with the question of values in club life. It is interesting to observe the things that are 'stressed' in one State as compared with another State. One State conference will be almost wholly devoted to child labor, prison reform, the care of the feeble minded and kindred subjects related to humans occupying some, while an adjoining State will put great emphisas on art and literature.

"It has always been my personal conviction that no club has a moral right to study ancient Greece until it has solved the problem of the 'grease' at its back doors. In other words, it must not go in for culture while corruption exists. Club women are realizing their responsibilities more and more as to civic cleanliness and they are acquiring a civic conscience that will not tolerate much longer many of the so-called necessary evils, such as segregated districts and the like.

"I know of a club in another State whose charming, but misguided women devoted a whole year to the sole study of ancient pottery, while the water supply of the town was polluted, liquor was being sold to minors, vicious dance halls were leading girls to ruin, and horrible conditions existed everywhere."

"I am reminded in this connection of what the beloved Sarah Platt Decker used to say: 'Ladies, Dante is dead; he died a great many years ago. Now, let's to work.'"

"But don't you think that art and literature are worthy subjects of serious study," I asked a bit amazed and abashed.

"Yes, certainly. I would not be understood as saying that art, music and literature have no place in club study, for I recognize the very important element that such study brings into the lives of modern women. But I would plead for a proper adjustment and balance between things cultural and things civic. Culture is the pursuit of perfection, and why can't we have perfection in civic affairs as well as in cultural?"

"But I do not agree with you entirely. I do not favor political activity in clubs—that is politics as such. I do not see how women can preserve the splendid dignity of federations and dabble in politics," I interpolated, daring to believe that I expressed the views of a great many women.

Miss Stearns came back: "Are politics and pollution synonymous? Politics is defined as the science of government. Who can better clean it up than women? The club women of California should gladly go forth into the dark places of human lives to speak the word that brings strength, peace, consolation. They should be willing to say, 'Take our hands and touch them with usefulness; take our feet that they may be shod with willingness; take our hearts that they may glow with kindness; take our minds and tutor them in the way of truth. Help us to realize the waiting opportunities about us. May we be more willing to serve, more anxious to live the common life of home, neighbor, city, country, and the world.'"

I do not agree with Miss Stearns's methods of realizing this noble ideal, but we disagree agreeably, amiably, and as to methods only. By the way, that is the only disagreement there is among women in the world today, when they are considered as a unit. They all have their eyes fastened on a far away star, the light of which is already falling across the dark places of the world and making them to shine.

I bade this splendid woman goodby, with no sense of having had an argument with her. I like to think of it as sword practice for the time when we shall all stand back to back fighting the same common foes.

Los Angeles Ebell.

Tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock Ebell members will hear a lecture by Miss Mary Bannister Willard, who has been for twenty years an art student in the United States and Europe. The subject of Miss Willard's lecture is "The Latest Development in Modern Art." On account of the holidays the last section meeting was held December 10. The regular Monday afternoon lectures in the main auditorium will continue, however, during the month.

Los Angeles Audubon.

There will be an indoor meeting of the Los Angeles Audubon Society December 17, at the museum, Exposition Park. Mrs. T. F. Bicknell is speaker of the day. Her subject is "Woodpeckers."

Woman's City.

Tomorrow afternoon city charter amendment No. 1 will be discussed affirmatively and negatively by Jesse D. Burks and Lorin Handley before the Woman's City Club.

Friday Morning.

On Friday, December 18, there will be a programme dealing with Christmas art, for members only. Miss Lutie Stearns will speak to the club Wednesday afternoon on "The Six Greatest Problems of the Day." Section meetings will be held regardless of holidays.

Hollywood.

The December 16 programme of the Woman's Club of Hollywood will be musical numbers contributed by the members. Hostesses for the day are, Misses J. R. Hubbard and S. A. Hunt; Mmes. J. M. Hunter, F. J. Ironmonger, H. J. Whitley, S. W. Botsford. An interesting holiday book list has been sent out by the literature section to club members recommending certain books for gifts.

A second chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution will be formed in Hollywood, because of the limit in membership of the Hollywood chapter. The new chapter will be organized under the auspices of the existing one, and will be closely allied with it, doing the same work. An exhibit of the paintings of Mrs. Benjamin Brown will be held at the Hollywood Woman's Club House beginning December 14.

Daughters of British Empire.

Princess Mary Chapter, Daughters of the British Empire, gave a silver tea Saturday afternoon at their rooms, No. 702 Y.W.C.A. building. Christmas carols were sung by Frank Hadlock, the boy soloist of St. Paul's Cathedral. He also sang "Silent Night," "Oh, Little Town of Bethlehem" and other songs of the Nativity. Miss Kathleen Bawlf contributed dramatic readings to the programme. The hostesses for the afternoon were Mrs. Hugh Wallace, Miss Scott, Miss Palmer and Miss Miriam Palmer.

WHEN EGGS ARE HIGH.

BY EDNA IONA LOCKE.

When the price of eggs is soaring [illegible] high that one must economize [illegible] in their use a few eggless recipes will not come amiss to the careful housewife, especially if she has to [illegible] to a family of cake lovers. In [illegible] places the number of eggs called for by a recipe may be reduced without materially affecting the quality of the product. A tablespoonful of corn [illegible] may often be substituted for [illegible] egg—for instance, an omelette [illegible] for six eggs may be made with [illegible] eggs, a cupful of milk and a [illegible] of cornstarch. There are [illegible] delicious puddings and other desserts that do not call for eggs in their making, and quite a variety of cakes [illegible] be made without them.

Eggless Fruit Cake.

[illegible] one cupful of sugar with one-fourth cupful of butter, add one [illegible] of molasses, one cupful of sour [illegible] one large teaspoonful of soda, [illegible] teaspoonful each of cinnamon [illegible] allspice, one-half teaspoonful [illegible] of cloves and grated nutmeg, one [illegible] each of seeded raisins and well-[illegible] currants, and four cupfuls of [illegible]. Bake in a rather slow oven.

No-Egg Devil's Food.

[illegible] cupful of sugar, one-half cupful of butter, one-half cupful of sour [illegible] one teaspoonful of soda, one [illegible] of unsweetened chocolate dissolved in one-half cupful of boiling [illegible] and two scant cupfuls of flour. [illegible] in a loaf or in two layers. Icing [illegible]: One cupful of sugar and [illegible] cupful of hot water boiled together until it will thread, add it [illegible] to the stiffly-whipped white of [illegible] flavor with one teaspoonful [illegible], and beat until it spreads.

Apple Sauce Cake.

[illegible] together one-half cupful of [illegible] and one cupful of sugar, add [illegible] cupful of unsweetened apple [illegible] with one scant teaspoonful of [illegible] stirred into it, one-half teaspoonful each of salt and cloves, one teaspoonful of cinnamon, one and one-[illegible] cupfuls of flour, and one cupful [illegible] and chopped raisins mixed [illegible] the flour. Bake in a loaf and ice.

Eggless Layer Cake.

[illegible] together one cupful of sugar [illegible] half cupful of butter, add one [illegible] of sweet milk, three teaspoon-[illegible] baking powder sifted with [illegible] cupfuls of flour. Flavor [illegible]. A good filling for cake [illegible] of one cupful of sugar, one [illegible] chopped nut meats and one [illegible] sour cream (or sweet milk [illegible] of butter) boiled to-[illegible] it will spin a thread. Eggless Tapioca Pudding.

Soak one cupful of tapioca over night, then cook until soft. Pare and quarter some good cooking apples and place in a buttered baking dish, add a few pieces of preserved quince if you have it, or some tiny bits of preserved ginger scattered over the apples, pour the tapioca over and bake well. The tapioca may be sweetened if liked. Serve with cream and sugar.

Eggless Indian Pudding.

Into one and one-third quarts o. boiling water stir one cupful of corn meal, one teaspoonful of salt, two-thirds cupful of sugar and two-thirds cupful of seeded raisins and currants mixed. Stir well, and when thickened pour into a buttered baking dish and bake for two hours.

Bird's Nest Pudding.

Peel sufficient apples to cover the bottom of a pudding dish, cut out the cores, but leave the apples whole. Make a batter of one cupful of sweet cream, one-half cupful of milk, one-half teaspoonful of salt, two teaspoonsful of baking powder, and flour to make a stiff batter. Pour it over the apples and bake. Serve with a sauce.

Eggless Lemon Pie.

Heat one cupful of milk, thicken with one tablespoonful of cornstarch dissolved in a spoonful of cold milk, add one cupful of sugar and the grated rind and juice of one lemon. Bake in a rich puff paste.

Eggless Pumpkin Pie.

For five pies take one quart of stewed pumpkin, two heaping tablespoonsful of corn starch dissolved in a little milk, two and one-half quarts of sweet milk, and sugar and spice to taste. Ginger and lemon make a nice flavoring for pumpkin.

Cream Pie.

In a bowl mix two heaping tablespoonsful each of flour and sugar, pour over slowly one and one-half cupsful of hot sweet cream, stirring until smooth and free from lumps. Pour into a pie plate lined with nice pastry, grate nutmeg over the top, and bake in a quick oven. Serve warm.

Pudding Sauce.

One cupful of any kind of fresh or canned fruit juice, put on to boil, and add one-half cupful of sugar, one teaspoonful of cornstarch or flour mixed smooth with a little cold water. Boil for five minutes and serve hot.

When the War is Over.

[St. Joseph News-Press:] When this cruel war is over the entire area of conflict will be a land of maimed men. Paris, Berlin, Vienna, Petrograd and London are filled with wounded soldiers, as well as scores of smaller cities. Everywhere in the fighting zones the hospitals, churches and school buildings are taxed to their utmost capacity to take care of those who have been hit by bullets and shells and slashed by sword and bayonet. And, furthermore, there are thousands of the victims of war still lying where they fell. In its awful length of wounded lists this war overshadows all other wars.

Music and Musicians.

the ideas of the masters of art, literature and music and created a wonderful seven-reel film of the life of the Savior.

Behymer has secured the film and surrounded it with the Christmas Oratorio of Saint-Saens, Parker's "The Holy City," "The Messiah," and Coomb's "The First Christmas," in great choral effects, together with Bach, Beethoven and Handel numbers.

One can only imagine the result, as there are no words which could visualize the project; yet it is easy to believe that nothing could be more appropriate and engrossing at Yuletide than this newest exploitation of the life of Christ.

More About the Band.

The announcement in last Sunday's Times that a move was afoot to establish a military band in this city spread like wildfire, and already L. E. Behymer, who was appointed custodian of the fund, has received a generous number of contributions.

The clubs have taken up the proposition, and indications are that original plans, which call for the first free concert in February, will be carried out to the letter.

Three times the number of musicians for whom there will be places have sent in their names, but the work of elimination will not begin for several weeks—not, in fact, until the advance subscriptions warrant it.

MUSIC NOTES.

During his visit nere Arrigo Serato, the Italian violinist, accepted the dedication of a song without words, "Consolation," for violin and piano, by one of our local composers, Richard Lurchesi, and will include it in his future programmes.

The Woman's Symphony Orchestra has been engaged for the concert which is to be given under the auspices of the State Teachers' Association of California, at Trinity, on the 22nd. Lester Donahue is to be one of the soloists.

Berniece Dempster, a talented vocalist, has recently returned to Los Angeles after a successful six months' tour of the East.

The new Japanese and Desert Suites by Mrs. Gertrude Ross were quite a feature of the "native" composers' programme given at the Ebell programme Thursday.

The Beverly Hills Hôtel presents Estelle Heartt-Dreyfus, assisted by the Beverly Trio—Glenn Knight, pianist; Emery MacCargar, 'cellist, and Vernon Gray violinist—in recital today, with the following programme: "An Evening with Chaminade," Variation from "Callirhoe," the Beverly Trio; "Madrigal," "Ritournelle," "Fleur Jetee," "The Silver Ring," Mrs Dreyfus; "Pas des Amphores" ("Callirhoe,") the Beverly Trio; "Berceuse," "Si J'etais Jardinier," "Slavonic Song," "Spanish Love Song," Mrs. Dreyfus.

The Madrigal Club met in the music-room of the Public Library on the afternoon of December 3. A few interesting events on the life of Liszt were read by Mrs. J. P. Morgan. Following this several of Liszt's compositions were given—"The Lorelei," Mrs. G. F. McKinnie; "Consolation," Mrs. C. Van Dingslee. Other numbers on the programme were Fantasie in D Minor (Mozart,) Mrs. C. P. Smith; "Ashes of Roses" (Woodman,) Miss Mignon Stockman.

NOBODY GOT AWAY.

The Old Doctor Had Learned That Business and Medicine Were Two Very Different Things.

[New York Times:] The young doctor with downtown patients had a fair practice, and the old doctor had a good one, but as neither needed a downtown office all the time the father suggested that they should pool issues and rent one between them. The young man agreed—it was a good thing for him, he thought—and hurried off to have a suitable sign painted. When delivered it read like this:

Dr. T. S. White,
Office hours 10 a.m. to 1 p.m.
Dr. N. White,
Office hours 1 p.m. to 4 p.m.

The old man looked it over and shook his head.

"It won't do, my boy," he said. "You haven't that business instinct that has made your old daddy so successful. You may be a good doctor, but when it comes to signs, keep your eye on the old man."

Then he put this sign under his arm and walked out. An hour later he came back with this:

Dr. White,
Office hours,
10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

"There you are," he said proudly. "Now we catch your patients or mine, no matter what hour they come. No use putting a sign up that will steer the patients of either of us away when the other is sitting inside waiting to tinker them up. Medicine is one thing, my boy, and business is another. This is business."

Then the old man tacked the sign up on the door and caught one of the young man's patients first thing.

A DEBUTANTE'S LETTER.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 10.

Louise Darling: Whatever possessed you to be so demure and triste at the Goodfellows last night? Decked out in that simple little befrilled white net and that innocent pink sash, with your hair in the most pronounced Puritan pat, you looked the very essence of sweet and youthful simplicity. And we want to know all about it. Not three weeks ago you were flaunting scarlet chiffon and any amount of leg. Not three weeks ago you were the acme of scalped elegance at the top, diamond patches and all complete. Darling, darling, what has wrought this wondrous change? We suspect the worst. Is it undiluted and malign deviltry or is he effulgent in nice old-fashioned feminine ideals? We decided to be a good sport and not give you away last night, but how I refrained from that wink I don't know. It trembled on my eyelid perpetually and only his adorning gaze fixed so ardently upon you, stayed the fatal flip.

Well, all's fair in love and war and we women stick together so much better nowadays. Besides, I shall count on a little reciprocity one of these days.

There's Claude, for instance. I rather like him, don't you? But unfortunately he cordially dislikes capable young women. Has a weakness for gentle, yielding, timid femininity. And you know, dear, I've never been afraid of anything yet—not even a society leader, or the Clancarty's footman, or microbes. But I intend to cultivate timidity forthwith. Henceforth I shall be shyly startled at a golf ball, and quivering with fear when the Dorsey's pup yaps at me. I was going across the road to the Griffiths to dinner, but was so late getting ready. So they sent Claude over for me. It really was darkish so I hastened to say I was so glad he came over as I was just a little timid in the dark places. The effect was quite delicious. The dear boy's breast visibly swelled. He, too, was so glad he came. The pater eyed me naughtily but never said a word. But I'll wager the wicked old boy will hold that over my head after this.

Why didn't you go over to the Midwick for the golf on Tuesday. They have dedicated Tuesdays to the women golfers over there now and there will be an informal tournament of some kind every week. The Hixons are back from the East and Mrs. J. M. Hixon started out by winning the Tombstone event. She put up an awfully good game. Mildred Landreth plays over there all the time now—he is doing wonderfully, quite championship golf. And Margaret Watson, who only took up the game just recently, came in third. Those Tuesday meetings are going to be ever so popular.

Oh, yes, talking of the Midwick, you know young Leigh Guyer, don't you? What do you suppose that gorgeous boy has publicly announced? Says he won't marry any girl that has less than a million. No others need apply. Isn't it sumptuous? One must confess he is deliciously frank about it, tells all the girls in turn and warns them not to get sentimental about him until he has had time to investigate their prospects! The new vogue for frankness is quite enchanting.

Oh, so you met Crawford May, did you? Isn't he a luxurious creature? Perfectly gorgeous clothes, a regular Marquis of Anglesey. And as for cars. My dear, he is flourishing his fifty something now. Has flaunted French cars, Italian cars, several Packards and Mercedes, and never keep them longer than five minutes or so. That's what I call cutting a real dash. What a ghastly responsibility for a husband. However, there's not much danger. Declares he is wedded to his—no, not English bulldog, darling or anything masculine and ferocious like that—but a rummy little pinicktity French poodle, named Dixie. He kisses the thing and lets it lick him. Ugh! The lips that touch Dixie shall never touch mine, eh, what? Dashing young bank cashiers should, however, have our unqualified gratitude for filling the sad social gap, which we experience for the lack of stylish young earls and dukes.

Oh, yes, we are all going down to the Virginia for the charity ball for the Children's Hospital on the 18th. Of course you must come, cherie. Another opportunity for the demure white net and pink sash. All our dear Los Angeles and Pasadena hostesses are making up parties for it and I hear the Goodhues will be entertaining on quite a large scale. They do things rather well, don't they? The George Flints, down there, are also arranging for a party, I hear. You remember that charming Mrs. Flint at Del Monte? She looked so interesting, but never said a word. Hubby appears to talk for both of them in that family.

Florence Porter was married last Monday at the Church of the Angels to Aubrey Parks of Dallas. They are in Riverside now, and then go on to Kansas to see his people. But they are coming back here to live. All the girls are becoming Mrs. now. Makes you and me feel rather out of it, eh, dear? There are most interesting whispers about Katherine Torrance, too. You knew she came out officially on Tuesday, didn't you? They had such a merry afternoon tea affair at the Ebell—all the pretty girls in town. Mrs. Lindley helped receive and Dorothy was, of course, in dainty evidence. Mamma Edwards, minus fair debutante daughter, was bearing up bravely. It must be rather an ordeal for mothers for the first few weeks after daughter's wedding, mustn't it?

Katherine Glasgow was married at St. John's yesterday to Phil Harrigan. Of course they had a lot of Stanford men there, besides many San Francisco friends.

Yes, of course, the bazaar was a success. What next? Weren't twenty of the most charming maids in town busy selling things? I tell you some of those girls have missed their vocation—they could sell anything, even real estate in Mexico. The St. Paul's one will be just as good, too. The Alexandria is such a stylish place for a church bazaar, isn't it? Some brilliant genius must have thought of that.

Did you know Nat Mears was back again? Absorbed in golf, as usual, of course, but still available to some mild extent between rounds. He is becoming quite an established bachelor—ought not to be allowed The Jewetts have also returned from Denver for the winter and the McLaughlins are on the way. They say Mrs. Mc has became quite a golf fiend. Won all sorts of things back East. You know, she just had to take up the game in self-defense, otherwise she would never see Michael.

Has your pater been duck shooting, too? Yes, mine has it badly. At first they were rather a luxury. Now the cooks leave in relays every time a few brace come home for plucking. Especially as father is so fussy about the cooking. Says they must be just the right tint, and noses around the kitchen while the stuffing is being prepared. The mater continues serene, however. Says she is so grateful it is only that kind of duck.

Well, so long, darling. I must hurry up with my timidity practice—I shall need it tonight.

Love from DOLLY.

THE WEEK.

PARTIES, RECEPTIONS, DINNERS, WEDDINGS AND THE LIKE.

ONE of the elaborate affairs of the season will be given Saturday evening, when Miss Edith Runyon will entertain with a masquerade supper-dance in honor of Miss Rosaline Merritt of Pasadena, who is betrothed to Edward Paul Haupt and Miss Agnes Whittaker, who is engaged to Clyde Martin.

The Bryson apartments, the home of Miss Runyon, will be elaborately decorated with great, shaggy chrysanthemums of different colors, banked against the wall of the ballroom in big clusters, and from 100 silk Chinese lanterns, peeping out from the flowers soft-colored lights will glow to lend enchantment to the occasion. The supper-room is to be made into a veritable garden of potted plants and tropical palms.

Those who will assist the hostess are Mrs. Hulett Clinton Merritt, Jr., Miss Marguerita Winston, Miss Caroline Winston, Miss Pandy Whitaker, Miss Barbara Scoville, Miss Kathleen Tottenham, Miss Gretchen Herig and Miss Louise Updegraff.

One of the delightful affairs recently in honor of Miss Merritt was the dinner given by Reese Llewellyn for the bridal group at the Alexandria, followed by a theater party at the Mason.

To Give Comedy.

Members of the Westlake School for Girls, under the direction of Miss Marie Nehl, are rehearsing the three-act comedy, "Endymion," which they will give Tuesday evening at the Gamut Club for the benefit of the Children's Hospital.

The play in itself is interesting and will include some very talented and beautiful young ladies. Following is the cast and synopsis:

Mortals: Endymion, a Prince, Velma Funk; Phrynia, with whom Endymion is in love, Helen Hargia; Eumenides, the bond-friend of Endymion, Dorothy Arzner; Kallisthene, Eumenides's betrothed, Ruth Woodhead; the parents of Endymion, King Aeolus and Queen Hermia, Gertrude Newcomb and Esther Hill.

Immortals: Pan, Ruler over Creatures of the Forest, Mildred Finley; Artemis, Goddess of the Chase and special Guardian of Maidens, May Roberts; Hermes, Messenger of the Gods, Ruth Quinn; Morpheus, God of Sleep, Rosalind Gardner.

Dryads: Barbara Neuner, Elinor Warren, Martha Sanderson, Pauline Sanderson, Juliette Enders, Jemima Walters, Dorothy Sherrard, Katherine Burgner, Camille Crocker, Ruth Bullinger.

Time—Early morning.

Act II—The same.

Time—Nightfall of the same day.

Act III—The same.

Time—The following morning.

To Spend Winter Here.

Miss Margaret Hudson Hawkins of New York and Washington, accompanied by her mother, Mrs. S. A. Hawkins, is spending the winter in Los Angeles. Miss Hawkins is a direct descendant of Henry Hudson. They will go to San Diego to attend the "1915 exposition," opening shortly, and also later will visit San Francisco.

Smart Bridge Luncheon.

A smart bridge luncheon given during the week was that of Mrs. G. L. de Laittre Wednesday afternoon at her home, No. 2807 Western avenue. Glowing pink carnations graced the small tables as well as the rooms given over to the luncheon, the mantel being a veritable bower of carnations and smilax. Low glass baskets were filled with the blossoms, while places were marked with rosebud cards. Favors were small brass baskets filled with pink candles, the handles tied with perky bows of tulle. The scheme of rose color and roses were deftly carried out in the menu as far as possible. Mrs. George W. Maxon assisted.

Following luncheon tables were arranged for games of auction, the scores kept on cards adorned with the gold crest of the hostess. Prizes were captured by Mmes. Stifel, Morehouse and Palmer. Those present included Mrs. Charles Anderson, Mrs. J. H. Norton, Mrs. C. F. Cox, Mrs. Baldwin Starr, Mrs. Mary Stifel, Mrs. L. L. Vogel, Mrs. Lou Palmer, Mrs. William Mayne, Mrs. F. D. Parker, Mrs. William Morehouse, Mrs. George Jenkins, Mrs. T. A. Johnson, Mrs. Carl Schader, Mrs. George Shaw, Mrs. William White, Mrs. H. K. Van Horn, Mrs. M. F. Van Horn, Mrs. F. C. de Lano, Mrs. C. E. Wenzel, Mrs. L. W. Snow, Mrs. George Porter, Mrs. C. L. McDonald and Miss Josephine McAllester.

Musical Evening.

Mrs. Havens Corbet gave an evening of Irish readings and dialect stories at the Stilwell Hotel Thursday to which 150 guests were included. Mrs. Corbet was assisted by Miss Lucy Wolcott, lyric soprano, and Miss Ethel Willard Putnam, accompanist.

At the Immanuel Church pleasant Sunday afternoon service today Mrs. Corbet will read the "Lost Word," by Van Dyke.

At Sierra Madre Club.

The old rose room of the Sierra Madre Club was the scene of a merry party Tuesday afternoon, when Mrs. Charles Olney of Seventh avenue entertained with an enjoyable bridge luncheon. The long table was charmingly effective in Killarney rosebuds, arranged in a handsome ivory basket, the handle tied with fluffy bows of pink maline. Favors were tiny pink rose baskets filled with bonbons, and pink cards, on which was the gold monogram of the hostess, marked covers for Mrs. Olney, Mrs. McBean, Mrs. Cora Couch, Mrs. E. E. Bean, Mrs. Walter Day, Mrs. C. H. Delvaide, Mrs. Roy T. Foulkes, Mrs. Harry Houk, Mrs. Allington Hemming, Mrs. Earl Osborn, Mrs. Harry Ransom, Mrs. George Sheahan, Mrs. Lloyd Sherman, Mrs. Ralph Van Cleave, Mrs. P. F. Wood, Mrs. Arthur Will, Mrs. Arthur Chaffee, Mrs. Charles Kinsley, Mrs. Frank McDonald, Mrs. Howell and Miss Leona Houk.

Another Bridge Luncheon.

Masses of Cecile Brunner roses and maidenhair fern combined, with satin ribbons of the same pastel shades, centered the table presided over by Mrs. P. J. Moran Friday afternoon at her home, No. 905 Irola street, when she entertained with a smart bridge luncheon. Prettily hand-limned cards marked covers for Mrs. G. W. Saurret, Mrs. Harry Gutchess, Mrs. Wallace Sanborn, Mrs. William H. Kelly, Mrs. William Leck, Mrs. Seymour Myall, Mrs. Mae Terry Logan, Mrs. Smith, Miss Matilda Sonnerman, Miss Florence Moran and the hostess. Tables were arranged for games of bridge following the luncheon, prizes falling to Mmes. Leck, Logan and Saurret.

Fraternity Banquet.

The Zeta Psi Fraternity will banquet at Hotel Clark next Saturday. A "high jinx" will follow, in which all the guests will participate. The election of officers for the ensuing year will be held. So far reservations have been made for fifty.

Surprised at Mountain Home.

Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Brent of Berkeley Square, who shower hospitality on their friends, were the happy victims of a surprise barbecue last Sunday at their beautiful home, Mountain Cragg. The guests assembled at the adjoining ranch of Whiting-Mead, all going over in a body. When they arrived they requested the host and hostess to walk to their entrance gate, where Will Stevens, in behalf of the guests, presented Mr. and Mrs. Brent with a set of iron swinging gates, set in concrete, with two large posts topped with light globes, and the name of the ranch in gold letters in circular form over the gate and a pertinent poem, with a key for each. In response Mr. Brent said that he would have a key made for each guest there in order that they could come and go when they elected. Short talks were also given by Mrs. Brent and Messrs. Jay and Finkle.

The Committee on Arrangements included William Mead, Frank Jay, Dr. Ralph Hagan and M. W. Everhardy, who instigated the affair last June, when the same coterie of friends were included at the opening of the ranch home. Mr. Everhardy, who is famous for his barbecued meat, took entire charge of that part of the arrangement, Mrs. Everhardy furnishing the delectable beans for the occasion. Guests going included Mr. and Mrs. D. Beidler, Mr. and Mrs. John C. Cline, Mr. and Mrs. O. R. Fuller, Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Finkle, Mr. and Mrs. C. Frankel, Dr. and Mrs. Ralph Hagan, Mrs. and Mrs. Frank T. Howenstein, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Higbee, Mr. and Mrs. P. V. K. Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Jay, Mr. and Mrs. Don Keeler, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Mead, Mr. and Mrs. George L. Keeby, Mayor and Mrs. H. H. Rose, Mr. and Mrs. William Stephens, Mr. and Mrs. F. E. White, Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Zemansky, Mr. and Mrs. John Zobelein, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Zobelein, Mr. and Mrs. George Rector, Mrs. Augusta L. Horn, Miss Florence H. Bartlett and C. H. Barnes and Jack Marquis.

Dinner Party.

One of the charming affairs of the week was the dinner party given by Mr. and Mrs. George L. Penniman at their home on West Ninth street. The table was a glowing mass of Cecile Brunner roses set in maidenhair and softly-shaded lights. Gold monogramed cards marked places for Mr. and Mrs. Penniman, Mr. and Mrs. James Byrne, Mr. and Mrs. David Unruh, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Ferguson, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Laird Miller and Mrs. Austin.

Miss St. John Complimented.

Miss Anna St. John, the bride-to-be of Roe Mitchell Barrett, was the honoree at a Five Hundred party given Tuesday afternoon by Mrs. William Conzelman at her home on Grattan street. Miss Marion Moses and Miss Frances St. John assisted the hostess. The rooms were abloom with Enchantress carnations, and following the games of cards, elaborate refreshments were served, carried out in the pink and white color motif. Prizes were awarded to Mrs. Percival and Miss Anna St. John. Guests going were Mrs. Clyde Bannister, Mrs. John Percival, Mrs. Noel Hinson, Mrs. John Layng, Mrs. Paul Dodds, Mrs. James Shelton, Miss Widney Watson, Miss Marion Moses, Miss Elsie Beheymer, Miss Frances St. John and Miss Gloria Bean.

Yesterday afternoon Miss Marion Moses gave a "high tea" for Miss St. John, at her home, No. 1161 Crenshaw boulevard, and her sister, Miss Eleanor Ann Moses, assisted. In the dining-room the Christmas idea was carried out in the decorations, greenery and the glowing poinsettias being utilized with potted ferns. Presiding here over the coffee and tea urns were Miss Widney Watson and Miss Frances St. John. The rest of the home was enlivened with crimson carnations. During the reception hours Miss Flora Cronemiller delighted the guests with piano numbers, and Miss Anna St. John with readings. As a surprise to Miss St. John, the hostess furnished a recipe book, to which each guest was asked to append her favorite recipe, autographing same. Twenty-five guests enjoyed the afternoon.

Luncheon is Elaborate.

No more beautifully-appointed function has been given this season than the bridge luncheon presided over by Mrs. Oscar Wilson Roberts, Tuesday afternoon, at her home, No. 920 South Alvarado street. The hostess, assisted by her daughter, Mrs. Ralph Louis Byron, Mrs. L. H. Valentine and Mrs. Albert Mortenson, received her guests in the reception-room upstairs, leaving the lower floor free for the arranging of the luncheon tables. Masses of glowing poinsettias in floor vases adorned the rooms given over to the affair, and the tables were abloom with the fragrant Richmond roses and maidenhair fern arranged in cut glass and silver baskets. Places were marked with gold-monogramed cards. Fifty guests responded to invitations and prizes were captured by Mrs. William Morehouse, Mrs. Charles Faulkner and Mrs. Bert Stearns.

To San Diego.

Mrs. Oren Bump, after having resided in this city for several years, left Thursday for San Diego for an indefinite stay.

Cotton Benefit Party.

One of the notable affairs of early January will be the "Buy a Bale of Cotton" benefit, to be given at the Bryson apartments by Mrs. Frank Sherwood Wise. Its immediate proceeds are to be turned over in their entirety to the Children's Hospital and its indirect effects will work not a little good for the financially-embarrassed cotton-growers of Imperial Valley.

Five hundred guests will be asked and all the women will be expected to wear gowns—necessarily new—made of cotton. The function will be held in the large supper room of the hotel, elaborately made over to represent a cotton plantation of the old South before the war. The waiters will be darkies in costume and the table decorations, favors and menu will be in keeping.

Six young girls—Miss Virginia Wash, Miss Dorothy Armstrong, Miss Marion Bowden, Miss Willie McClellan, Miss Laura May Gysin and Miss Dorothy Young—have been selected as cotton-sellers, a unique device by

Miss Margaret Hudson Hawkins,

announcement of her engagement was made last month. Several of her bridesmaids have already entertained with dinners and a theater party or two. Her charming sister-in-law, Mrs. H. C. Merritt, Jr., entertained with a theater party in her honor recently, and Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock Miss Merritt gave an ultra smart dinner party for her bridesmaids. The dining table was a thing of beauty in its wonderful floral dress. Guests included Misses Margaret and Caroline Winston, Agnes Whitaker, Kathleen Tottenham, Edith Runyan, Gretchen Herrig and Louise Up de Graff, Mrs. John Sommers, Mr. and Mrs. Hulett C. Merritt, Jr., Edward Paul Haupt, Reese Llewellyn, the best man, Mr. and Mrs. Merritt and Miss Rosaline.

Pink roses and ferns nodded from vases and baskets in every conceivable nook at the home of Mrs. George W. T. Lord, who entertained the other day with the second of a series of at-homes planned by her for the winter. She was assisted by Mrs. Frank V. Rider, the Misses Rider and the Misses Power. Mrs. Searle poured tea. Nearly half a hundred guests were present.

The Midwick Country Club was the scene of several charmingly-appointed dinner parties several evenings ago. Among the hosts and hostesses noted were the John B. Millers and the David Blankenhorns, and quite an interesting group of Los Angeles society folk.

Dr. A. C. Jackson and his bride, who was formerly Miss Irene Severy, after a delightful wedding trip spent at the U. S. Grant Hotel in San Diego and at Coronado, are now domiciled at their charming "Honeymoon" cottage at Catalina. Later they will return to Altadena, where they will occupy a handsome home built several months ago by Dr. Jackson for his bride.

The Non Nobis Solum Club of the Orton school held a most successful country fair recently, at which they realized quite a handsome sum for charity. Pretty girls presided at various booths, and no one got away without patronizing every one. Besides the booths part of the afternoon and the evening was devoted to musical dramatic sketches.

South Pasadena.

THE home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard G. Hillman, No. 1800 Fletcher avenue, was beautifully decorated Thursday evening, with Fair Maid carnations, huge bows of tulle and garlands of asparagus plumosus, the occasion being the wedding of their daughter, Miss Porter Elizabeth Hillman, and Willis Gray Ritchey, son of Prof. G. W. Ritchey of Mt. Wilson Observatory, and Mrs. Ritchey. The bridal gown was a dainty affair of pink chiffon, and with this a shower bouquet of Cecile Brunner roses was carried.

The officiating minister was Dr. Lash of Pasadena, and before the ceremony Mrs. Roy Arnold of Los Angeles sang "I Love You Truly" and "Secrets." There were no attendants. As the bridal party entered, Miss Elfleda Ritchey, sister of the groom, played Lohengrin's wedding march. The service was read in the large living-room beneath a beautiful canopy of carnations and ferns erected above the large fireplace. This was further enhanced by pink pillars draped with greenery, at the base of which Kentia palms and brake ferns were banked in artistic profusion.

The bride's table was decked with a huge wedding cake placed at one end, leading to which was a complete wedding party of imported miniature figures. The path was fern and tulle-bordered and the lights overhead were festooned in smilax.

At the conclusion of an automobile trip through Southern California, Mr. and Mrs. Ritchey will reside in Pasadena.

The bride has been the recipient of many prenuptial entertainments since the announcement of her betrothal, two falling within the past week. The first was a luncheon of sixteen covers, given by Mrs. William Maddox, No. 2823 San Marino street, Los Angeles. The appointments were pertinent to the marriage, and the afternoon was spent in sewing for the honor guest.

The second affair was a card afternoon given by Mrs. D. W. Pierce and Miss Kathleen Pierce of Gramercy place, Los Angeles. The home was adorned with pink roses and greenery, and nine tables of players were included. During the afternoon, the honor guest was surprised by being presented with a dainty handkerchief and apron shower.

Mr. and Mrs. Granville M. Gress have issued invitations for the marriage of their niece, Miss Susie Boyd, to William Parnell Baker, the ceremony to occur December 24, at their home in Pasadena. Miss Boyd has long been a resident of this city, but after her marriage will make her home in Los Angeles.

Honoring the seventy-fifth birthday anniversary of her father, Edwin M. Arnold, Mrs. E. F. Hobert entertained with a dinner party last evening at her home in Oneonta, to which only relatives of the honor guest were included. A crystal basket filled with Cecile Brunner roses centered the table, on either side of which were placed silver candelabra with pink shades shedding a soft glow over the table. Games of Five Hundred employed the evening, following dinner, and tables were arranged for the honor guest, Mr. and Mrs. Hobert, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Odell, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Farnsworth, Mr. and Mrs. John Salisbury, Mr. and Mrs. J. Arthur Farnsworth, Jr., Mrs. Frank Odell, Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Crable of Los Angeles, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Johnston of San Pedro, Mr. and Mrs. James Edmund Barker of Athens, the Misses Irene and Ruth Salisbury and Arnold Salisbury.

Splendid poinsettias glowing in jardinieres embellished the home of Miss Bertha Moore when she entertained the faculty of the High School at her home, No. 1424 Laurel street, Friday evening. The dining-room was a glow of soft color, furnished by crystal bowls of delicately-tinted pink roses. A musical programme was given by Mrs. Emma K. Bartlett, voice, and Miss Jessie Hall, readings. This was followed by a number of interesting contests. Guests included Supervisor and Mrs. George C. Bush, Prof. and Mrs. Hubert S. Upjohn, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Oneal, Mr. and Mrs. Melvin E. Bartlett, Mr. and Mrs. Will Green, Mr. and Mrs. John W. Moore, Miss Elizabeth Bickford, Miss Lucy Dickinson, Miss Jessie Hall, Miss Elizabeth Hoag, Miss Sarah McRae, Miss Kate Meek, Miss Prue Rowan, Miss Harriett Wishard, Miss Gracia Fernandez, Miss Hazel Simpson and Messrs. Ernest Mottram and Herbert White.

Alhambra.

THE most important social event of the week was the charity ball given by the Woodmen of the World Tuesday evening at Strifler Hall. The affair which is planned annually by the organization was beautifully carried out, and the social contingent of the city responded generously to the opportunity to add happiness to the Christmas of the poor children of the city. Splendid music was furnished and dancing continued until a late hour. Punch and light refreshments were dispensed during the evening.

The Woman's Club House was the scene of a delightful gathering Friday evening, when the Ostend Club gave the second of a series of parties. A large attendance and excellent music added to the pleasure of the affair, which was thoroughly enjoyed by the guests who included Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Van Graham, Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Gurley, Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Hammond, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph B. Clapp, Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Boyd, Mr. and Mrs. George A. Cadawalader, Mr. and Mrs. George Ebert, Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Boyd, Mr. and Mrs. John P. Norris, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Bean, Mr. and Mrs. Carey W. Jones, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Charles G. Green, Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Sorrell, Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Hall, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Goodson, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Sipprell, Miss Margery Halsted, Miss Grace James, and Messrs. Randall Clapp, Fred A. Turner and S. P. James.

A wedding of extreme interest to many in Alhambra occurred Monday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Maginnis in Los Angeles, when Miss Edna Thompson of Topeka, Kan., and George Merrill, a former resident of this city, were united. Mr. Merrill's father was pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of this city for a number of years, and the contracting parties have a host of friends and well wishers in this vicinity. Among the local society folks attending the function were, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Van Graham and Miss Ethel Blackburn.

Mrs. P. O. Prince, who has been in Northern California for the past two months, has returned home and is receiving a hearty welcome from her host of friends. A number of complimentary affairs will be given for Mrs. Prince during the coming weeks.

Mrs. George Smith gave a pleasantly arranged party to about fifteen guests Friday afternoon, when the time was devoted to making garments for the children of the poor to be distributed at Christmas time. Luncheon was served at 1 o'clock at an attractively decorated table, holly berries and cypress greens forming a beautiful centerpiece, pleasantly suggestive of the near approach of the holidays. Charming music was rendered during the dinner hour, and the remainder of the day given over to sewing and informal conversation. As a result of the delightful day, much practical work was accomplished toward bringing happiness to many less fortunately circumstanced during the Yuletide season.

The home of Mrs. Walter Rush Cuthbert on North Garfield avenue was the scene of an animated and happy gathering Wednesday afternoon when the first of a series of teas that will be given for the philanthropic work of the peace chapter of the Studium Templar, was given. The Studium Templar has grown with remarkable rapidity and is favorably known for the splendid work which is being accomplished. The directorate of the peace chapter includes, Mrs. Franklin Flick, Mrs. James Hamilton, Mrs. Florence Adams, Mrs. Cuthbert, Miss Ruth Hamilton, Mrs. James Hamilton, Mrs. Edith Treziculny, Dr. Council Faddis, Miss Rene Cody, Miss Lilia Wheeler and Miss Agnes Macfie.

A charming musicale was arranged by the Loyal Women of the First Christian Church, and given before an appreciative audience at the High School auditorium, Friday night. An unusual treat offered the guests was the playing on native instruments by a dainty Japanese maid, whose skill on the koto won unstinted applause from the appreciative listeners. Others contributing to the success of the entertainment were Prof. F. V. Routt, Miss Reat Mitchell, Miss Birdie Gill, Miss Irene Wadey, Miss Ruth Michelland, Messrs. Huston and Ralph Yeisley.

A house warming and social entertained the members and many friends of Holy Trinity Church Thursday evening when the new rectory which was started on Easter Sunday was formally completed. The auspicious occasion which was attended by nearly a hundred members and many guests, was one of the most brilliant of the early winter affairs and enthusiasm for the work reached a high pitch. A programme of unusual excellence was rendered during the evening and delectable light refreshments were dispensed by a number of the ladies of the Guild in the dining-room before the adjournment of the happy occasion.

Mrs. Esther Bowen, accompanied by her little daughters, Marian and Marie, has arrived from Seattle, and is the guest of relatives in this vicinity where she plans to remain until spring.

The members of the P.E.O. were charmingly entertained at the home of Mrs. George H. Wallace at her home on the Arroyo Monday afternoon. An attractive luncheon was served the guests and at the conclusion of the repast, a comforter was tied, to be used in the charitable work of the organization. Delightful instrumental and vocal music was enjoyed by the coterie of workers during the afternoon, Mrs. Jessie Hilton Wilson graciously singing a number of charming songs.

San Gabriel.

QUITE the most brilliant and elaborate social event given in recent years occurred Friday at the beautiful Gridley home when a luncheon was given announcing the engagement and approaching marriage of the young daughter of the house, Miss Sara Gray Gridley, and Frank M. Kramer, the son of Mrs. Minnie Kramer of Whitney avenue, Sierra Park. The house decorations were in violets exclusively, except for light touches of asparagus fern, and the air was redolent with the perfume of the exquisite blooms, which were used with prodigal profusion throughout the rooms. In the dining-room the appointments were beautiful, and the centerpiece was an altar of violets, ribbons and violets forming aisles reaching across the table, and at one end was a miniature bride and groom. As the guests were seated the little nephew of the bride-elect entered the room attired as a kewpie, with a huge sash of violet-colored ribbon, carrying an enormous shield on which was inscribed "Sara Gray Gridley and Frank M. Kramer, January 14, 1915." Excited congratulations and good wishes followed this announcement, which came as a great surprise to the guests. The afternoon was spent in dainty bits of needlework for the bride-elect, who was charmingly gowned in an exquisite creation of white lace. Miss Gradley's sister, Mrs. S. H. Christensen of Sheridan way, assisted her sister, and the guests of the charming affair, which will be remembered as one of the most beautiful of recent date, included: Mrs. Hugh Eckhardt, Mrs. Whitney Hill, Miss Marjorie Evans, Miss Helen Evans, Miss Clara Weyer, Miss Florence Spellacy, Miss Betty Beveridge, Miss Helen Taggart, Miss Helen Fenner, Miss Theo Garbutt, Miss Mildred Girofvenor of Los Angeles; Miss Nellie Toothacher, Miss Gertrude Burrows and Miss Fern Toothacher of Hollywood, Miss Gertrude Flood, Inglewood; Miss Elma Crank, Pomona; Miss Beulah Girard, Ocean Park; Miss Hildreth Vail, Pasadena and Miss Alma Cramer, Sierra Park.

Mrs. Earl Wakeman and Mrs. Chester Magee were hostesses to about sixty guests, members of the Parent-Teacher Association, Monday evening, which was an affair of exceptional brilliancy. Elaborate decorations of Japanese lanterns, potted palms and a beautiful Christmas tree, made the attractive Wakeman home the object of exclamations of delight, and the programme, which was rendered during the evening was one to be remembered with pleasure. Late in the evening sandwiches and coffee were served by the gracious hostesses, and final adieus said with regret by the throng which availed itself of their pleasing hospitality.

The Woman's Club gave another of its delightful parties Friday night at Johnson's Hall, which was greatly enjoyed by the many members and guests in attendance. The hall had been attractively decorated in honor of the occasion, and a merry coterie of young people enjoyed dancing to the excellent music which was furnished by a Los Angeles orchestra. Preceding the dance a splendid programme was given, and later delectable refreshments were served by the club, whose hospitality is notable.

The bazaar given by the ladies of the First Methodist Church on Friday and Saturday was the most successful affair of the kind ever given in this vicinity. Well-known society and club women, among whom were Mrs. F. G. McLaughlin, Mrs. William Planck, Mrs. Jeannette Taylor, Mrs. John Stockberger, Mrs. Anna Fuller Russell, Mrs. N. A. Strain, Mrs. Adrian Torres, Mrs. C. W. Bean, Mrs. P. J. Small and a host of others were among those giving themselves to the affair, and whose hard work made

Discolored, Wrinkled Skin Easily Removed

Since brown or yellow, over-red or blotchy complexions are decidedly not the fashion, I cannot understand why so many continue to wear them. Surely every woman has heard of mercolized wax. This I know—from my own and others' experiences—will positively banish every unsightly tint. The wax really takes off a bad complexion. It gradually, harmlessly, absorbs the thin layer of surface skin with all its defects, as chaps, liver spots, pimples, freckles, blackheads. Just as gradually the discarded skin is replaced by the clear, white, youthful skin underneath. Mercolized wax, procurable at any drug-store, is applied nightly like cold cream and erased mornings with warm water. One ounce will produce the loveliest girlish complexion in less than a fortnight.

I can't understand, either, why folks will be bothered with wrinkles, since the famous saxolite formula has become public property. One ounce of powdered saxolite dissolved in a half-pint witch hazel, makes a wash lotion that will quickly efface every line, even the deepest.—[Julia Orff in Social Mirror.

A Wondrous Array of Gift Things

IF you haven't visited the Feagans and Company store very recently—you can have no conception of the hundreds and hundreds of new, unusual and inexpensive gift things there are here.

We believe it is thoroughly conservative for us to say that there has been brought into this store within the past few weeks—undoubtedly more new gift merchandise than has been brought to any other jewelry store on the Pacific Coast in months.

And we have especially featured the popular priced merchandise, because we foresaw long ago that the tendency this Christmas was going to be toward the lesser priced.

Azusa.

MISS LILLIAN KREBS entertained the members of the Laurel Embroidery Club very graciously at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Krebs, on Azusa avenue, Thursday afternoon. The rooms were attractively embellished with cut flowers and greens, and a merry time was enjoyed over the work bags which were in evidence among the guests. Since the organization of the club a short time ago the ranks have been augmented by the names of Mrs. Henry Williams and Mrs. J. H. Malone. During the afternoon a delicious luncheon was served by the hostess and a charming social hour enjoyed by Mrs. Guy Thompson, Mrs. George Hunsacker, Mrs. Ed Hendley, Mrs. R. H. Edrington, Miss Ruth La Fetra, Mrs. J. R. Pettyjohn, Mrs. Charles Robinson, Mrs. Rolland Pettyjohn, Mrs. R. S. Molyneaux, Mrs. R. N. Burt and Mrs. Charles Meyer.

The Men's Club enjoyed a social evening of unusual pleasure on Wednesday at the clubrooms, which have recently been fitted up. The full membership of forty-five was in attendance and about twenty-five guests, who enjoyed a jolly hour or two at the numerous games provided. A wienie bake, which included buns and hot coffee, was the feast provided and done thorough justice to by the company. J. J. Crain was the genial chef of the evening, and to R. W. McQuiston goes the credit for the attractive decorations of holly and greens that were appropriately suggestive of the holiday season.

Mrs. O. F. Wright, accompanied by her daughter, Miss Maude Wright, has gone to Elsinore, where she will be domiciled among friends at the attractive resort for a week or ten days.

The Azusa Woman's Club enjoyed an unusual treat Wednesday afternoon when the Center Drama League of Los Angeles presented a most attractive little playlet. The work of the Center league is too well known to make comment necessary, and a large assemblage thoroughly enjoyed the afternoon. Hostesses on this occasion were Mrs. R. E. Smith, Mrs. Alice Pettyjohn and Mrs. M. J. Coffin, who served dainty refreshments at the conclusion of the programme.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Budworth and family enjoyed a motor trip in Los Angeles Sunday, where they spent the day as guests of Mr. and Mrs. Loyal Budworth, who had arranged a charming dinner affair in their honor.

assisted by Mrs. Luther Brown, Mrs. A. L. Bryant, Mrs. C. H. Eudemiller, Mrs. C. M. Turck, Mrs. Blake Franklin, Mrs. Alexander Mitchell, Mrs. O. W. Hart, Mrs. C. T. Van Etten, Mrs. W. Herman West, greeted all with charming informality, and, during the hour when the husbands were left in charge of this committee, fun and informality reigned supreme. This stunt was a real "gobfest," and prizes were given to the men who conversed most entertainingly upon three subjects, namely: First, describe your favorite dish; second, what do you want in your stocking?; third, choose your subject. Most of the men liked pie, wanted socks or feet in their stockings, and for No. 3 chose as their topic, "Woman." Dr. A. L. Bryant, Mr. Fred Baker and Mr. D. H. Smith received prizes. Dr. Bryant received a toy harp; he was invited to ascend the platform and play "The Irish Washerwoman" and other classic (?) selections. Mrs. Rowe received a souvenir as being the best judge of the men; she said: "I find all men interesting." A splendid musical programme was rendered. Miss Margaret McKee, the California mockingbird, was heard in a number of whistling solos. Miss McKee is a rare genius and gave many numbers during the evening. Another California girl equally talented in her way gave her hearers a perfect exhibition of fine cornet solo work, which is rare indeed in one so young. Miss Grace Helen Adams, charming 14-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Milton C. Adams of Los Angeles, was the artist. Next came a favorite in club circles and also a member of the Tuesday Afternoon Club, Miss Marsha Porter, violinist, accompanied by her sister, Miss Elizabeth Porter. Following the programme the announcement was made that the ever-ready Hospitality Committee would care for the inner man, and what did the dear husbands receive but their favorite dish — pie. Cunning individual pumpkin pies and perfect coffee were served by Mrs. H. H. Martin, Mrs. H. E. Bartlett, Mrs. J. N. Elliott, Mrs. H. R. Goodwin, Mrs. Walter Stamps, Mrs. W. E. Evans, Mrs. E. L. Parke and Mrs. F. W. Pigg. No one knows just how many pies were consumed, as the number was not limited. Mr. Oliver O. Clark, in behalf of the husbands, spoke a few words in appreciation of the evening.

Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Weaver of No. 301 South Kenwood street will have as their guest during the holidays their daughter, Miss Elizabeth J. Weaver of Washington, D. C. Miss Weaver has recently been admitted to the bar. Miss Weaver will visit her brother, Dr. Harold T. Weaver, in Chicago en route, and will arrive in Glendale about Christmas.

Tropico.

MRS. DORA EICHHORN and her son, Oswin, who have been residing on Virginia place since their return from their ranch, left for Milwaukee, Wis., Thursday, where they will remain during the winter as the guests of relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. O. M. Carpenter and family will spend the winter in Los Angeles, having leased their home on Central avenue for several months.

Mr. and Mrs. Burt L. Roberts of No. 203 South Glendale avenue, with their son, Glenn Roberts, will leave shortly for Tucson, Ariz., where they will remain indefinitely.

Mrs. Harry Tisdale of Paloma avenue has returned from a few days' visit with friends at San Bernardino.

Miss Blanche Shea very charmingly entertained the girls of the Round Table at her home, No. 303 South Brand boulevard, Tuesday evening. An interesting programme of music and readings was enjoyed while the officers and members of this exclusive club plied their needles fashioning many pretty and dainty conceits in art needlework.

Mrs. A. B. Clarke entertained in a most charming manner with a luncheon at her home on West Park avenue Friday, complimenting Mrs. George E. Larkey of Casa Verdugo, Miss Hill and Miss Peters, teachers in the West Park-avenue school, and Mrs. Edward H. Weston, who is actively engaged in the Parent-Teacher Association of the West Park-avenue school.

The members of the Mizpah class of the First Methodist Episcopal Church at Tropico were entertained at the home of their teacher, Mrs. Thomas Meagher, on West Tenth street, Wednesday evening. Music and games furnished a delightful evening's entertainment.

Laurel Canyon.

THE week just closed did not register a more enjoyable affair than the surprise party of Thursday evening, when about thirty friends gathered in front of the Matthews home singing "Auld Lang Syne," and there surrounded Mrs. Matthews's chair, singing the same inspiring strain, and finishing with congratulations for her birthday. Mrs. C. F. Norton was the instigator of the happy occasion, and soon had tables arranged for cards. From some unknown source prices were produced and awarded Mmes. H. V. Platt, Selia Carr and L. A. Newman and Mr. J. W. Park and L. A. Newman. From the same unknown region a most delectable supper was served, and many happy speeches were made, chief among them being by Mr. H. V. Platt, who presented Mrs. Matthews with an elegant set of table linen. Those enjoying the happy event were: Messrs. and Mmes. C. F. Norton, H. V. Platt, J. B. Nabors, F. M. Price, F. J. Ephlin, R. D. Veneler, J. W. Park, E. W. Kidder, G. D. Tully, L. A. Newman, D. M. Small, C. S. Mann, Don Porter, F. M. Rublee, J. Aagaard, E. C. Comer, Mrs. Helen Boehner, Mrs. A. B. Hoffman, Mrs. H. A. Roach and Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Matthews.

Mmes. F. J. Ephlin, D. M. Small and F. M. Rublee, Jr., drove to Riverside Wednesday in Mrs. Ephlin's car and had luncheon with Mrs. William Sterns, formerly of Hollywood.

Mrs. A. B. Hoffman of Los Angeles has taken a long lease on the Marshall property in West Canyon and is improving it with the object of making it her permanent home. Her brother, Mr. Earl Brooking of Lankershim, is stopping with her and attending Polytechnic High School.

Gardena.

MR. AND MRS. OBRA DAILEY and baby of Los Angeles are the house guests of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Warren this week.

Mr. John Shephard, M.L.A., of Moosejaw, Can., accompanied by his wife and three children, arrived Monday, and will pass several months in California. They are the guests for a few days of their cousins, Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Reid.

The social section of the W.P.C. entertained at the clubhouse recently. Whist was the evening's diversion; about twenty couple were present.

Miss Cattell, Mmes. Cannon, Alice Stephenson and Lucile Stephenson were the charming hostesses at a delightfully-appointed musicale and luncheon, which was given Wednesday. The Woman's Clubhouse on Orchard avenue was the scene of the pretty affair, and the beautiful decorations entirely transformed the clubhouse. Festoons of asparagus plumosus, intertwined with blossoms, hung from the chandeliers, and a gracefully-arranged harp of red blossoms hung from the center chandelier. A dainty lunch was served at 12 o'clock. During the afternoon the guests, who had brought their fancy work, busied themselves until about 3 p.m., when Mrs. Carrie Stone Freeman entertained the guests for one hour with music, which she prolonged by giving a short talk upon the American composers of the day. Miss Grace Hilten accompanied.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Bush of Alhambra are the house guests this week of Mrs. Kate Wood and daughter, Miss Emily.

The West Gardena Embroidery Club met Friday afternoon with Mrs. A. W. Jackman on Centinella avenue.

Miss Dorothy Westerman of Pomona and Mr. Phil Curran of San Fernando were the house guests of Miss Emily Wood recently.

Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Stutsman of Strawberry Park avenue entertained the past week Mr. and Mrs. William Blumle of Simi and Mr. and Mrs. F. Blumle, Misses Marie and Anna Blumle of Los Angeles.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Wood of Palm avenue are enjoying a visit from Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Shepherd of Los Angeles. Mr. Shepherd is Mrs. Wood's brother.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Woodruff of Vermont avenue will leave Monday for the north, where they will visit during the holidays. They will stop in Portland a few days and from there go to Salem to visit Mr. Woodruff's mother and sisters, then on north to Washington before returning.

Mrs. A. H. Knutson and little son, of Los Angeles, were Wednesday visitors with friends in Gardena.

Santa Ana.

ABLAZE with lights illuminating decorations of magnificent pink and white roses and smilax banking the mantel from which gleamed pretty candles and nodding roses, the lovely home of Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Fuller was thrown open for a charming progressive whist on Thursday evening recently. The pink and white color motif ran through the dainty refreshments served on small tables centered with bouquets of pink carnations. Whist prizes were awarded to Mmes. Frederick J. Parsons, A. W. Rutan, John Wehrly; Messrs. A. W. Rutan, B. E. Turner, John Tubbs. Mr. Tubbs was also the fortunate winner of the guest prize. The guests included Messrs. and Mmes. F. B. Case, F. H. Case, L. J. Carden, J. I. Clark, C. V. Davis, O. K. Forgy, J. P. Hatzfeld, C. S. Kendall, Harl S. Kittle, William Malone, John McFadden, Fred Parsons, Fred Rafferty, H. T. Rutherford, A. W. Rutan, P. R. Reynolds, Carl Strock, R. R. Shafer, Russell Scott, W. H. Spurgeon, Jr., John Tubbs, B. E. Turner, John Wehrly, Clyde Walker, Dr. Winters, Miss Dresser; Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Avery of Los Angeles, Mr. and Mrs. Frank McQuigg of San Diego. Miss Jeanette McFadden, Miss Helen Carden, Miss Greba Scott and Miss Gertrude Fuller assisted in scoring and serving.

Roses and ferns were used in decking the West First-street home of Mrs. R. E. Miles on Saturday afternoon when the local chapter of the P.E.O. was entertained by Mrs. Miles, assisted by her daughter, Mrs. A. C. Kendall of Pasadena, who came down for the occasion. The study session was brimful of interest, Miss Mary Wakeham's instructive paper on psychology being unusually entertaining. Responses to roll call were piquant, and were pertaining to hypnotism. Inviting delicacies were served on small tables later, dainty Cecile Brunners being at each plate. Besides the hostess and her daughter, Mrs. Kendall, there were present the following: Mrs. Wilbur Palmer, Mrs. Roy Peterson, Mrs. F. C. Rowland, Mrs. Carl Strock, Mrs. W. L. Grubb, Mrs. L. L. Whitson, Mrs. H. T. Rutherford, and Mrs. G. E. Bruns, the latter being a guest of the club; Misses Mary Wakeham, Margaret Wakeham, Montgomery, Hutoqua Hossler.

Mr. and Mrs. Leigh Galloway were host and hostess recently to the members of the United Presbyterian Church Choir, the party including the pastor of the church, Dr. and Mrs. J. G. Kennedy. The early part of the evening was devoted to a rehearsal of the Christmas cantata "Noel," which the choir is to present during the holiday season, the hosts later presenting interesting pastimes for the entertainment of their guests. Delicious refreshments were served at a late hour, ending a happy evening. Fragrant roses and greenery beautified the charming home. Those who were guests of the Galloways were Dr. and Mrs. J. G. Kennedy, Mr. and Mrs. Viera, Mr. and Mrs. Stevenson, Mr. and Mrs. Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Babbitt, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Warne, Misses Fredda Moesser, Edith Tidball, Mildred Cook, Hazel Stockslager, McFadden, Elsie Raitt, Myrtle Le Page, Vivian Cox, Messrs. Rob McGee, Todd and Dean, a nephew of Mr. and Mrs. Galloway who is here from Xenia, O., to spend the winter.

The splendid new home of the Chris McNeils on North Broadway into which they recently moved, promises to be one of the favorites for entertaining. Roomy and beautifully finished and furnished, it afforded a charming setting for a pretty shower given Saturday afternoon for attractive Miss Lela Thomas, soon to be married to Jack Deardorff. Miss Helene McNeil and Miss Anna Walker were hostesses and the bevy of girls asked enjoyed the afternoon most thoroughly. Violets clustered in bouquets were used extensively throughout the house, and trimmings of red hearts on draperies and in festoons spoke significantly of the romantic nature of the event of the day. The shower was a miscellaneous one, so the lovely gifts received by Miss Thomas were of varied nature. Whist games followed the presentation and it was the good fortune of the bride-elect to win the high score souvenir, a handsome brass flower basket filled with fragrant violets. Violets were the flowers used for the tables where a tempting collation was served for the hostess, the guest of honor and the Misses Gladys and Beulah Thomas, Miss Alma Cock, Miss Lillian Walker, Miss Gertrude Roper, Miss Linna Yarnell, Miss Margaret Wallace; Mrs. Edward Price, Mrs. William Cox, Mrs. Will Adams, Mrs. Ross Williams.

Garden Grove.

BOOSTING their thriving little city, the members of the Garden Grove Improvement Association Tuesday night sat down at a well-appointed banquet served in the Y.M.C.A. building. Forty people were gathered about the generously-burdened board, and as they enjoyed the feast their pleasure was added to by a programme of choice instrumental and vocal music. The president of the improvement association, P. E. Lake, was master of ceremonies, and P. E. German introduced the speakers of the evening. The list of speakers included A. S. Bradford and T. E. Stephenson of Santa Ana, members of the Orange County Board of Forestry, and County Forester J. M. Grant, who talked on plans for beautifying the county in general and Garden Grove in particular; Mrs. S. C. Oertly of the Garden Grove Woman's Club, who suggested the planting of Shirley poppies in the curbs; D. E. Huff of Orange, secretary of the Orange County Fruit Exchange, who said it is proposed to establish an orange growers' association in Garden Grove, which has in its adjacent territory about 1000 acres of oranges; Chester Lee, manager of the Garden Grove Walnut Association, who told of the season's success; J. A Knapp; W. E. Perry, editor of the Garden Grove News; J. D. Price, and J. L. Arkley. The event was a notable one in Garden Grove's social and economic history and will doubtless be pregnant with results favorable to the welfare of the town.

Wednesday was a gala day in the Baptist Church. The new chairs had arrived and the men of the church met to put in the new opera seating, the ladies of the church rewarding them with an excellent dinner served at noon. In the afternoon the women of the Mission Society met in one of the rooms of the church and completed arrangements for the carpeting of the church auditorium. While they talked over the benevolent housing plans, they also busied their hands with Christmas giving, packing two barrels of gifts to be sent to the Indian Mission School at Auberry. The gifts were assembled by the Missionary Circle and the Sunday-school.

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Rolfe and Mrs. Julia Garrison motored to Pasadena on Saturday to join in the birthday celebration of their youngest brother, M. C. R. Stevens, who has achieved the ripe age of 72 years.

Downey.

THE wedding of Miss Clara Cash and Harold Hull took place at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Stovall, Saturday. Rev. James Robertson of the Baptist Church officiated. Miss Cash was attended by her niece, Miss Stovall, and the groom's brother, A. F. Hull of Corona, acted as best man. After a short wedding trip they will be at home on West Third street.

Mrs. J. W. McKellar of Los Angeles came down Wednesday to attend the luncheon given by the ladies of the Saturday Afternoon Club.

Mrs. E. A. Yount of Long Beach was the guest of friends here Tuesday.

Mrs. Shaw of Los Angeles was the guest of Mrs. George Williamson. She also attended the luncheon given at the clubhouse.

Orange.

A COTERIE of friends of Mrs. Hugo Truempler surprised her on a recent Friday afternoon, having learned in some occult manner that she was having a birthday. The merry guests, self-invited, took with them a goodly supply of gustatory delicacies and a number of handsome gifts in honor of the natal day of their friend. Entertaining games and informal music passed the afternoon most happily, and as a final feature of the event, the visitors set forth the refreshments they had carried with them and a delightful little feast was soon spread and enjoyed. Those enjoying the pleasant affair were the complimented lady, Mrs. Hugo Truempler; Mrs. Anna Bortz, Mrs. Schilling, Mrs. Bertha Bandick, Mrs. C. F. Schubert, Mrs. A. Barkhau, Mrs. Hettig, Mrs. Waldow, Mrs. Hoffman, Mr. and Mrs. John Wagner, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Truempler, Mr. and Mrs. C. Mack, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Jackson, Miss Ida Mack, Misses Erna and Edna Bandick, Misses Mabel and Margaret Waldow and Miss Gertrude Hoffman.

Miss Adaline Winslow was hostess on Friday evening at a pleasant party given in honor of Miss Nellie Carricker. The house was tastefully decorated for the event and in addition to several clever games that were introduced by the hostess, an informal programme of music, including some well-played violin selections, was enjoyed by the company. Then forces were marshalled for a merry marshmallow roast before the open fire, and a "weenie" bake made a jolly conclusion to all the fun of the afternoon. Those who participated in the joyous event included Miss Nellie Carricker, Miss Doris Thomas, Miss Kathryn Dyer, Miss Rosie Richardson, Miss Adaline Winslow, Charles Gulick, William Eckles, Harry Nuffer, Romaine Camfield and Ray Krueger.

The Philathea class of the Presbyterian Sunday-school were entertained

Just imagine buying woolnap blankets at $2.10

—Yes, and they're great big, 66x80-inch ones—and they are as snug and as warm as though they were all wool instead of just having a nap of wool. They come in white, tan and gray and are bound with silk.

Comforters at $1.00

Blankets at $1.39 pr.

Just 25 pairs of white blankets that are to be sold at this price because they are slightly imperfect — they're all double bed size.

Main Floor Balcony—Jacoby's.

148 crepe de chine lace & velvet waists $2.95

148 waists that came from the manufacturer expecting to be marked double—close to double and more than double 2.95.

There are waists of fine cobwebby silk laces that are dressy enough for any occasion.

Silk waists with the new lace sleeve combination—and velvet waists, and velvet slipovers with and without sleeves.

Waists of very heavy crepe de chine that you'll like for every day, as well as for dress wear.

There are waists with the new turn over military collars—and there are others that embrace every one of the season's style touches. All of the wanted novelty colorings and blacks and whites are included.

WILSON MESSAGE EXCITES JAPAN.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

RICHMOND (Va.) Dec. 10.—Rev. Sidney L. Gulick, connected with Doshisha University at Tokio, issued a statement here today in which he said that Japan would view with suspicion views expressed by President Wilson in his annual address to Congress on preparedness for war.

The statement had been intended as an address before the annual convention here of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America, but Mr. Gulick was called to New York. Mr. Gulick is a member of the Committee on Relations with Japan of the Federal Council.

"President Wilson," the statement says, "practically agrees that we need a strong navy. Japan will think we want a strong navy for the purpose of dominating the oceans. She knows we will never transport troops over the Pacific to attack her."

The statement adds that it is well understood in Japan that Germany hoped for war between the United States and Japan when Japan declared war on Germany, and that the President's address will add to the suspicion and distrust aroused at that time.

TURNS RETREAT INTO VICTORY.

[A. P. FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

HAVRE, Nov. 30.—A quick command from Gen. Bertrand at Haecht turned a retreat of the Belgian fofces into an attack in much the same manner as Gen. Sheridan turned the Union forces at the battle of Winchester in the Civil War. The story is printed in the Cenrrier de l'Armes, the official Belgian soldiers' paper.

Gen. Bertrand, who succeeded Gen. Leman in command of the iron division which withstood the Germans at Liege, suddenly found his troops in retreat.

"Friends," he shouted, "you've mistaken the road; the enemy are in the other direction!"

Electrified by their leader's words, the soldiers wheeled about and charged with renewed vigor.

On another occasion, the general is declared to have stopped an attack of two Belgian companies upon each other by rushing between their lines and singing a popular ditty. Until they heard the general's voice the soldiers did not realize that they were firing on their own countrymen.

The general is 57 years old. He was a second-lieutenant at 20 years, and became a major-general last March.

RULES FOR THE SHIPWRECKED.

British Admiralty Tells Sailors How to Save Themselves if Their Boat is Sunk.

[A. P. FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

LONDON, Nov. 30.—"Don't take your clothes off; don't try to swim; don't let go of your hammock." This is the advice to British sailors, who by reason of destruction of their ship by submarines or otherwise are forced to take to the water. It is contained in a current issue of the London Lancet and is founded on the measures found most helpful by the Japanese during the war with Russia.

It must be explained that the hammock referred to is buoyant and is used on most British warships. The warning not to attempt to swim is uttered to protect the man in the water from exhaustion when, being supported, there is no need of violent motion; while the admonition to keep the clothing on is based on the fact that long experience has shown that clothing, no matter how heavy, not only keeps the body warm for a time, but contributes its share of buoyancy, until thoroughly soaked.

"A man in the water," says the Lancet, "should not try to swim except for some definite purpose; but should be content to float and be satisfied if he can just keep his mouth above water. In this he will be greatly assisted by the air collars provided by the Admiralty. The best lifebuoy, short of a cork jacket, is a lashed-up hammock—it does not turn over and there is always the lashing to hang onto. A hammock has been known to keep a man afloat for twenty-four hours.

"When a man has been rescued, get his wet clothes off, wrap him in dry blankets, give him a hot drink (not alcoholic) and lay him down in a warm part of the ship."

WAR HURTS COPPER TRADE.

EXPORTS FOR THE PAST WEEK SHOW A VERY SMALL DECREASE.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—Continued decrease in exportation of copper due to shipping difficulties incident to the war was shown in a statement issued tonight by the Department of Commerce. For the week ended December 5, all copper exports amounted to $1,007,853. As compared to the weekly November averages, this was a decrease of $157,209.75. All copper imported for the week of December 5 amounted to $213,850.

England, Italy and Sweden led the other nations importing American copper.

Psychological.

JAP SITUATION ALARMS FEDERAL CHURCH COUNCIL.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

RICHMOND (Va.) Dec. 10.—"Psychological conditions in Japan and the United States are approaching a state in which some startling but really trivial event might easily bring a series of deplorable consequences," declared a report presented today to the annual convention of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America by its Committee on Relations with Japan.

Prof. Dhafler Mathews of the University of Chicago and the Rev. Sidney L. Gulick of New York were authorized to visit the Pacific Coast to study anti-Japanese sentiment there and later to proceed to Japan "to foster cordial relations between the United States and Japan."

"It is increasingly clear that we have entered upon this work none too soon," says the committee's report. "The publication in June of official correspondence between Secretary Bryan and Ambassador Viscount Chinda has by no means assured the Japanese people that we are meeting the issue.

"Additional anti-Japanese legislation is contemplated. So delicate has the situation become that Christian leaders in California are in doubt as to what should be done.

"The sensational utterances of a jingo press are utilized by the equally jingo press of Japan to foment suspicion and ill-will. Psychological conditions both in Japan and America are approaching a state in which some startling, but really trivial event might actually bring a series of deplorable consequences."

The committee on the Panama-Pacific Exposition announced today that memorials had been sent to exposition officials asking that a high moral tone be maintained throughout the exhibits. Preparations have been made for extensive social work during the exposition.

The annual meeting here will adjourn tomorrow. General opinion here tonight was that the next convention would be held in Los Angeles.

The Executive Committee of the Federal Council today extended sympathy to all Christian churches in the nations at war. Another resolution adopted by the committee advocated old-age pensions for all Federal employees.

Dr. Mathews tonight told the Executive Committee that President Wilson, Secretary Bryan and the Japanese Ambassador with whom he recently had conferred approved the proposed visit of the Rev. Mr. Gulick and himself to Japan.

A commission headed by Bishop E. R. Hendrix of St. Louis was appointed to prepare a message from the churches of America to the churches of Japan in connection with the visit.

Disappointing.

BALKAN UNION FAILURE, SAYS RUSSIAN NEWSPAPER.

[BY WIRELESS AND A. P.]

BERLIN (via Sayville, L. I.) Dec. 10.—"Prof. Paul Milukoff, leader of the Russian constitutional Democrats, published an article in his paper, the Rech, saying the negotiations between Russia and the Balkan states have proved disappointing to Russia, and that a Balkan union is not feasible.

"A memorandum issued by the Swiss council complains that the British have seized and sold at auction corn destined for Switzerland by way of Rotterdam.

"Reports from Turin say the British at Cairo have forced all Germans and Austrians, even the sick, to leave the city.

"The Roumanian Cabinet has again decided to maintain an attitude of neutrality."

JAPS DIVIDE CONTROL OF PACIFIC ISLANDS.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LONDON, Dec. 10.—The recent report that Japan intended to turn over the Pacific islands to Australia is inaccurate. From information obtained from an official quarter today it is planned to give Australia control only of a portion of these islands, while Japan retains military control of others until the end of the war. It is understood negotiations for the division are practically complete.

Kiao-Chow.

BOMBARDMENT OF TSING-TAO.

Picturesque Incidents Seen by an Eyewitness.

Aeroplanes of Great Use in Warfare About City.

German Casualties Slight in the First Few Days.

[A. P. FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

[When Japan entered the war and announced her determination to take Kiao-chow, the German leased possession on the Shantung Peninsula, a correspondent of the Associated Press was sent to Tsing-tao and remained throughout the siege. The following letter, written in the early stages of the siege, has been received from him.]

TSING-TAO, Oct. 12.—Almost two months have passed since Japan entered the war against Germany and demanded the evacuation of this fortress in North China. In that time the warships of Japan and the allies have successfully prevented Tsing-tao harbor from being used as a naval base. Japanese soldiers have been landed and brought with their equipment and artillery to the borders of the leased territory, and at the present time they fill the ravines and gullies back of a range of hills hemming in the German positions—which lie across a peninsula from Kiao-chow Bay to the sea.

Facing the attacking forces across a three and a half mile front is the German garrison—a mere handful of men in comparison with the forces opposed to them, but in a strongly protected position. Behind the German infantry and light artillery are the heavy guns of the fortress commanding the approaches by land and sea.

It took the Japanese three days after they had brought up a division to the borders of the leased territory to push the German advance detachment of five companies, eight machine guns and ten field pieces, back to the present position just outside the city. The Japanese advance began on September 26. The engagement that followed was full of exciting episodes and picturesque incidents. For instance, on the German right wing high up at the top of Prince Heinrich Mountain, in what is called the Eagle's Nest, sixty German volunteers were stationed.

PATHS GREASED.

The position was valuable as an observation point. So steep were the paths that led up to it that soap could be used to grease them and make the access of the Japanese difficult. The Japanese surrounded the mountains in force and climbed the steep slopes. A heavy fight of half a day took place. Many were killed and wounded. One German sergeant and eleven men succeeded in breaking through the Japanese lines. The rest, about twenty men, finally surrendered.

On the German left wing, where the fighting was most severe, two machine guns failed to get the order to retire on the night of the 27th, and on the morning of the 28th found themselves in the rear of the Japanese. Approaching along the road to Litsung, a Chinese town eight miles from Tsing-tao, was a column of Japanese who were marching along with no idea that there were Germans in the vicinity. The Germans opened fire and raked the column from the flank. The surprised Japanese fell back a few rods and thereby exploded some land mines. At this the Japanese retreated, and the machine guns got back to the German positions along the dry course of the Litsung River.

GERMAN CASUALTIES.

The German casualties during the three days' fighting were only 107 dead, wounded and missing. The small losses are attributed first of all to the very poor infantry fire of the Japanese and to the orders which the Germans got to retire without sacrifice of many men. The Japanese, on the other hand, advanced along the three roads through the territory to Tsing-tao in massed columns. They subjected themselves to a heavy fire from the gunboat Jaguar and the Austrian cruiser Kaiserine Elizabeth, the ships pouring shrapnel into the column advancing along the bay. The machine guns of the Germans also did great execution. The bullets of the Japanese are much smaller than those of the Germans, and many of the Germans who have been wounded are again back in the lines.

Since the 28th there has been a constant artillery fire, mainly directed by the defenders, who have been scouring the hills and the slopes behind, dropping shells even as far as the town of Litsung, ten kilometers distant, in order to render the preparation of artillery positions difficult for the Japanese.

SORTIE BY GARRISON.

On October 2 two companies of the garrison made a sortie to drive the Japanese from a little hill over a mile away from the inner works. The infantry was supported by artillery. The Japanese were present in force, however, and caught one of the companies with a flanking machine-gun fire. This company retired, leaving its captain dead and twenty-four men missing, and the other company had small losses. The sortie was made at night, and the crackling of musketry, the pumping of machine guns and the bright sheets of flame that sprung from the hills opposite as shrapnel from the German guns exploded made the scene an exciting one. In the midst of the engagement the Germans sent up two rockets which lit up the surrounding country. The sortie, even though resulting in losses to the defenders, was of value to the garrison by putting it for a brief time in the position of the aggressor.

Thus far in the investment of Tsing-tau and the engagement between the hostile forces, both sides have observed scrupulously the rules of international law and etiquette that apply ot the situation. The Japanese soldiers have made a reputation for fanatical courage and at the same time humanity. There are no dumdum bullets, but on the contrary there are little courtesies reported by the Red Cross workers. The Japanese commander, in response to a communication from Gov. Meyer Waldeck giving the name of a Japanese officer whom the Germans had killed in a patrol skirmish, replied with the names of all the officers and men who are at present prisoners of the Japanese.

WORK OF AEROPLANES.

The work of the aeroplanes has been picturesque. The Japanese are using American-built hydroplanes, which fly splendidly. There seem to be two sea planes and two land planes. Altogether, since their first visit to Tsing-tao on September 5, over twenty reconnoitering flights have been made over the city. In nearly every case the aviators have brought five or six bombs with them. The missiles come down with an ominous swish and boom, but the total ineffectiveness of them so far indicates that the aeroplane is still of little value except for scouting purposes. Two Chinese coolies have been killed and a soldier wounded.

At first the aeroplanes were received with only infantry and machine gun fire. But now shrapnel fire from guns specially mounted has taken the place of that from rifles and maxims, and is very noticeably becoming more accurate, as practice improved the ability to gauge the height and speed of the aircraft. Yesterday a shrapnel burst directly in front of a seaplane, which drove it as if attempting to dodge the shell and then turned directly back. The shrapnel keeps the aeroplanes at a height of 3000 or 4000 meters, a height from which detailed observations of infantry and artillery works is almost impossible.

MONOPLANE OF VALUE.

The German monoplane has been of great value to the garrison in finding the forces of the Japanese. The garrison also has used to advantage a great yellow observation balloon.

Each day brings its train of incidents to remind one of the closer network which the allies are drawing around the fortress. This morning it has been the firing of the Japanese artillery on the Austrian cruiser, the German gunboat and the diminutive torpedo boat S-90, which cruise about in the bay with now and then a great waterspout leaping up beside them.

RED TAPE IN ENGLAND.

British Press and People Dissatisfied with the Way the War Office is Conducted.

[A. P. FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

LONDON, Sept. 25.—Signs of dissatisfaction at War Office methods are beginning to appear in the British press, involving the historic charges of red tape and incompetency. As an example of cut and dried regulations standing in the way of common sense, one correspondent, who had read of the shivering recruits, complains that a gift of blankets was refused because the size fell a few inches short of the prescribed. But wider discontent or mistrust is caused by the fact that the War Office devotes its energies to work that, in view of the crisis, should properly go to civilian organizations.

The task of looking after the forces in France, transferring colonial troops and getting up supplies means a heavy tax on the War Office organization. The training of territorials, or militia, who are now in encampments, is an additional burden. But to assume on the top of this the entire work of recruiting Lord Kitchener's new army of a million, billeting and feeding them, besides the inspection of supplies, is regarded by some of the critics as a useless diversion of energy.

"The country is honeycombed with administrative machinery, public and private," says one writer, "and it is needless to improvise or expand War Office arrangements to do work which civilians can do efficiently. The State does not attempt to improvise railway or shipping organization. It simply co-ordinates and uses the civilian machinery and capacities which exist."

Local administrative officers, the writer adds, could well take charge of raising the quota of troops for each district and arrange for their camps and provisioning. Local medical men might also physically examine applicants who are now sent from the country on long train journeys to military stations. Local doctors, it is assumed, ought to be capable of judging the fitness of teeth, eyesight and vital organs.

The advantage of co-operation between the War Office and civilians and civil authorities would be the freeing of a large force of officers and men for purely military work.

Recruits, according to some of the correspondents, are having an unnecessarily hard time of it in many instances, with the result that their patriotism is likely to be dampened before they get to the front.

GURKHAS AS ARTISTS.

One Soldier Throws His Knife Twelve Yards and Cuts the Head Off of a Goat.

[A. P. FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

LONDON, Nov. 30.—High tribute is paid the marksmanship and courage of the East Indian troops by an English soldier in a letter printed in the Daily News and Leader.

"On one occasion," the letter said, "I saw tethered to the ground a goat about to be killed for the Indians' meal. A Gurkha, standing about twelve yards away, threw his knife at the goat with such deadly aim that its head was cut clean off.

"They can throw these weapons at a distance of fifty yards, and have no difficulty in hitting their mark. They are terrible fighters. With the belief to die in war means eternal Paradise they have no hesitation in plunging right into the thick of the battle. The only difficulty is to keep them from rushing at the enemy before the order is given. They cannot wait, but they must leave the trenches, and wriggle their way up to where the enemy is, and then deal their deadly blow."

SHIPPING TRADE SHOWS REVIVAL.

Port of London Busier Than it has Ever Been.

Cargoes Promptly Discharged to Stop Congestion.

Captured German Vessels to Go into Commission.

[A. P. FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

LONDON, Nov. 26.—The war has resulted in a boom for the shipping industry of Great Britain, and nowhere has this been felt more than in London. The Port of London never has been busier, and a notice just posted by the Association of Master Lightermen appeals to shipowners and manufacturers to do all in their power to obtain the prompt discharge of cargoes, as a measure of relief for the unusual congestion of traffic.

As for foodstuffs, the present reserve stock is five times larger than it was this time last year. Of grain there are 120,000 tons now afloat for London. The stock of barley on hand is twice the usual amount, but the stock of oats is lower than customary.

A consignment of 250,000 bags of flour sent as a gift from Canada several weeks ago is still in the dock warehouses, presumably being held as part of the reserve supply for the troops.

MORE MEAT NEEDED.

The supply of meats is not as large as had been planned. Steamers to carry meat require special refrigerating machinery, and the government has commandeered a considerable part of the available shipping of this character for use in carrying meat supplies to the troops. Arrangements now are being made, however, for bringing into use such of the captured German vessels in Australia and South Africa as possess refrigerating apparatus.

The supply of tea apparently was affected by the activity of the German cruiser Emden in the Far East. With this menace removed, heavy arrivals are expected shortly.

The shortage of lumber which was noted during the early part of the war has been remedied by the arrival of vast quantities from the Baltic and Archangel.

Trade from Archangel and the Baltic has been active also in other lines than lumber. Immense quantities of eggs from Russia, as well as other produce and supplies of various kinds, have been received, and there has been, of course, a large return trade.

DEMAND INCREASES.

The demand for shipping of all kinds came at a time when the trade was expecting depression, if not paralysis. With the beginning of the war, freight rates began to rise steadily and sometimes very rapidly. Freights for grain from the Plate have more than doubled in three months, and freights from the Pacific Coast of North America have advanced more than a third. Of course, this increase was due in considerable part to the effect of the acquisition of many vessels by the governments of England, Russia and France. But at the same time with this withdrawal of vessels there came an undoubted expansion of trade.

Part of the revenue to shipowners from increased freights has gone into increased expenses. War insurance has been heavy; the cost of coal and stores have been higher, and the wages of seamen have been advanced by leaps and bounds.

In London it is noted that since the war began dock labor has been fully employed for the first time in years. About 1500 London dock laborers have been taken to France for work in unloading transports. A November report from the Port of London authority says:

"Casual labor has ceased to exist in this city, and our observation of labor generally in the East End of London is that with few exceptions there is no distress caused by lack of work."

Concentration.

ENGLISH CAMP WELL ORGANIZED

INTERNED CIVILIANS HAVE A THOROUGH SYSTEM.

Leading Merchant of Berlin is Chosen Head of the Barracks and Friendly Relations Have Already been Established with the German Guards.

[A. P. FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

BERLIN, Nov. 22.—The English civilians who have just been interned in a concentration camp at Ruhleben, several miles to the west of Berlin, in retaliation for similar action by England, are taking steps to make life comfortable for themselves during what may be a long confinement.

They have formed their own organizations with a captain for each of the eight barracks and a general commander of the whole camp. The latter was one of the leading English merchants of Berlin. The men are housed in the emigrant station of Ruhleben, where emigrants from Russia and other eastern countries to the United States were formerly detained until the legal requirements for their further transportation had been complied with.

The restaurant and the grand stand of the racing grounds located there are also used as barracks. These quarters, however, have not proved commodious enough for the 3000 prisoners, and there were complaints of overcrowding. The authorities admitted the justice of the complaints and are now preparing for an increase of accommodations.

STALLS OVERHAULED.

The substantially-built stalls of the race stables, with cement floors, are being overhauled and converted into sleeping-rooms by the additions of elevated wooden floors. Another complaint of the prisoners is that their allowance of meat is too short.

They get only a small piece of beef or sausage daily, which is considerably less than they had been accustomed to. Persons who have visited the prisoners in behalf of the American Embassy, which is looking after the interests of British subjects during the war, have learned from them that the food served is of good quality, and the kitchen, as is usual with such arrangements in Germany, is a model of cleanliness.

There is a restaurant at which prisoners can order meals. When the concessionaire heard that numbers of rich Englishmen were to become his customers in place of Russian emigrants he marked up prices sharply, but the prisoners made representations to the German commander of the company and the prices have been reduced. The relations between the prisoners and the officials in charge are very good. The captains of the various barracks say they are treated with consideration, and their representations regarding improvements desired are given respectful attention. Most of the prisoners brought their own blankets, bed linen, underwear and other necessaries with them, so they are well supplied with these comforts.

SAILORS' SUPPER.

But the case was different for a time with the numerous English sailors brought up from Hamburg, where they were taken from English ships in the harbor. They suffered before their kits arrived with blankets and other belongings.

Among the prisoners are many English horsemen from the racing tracks around Berlin. These while away their time with their noses glued to the bars separating them from the adjacent race track, where they eagerly watch the practicing going on. They know all the German trainers and jockeys and not infrequently shout questions to them as to how various horses are showing up.

But life with most of the prisoners is very monotonous. To relieve the dullness they have organized singing clubs and other forms of entertainment. The general commander of the volunteer organizations has his stenographer come out daily from Berlin and take dictations of letters, and his intermediary also takes and fills orders for articles desired by the prisoners. Among the prisoners there are not a few Germans, who, while living temporarily in England, took out naturalization papers. These now are repenting their too-hasty change of citizenship.

NEW CHARGES OF VIOLATION.

GERMANS ADLEGE BRITISH ARE USING DUMDUMS.

Count Von Bernstorff Submits to the State Department Photographic and Documentary Proof, but One American Manufacturer Declares Statements are False.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—Count Von Bernstorff, the German Ambassador here, has brought to the attention of the State Department new charges of violation by British troops of the rules of international law. With his note the Ambassado ralso filed photographs and original cartridges said to have been used in violation of international law and photographs of wounds said to have been caused by these bullets.

An official statement on the subject issued today by the German Embassy says:

"New proofs of violation of the rules of international law by British troops have been found by the German government.

"(1.) Soft-nosed cartridges have been delivered by a wounded soldier of the Eighty-eighth Connaugh Rangers Regiment on his return from France. They were given to that regiment before the battle of Mons, mixed with regular infantry ammunition.

"Other dum-dum bullets were wiven to the Duke of Wellington's infantry corps August 8. Other kinds of dum-dum bullets were made by Eley Bros., No. 524 Cray's Inn Road, London.

"(2.) The British government has orders with the Winchester Repeating Arms Company for 20,000 riot guns with 50,000,000 'buckshot cartridges.'

"The buckshot cartridge contains nine bullets. The use of these weapons and this ammunition has hitherto been unknown in civilized warfare.

"(3.) The Union Metallic Cartridge Company, Bridgeport, Ct., on October 20 secured through Frank O. Hoagland, a patent for a 'mushroom bullet.'

"It has been ascertained from reliable sources that since October 8,000,000 cartridges made according to this patent, were sent by the above-mentioned firm to Canada for use in the British army. No outside sign distinguishes these bullets from ordinary ammunition, so that the soldier who uses them does not know that he is using dumdum bullets.

"Even if the bullets mentioned under 2 and 3 were not destined for the European war—which, however, seems unlikely, on account of the large number of cartridges ordered—but for use in British colonies, this would all the same represent a barbarous method of warfare.

"The above-mentioned facts have been brought to the knowledge of the United States Department of State, with photographs and original cartridges, also with photographs of wounds caused by these bullets."

GERMAN CHARGE IS DISPUTED.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

NEW HAVEN (Ct.) Dec. 8.—The following statement was given out by the Winchester Arms Company today:

"The charge made by the German Ambassador that the Winchester company has received an order for 20,000 riot guns and 50,000,000 buckshot cartridges is absolutely without foundation. This company has not received any such order from the English government or any agent of it or from any other of the government involved in the European war. In fact, no such order for riot guns or buckshot cartridges has been received from any one, and none is expected."

NEW FRENCH ARMY READY FOR FRONT.

QUARTER MILLION RECRUITS WILL BE SENT TO THE FIRING LINE.

[A. P. FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

PARIS, Nov. 30.—The class of 1914 recruits called out two months in advance of its time, has now had three months of training and is reported by its commanding officers and instructors to be ready for action.

This, it is said, may seem a remarkably short time in which to whip into shape, discipline and accustom to the hard duties of a campaign, an army of 250,000 20-year-old men, but it is explained, however, that the material, was excellent. Their fine physical condition is attributed largely to the development of sport. There are many indications that these young soldiers are now near the fighting line.

The recruits of 1915, called out one year before their time, have just passed the medical examination, but the year's difference in age does not show the anticipated difference in physical fitness. The proportion of accepted men will not fall far short of the proportion of the class of 1914. These soldiers will shortly leave to take the place of the preceding class in the instruction camps, and it is expected that they will be ready for active service by March.

The class of 1915 will be increased by a large number of men exempted in recent years, and probably amount to about 350,000 men.

BRAVE FRENCHMEN WIN PROMOTION AND MEDALS.

[A. P. FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

PARIS, Nov. 30.—Lieut. Bernard and Private Morand de Jouffrey, the former promoted captain and decorated with the cross of the Legion of Honor, the latter promoted second lieutenant and decorated with the military medal, succeeded in rejoining their corps after passing fifty-eight days within the enemy's lines.

When the Twelfth Company of the One Hundred and Fortieth Regiment of infantry, commanded by Capt. Blandin, found itself isolated from the rest of the regiment and surrounded by the enemy in the center of a wood the evening of August 26, it numbered about 300 men and forty officers. They decided that under no circumstances would they surrender and at once began an effort to pierce the German lines.

The company made a night attack upon the village of R—— August 28 and captured two barricades under a heavy fire, the advance guard losing half of its number.

Capt. Blandin, wounded by a bullet in the thigh had to be helped along by his men, but he would not give up. After scaling the second barricade the men found themselves before new defenses consisting of wire trellises from behind which the Germans poured a murderous fire into them. The advance guard charged against it twice and was nearly annihilated. The company now numbered 100 men.

Notwithstanding the decimation of their ranks these survivors led by Capt. Blandin made another advance of 500 yards. The men besought Capt. Blandin to allow them to carry him.

"The safety of the company alone counts," he replied to Lieut. Bernard, "Take command and 'Forward march!'" The men took a pathetic leave of the captain, who crawled into a thicket as the remnant of the company pushed on. Time pressed more and more—the enemy growing in numbers hemmed them in closer and closer. They plunged into the forest of J—— with only eighty men left. After vainly attacking a footbridge over the R—— they finally forded the stream, then found a few hours respite in the depths of the forest. They resumed their march toward C—— and ran against a new force of the enemy. Exhausted by hunger and fatigue their resistance became less and less vigorous and here they lost fifty-five men.

The two officers and nineteen men that remained succeeded in fording the P—— and bivouacked the 29th near a potato patch, which provided them a real meal.

After two more days' wandering they were obliged to come back to the potato field. After a rest they started on again, hiding among the rocks, sleeping in the damp undergrowth of forests, stiffened with rheumatism, their feet so swollen that they were obliged to rid themselves of their shoes. As fast as detachments were sent out to forage all or part were captured by the Germans.

A month passed in this way and on September 30 the detachment was reduced to seventeen men.

Lieut. Bernard decided to make a final effort the night of October 16 to regain the French lines, but now there was only a single soldier really physically capable of following him. The rest were completely worn out, yet some of them insisted on dragging themselves along after the lieutenant and Private De Jouffrey. Those that went on and those that remained embraced tearfully the chief of the detachment, buried their arms, and consoled those who remained behind with the assurances that they had saved their honor and if they fell into the hands of the Germans they had none the less made a heroic effort.

On October 20 Lieut. Bernard and Private Morand de Jouffrey were themselves worn to the last shred of endurance and they bivouacked that night with the assurance that the Germans would either take them in the morning or they would be found dead there later on.

The two men moved on again in the morning and debouching from a thicket into a clearing October 23 the morning of the 29th day of their march fell weeping for joy at the sight of the familiar red trousers of the French infantry.

FUTURE KING AT OXFORD.

YOUNG PRINCE OF WALES IS A PRINCE AMONG FRIENDS.

His Democratic Spirit and Determination to Win Through Merit Alone Stamps Him as a Boy of Independent Character—Is Popular with All Classes.

[A. P. FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

LONDON, Nov. 30.—The Prince of Wales's career at Oxford—his studies, his sports, his friendships—are described in a statement given out by Dr. T. H. Warren, president of Magdalen College, Oxford.

"Bookish the Prince will never be," says Dr. Warren, "not a Beauclerk, still less a British Solomon. Kings, perhaps fortunately, seldom are this last. But the Prince will not want for power of ready and forcible presentation, either in speech or writing. All the time at Oxford he was learning more and more of men, gauging character, watching its play, getting to know what Englishmen are like, both individually and in the mass."

The Prince finished his second year at Magdalen and was to have returned for at least one more term had not the war cut short his course. He arrived at Oxford at 18 years of age. Dr. Warren continues:

"He was well forward in the studies and training of the navy, but naturally somewhat newer to, and less directly prepared for university life and studies than the public school boy. In a very few weeks he began to find his feet and develop rapidly. From the first he took his own line, with equal modesty and firmness, determined that he would be really an 'equal among equals,' that he would seek and accept no tribute except on his merits, that he would take as habitual and assiduous trouble to avoid deference or preference as others take to cultivate it. His natural dignity and charm and the good feeling of his college companions, enabled him to go far in this resolve without mishap.

"He made a wide acquaintance. His rooms were more and more open to his friends and his friends' friends. He played football, tennis, golf, racquets; he motored; he ran with the college boats; he ran a great deal with the beagles; he shot at various country houses round Oxford; he rode, for exercise, and to hounds. In this last accomplishment he started at a disadvantage, but by real perseverance and pluck soon made up for it. He was withal a punctual and diligent member, in the ranks, of the officers' training corps. He drilled, he marched, he went into camp like any other private.

"As to his set studies, his time was short; the career for which he was to prepare was a unique one. Strict educational economy had to be practiced. French, German and English, especially the command of literary expression in his own language, were necessary for him. History, political economy, political science, and constitutional law were desirable.

"For this last study he was singularly fortunate in having at hand one of the first living authorities in the late Sir William Anson. Sir William at once put the Prince at his ease and there sprung up between them a friendship, which grew and strengthened every term. Together, beginning with the British system, they went through the constitutions of the world, the Prince reading and writing and taking notes, and Sir William talking and expounding.

"Side by side with this, the Prince attended lectures on history, political economy, and political science. He also had many special hours of instruction with the university teachers of French and German. He went for special tuition in history to the college tutors in that subject, and every week he wrote an English essay for the president. Lectures he chiefly attended in the earlier part of his career. More and more as time went on he found that he preferred the Oxford system of private and individual instruction."

Of the Prince's work in English composition, which Dr. Warren himself supervised, his teacher says: "His essays, which at first were conscientious reproductions and compilations, became more and more his own, both in thought and expression. In the end, though not yet 20 and only at the age when many boys are just beginning Oxford, he acquired a considerable mastery. Gifted with a good verbal memory, a freshness of view, and decided independence of character, his essays, if not exactly literary, became more and more interesting and eloquent or striking, if only in their genuine sincerity and simple honesty.

"Those who knew him well will agree that few undergraduates, talking things all around, get more, if so much, out of two years. Oxford might have given him a little more. The cumulative influence of her studies and her life might have deepened him still further, but he leaves her, if young, already able to be, what England expects, a force and factor in national life."

CHINESE NOT GUILTY.

Proof on Conspiracy Charge, They are Re-arrested, Accused of Smuggling.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SEATTLE (Wash.) Dec. 10.—Frank H. Tape, former Chinese interpreter in the Federal immigration service; China Dan and Chin Kim, accused of conspiring to intimidate government witnesses, were found not guilty today by a jury in the United States District Court.

The defendants were accused of having attempted to intimidate witnesses against Tape on a charge of smuggling Chinese into this country. The government also alleged that they were responsible for the murder of Lum Kong, a government witness, who was killed in Chinatown September 26. The defense contended that Lum Kong was killed by Chin Gow, who subsequently was found dead in a Japanese lodging-house as the result of a pistol fight.

As soon as the jury acquitted the defendants on the conspiracy charge China Dan was arrested on a charge of smuggling Chinese, and the government proceeded with the trial of Tape on the original charge of smuggling aliens.

Mrs. Kate Duncan, accompanied by A. Weingarth and his sister, Miss Helen Weingarth, spent Tuesday at this resort with friends.

James Miller, an attorney of Los Angeles, spent the week-end with a party of friends at his cottage on Manhattan avenue.

Redondo Beach.

ONE of the most delightful functions of the week was held Thursday afternoon, when Mrs. Henry Heaston entertained the Entre Nous Club at her pretty home on North Guadalupe avenue. The afternoon was devoted to playing Five Hundred for which prizes were awarded to the following ladies: First prize, which consisted of a handsome hand-painted plate, was won by Mrs. J. P. Erickson; the second prize, which was also a hand-painted plate, was carried away by Mrs. B. A. Minor, while the consolation prize was given to Mrs. Roy Culver. The living and dining-rooms were prettily decorated with poinsettias and a large number of the same beautiful flower graced the dining table where a dainty luncheon was served after the game. Those who attended were Mmes. Ernest Butt, Harry Brolaski, Ernest Chrisman, Roy Culver, Frank Durlin, Jack Erickson, Jack Funk, Henry Heaston, Byron Minor, Howell McCreary, Walter McKnight and C. A. Trowbridge.

The members of the Sigma Kappa were entertained Tuesday evening by Mrs. Ed Lechner at her cosy home on North Irene avenue. Needlework and social chat were the amusements for the evening, followed by light refreshments. It was decided by the club to make up Christmas baskets for the poor in place of a Christmas tree as has been enjoyed by the club other years heretofore. Those present were Mmes. Ida Heath, Gertrude Phillips, Adelaide Heath, Ida Moon, Everett Lechner, Myrtle Lechner, Misses Edith Tomlinson, Maud Gillispie and Alberta Tatlow.

Mrs. B. A. Minor entertained at luncheon Wednesday afternoon in honor of a few lady friends. The dining-room and table were artistically decorated with pink and white carnations and luncheon was served at 1 o'clock. Those who attended were Mrs. Frank Tower, Mrs. Walter McKnight, Mrs. Howell McCreary, Mrs. Marshall, Craig and Mrs. Harry Brolaski.

Mr. and Mrs. Alva Gipe left the forepart of the week for Imperial, where they will remain for a month.

Miss Gladys Meredith spent the week-end in Los Angeles as guest of her friend, Miss Lucy Pohnert.

Mr. Durham Porter, who has been the guest of Redondo friends for the past month, left Monday for his home in San Francisco.

Mr. Harry Brolaski, who has been in San Diego for the past week on business, returned to his home at the beach Friday evening.

Mr. Arthur Phillips returned to Redondo Sunday from New York, where he has been engaged in business for the past year and a half.

Mrs. Welcome Smith enjoyed the week-end at San Pedro as guest of her daughter, Mrs. Henry Usrey.

W. A. Van Degrift and family have returned to the beach for the winter and are located at No. 302 Strand.

Mr. and Mrs. George Curry of Dymore, Neb., were entertained for the past week at the home of old friends, Mr. and Mrs. H. Felter, at the "Pacific View."

Mr. and Mrs. G. Turk, who have been residents of the beach for over a year, left for Los Angeles, where they expect to make their home.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Whitten had as their guests over the week-end the Misses Edna Goodwin and Luella Edison and Charles Harding of Los Angeles.

William Love, a retired farmer from North Dakota, who has spent many winters here, returned this week and will locate here for a number of months.

Mrs. J. M. Price of Portland, Or., arrived here the first of the week and is domiciled in an apartment in the Bungalow Court for the winter.

Long Beach.

PROMINENT among the social affairs of the week was the charity ball, given at Hotel Virginia on Wednesday evening for the benefit of a local charitable institution. The flower of Long Beach society danced until a late hour. The costumes were costly and elaborate. The hotel was a bower of greenery and blossoms, the nurseries of the city having donated liberally of their store. Refreshments were served. One of the attractions of the evening was the exhibition of fancy steps by Edsel Martindale and Miss Maude Travis, who showed the maxixe, tango, one-step and many of the new eastern rances. The success of the ball has induced the leaders to give a subscription dance at Hotel Virginia on the evening of December 18. Mrs. Ethel Thomas, hostess of the hotel, is in charge of the affair. Several prominent society leaders in Los Angeles, among them Mrs. Hancock Banning, Mrs. J. C. Drake, Mrs. Jean Drake, Mrs. J. Ross Clark, Mrs. Albert Crutcher, Mrs. J. Kingsley Macomber, Mrs. William M. Garland and Mrs. Ernest Bryant, will be patronesses of this event.

A Thanksgiving luncheon was served by the Household Economics Hostess Committee of the Ebell Club at the clubhouse Thursday evening. Fifty members and friends of the club partook of the dainties served. The hostesses were Mrs. Frank Maxwell, Mrs. A. F. Andrews, Mrs. J. M. Tanner, Mrs. John Turk, Mrs. L. H. Jaques and Mrs. O. P. Hannah. The paper of the afternoon was read by Mrs. Harry S. Aylesworth.

Edward Norris, who was 98 years of age, was guest of honor at a pleasant function at the home of Rev. and Mrs. E. C. Jacka Monday afternoon. Members of the Bible class over which the Rev. Mr. Jacka presided were guests. Roses and ferns were banked about the rooms. Mr. Norris received a purse of silver as one of the birthday gifts. Mr. Norris was born in the little village of Dea, Eng., coming to America in 1888, and to Long Beach four years ago. While here he has made many friends.

Hotel Virginia was the scene of another function Thursday evening. The members of the High School football team were hosts to a number of their young friends at a dance in the grand salon. It was termed the first annual football dance. The invitations were confined to the alumni of the school and present students.

Miss Helen Thomas of this city is to be married December 9 at the Thomas home, No. 717 Daisy avenue, this city, according to information conveyed in invitations sent for the affair by Mrs. Richard McCray of West Twenty-eighth street, Los Angeles, this week. Miss Thomas is to be married to Frank Buren, prominent attorney of Los Angeles, and formerly Register of the United States Land Office. There will be no attendants except Doris and Dorothy Buren, little misses who will be flower girls. The wedding music will be played by Miss Gladys Cochran of Los Angeles. Many members of the Marlborough Girls' School will be guests, as the bride-elect attended that institution.

Mrs. J. C. Osborne of No. 2730 East Seventh street was pleasantly surprised Tuesday evening after a trip downtown to find that a group of friends had taken possession of the house. The honorees had difficulty in turning on the lights when they entered at the rear of the house, but at last found themselves in the presence of the floral degree team of the Order of the Eastern Star, of which Mrs. Osborne is matron. Games were followed by the serving of refreshments.

Members of Greek letter societies received invitations to a Pan-Hellenic luncheon at Hotel Alexandria yesterday. More than sixty invited guests availed themselves of the opportunity of a reunion with classmates and sorority companions. The luncheon was given under theauspices of Miss Isabel Noble and Mrs. W. L. Stephens.

An oyster supper was given by members of the Fraternal Aid Association following the regular meeting Monday evening. The hall was adorned with pink roses and the tables were attractively set. Games and music followed the feast. Mrs. Lillian Harris won the prize in the penny march. Among the guests were Mrs. Wilverton of Topeka and Mrs. Hyatt of Whittier.

A cafeteria supper was enjoyed by the members of the Y.W.F.M. Society of the First Methodist Church Tuesday night, after the monthly meeting of the society. The programme was partly composed of two soprano solos by Miss Dorothy Funnell, with Miss Dorothy Bell as accompanist. The story of the life of a girl in India was given by Miss Bell Fairchild.

Duarte.

THE Christmas motif was much in evidence at the luncheon table about which on Tuesday at 1 o'clock Mrs. Robert M. Bihn entertained a group of twelve ladies. The reds of the holiday season were introduced by the use of fragrant crimson carnations and all the appointments of the table were handsome. After the luncheon Mrs. Edith Buffington of Los Angeles contributed music to the evident pleasure of all and bridge whist was the other pastime. Those who were present were Mrs. Allan J. Munro, Mrs. Herbert Miller, Mrs. Ernest B. Rivers, Mrs. Porter Carpenter, Mrs. Frank N. Robinson, Mrs. Kenneth Price, Mrs. Montague H. Graham, Mrs. Elizabeth Reeder, Mrs. James Petrie, Miss Morgan and Miss Marjorie Morgan.

Rev. Robert G. Cleland, D.D., of Los Angeles, was the guest last week of Capt. and Mrs. W. W. Bacon at their ranch home on Duarte avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Anderson pleasantly entertained at cards Thursday evening in compliment to the gentlemen and ladies of the Duarte Five Hundred Club, and a few out-of-town friends. The large living-rooms were gay with December's generous offering of bright-hued flowers and after the informal reception the evening was devoted to cards, followed by supper. The out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Wright of Azusa, and Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Cornes of Monrovia.

About thirty ladies of the Reading Circle assembled at the home of Mrs. Thomas Meredith Tuesday for a pleasant afternoon with a delightfully hospitable hostess. Mrs. Meredith was assisted by her daughter, Mrs. Bayles W. Gerhart, in entertaining and by Mrs. George Masterson and Mrs. B. H. Morgan, who provided the readings. Needlework suggestive of the approaching Yuletide was in evidence and at 4 o'clock tea was served.

One of the most delightful gatherings of the week was the porch party given Wednesday afternoon, between the hours of 2 and 5 o'clock, by the ladies of All Saints Episcopal Guild, at the foothill home of Mrs. John Scott on Duarte avenue. Mrs. Scott and her daughters, and a number of the guild ladies, who assisted, received the guests, and welcomed about 100 visitors. At points of vantage booths were erected where Christmas gifts were on sale. A fish pond proved attractive and the refreshment tables formed the setting for many happy tete-a-tetes. Music was provided by Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Downe, vocalists, and Mrs. Seamans of Azusa at the piano.

Three of Duarte's young musicians formed a happy party Tuesday evening with Los Angeles as their destination, where at Trinity Auditorium they listened to the Italian violinist, Arrigo Serato. The members of the party were Miss Mildred Marshall, Miss Helen Hoagland and Miss Frances Bliss.

A charming coterie of Duarte young people were tendered a Five Hundred party Saturday evening by Harry Halsey at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Halsey, on Ocean View avenue. The young host was assisted by Miss Halsey in welcoming the guests in rooms gay with winter blossoms and greenery. Varied games, music and supper rounded out the happy programme for the guests, among whom were the Misses Pauline Munro, Lael Moore, Vera Downe, Stella Nelson, Irma Moore, Minnie Boyles and Frances Carter and Messrs. Russell Adams, Kenneth Colburn, Harold Scott, Norman Moore, Stanley Plummer, Roy Halsey and Allan and Jack Nichols of Pasadena.

Ontario.

THE ballroom of the Masonic Temple is to be converted into a barn on New Year's Eve when Ontario society folk will assemble for a "Farmers' Ball" for the benefit of the British war relief fund. The affair was planned at a meeting of former Britishers Friday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Augustus Hanson in North Euclid avenue. The committee in charge of the plans for the charity ball include Mr. Hanson, Col. D. Blaikie Hislop, Bathurst B. Mann, Herbert F. Bradburn, Ian McLaren and Charles Latimer. The guests will attend in farmers' costume and music will be furnished by Wilding's orchestra.

Miss Frieda Graettinger pleasantly entertained a number of her friends Tuesday evening at her home, No. 412 West F street. Cecile Brunner buds and asparagus plumosus fern were used effectively in decoration. The evening was spent at bridge and the play was followed by a tempting collation. The prizes were captured by Mrs. Lester Ray Kennedy and Morris M. Taylor. Miss Graettinger's guests included Dr. and Mrs. Frank Monroe Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. Welles Thompson Ross, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Baugh Fowler, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Ray Kennedy, Mr. and Mrs. William Starbuck Fenton, Miss Ala Ballou, Miss Evelyn Stone, Albert C. Reynolds, Morris M. Taylor, Darwin G. Graettinger and Rupert F. Graettinger.

The members of the Young Women's Missionary Society of the First Baptist Church enjoyed a supper and social hour in the church parlors Wednesday evening. Red rosebuds and smilax were used in table decoration and the supper was served in three courses. The committee in charge of the affair included Mrs. Alvah Bivens, chairman; Mrs. Shrieve Inman, Miss Hazel Wood, and Miss Della Applegate. Covers were arranged for thirty-seven young women.

Local Woodmen of the World fittingly celebrated "home coming day" Monday with a banquet at the W.O.W. Hall. Fifty members including many charter members of Ontario Camp, No. 78, enjoyed the evening.

Miss Muriel Hamilton was hostess to a number of her friends Saturday evening at an informal dancing party at her home, No. 519 North Euclid avenue. A supper followed the dancing. Fourteen of Miss Hamilton's friends responded to invitation.

Mrs. Newell R. Richardson was hostess Friday afternoon at her delightful home, No. 206 East G street, to the members of the Ontario Woman's Relief Corps. A splendid programme of music and readings was greatly enjoyed and refreshments were served.

The 1914 football season at Chaffey High School was fittingly closed Wednesday evening when the members of the faculty entertained the members of the first squad and the Chaffey trustees with a banquet in the domestic science room in the school. The tables were arranged in the shape of a large "C" and the Chaffey colors, orange and black, predominated in the decorations. The banquet was served under the direction of Miss Torrey Pike and Miss Harriet Robinson of the domestic science department.

Prof. Francis H. White of Pomona College addressed the members of the Current Events Club Tuesday afternoon in their clubhooms in the Ontario National Bank building. "Current Events" was Prof. White's subject and the meeting was well attended.

Ladies' night at the Elks' home on East Holt avenue on Wednesday evening was enjoyed by a large number. Cards and dancing furnished entertainment.

Rialto.

THE parlors of the Methodist Episcopal Church were resplendent in blossom and greenery Friday evening last, when the members of the Royal Guard Sunday-school class entertained the members and friends of the Baraca and Philathea classes. Games and contests were enjoyed. An interesting feature was the debate by Ruth Kingman, Inez Hewitt, Fred Needham and Roy Bemis. A Dutch menu was served by the hosts.

Mrs. Harry Brimmer was the hostess at a small juvenile dinner party which she gave in celebration of the birthday anniversary of her little son Burleigh. A beautiful birthday cake bearing pink candles and pretty pink carnations embellished the table, and six little boys were seated with the little guest of honor.

A number of social functions were given by Mrs. C. W. Longmire during the week complimenting her house guest, Miss Marie Wishard of Los Angeles. An informal reception was held Sunday afternoon and evening, when a large number of friends from Highland and Riverside were received by Mr. and Mrs. Longmire and guest. Monday evening the party, accompanied by Miss Grace Bemis, Arthur Jonas of Rialto and Carl Shultz of Riverside, were guests at a family reunion held at the hospitable Longmire home in Highland. Mr. and Mrs. Longmire entertained with a prettily-appointed dinner party Tuesday evening, the honorees being Miss Wishard and Carl Shultz of Riverside, whose twenty-first birthday anniversary the occasion celebrated. Other guests were Miss Gertrude Cram, Fred Cram and Lloyd Hidden of Highland, Miss Grace Bemis, Susan Welborn and Arthur Jonas.

Mr. and Mrs. Longmire and children and Miss Wishard motored to Los Angeles Wednesday, where the former passed the remainder of the week. Mrs. Wishard accompanied her daughter to Rialto and was an over-Sunday guest of friends.

Miss Eva Bemis was the recipient of a jolly surprise party planned by her friends in honor of her birthday anniversary Saturday. A WORD about VALUE

The name BROCK & COMPANY has always been synonymous with quality—it has always stood for the lowest price consistent with quality.

Because we have carefully maintained this standard, the name in connection with any piece of merchandise has come to be a GUARANTEE of quality.

We never allow eagerness for alluring prices to influence us in offering wares below the practical quality standard.

Two factors — quality and price together, determine value. Price alone is no guide.

Our prices are always as low as quality will permit — as low as equal quality can be purchased for anywhere in the country. We welcome the most thorough value-comparison on any article at any time.

Gold Articles for Ladies and Gentlemen

A most exceptional exhibit, both in extent and character of merchandise, from the least expensive dependable quality to the masterpieces of jewel craft.

Man's Special Pencil —in 14-karat gold. A practical pencil "he" will use. Shown in plain and three different styles of fancy decoration. Made specially for Brock & Company. The price worthy of comparison.

Flexible Bracelets —an extensive showing of our new special bracelet in 14-karat gold, fancy decorated and jewel set, shown only by Brock & Company.

Braid or Coronette Pins —advanced ideas for the prevailing hair dress, shown in 14-karat gold with real shell—from the popular priced designs to the most elaborate platinum-mounted jewel-set.

Short Hat Pins An unusually large exhibit of these popular articles, made especially for us, shown from the lowest priced, worthy quality, to the handsomest jewel-set.

Lorgnons —an extensive showing of plain and fancy designs and platinum jewel set, with chains to match.

Vanities and Cigarette Cases —shown in plain gold designs, specially made for Brock & Company. We invite value comparison on these.

Man's Practical Knife —in 14-karat gold. Not the usual knife with thin gold, soldered to steel blank, but specially made for us with heavy gold sides. Shown in both the plain finish and various decorations. Very attractive price.

Circle Scarf Pins —in 14-karat gold in various styles and decorations. Three sizes specially priced.

Gold Belt Buckles Made for Brock & Company; in 14-karat gold, in plain and fancy decorated designs. Interesting prices.

Gentlemen's Waldemar Chains A really exceptional display of these popular chains from the lowest psice consistent with practical weight, up to the unusually handsome pieces not shown elsewhere.

Evening Dress Chains for Gentlemen —in the new black and white—very exclusive pieces not duplicated, and shown only by Brock & Company.

Cigarette Cases, Match Boxes and Other Novelties for Men A very large and unusual showing of the newest patterns; in 14-karat gold, and also jewel-set. Included are cigarette cases of the celebrated May make—pieces of real merit never duplicated.

SOCIETY.

roy entertained a company of friends at her home at No. 840 Arrowhead avenue Wednesday. The rooms were bright and glowing with Christmas color. Holly branches with red berries were banked about the mantel and chandeliers with red Christmas bells swinging in great numbers from numerous places, and a joyous air pervaded everything.

Mrs. A. K. Johnson and Mrs. A. A. Lukins won the honors in flinch while Mrs. A. R. Goldman and Mrs. Juliet Gentry Ayer took the prizes at whist. Music was contributed by Mrs. H. F. Andrews, Miss Irene Leroy and Mrs. Ayer. A delicious three-course luncheon was served.

The company receiving the delightful hospitality included the following ladies: Mesdames J. W. Bishop, O. M. Cannon, A. R. Goldman, Lee Beam, W. A. Blair, Harry C. Wright, H. H. Weir, P. J. Dubbell, A. A. Lukins, Fred B. Fisher, Z. T. Bell, Joseph Strawser, H. F. Andrews, Mary J. Coy, Juliet Gentry Ayer, H. R. Preston, J. Edwin Batchelor, A. K. Johnson, E. J. Mogeau, Fred Wilson, Miss Josephine Mogeau.

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph N. Hancock on Ninth street Wednesday afternoon, Miss Esther Hancock became the bride of Henry Littlefield at a ceremony witnessed by the two families and a few intimate friends of the couple. Rev. M. B. Shaw officiated at a simple ring ceremony. An interesting feature of the ceremony was the presence of the groom's aged grandmother and the bride's grandfather, Joseph Hancock, Sr. Following the wedding a splendid dinner was served and good-bys were said to the departing couple.

A pretty dinner party as a farewell courtesy to Mr. and Mrs. R. L. McRae, who are leaving San Bernardino to the regret of their host of friends for a new home in Riverside, was given Tuesday evening by Dr. and Mrs. Carrol C. Davis at their home, No. 733 F street. Bridge followed the beautifully-appointed dinner, at which covers were laid for Mr. and Mrs. McRae, Mr. and Mrs. Harry B. Cooper, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Lothrop, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Love and Mr. and Mrs. Davis.

Redlands.

A WEDDING of great interest to Redlands society was that of Miss Ruth Dane Eddy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Fisk, to Arthur Morse Sargent, teller of the First National Bank. Simplicity and informality marked the wedding, which was solemnized at the home of the bride's parents on Saturday evening. Prof. D. H. Colcord of Pomona College, where the bride graduated, officiated. The decorations were of green and white in all the rooms except the dining-room, which was decorated in pink. Smilax, white carnations and bride's roses were used, and in the dining-room pink carnations. A wedding supper was served for the guests, who were all relatives or intimate friends of the couple. The couple will be at home on Knoll road after returning from their wedding trip. Miss Eddy graduated from Pomona in 1906, spent two years in the East in study and travel, and was a teacher in the local High School for two years.

The most brilliant affair for the High School students this year was that of Friday evening when the Athanaeum and Lyceum literary societies gave a reception for the Forum and Ecclesia, the other two literary societies of the school. The High School orchestra furnished music, while the guests assembled and then a farce entitled "Tommy's Wife" was given. Leland Holliday took the part of Thomas Carothers and Ines Freel that of his sister, Rose. After the farce the guests adjourned to the hall, where a number of booths were arranged for refreshments.

Mr. and Mrs. Horace Green, who recently came to Redlands from New York, were pleasantly surprised Tuesday evening by their new friends here. The evening was spent in conversation and games. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Sydney Weimers, Mr. and Mrs. John Weimers, Mr. and Mrs. E. Vandermay, Mr. and Mrs. A. Wheaton, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Waterman, Mr. and Mrs. J. Kincher, Logan Kincher, Martin Vanhulven, Miss Katie Vogel, May Kraft, Agnes Rennie, Mr. and Mrs. A. Sharp, Miss Lillian Bonnell, Mrs. E. N. Sturtevant and Miss Irene Wheaton.

Mrs. Henry Fisher, chairman of the Spinet Artist Committee, has announced the dates for the artist concerts. Ruth St. Denis will be here January 9 and Miss Alma Gluck on March 3. The Barrere Ensemble of wind instruments will be the last artist concert and will be on April 19. Drawing for seats will be held at the Contemporary Clubhouse on December 16.

Society turned out en masse on Friday evening for the operetta, "Mistress Mary," given by the active members of the Spinet, assisted by the young people of the city. Almost 200 were in the cast. Miss Mary Martin, author of the operetta, had charge of the presentation. The members of the cast were: Mistress Mary, Mrs. W. R. Severance; Madame Blue, Miss Dorothy Davis; Boy Blue, Robert O. Bonnell; Betty Blue, Miss Minnie McQuilkin; Merrie Belle, Miss Margaret Nordhoff; Postman, E. C. Hopkins; Gossamer, Miss Amy Morrison; Sallie, Marion Wilmont; Tony, Roy Shrewsbury; Minnie, Margaret Sanborn; Tom, Walter McIntosh; Dick, Herbert Hubbard; Harry, H. P. D. Kingsbury.

"Grande Vista," the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Johnston, was the scene on Thursday of a delightful 1 o'clock luncheon. Red and green were used in the decorations. Mrs. Johnston had her young friends as guests, those present being Princess Dike, Eugenia, Hunter, Lucille Johnston, Eva Lukens, Geneva Costello, Martha Woodworth, Donna Whitson, Celia Hanlein, Esther Roberts, Minnie Baker, Mr. and Mrs. Johnston and their daughter, Esther.

The annual Christmas party of the Contemporary Club will be held on December 29 in the afternoon this year. At the meeting of the club on Monday the time was devoted to a book review, those taking part in the programme being Mrs. E. E. Dow, Miss Lucy Foote, Dr. Mary Stoia, Mrs. T. M. Blythe, Miss Mary Hamilton, Mrs. J. Williams and Mrs. W. B. Craig.

The monthly recital of the students of the fine arts department of the university was given Wednesday afternoon and Miss Louise Ford, soprano; Miss Olive Hill, soprano; Miss Ruth Ward, piano, and Prof. E. C. Hopkins, piano, were heard in recital.

Frank J. Pratt, a retired attorney of Coupville, Wash., who has just recently purchased a home on Sunset drive, and Miss Lena Kohne, also of Washington State, were quietly married here on Wednesday. They plan to make this their winter home. Mr. Pratt is a wealthy man and has come to Redlands for several winters.

Oxnard.

MRS. H. H. EASTWOOD was hostess at luncheon Friday, her guests being members of the executive board of the Monday Club, of which Mrs. Eastwood is vice-president. After an attractively-served luncheon, a brief business session was devoted to matters incident to the close of the first half of the club year.

Mrs. Addie Gandolfo, who has been the guest of Mrs. Anne Scarlett and Mrs. Elizabeth Williams, and other friends in the county, for the past six months, has returned to her home in Seattle. She formerly lived in Ventura county.

Mrs. H. G. Lamb entertained a few friends at a thimble party Friday afternoon at her Hueneme Beach home, dainty refreshments following at the close of a merry time devoted principally to Christmas fancy work.

Miss Beryl Bard has returned to her home, Berylwood, after a visit of several weeks' duration in Santa Barbara.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Petit have returned from their honeymoon in San Francisco and elsewhere, and are settled in the new home prepared for them on that portion of the Camarillo estate, which was Mr. Camarillo's gift to the bride, who was Miss Rosa Camarillo.

Miss Estelle Taggart of Los Angeles is the guest of her aunt, Mrs. George T. Taylor. Miss Taggart visited in Oxnard last spring and summer, and has many friends who welcome her on her present visit.

Miss Julia Wiseman of Denver, who has been a guest at the T. P. Penland home, is now visiting in Los Angeles.

The recent deaths in the Arneill, McLloughlin, Canet, Volkert and other prominent Ventura county families have caused the preholiday season to be the quietest, socially, that the county has known in years. Several events which were planned for the season have been postponed or abandoned, because of the friendships existing with members of the bereaved families.

Santa Paula.

THE silver wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Harms was the occasion of a delightful dinner party at their home, at which fourteen guests, including all members of their immediate family, were present. The table was artistically decorated in carnations, roses and ferns. The out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Morgan of Long Beach, Mrs. Newlin of Pasadena, and Clyde Harms of San Francisco.

Miss Ida Mae Merry became the bride of Samuel Jefferson Akers at a wedding, simply solemnized, in the parsonage of the Methodist Church Wednesday. Mr. and Mrs. Akers will reside on Sespe avenue. The groom is a brother of Mrs. George W. Burson and Mrs. Edward Goodenough of this city.

Delightful among club affairs of the week was the picnic given in Foster Park Friday for the members of the Friday Reading Club, at which Miss Sarah Blanchard was hostess. A large cake, adorned with pink and green candy roses and a miniature candy turkey, formed the centerpiece at the picnic table, which was loaded with good things to eat. Reading and conversation occupied the afternoon.

An enjoyable afternoon was spent Saturday by members of Los Pimientos Parlor, Native Daughters, the occasion being the official visit of Mrs. May C. Boldeman, Grand President. Refreshments and a social hour followed the lodge session.

As the Christmas season is at hand, a club of young married women which has been in existence for the last three years, and only meets in the preholiday season, has been reorganized, and met Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. A. C. McKevett. The evening was pleasantly spent in plying the needles to dainty Christmas gifts.

Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Walden entertained at dinner Thursday evening for Mr. and Mrs. Carl V. Newman, recently of China, now Santa Paula residents. Miss Blanche Hardy of Santa Barbara and Mrs. Edward Milliken of Pasadena were out-of-town guests for the occasion.

Complimentary to Mrs. M. Shedenheim's birthday, Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Shipley entertained at dinner Tuesday evening, the guests being relatives of the two families.

Monday's meeting at the Ebell Club of Santa Paula was in charge of the art and travel section, and Mrs. H. S. Diven gave an interesting account of her recent trip to Europe. Rev. Edwin MacMinn gave an illustrated talk on "The Value and Use of Pictures."

Miss Grace Atmore entertained the drill team of the Rebekah lodge, and their husbands, at her home Tuesday evening. Miss Atmore is the retiring Noble Grand of the Rebekah lodge. Several clever games were provided for the entertainment of the guests, prizes being awarded to Mrs. P. H. Newman, Miss Helen Keene and Mrs. Leon Pressy, Messrs. Howard Peyton, Amos Schrimpf and Alfred Clayton. Roses were used in attractive decorations throughout the Atmore home.

Friends from far-off towns were entertained in true New England spirit by Mrs. T. D. Clayton Thursday evening, when an elaborate turkey dinner was served to eight guests. A New England farm scene formed an effective centerpiece for the table, the effect being enhanced by place cards of real autumn leaves in gorgeous colors, sent to Mrs. Clayton from Indianapolis. Music and a clever musical game were entertainment features of the evening.

AUCTION BRIDGE had a happy revival when Mrs. George H. Jantzen chose the much-favored game as pastime for the congenial coterie of friends invited to pass the hours of Wednesday afternoon at the Jantzen home. Four tables were played, the guests encircling them including Mrs. F. H. Pritchard, Mrs. E. G. Palmer, Mrs. R. L. Riley, Mrs. M. A. Shumate, Mrs. R. H. Summers, Mrs. Seth Hartley, Mrs. W. B. Cuirom, Mrs. E. F. Van Luven, Mrs. M. C. Butterfield, Mrs. I. M. Knopsnyder, Mrs. J. P. Isbell, Mrs. C. D. Wilson, Mrs. Harvey French, Miss Daisy Smith, Miss Ethel Lawrence and Miss Leone Erichsen. A handsome embroidered piece was the trophy of the tournament, the counting of score being followed by the serving of a very delicious collation.

Although there is a ban on high school dances, the members of the freshman class were not to be cheated out of the obligation of feting the juniors, to whom they had lost in a ball game, and ingeniously arranged matters by having five prominent society women of the city sponsor the prettily-appointed dancing party of Friday evening, the quintette of hostesses including Mrs. R. H. Summers, Mrs. M. O. Hert, Mrs. Walter McNair, Mrs. F. M. Snider and Mrs. J. E. Harper. The affair was a masquerade and the majority of the big crowd or merrymakers came in Yama Yama costumes. A light supper was served during the intermission on the dance programme.

A bridal event of the week in which a host of friends in a number of cities have taken affectionate interest since the betrothal announcement, was that of Tuesday morning, when Miss Rowena Elizabeth Bailey became the bride of Fred King Ausfahl in a quietly-arranged ceremony occurring at the family home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Hubbart Bailey, the bride's parents. Autumn vines, holly and snapdragons decked the residence and in the presence of relatives the vows were plighted before the Rev. E. S. Hill, pastor of the Congregational church at National City and a lifelong friend of the Baileys, the double ring service being used. Immediately after a wedding breakfast, the happy pair left for Lytle Creek Canyon, where they will pass a several-weeks' honeymoon at the bungalow cabin of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Hebberd. The bride is a charming girl and a talented pianist and is prominent in social, musical and lodge circles. The young groom is a civil engineer and is connected with the State Highway Commission of Washington. A home will probably be established in that State.

Upland.

THE Upland volunteer fire department gave the first of a series of card parties at the Woman's Clubrooms on Friday night. As usual a most delightful time was enjoyed by the boys and their guests. Tamales, sandwiches and coffee were served by the committee in charge, Messrs. H. C. Moore, Bert Nichols and Fred Froehde. Those enjoying the hospitality of the department were Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Manker, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Mohl, Mr. and Mrs. Dorsey Howell, Mr. and Mrs. Owen Atwood, Mr. and Mrs. Bertram Nichols, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Atwood, Mr. and Mrs. C. K. Francisco, Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Clem, Mr. and Mrs. Lyman Clark, Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Clark, Mr. and Mrs. Bunker, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Cochran, Misses Elvie and Elsie Burkholder, Miss Maude Gerry, Miss Eva Gerry, Miss Elsie Lhuillier, Miss Eva Brown, Miss Anderson, Miss Portia Austin and, Messrs. L. N. Kirk, Howard Hobaugh, Harold Stickney, Harry Plum, Wesley Plum, H. C. Moore, Fred Froehde, Eldon Atwood, Amos Colborn, Charles Deverts, L. Kronmeyer.

Mrs. E. A. Cooley entertained the members off Rebekah Circle and a few invited guests at her home on First avenue on Wednesday afternoon. A short business session was held after which fancy work passed the afternoon away happily. The daughters of Mrs. Cooley served refreshments to the following guests: Mrs. John Rasick, Mrs. C. M. Sikes, Mrs. E. P. Fuller, Mrs. E. O. Bowden, Mrs. Jennie Train, Mrs. Davis, Mrs. Sturdevant, Mrs. William Littlewood, Beats Them All.

QUEER HAPPENINGS.

Dr. David Allen Gorton of Brooklyn, N. Y., who recently celebrated his eighty-second birthday, is the father of the famous "eugenic twins," born April 25, 1912. Three months after the death of his first wife Dr. Gorton married his literary secretary, Miss Bertha Rehbein, 37 years his junior, to carry out his theories of scientific mating.

While S. F. Gerber was riding along the road near Volant, Pa., a hen flew into his buggy. It struggled about, while Gerber tried to stop his horse, and it began to cackle and attempted to fly from the buggy. Gerber caught it and then looked about to ascertain the cause of the cackling, and he says he found a warm, fresh-laid egg in the bottom of the buggy.

Miss Leitha Hanna of Caribou, Me., who is attending school in Bowling Green, Ky., was disappointed to find that the grass of Kentucky is as green as that in Maine. All her life she had heard of the famous blue grass of Kentucky.

George Wolf, of Columbus, Ind., owns what he terms a squirrel rooster. According to Wolf's statement the rooster is a better squirrel hunter than any dog he has ever seen. He takes the rooster into the woods and turns the bird loose. The rooster prys around awhile until he finds a tree on which a squirrel is perched. Then the rooster crows until the squirrel is bagged.

E. M. Chadbourne, of Saco, Me., while on his way from Limington in his automobile one evening bagged one coon with his machine and missed another. When the rays of the headlight struck the animals they stopped and stared at the approaching machine, one waiting long enough to be overtaken, while the other scampered off.

formation of the American Residents, Page as President, Hoover as chairman, Clarence Graff as treasurer and F. C. Van Duzer as secretary. The benevolent fund to which the American residents subscribed amounted to $16,333 and a fund to guarantee banking operations amounted to $41,983.

An American Citizens' Committee was also formed at a mass meeting of tourists, and Theodore Hetzler was named chairman, W. North Duane secretary and William C. Breed treasurer—all from New York. The departure of members of the tourists' organization caused its practical extinction about the middle of August, but during its existence it spent nearly $5000 for relief and also $10,000 to the Residents' Committee.

In mid-August the committee was authorized by Dr. Page to draw on and help administer the congressional fund of $300,000.

So far $135,000 has been drawn from the congressional appropriation, covering the relief of 4000 persons. But the committee has made available to Americans in all about $400,000 through supplemental banking and various means. Over 9200 have been financed home either entirely or in part by the committee.

There has been some friction between the committee and a small minority of refugees, who objected either to drawing on their own resources for their fares home or to accepting third-class on the steamers. But the large majority have been grateful for an opportunity to help themselves.

At times the committee had as many as 2000 persons in lodgings under its control, involving a vast amount of work. On one day 900 tourists arrived at Victoria station from Flushing between 9 a.m. and midnight. Of these, 460 were advanced money on the platform for immediate food, and altogether 620 sent to selected lodgings. The unescorted women and children alone numbered 232. Over $1500 was expended in this day's work.

Some 30,000 tourists have registered and been indexed with the committee since the beginning, for the information of friends, and a daily bulletin with useful information has been issued with a circulation as high as 10,000 copies daily.

Why Some Women Won't Vote.

[Frances Fear, in Leslie's:] There is no use denying that women in general have been sensitive in the matter of their age. Much interest has been aroused by the report coming from Kansas that large numbers of women there have refused to register for participation in the State-wide primaries because required to tell their exact age. There are other occasions of more practical significance than voting, where a woman has to tell her age. For example, in getting out a life insurance policy or in opening an account in a savings bank. With men, on the other hand, the question of age is often of greatest economic concern. Men who lose positions after 40 have difficulty in getting new ones. Certainly it would not be right for the State to interfere with their chances of business success by making their ages a part of public records. Now that she has other aims in life besides matrimony, and with larger participation in business and public life, woman is not so sensitive on the subject of her age as she once was. Men, on the other hand, since they have found advancing years to interfere with business success, have become more secretive on the subject. Why not let one be considered as old as one feels or acts, regardless of sex?

The Pope's Good Memory.

[Pittsburgh Dispatch:] In that distant time when he was only a humble priest at Tombolo, Pius X, then Giuseppo Sarto, dispensed in charity all the meager emoluments of his office. It once happened that when his purse was empty he borrowed from his vicar some sums to meet a pressing need. Then Giuseppe Sarto, called suddenly to another charge, forgot to repay his vicar three lires that he owed him. Time passed, Giuseppe Sarto was named Pope. He had forgotten his debt. Recently an old priest came to kneel at the feet of the holy father. It was the old vicar of Tombolo. The Pope recognized his voice, and at the same moment he remembered the three lires so obligingly lent him. The Pope then caused to be given to the old man from his private purse 500 lires, and named him for an important curacy. Only sovereign pontiffs can pay such interest.

"Gave Gold for This."

[New York Times:] The women of Germany, according to reports received here, are busily at work preparing woolen garments for the soldiers in the battle line. The clothing is made up according to measures, shapes, and colors established by the government.

The reports also say that a committee of women has been formed, to include all the women of Germany, to give up their gold ornaments with the idea of transforming them into money with which to buy arms. A sum amounting to several million marks has thus been gathered. Each woman receives in exchange for her gold ornaments an iron ring inscribed with the words: "gave gold for this."

National.

SUFFRAGETTES ARE PATRIOTIC.

Militants Relieve Distress Caused by the War.

Render Assistance Wherever it May be Needed.

Two American Reporters Try to See Kitchener.

[A. P. FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

LONDON, Sept. 25. — The women suffragists are doing fine work in relieving distress caused by the war.

The votes-for-women propaganda has been abandoned completely for the present and many of the organizations are placing all of their resources at the service of needy women. In London alone there are some 50,000 women who were earning their own living before the war but who have since become destitute, many facing starvation.

The Active Service League of the National Union of Women Suffrage Societies, which includes in its ranks over 600 societies which have been working for suffrage by constitutional means, has an organized relief bureau in its offices in a shop on Parliament street, and the branch offices throughout the country are also filled with suffragists working for their country. The workers distinguish themselves by wearing a uniform consisting of a dark green coat and skirt, green felt hats, with badges and ties of red and green—the union's colors.

The assistance of German women and girls stranded in London is included in the relief programme.

The union has had many offers of hospitality for stranded people, and many private school mistresses have offered free education for daughters of officers killed in action. Several workrooms have been started where out-of-work women are paid 10 shillings a week of forty hours—the trade union rate—for making garments which are given to destitute people.

Many pathetic cases have been aided. A British girl, a children's nurse in Paris, arrived there after a four-years' engagement in Chile. She left Paris when a siege was threatened, leaving her luggage behind, and before the union found her she had been living for three days in London on bread and butter and tea.

AIDS TO BELGIAN.

One woman offered hospitality to a Belgian for "one month certain," explaining that her small income had dropped one-third and she did not know whether at the end of one month it would drop altogether or not. She was anxious while she could afford it to have so great a privilege as that of giving shelter to a Belgian.

Another woman who was at a small inn received two Belgian children, who were taken to her by a suffragist in a motorcar. Suddenly the children began to shout for joy, for they recognized in the hostess of the inn their mother, from whom they had been separated during the war.

An English woman doctor, married to a German doctor, has suddenly had the whole of her income cut off, as her husband, having to live under the restrictions for aliens, has lost all his practice.

A journalist, who had been earning $3500 a year and was discharged by his paper, enlisted, as he was penniless. If the wife gets all his pay and her War Office allowance she will only have about $5 a week.

At Manchester work is being found in a warehouse for 500 women and penny dinners are provided. At Southampton the art gallery has been turned into a women's workroom. In Dublin the suffragists, by getting an army contract for a jam factory where a lot of girls are employed, saved it from closing down.

LADY BARCLAY'S WORK.

Lady Beatrix Barclay, the wife of Sir George Barclay, British Minister at Bucharest, is one of the principal workers in the ambulance department of the Order of St. John of Jerusalem, which is the senior Red Cross organization in England. Lady Barclay is an American, the daughter of the late Henry G. Chapman of New York, and great great-grand-daughter of John Jay, the first American minister to England.

Five thousand men belonging to the St. John Ambulance Brigade have been mobilized and are serving with the British army and navy as hospital orderlies, and several thousand more have volunteered for the work. The society has sent out 138 highly-trained nurses to tend the wounded on the field and many more are in waiting. Much of the work of the ambulance bearers, and even the nurses, is performed under fire.

The Duchess of Bedford and the Earl of Plymouth are two of the most active workers in the organization. Its activities are not limited to British soldiers and sailors, but its workers are instructed to tend the wounded of all nationalities without discrimination.

NERVE OF AMERICAN.

Maj. D. W. Ketcham, one of the American army officers sent over to London to administer the fund appropriated by Congress as a loan to stranded tourists, relates this experience, illustrating the faith of a certain class of Americans in the generosity of Uncle Sam.

One day a young woman called at the major's office and said that she wanted the $500 due her.

Thinking that she was one of those for whom money had been deposited by friends with the State Department, the officer asked for proof. He got it. The tourist produced a letter written to her by her father. In this letter the father said that Congress had appropriated $300,000 for the Americans in England, and dividing it by the number estimated to be there, he thought her pro rata should be $500, advising her to insist upon her rights.

The applicant admitted having sufficient funds, but said she considered the money a form of compensation for the nervous strain of being caught in Europe in war time. She left Maj. Ketcham's office with the air of one who had been deprived of her dues.

KITCHENER UNSEEABLE.

At least two American newspaper men have tried to make the Sphinx talk. They have tried to interview Lord Kitchener. It is a task no British reporter would set for himself. One American reporter received a polite note from a secretary saying Lord Kitchener was too busy. With that he can prove that he tried the impossible.

The one Cabinet minister who is easy to interview is the First Lord of the Admiralty, Winston Churchill. Indeed when on September 25, the press bureau announced that it would have a statement at 7 o'clock in the evening, the reporters were ready as usual. But when it turned out to be an interview that Mr. Churchill had given to a representative of a Rome journal, their faces fell, as novelists say. Only a few of the papers seemed interested in it.

SHE TOLD THE TRUTH.

The Judge Vouched for the Child and She Became a Witness Despite Her Tender Years.

[London Tit Bits:] F. C. Phillips, who in his time has played many parts—those of soldier, theatrical manager, barrister and journalist among them—tells many anecdotes in his just published book of interesting reminiscences, "My Varied Life" (Nash.) A number of the stories are concerned with the bar. Baron Martin at the Guildford assizes was trying a man for murder, and he summed up to the jury dead against the prisoner.

The jury, however, took a merciful view of the case and returned a verdict of manslaughter. Baron Martin was always very brief in his sentences, and never attempted to harrow a prisoner's feelings. "Preesoner at the bar," said the old Scotsman, "you're the luckiest man I ever came across. Tak' penal servitude for life." Another story relates to Maule when presiding at the same assizes. During the progress of one case the counsel for the crown put a little girl, who was 5 or 6 years old, into the witness box. Counsel for the defense objected to the child being sworn, saying that it was impossible she could understand the nature of an oath.

"There may be something in what you say," remarked Maule. "Come up, my dear, and sit by me." The child was lifted up to the bench.

"Now, my child, you are going to be asked some questions."

"Yes, sir."

"Now, suppose you were a naughty little girl and told stories, do you know where you would go to?"

"No, sir," answered the child.

"Neither do I," said Maule; "an excellent answer. Swear the witness."

THE GOOD HOUSEKEEPER'S HINT: To give to the omelette or the salad just the soupcon of onion flavor which is delicious when least to be detected, cut the onion in two, and holding it by the root press it upon the lemon squeezer exactly as you would a lemon, when the required dash of flavor will be extracted and that without discomfort to your eyes.

Let the idea-gift be yours!

Something with thought in it for the joyous season, not merely a perfunctory present sent because so-and-so is on your list.

After all it is the loving kindness more than intrinsic value which should characterize the holiday remembrance. This does not mean that we should be stingy. Give as regally as you may, but give to each who is worthy of receiving something carrying a thought from your heart to his, for primarily the presentation of Christmas gifts was an outpouring of adoration—the bestowal of something deemed most precious by those wise men who journeyed across desert sands to kneel in obligation before a transcendent being. The initiative of their journey was an impulse from within—not an obligation imposed externally. The spirit of the Christmas gift should be, even now, one spontaneous, accompanied with a loving thought, an earnest wish to represent by the object sent truest admiration or affection. Otherwise a gift sent at this sacred season is scarcely less than an affront. The gift without the thought is like a body lacking soul. In planning for your Christmas giving, put yourself and the best that is in you into the selection—or do not give at all.

Furry Days.

Not only are these the days of the frantic search for rubbers and raincoats, but they are the days and the nights for furs. These are the days when, for almost the first time this season, we give full attention to the mandate of world-wide fashion for furs. We begin to plan to place first on the Christmas list of "wished-fors" a set of furs or a coat of furry warmth. And, by the way, never have there been such fur creations as are made right here in Los Angeles! No need to study catalogues and to send away for the best that can be made along fur lines, for the best is here. You know where—do you not?

Ready to Camisole.

All ready to run up into camisoles are the boxed patterns done in lovely embroidery and formed to fit. Just a few stitches and behold the pretty and useful garment complete. Very giftie are the boxes and giftie, too, the articles themselves with ribbons ready to run.

It's Bark!

The man in one of the biggest and best silk departments in the city was showing me the most lovely, shimmering silk-of-gold all inwrought with flowers dimly outlined with the golden warp, and, after I had duly admired, he said: "You would scarcely think that could be made from the bark of trees, would you?" I probably looked incredulous, for he continued and explained so clearly that I now fully understand—that the rich and lustrous silk—is made from the bark of trees. I understand all about it, that is, I understand that the man said it was made from bark, and I know that it is more beautiful than even the fabric which is warped in actual golden bullion thread. So much for art in science. How it is all accomplished, possibly the manufacturers know, for I do not, even after the explanation.

Billed to Bill.

To be billed to Bill and builded from leather are those new folding bill books, which are also card cases, and some of them picture holders as well. Nothing can excel the all-in-oneness of those elegant and useful articles as gifts for him.

To "Put on Dog."

Slangy expression is it not, but then, have you seen these Chinese lucky doggies? You may carry the larger ones in your muff, or place them on your desk, or bestow them anywhere, but have one you must, a gift if possible, but if not, then a pretended gift.

A-B-C's.

Novel and pretty sets consisting of bowl, plate and jug and recently imported, with A-B-C's for little ones. Have you forgotten how you were impressed by your first lettered dishes? Meant more to you, did they not, than the L.L.D. of later life.

A Sweet Invitation.

That shop where the most alluring sweets are made, is sending out invitation post cards to its men patrons. They are prettily decorated and the message which begins with the mandate to obey that Christmas impulse, continues: "To your home girl send one of our famous boxes of maple pecan patties. To your far-away girl send our delicious California novelty, an assorted package of crystallized grape fruit, orange and ginger packed in gay, oriental tins." Some insight into man-nature shown there—don't you think? And the shop is owned by girls!

Toasted Muffins!

Real English toasted muffins with your 5 o'clock tea! Did you suppose it was possible to find them, here? Well they are obtainable, and they are perfection itself.

Juliette Sets.

Whether they were worn by the original Juliette, when she balconied with Romeo I cannot say for sure, but many a modern Juliette will wear those golden and gem set sets of hat pins and veil pins which come in a so beautiful case. Only one place where you can get them. Jewelry house, of course. Broadway? Yes.

A Clever Conceit.

In an art shop on lower Broadway, where there is always something new and interesting, I saw a candle stick in Florentine, which was most original. It presented a huge bunch of grapes, carved in full relief and resting upon an upward curling leaf and from an upstanding stem protruded the waxen candle which was its reason for being. The golden coloring which blended softly with the natural tones of leaf and fruit made this piece something to covet.

A Section of the Gift Section.

One article from the many charming ones in the gift section of a big Broadway furniture house, was a reminder of the old colonial times a wee, swivelled glass with drawer beneath—a lovely thing for the dressing table. By the way, there are gifts there unbelievably reasonable in price, although so handsome. Good place ot progress with the Christmas list.

Hints of the Mode.

Some of the serge dresses have cape collars and tunic skirts.

Children are wearing striped skirts with solid-color jackets.

Beaded and metallic trimmings are favored for evening gowns.

Poplin weaves come in light weight for dresses and heavy ones for suits.

Special interest is being taken nowadays in Flanders and Venise laces.

A great deal of gold embroidery is used, but it is generally in dull tones.

Combinations of jet and white satin cords are seen among trimmings.

The great feature of the new automobile coats is the imported fabrics of which they are made.

Instead of the long straight line from shoulder to hips the tendency is to give a slight curve at the normal waist.

A charming school dress for the young girl is a kilted plaid skirt with a shirtwaist and cape coat of plain material.

Some of the new skirts actually measure three or four yards round the bottom. Such skirts are often scalloped.

An evening gown of supple cerise velours is very simply cut and has the coursage caught on the shoulder by a jet button.

Bright-colored cordelieres with beaded tassels are worn about the waists to relieve the severity of the dark tailored dress.

The new organdie collars are still higher in the back and fasten up rather closely, although they are still open in the front.

As it Seemed to Him.

[Christian Register:] The other day a young woman teacher took eight of her pupils through the Museum of Natural History.

"Well, my boy, where did you go with your teacher this afternoon?" asked the mother of one of them on his return.

With joyous promptness he answered, "She took us to a dead circus."

A THUNDERBALL'S COST.

Scientific Computation Based on the Magnetism of Rocks Containing Iron Ore and Cost Per Kilowatt.

[New York World:] A Belgian engineer has been making a novel calculation, which he publishes in the Bulletin de la Societe Belge d'Astronomie. It is nothing less than the value of a thunderbolt, in kilowatts and in cash.

He took as the basis of his calculation the price that the electric plants of great European cities charge their customers for current.

Measurement of the magnetism of certain rocks containing iron ore, he says, proves that the electric current which magnetized them must have had a strength of at least 6000 amperes. In reality the strength of the current must have been much greater, since the rocks were at a considerable distance from the spot at which the thunderbolt fell. However, one must be conservative in treating of such matters, and the modest figure of 27,800 kilowatts may be taken as fairly correct.

The lowest price at which current can be supplied industrially when obtained under the most favorable conditions, that is to say by hydraulic power, is one-fifth of a cent per kilowatt. So the minimum value of a thunderbolt would be $55.60.

But the author notes that in Brussels, where he lives, the price of electricty is 10 cents a kilowatt. This is the price of current for ordinary household use in New York. At this figure a thunderbolt would come to $2980. As the price of electricity varies very widely in different cities, according to the conditions under which it is produced, every one can calculate for himself what it would cost to produce a thunderbolt in the city in which he lives.

Indians Knew Drugs.

[Cleveland Plain Dealer:] Among the plants used by the American Indians many have vauable medicinal or nutritive properties, and some are narcotic or poisonous. Information regarding these plants derived from the Indians themselves is often of great value and is in danger of being lost. This should be treasured to serve as a basis of furture experiment, says a recent letter issued by the Department of Agriculture. Already from the American Indian we have derived coca, the source of cocaine; cinchona, the source of quinine; cascara and many other valuable drugs whose virtues they detected long before the discovery of America. Much information of this and similar character was collected by a botanical explorer during more than forty years of active work in the Southwestern United States and Mexico. His valuable notes are now being arranged in form available for public use.

KNOWS THE INDIAN HIGH S

Romantic and Adventurous Career of Gen. Hugh L
Chief of Staff of Our Army—Thrilling Experiences wi

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—The harmonies rang true when Gen. Hugh Lenox Scott, the army's new chief of staff, talked to me in riding boots and spurs. Most of his life, booming with energy and pictorialized by adventure, has been spent on horseback.

In the saddle he has fought, regulated or pacified Indians, Spaniards, Cubans, Filipinos and Mexicans. A frontier and jungle cavalryman for thirty-eight years, he has looked death in the eye a hundred times.

Red men have striven to kill him and brown men have hunted him with spears and knives. Wherever he serves, romance lurks at the flanks of his horse and hard work has its feet in both stirrups.

A large man—stature, six feet, at least, and weight, some 200 pounds—and a gray man, in hair and mustache, kindness shines from his face and out of his eyes and is heard in his low, even voice. He has two ways of talking—with his lips, to you and me, and with his hands, to the many-languaged Indians of the plains—but in neither way will he ever talk more than is required.

Ethnologists say that Gen. Scott understands the sign language of the prairie Indians better than has any white man who ever lived. He has settled disputes and ended wars without uttering an audible word. He has entered into treaties by simply moving his hands—pledging the government at Washington and receiving honest promises in return. He has interpreted for his superior officers or himself a hundred Indian councils carried on wholly by signs.

Years of such communication and of fighting, when never much is said, has turned the son of a Presbyterian minister, the grandson of a celebrated Princeton theologian and orator, and the great-great grandson of Benjamin Franklin himself into an eloquent but silent man—eloquent of eyes, face, manner, disposition, but sparing with spoken words.

SAVED A COMRADE'S LIFE.

The dramatization of this taciturn and modest man's life began immediately after he became a cadet at West Point by the appointment at large of President Grant. Capt. L. R. Hare of the old Seventh Cavalry, has related the event. Hare, also a cadet, was reported for shirking serious duty while on guard. He denied the charge. The tactical officer, however, insisted that he was the offender. Hare might or might not have been punished but Scott, not waiting for a decision in the case, came forward and said: "I am the man."

Later at the summer camp Scott took a drowning comrade on his back and, after a thirty-minute struggle in the Hudson River, reached the shore. King, the rescued lad, almost dead, and Scott so exhausted that he could scarcely stand. These events took place away back in 1872, when Scott was a "plebe." He has been popular throughout the army ever since.

The death of Custer, colonel of the Seventh Cavalry, occurred on the Little Big Horn River on June 25, 1876. Scott, a second lieutenant just graduated from the Military Academy, joined what was left of the regiment soon thereafter. For many years he battled and negotiated with such Indian chiefs as Joseph, Sitting Bull, Red Cloud, Spotted Tail and Geronimo. Gen. Miles has said that Scott successfully governed "the worst tribe of Indians on the continent" and that the task was always "dangerous and difficult." The tribe thus described was the Apaches and Geronimo was their leader.

The Apaches stole from the whites and fought among and murdered themselves. Scott, then a captain and their custodian, stopped all their thievery and violence, but, as he phrased it, bith "Geronimo and Sitting Bull were irreconciliable Indians and I never wasted many words on them." He never wastes many words on anybody.

A second-lieutenant, new on the plains, Scott at once went on an expedition against the hostile Sioux, who were secretly being supplied with arms, ammunition and food by agency brethren. "We went out," he told me, "to find them, dismount them and disarm them." Custer had been killed by the Sioux.

HELPED CAPTURE CHIEF.

"Was the expedition successful?" I asked.

"It was," Gen. Scott answered, giving more vigor to the words than is customary with him.

Such was his initiation into warfare among the Indians. The following year, 1877, he rode forth against the Nez Perces. All the members of the band, with Chief Joseph in command, were either killed or captured. On the march back to the post, Gen. Miles was informed that a number of the Indians, early in the attack, had escaped and gone toward the frontier of Canada. Sitting Bull and his Sioux were in the vicinity and had promised to help the Nez Perces if they were followed by the soldiers.

In the face of Sitting Bull's threat, only two of Miles's enlisted men volunteered to hunt down the runaways. Miles, therefore, took eleven men from the ranks and sent them off under Lieut. Marion P. Maus. Scott and six men going in advance of their troop, were met by Maus in the neighborhood of the Milk River.

Maus had no knowledge of how hany Nez Perces awaited him and felt sure that he would have to fight, whether they were few or many. Scott might have gone about his own business, but he and his six joined Maus and his eleven and the nineteen soldiers, two officers and seventeen privates, surprised and captured forty-two warriors. Gen. Maus has always praised Scott for his gallantry and generosity.

Another good story with Scott as its principal actor, is told in the army by the older officers. A band of Crows, in the sping of 1883, were performing in Southeastern Montana—stealing live stock, shooting their rifles promiscuously and painting themselves hideously. First Lieut. Scott, stationed at Fort Mead, Dakota, two junior officers, ninety men and fifty pack mules were ordered to round up the savages.

The scouting party found the Little Missouri River bank full from the April freshets. It was twenty feet deep and 450 feet wide and contained logs and other driftwood. Scott asked for volunteers to take a line across the river. Two men undressed, but finding the water ice cold, immediately returned to the bank and put on their clothing.

SWAM AN ICE-COLD RIVER.

Scott then ripped off his uniform, tied a pieced rope around his naked waist and swam the river. An old wagon bed was used as a float and thus the whole party crossed in safety. The Indians were located. Scott communed with them in the sign language and they turn to their reservation.

It takes a pretty good man [illegible], white or red. The old war-path Indian was worthy of respect. He was accused of being treacheroua. I never knew of but one Indian scout who deceived the white soldiers he was leading. Another thing: Give an Indian a task to perform and he will stick to it until it is done—he won't lean on his shovel, look at the sun every five minutes, or kill time in other usual ways."

"Were your methods the same with Indians and Filipinos?"

"Yes. Any aboriginal people will trust the man who is sympathetically kind to them, who will bother himself with the troubles they want to talk about, and who will try to put himself in their situation. Listen to them, is my advice, show them that you are really interested in their affairs, but don't make any promises. One may mean to help them and may say so, but something may occur and help cannot be given. Explanations then are useless. The simple man of the woods, prairies, or jungles will believe that he has been intentionally misled."

"Tell me about the slave trade among the Moros," I asked.

"It was frightful. There are 184 islands in the Sulu Archipelago. There were slaves on most of them. A man, his wife and his children could be held in bondage during life for a debt of $5. We had laws against slavery and I enforced them. I would do a kindness for some man and he would let me know what was going on. If a bird flew over one of the islands I was notified. Thus I knew where slaves were to be found and I liberated them.

"About the last case I had concerned an attempt to sell a girl for $25. A man caught her by the hair and dragged her to the bank of a river—he was a traveling dealer and went among the islands in a long canoe. I had him brought in. He said he had been at Mecca, in Arabia, for two years and didn't know it was unlawful to catch girls and children and sell them."

HOW INDIANS TALK BY SIGNS.

"The judge, because of the man's ignorance, fined him only $150 in gold. Then the judge asked the prosecuting witness why he had not bought the girl for $25. 'I was afraid of the Governor,' the man replied. As I was the Governor, I was pleased with the answer."

"When did you begin to study the sign language of the plains Indians?" I inquired.

"Inside of a month after I became a second lieutenant in the Seventh Cavalry. I was ambitious to command the scouts and a knowledge of the sign language, I thought, would be helpful. That's the way it began. Chief Joseph, after his capture, told Indians speaking several different languages all about his adventures and he never spoke a word. I was present and understood his narrative.

"Indians can talk for hours with their hands. If necessary, I could talk for a week in that manner. What would I do if I were to meet a strange Indian on the plains? I would extend my right arm, and hold my hand upward, which would mean, 'Stop, don't come any nearer.' The Indian might then introduce himself by drawing an index finger across his throat. By that sign he would say: 'I am a Sioux.'

"If, however, he were to extend his arm, draw his thumb and last two fingers into the plam of his hand and make a V of his first and second fingers, he would say: 'I am a Pawnee,5 The same sign in a conversation may also stand for the word 'wolf.' The two separated fingers are supposed to look like the ears of a wolf. A wolf, among the Indians, is a wise beast. So the sign represents wisdom and when the fingers are pointed toward the earth and moved sidewise, the speaker wishes to say that in wisdom he has thought out the question under consideration, having gone all over the ground, before reaching a decision.

"Perhaps he has been away on a hunt. If he holds up his left hand, touches the center of the palm with the index finger of his right hand and lets the finger drop downward, he is saying that he met with no success. The open palm, you see, represents a rock and the index finger an arrow. The arrow striking the rock falls to the earth. It has been shot in vain.

"In this manner Indians speaking any number of languages freely converse with one another. Their motions are graceful and deliberate. Their faces look like bronze, but a great deal can be read in their eyes if they are making a speech."

LIFE-SAVING CHAIRS.

Buoyant Deck Furniture Should be Made Compulsory on the Ocean-Going Steamers.

[Chambers Jurnal:] The marine catastrophe in the St. Lawrence River has taught more than one valuable lesson, foremost among which may be mentioned the necessity for having upon the decks loose articles which, when sent adrift, are able to float, and thus provide some means of refuge to which immersed passengers may cling. The deck chair is an obvious article of this type, which is indispensable upon the decks, but it possesses no life-saving characteristics.

Had the unhappy liner been provided with chairs which were able to float and support a dozen or more people, the death-roll might not have been so heavy. The passengers were thrown so suddenly into the water that there was no time to don a life belt, and, deprived of floating articles to which they could cling, they were drowned. Under these circumstances it seems as though buoyant deck chairs should be rendered compulsory. In the "quidos" chair, for instance, instead of ordinary canvas being used for seating, a cork and cellular construction is employed. When this chair drops into the water it floats quite easily, and may be even transformed into a raft. The material may be pulled around the frame of the chair in the manner of a roller towel; and, should exigencies permit, the release of a knot removes the cork section and stretches it out to a length of some twelve feet, forming a substantial raft capable of maintaining the combined weight of several people.

It is a chair with life-saving possibilities which have been proved, and it should be used upon steamboats but it is equally indispensable to houseboats and camping-out parties. One cannot reasonably expect steamship companies to provide devices which may never be required, but at the same time a deck chair, which is invaluable in times of emergency seems worthy of adoption. It is more expensive than the ordinary deck chair, but in matters of life and death the additional cost is unimportant.

Origin of Shaving.

[London Tit-Bits:] Probably many, when shaving in a hurry, have often wondered why their forbears ever began to remove hair from their faces. In the time of Alexander the Great it was found that when troops came in conflict the beard formed a good hand-hold for the enemy. Alexander ordered that all his soldiers should shave their faces to the advantage of his army.

Now an Angeleno.

BOY IS GENIUS AT THE PIANO.

High School Youth of Ten Plays Remarkably.

Wonderful Future is Before Promising Artist.

He is also a Linguist and a Good Composer.

Los Angeles has the youthful prodigy of the musical world. But 10 years of age, small and frail, with eyes, however, that tell of the wonderful artistry within the soul, little Joseph Fogel gives promise of becoming one of the world's greatest musicians. His life is like one of the stories of Aladdin, with the mystic genii yet to confer their greatest gift —world honor—upon their protege.

Joseph was born August 16, 1904, at Nowogradvolynsk, Russia. His folks migrated shortly afterward to Winnipeg, Can. By the time he was 3 years of age, Joseph could read and write Jewish, Hebrew and English. When he was 6 he entered the public schools and during the first twenty-seven days he skipped three grades. Within the next eighteen days he skipped the fourth grade and then sickness overtook him.

For a year and a half Joseph was compelled to remain home, but he did not idle away his time. He studied with the aid of his uncle, Harry Fogel, and made such rapid progress that when the family moved to Los Angeles in September, 1911, the boy was more than able to hold his own with children far older than he when he again entered school.

Now Joseph is in the High School, one of the foremost students in his classes. So keen is his mind that it is not necessary for him to do any home work, as he gets all his lessons during the short study period allotted in school. Besides standing high in all his studies, he is an accomplished linguist, speaking and writing well the English, Jewish, Hebrew, Spanish and French languages, and is preparing to take up German, Latin and Italian.

MUSICAL GENIUS.

But it is in music that Joseph excels. Ever since he can remember, Joseph says, he has had a craving for music, not the music of his forefathers nor the ragtime pieces of America, but the classics, and in these he triumphs.

It was July 9 of last year that he took his first lesson on the piano. The only instruction he had had in music before this was that which is given in the public schools. Now he plays better than persons twice his age. He masters everything given to him. Among some of the works that he has memorized are Mozart's sonatas, Schubert's serenades and impromptus, Chopin's waltzes and Beethoven's sonatas and many of the works of Bach, Czerny, Mozart, Mendelssohn and Haydn.

Not only is he an extraordinary player, but he is a student of harmony and a composer of merit. It is his ambition to become the greatest concert pianist in the world, and to this end the frail youthful genius is devoting all his energies. For five hours a day he practices, his small hands bringing out wonderful music as they wander up and down the keyboard. He is handicapped at present with the smallness of his fingers, being just able to reach an octave. With constant development until maturity, however, this difficulty will be overcome.

HIS AMBITIONS.

By the time he graduates from High school Joseph hopes to be able to go to Europe and study under the great masters in the conservatories in Vienna and Leipzig. How he will be able to do this is one of the worries that troubles his active mind.

To further fit himself for the position he feels will some day be his, Joseph spends much time reading all the books he can secure dealing with music. No matter how difficult they are to understand, nor how technical their treatment, he soon masters them.

Realizing that his health might be jeopardized without relaxation from so much study, Joseph tugs away at physical culture work, chops wood and does other chores for his mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Fogel, at their little home, No. 1061 Sunset boulevard, and does other work to aid them in the privations they are suffering to complete his musical education.

THE PROPHECY.

His professor, Jaroslaw de Zielinski of No. 1343 South Burlington avenue, a noted musician and composer, says the following of the youthful prodigy: "Joseph is most talented. He understands thoroughly that which is put before him and he does his work far better than most persons of twice his age. He should be allowed to develop until he matures. If he studies and keeps up his work as he has done, without crowding, he will undoubtedly develop into one of the world's greatest musicians, for he has been endowed with exceptional mental ability. His hands have to develop and become strong, and with this development will come thorough self-assurance. Then he will be able to appear in public and make his mark in the musical world. It is rare indeed that a person is as gifted as he."

The World May Soon Pay Him Homage.

Joseph Fogel,

A Los Angeles youth, who gives promise of becoming one of the greatest concert pianists. At the age of ten years he is a remarkable musician. A High School student at the head of his classes, he speaks and writes five languages.

PACIFIC COAST PERSONALS.

[From yesterday's San Francisco Argonaut.]

Mrs. Eugene Bresse of San Francisco left Monday for New York to join her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Leopold Heebner, who are residing on West Fifty-fourth street. They expect to leave February 1 for South America and will come here to spend March with Mrs. Bresse at her home on Washington street.

Mr. and Mrs. William V. Bryan of San Francisco left last week for the East and will be away during the winter. They will visit Florida and Cuba before returning home.

Capt. James Houston and Lieut. R. H. Jacob sailed Thursday for their new posts in the Philippines.

Maj.-Gen. Frederick Funston is expected to be given command of the western department, with headquarters in San Francisco, upon the retirement of Maj.-Gen. Arthur Murray, which occurs April 29, 1915.

Lieut. Prentiss Bassett, U.S.A., and Mrs. Bassett have returned to Norfolk, Va., having been the guests of Maj. Henry L. Pettus and Mrs. Pettus at Fort Monroe.

Col. Charles J. Gandy, U.S.A., and Mrs. Gandy of Washington, D. C., Miss Leila Gandy and Dr. F. Gandy arrived recently in San Francisco and are the guests of Col. Euclid Frick and Mrs. Frick at the Presidio. They will sail on the U.S.A. transport for Col. Gandy's new station in the Philippines.

Ensign Paul Bates, U.S.N., and Mrs. Bates, formerly Miss Ray Bell of Honolulu, have sailed for Honolulu, where Ensign Bates will be stationed on the U.S.S. Alert.

Miss Lucy Bancroft has returned from Europe, where her travels were interrupted by the war, and will spend the winter with friends in the East.

Miss Emmeline Childs has returned to her home in Los Angeles after a visit of several weeks in San Francisco, during which time she was the guest of Mrs. Eleanor Martin and Mrs. Ethel Hager.

Mr. and Mrs. George Tasheira, who have been living in San Francisco since their return from extended travel in Europe, have recently built a new home at No. 2336 Piedmont avenue, Berkeley, where they will reside permanently.

Dr. Kaspar Pischel and Mrs. Pischel have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Ynez Pischel, to Mr. Harold Augustus Fletcher of San Francisco. Miss Pischel is a sister of Miss Zephyr Pischel. No date has yet been set for the wedding.

The wedding of Miss Louise Noyes and Capt. George W. Wallace, U.S.A., took place on Monday evening, December 7, at the home of the bride's parents, Gen. and Mrs. H. E. Noyes, No. 1216 Spruce street, Berkeley. The attendants were Miss Margaret Noyes and Mr. E. J. Stewart. The marriage more firmly unites two families which have been quite closely united by long service together in the army, the fathers of the bride and groom having served together in the Second Cavalry, U.S.A., before and during the Spanish War. Capt. Wallace will join his regiment on the Mexican border near El Paso.

The wedding of Miss Leila Harrison and Lieut. Geoffrey Keyes, U.S.A., took place Tuesday evening at the home in Washington, D. C., of the bride's mother, Mrs. George Harrison. Miss Harrison is the daughter of the late Col. Harrison, U.S.A., and a sister of Lieut. William Harrison, U.S.A. She is a cousin of Lieut. Ralph Crystal Harrison, U.S.A., of San Francisco.

MAKES SEA TRAVEL SAFER.

A Wireless Direction Finder that Works in the Thickest Weather and has been Found Accurate.

[Chamber Journal:] Wireless telegraphy has accomplished remarkable achievements in matters pertaining to the saving of life at sea, but at times there is one handicap. A ship receives an urgent call for assistance from a distressed craft; but often the latter is unable to indicate the latitude and longitude, while similarly the vessel receiving the call has to verify its position before proceeding to the incapacitated craft. For some years past efforts have been made toward the perfection of a device which would automatically indicate the direction from which the wireless signals were issuing, and which would enable the craft receiving the call to proceed to her distressed colleague immediately and without the navigating forced to work out the tions of the two ships.

Grove's Music Simplifier

If you will study "Grove's Music Simplifier" thoroughly you will readily see that it embraces a general and practical system of instruction within itself. It teaches the notes and letters, gives a general knowledge and practice in the transpositions of the different keys and a general principle of harmony and thorough bass. You should remember that you can learn to play chords in many ways, but they must be arranged according to the rules of harmony. Great care has been taken in the arrangement of this work into keys of the tonic, sub-dominant and dominant, so it can be studied and practiced as a system.

The key of B flat has two flats, and in this lesson, the ninth of the series, the charts show how to play accompaniments in the key of B flat and its relative, the key of G

INSTRUCTION—Place one of the charts at right angles with the keyboard, so that the small white letter D at bottom of chart with the dash above it is directly over D on the white spaces on the chart will be over the white keys and the black spaces over the black keys.

The top, middle and lower sections on the lower chart represent the three chords, a mastery of which will enable anyone to accompany on the piano any song or the upper chart represents the chords of the key of G minor.

The white letters are to be played with the left hand and the black letters with the right hand.

Now having placed the chart on the piano or organ, play the white letter on the top section with the left hand, and then the three black letters in unison with the right

Next play the middle section in the same way, then the lower section, and then return to the top section.

The small white letter D at bottom of chart with the dash above it, which gives the chart position must not be played.

After practice these chords should be memorized so that you may be able to play without the use of the chart. But with the chart a person who never struck a note on may in a few minutes play the harmonious chords correctly, and then accompany his or her own songs or the songs of friends. Proficiency requires practice but no previous

If you desire to complete a thorough musical education, the charts give you the best possible foundation on which to base a musical education. A knowledge of the keys lies all the triumphs of the accomplished musician. The rest is diligent application and practice.

Every triad in black letters is marked 1. 3. 5. Always read triads 1, 3, 5, no matter what position. Triad $\overset{1\,3\,5}{\text{CEG}}$ —marked—third position, 5, the highest; always read it so. $\overset{3\,5\,1}{\text{EGC}}$ first position, 1, the highest; read position, 3, the highest; read $\overset{1\,3\,5}{\text{CEG}}$, and so with every triad major or minor.

supposed tenderfoot named Smith and finding him stubbornly stupid until after the first drink of whisky; rescuing a girl who has been lured to the cabin of a first-class blackguard; becoming intimate with a hermit who seems to do things by magic; fighting with outlaws and also hoodwinking officers of the law. Moving in and out of the plot of intricate design, this happy, carefree, capable and philosophical cowpuncher merrily goes his way.

One doesn't "believe" Mr. Wason's stories; it is easy to see that he is often vastly improbable. But those who like stories of the "wild and woolly West" will probably be convinced that he is one of the really interesting authors of cowpuncher fiction.

DELAYED FLIRTATIONS.

THE TORCH OF LIFE. By Rachel Swete Macnamara. G. P. Putnam's Sons, New York.

"THE TORCH OF LIFE" has no plot and little else, excepting conversation. The beginning of the book causes interest to leap up: There are possibilities in the situation which finds an eager, full-blooded young woman free after ten years of loyal marriage to one who has been a hopeless paralytic owing to an accident on their wedding day. At the age of 29 (we quote from the publisher's slipcover) she finds herself free to discover the world of which she had heard men speak. She has ten spurned and thwarted years to avenge.

That is true. Titian awakes one morning to find herself a widow, and while she does not rejoice, she is—and has the right to be—glad. During all of these years she has, well-manneredly, cared more for Fenton, a cousin of her husband, than for the husband. Several chapters are given over to explaining this.

The remainder of the book is devoted to trying to make the reader believe that Titian may not ultimately marry Fenton, but may marry one Cosmo. There is scarcely a ripple of action in the book; dialogue explains everything. Nothing of importance happens—just talk, talk and more talk.

Of all the characters, Miss Toye, who is somewhat flippant, is the best talker. She is rather irrelevant and therefore makes comments that are not expected.

A chapter is devoted to explaining how Titian feels when her husband's former servant asks her for a letter of recommendation. Nothing comes of the request to alter the plot one way or the other—this chapter would look very much like padding if it were not that it closely resembles most of the other chapters. And in our opinion the story ends with the "ten spurned and thwarted years" still needing to be avenged, and the torch of her life remaining unlighted.

REGENERATION OF HEROINE.

THE SPRING LADY. By Mary Brecht Pulver. Bobbs-Merrill Company, Indianapolis.

"THE SPRING LADY" is told partly in the first person, and the lady in question confesses to having been a "lap dog woman," a thing of carefully preserved beauty, but not necessarily a joy. Moved by a strange impulse which she does not understand—similar to those some men have when they voluntarily pay the tailor—she hies herself to the mountains, enters a vacant house to settle down and escape the superficial luxuriance of her social position.

Because she arrived in the spring, before the summer tourists, the neighbors call her "the spring lady," and other things not so pleasant.

But, of course, every story must have a plot, and it would be insufficient to merely have this simple adventure, told in brisk and a rather whimsical manner, fill the book. It doesn't. Other things happen, and the "spring lady" learns much that was unsuspected; she finds herself involved in a situation that includes some of the villagers and—naturally—a man. It is all very well, excepting that the story sounds like the jingling romance of a self-induced fancy—a day dream caught on fly paper.

A GENTLEMAN'S HONOR.

FOR THE ALLISON HONOR. By Harold Bindloss. Frederick A. Stokes Company, New York.

THE Allison honor is proverbial for integrity; the Allison word carries weight and induces hundreds of people in England to invest their savings in a Canadian mining scheme.

The scheme shows signs of being a "wild cat." One of the Allison young men, generally considered rather slothful, is suddenly aroused to action by the danger of having the family name tarnished. Into Canada he goes, looks the country over, discovers much that is crafty, has an adventurous time, stumbles onto a real gold mine and finds the one in which his family is interested to be something less than has been represented.

The clash comes when young Allison faces the board of directors, makes a hard fight before the stockholders, and advances one of the most remarkable propositions ever heard in a directors' meeting—but it is all for the Allison honor, which is burnished brighter than ever when the story finishes and the one girl leaps into the arms of the one man.

The story lacks much of being forceful—it has no signal defects—but reads like a book carefully written for the market, with all of the ingredients of romance and adventure mixed with a calculating pen.

DRAMATIC COMPLICATIONS.

THE WAY OF THE STRONG. By Ridgwell Cullum. George W. Jacobs & Co., Philadelphia.

MR. CULLUM has tried to write a powerful book. It shows the beneficial effect of the effort. It is big in size and theme, dramatic, with a criss-cross plot.

We can see no reason why Monica should have represented to Frank, the bastard son of her sister, that she—Monica—was his mother, when to have told the truth would not have been worse for him and would have allowed her to keep her own husband from thinking she was Frank's lover. But then she did, and the plot is drawn to high tension because of it; Frank goes to the penitentiary to save his supposed mother from disgrace, and later discovers himself not to be the son of Monica, but the son of her husband!

The story opens with Monica's sister and Leo in the northern wilderness attempting to reach civilization so that the marriage may be performed before the child is born. To all appearances, Leo deserts the woman and robs his friend, Tug. Tug later, under another name, plays a sinister part in the story after Leo (also under another name) becomes the wheat king of the Northwest and unwittingly marries the sister of his illegitimate child's mother.

The plot is—as may be seen—rather complicated, but unfolds without difficulty in the story.

Maravene Thompson.
Joseph Pennell.
Zola Gale.

Artists and authors.

Joseph Pennell is the illustrator of "Our Philadelphia" (reviewed on this page,) written by Mrs. Pennell, a volume which shows the artistic contrasts between the old city and the new. Zona Gale, author of "Neighborhood Stories," continues to write of the people—the provincial midile class—whom the romanticist spurns and the realist ignores, and she never fails to be cheerful. Maravene Thompson, author of "The Woman's Law," recently published, will be remembered by many Los Angeles people as Maravene Kennedy, as she was known while living in this city a few years ago.

POETRY.

SONGS IN THE PLAIN TONGUE.

TALES OF THE TRAIL. A Book of Western Verse. By James W. Foley. E. P. Dutton & Co., New York.

WE MAY not say that Mr. Foley is a "great" poet; but we may say that it is easy to get much enjoyment out of his verse. He writes in the homely language; the "Tales of the Trail" are in the slangy tongue, but there are in them music and sentiment of the kind that pleases.

This stanza from "Art's Atmosphere" cannot be called exactly typical, since most of the verse is decidedly western, but it may be taken as typical of the author's style:

"She paints a bit—seems sort o' queer,
An' says th' artist's atmosphere
Is what she needs. Don't want in mine
No paintshop smells an' turpentine!
And as for atmosphere—why, say!
When I get up at break o' day
An' go to milk, I don't know how
We'd beat the kind that we got now!"

Mr. Foley is unquestionably a master of versification. His lines flow harmoniously together, and his narrative style is light, vivid and musical, as this shows:

"Th' most perilitest robber, Pard, that ever flashed a gun
On th' frontier trail to Deadwood, whar the stages used to run.
I was dozin' off and dreamin' when th' driver hollored 'Whoa!'
An' I heered a clickin' trigger whar th' sagebrush used to grow.
Higher'n Six-foot Spencer's middle; in a most persuadin' way
He invited us t' linger while he passed the time o' day;
He had one of Colt's persuaders, which jest mesmerizes you
When you look into it stiddy for a minute's time or two."

Perhaps no one expects this volume to equal Mr. Foley's book of verse for children—there is some really fine poetry in that. But we do not believe "Tales of the Trail" will disappoint anyone who expects free, softly humorous, vigorous verse in homely English.

REMINISCENCES.

IN BOHEMIA.

ME AS A MODEL. By W. R. Titterton. Illustrated by Edmund Blampied. Mitchell Kennerley, New York.

THERE is magic in Bohemia. And it is a heart of lead that doesn't jump at the thought of a sojourn in the quartier where artists and poets conceal aching ambitions with rollicking antics. "Me as a Model" sketches with great vivacity life among the artists in Paris; it has the atmosphere of "Trilby," but Mr. Titterton has finer artistry than Du Maurier, though the story—or rather the series of sketches—are hardly so startling.

The illustrations, three of which are in color and thirty-seven in black and white, are worthy companions of the text, brightening the pages with lights and shades.

Mr. Titterton is charmingly informal; his chapters glisten with humor and striking reflections; and the thread of his experience is woven into the Latin Quartier, into the suburbs and open country, and finally home again to the "insular isle." He says by way of enlightening us into his cause for seeking Paris: "I was born and raised in Poplar, on the shore of the docks, where an artist is understood to be a person who sings sentimental ballads in umbrella skirts and pink tights at the Queen's Music Hall. Only when London broke out into free libraries did I and my fellow-Eastenders hear of the other conception. It seemed of the two the more improbable. A few of us kept an open mind; which is a very difficult thing for an Englishman to do. So I went to Paris to settle the question."

MEMORIES OF A COMPANION.

MEMORIES. By John Galsworthy. Illustrated by Maud Earl. Charles Scribner's Sons, New York.

MR. GALSWORTHY has paid an exquisite tribute to a friend—a dog. "Memories" is the short recital of the pleasant friendship. The friend came one day in a van, and Mr. Galsworthy says: "From behind a wooden crate we saw a long black-muzzled nose poking around at us and heard a faint, hoarse whimpering." The driver, unloading the crate, called out: "Here's your wild beast, sir." So the friend arrived.

One conceives that this friend was human—no difficult conception for any lover of dogs—from the way Mr. Galworthy says: "For several nights he slept with me . . . and waking me now and then with quaint sleepy whimperings. Indeed, all through his life he flew a good deal in his sleep, fighting dogs and seeing ghosts, running after rabbits and thrown sticks. . . . His dreams were like our dreams, both good and bad; happy sometimes, sometimes tragic to the weeping point."

And all through his life, as the author shows it, this dog seems more of a human than a brute with quick understanding. And in the end we find Mr. Galsworthy saying: "No stone stands over where he lies. It is in our hearts that his life is engraved."

Many may read and think this much sentiment to be bestowed on a dog. But no one will think so who has had one for a friend. Owning a dog and having it for a friend, however, are by no means the same.

HEROES, ALL!

FAMOUS WAR CORRESPONDENTS. By F. Lauriston Bullard. Little, Brown & Co., Boston.

THE day of the war correspondent may be said to have passed. True, writers of worth go forth with the great armies, see things and write back of what they have seen. But they see only what the generals choose to have them see; they write what they please and send only what pleases the censor. The war correspondent is a labeled package moved about from point to point as the officers choose.

It is no longer possible for correspondents to "pull off such stunts" as did Archibald Forbes, whose newspaper service in the Crimean War was marked by high efficiency and daring; or as the members of the Vizetelly family, who traveled about the world, vigilant, alert, with magic pens to chronicle all they saw; or as Edward Frederick Knight, who fought in Africa and risked death scores of times for his paper. The modern correspondents are perhaps as brave, but opportunity is essential to bravery and efficiency.

Mr. Bullard has written a book that is of intense interest to those who care for stories of high courage and unassuming adventure; he reviews the exploits of all the famous correspondents—the names of but very few are known to the present generation—from the early part of the last century to the present, and tells of the work of many well-known men—Richard Harding Davis, Stephen Crane, James Creelman, Ralph D. Paine, and others—during the Spanish-American War. A chapter also is devoted to the records of correspondents who served through the Civil War, and some of whom did good work for the armies they were with as well as for their own papers.

THE CITY OF WILLIAM PENN.

OUR PHILADELPHIA. Described by Elizabeth Robins Pennell. Illustrated with 150 Lithographs by Joseph Pennell. J. B. Lippincott Company, Philadelphia.

MR. AND MRS. PENNELL are both Philadelphians by birth as well as inheritance. Mr. Pennell is an artist of wide distinction whose pictures of the Panama Canal have recently been purchased by the City of Philadelphia for the Academy of Fine Art; and other of his lithographs have been purchased by the municipality of Rome and also of Venice.

"Our Philadelphia" is an exceptional volume and the publishers have done their part in making it so. It is perhaps the first truly artistic and uncommercialized appreciation of a like kind ever made of an American city. It is something more than a description of the city, illustrated—it is a personal, informal, fascinating description, most strikingly illustrated. The authors plainly show that they were in love with their subject.

Mr. and Mrs. Pennell first appeared as joint authors a few years ago in "The Life of Whistler."

VALUABLE REFERENCE WORK.

CYCLOPEDIA OF AMERICAN GOVERNMENT. (3 vol.) Edited by Andrew C. McLaughlin, A.M., LL.B., LL.D., and Albert Bushnell Hart, Ph.D., Litt. D., LL.D. D. Appleton & Co., New York.

AN EASY way to refer to this truly valuable work would be to say it is a catalogue of political experiments. It does give a succinct and comprehensive presentation of the practical, actual and theoretical governments in America.

The Cyclopedia is intended to be a work of reference, and it is, indeed, comprehensive, touching on practically all phases of law, the more important phases of politics (history of parties, theories and principles,) public finance, industrial welfare, social welfare, regulation of labor and occupation, military functions and history, and the repression of crime ond violence.

The complexity that would naturally arise is relieved by a free use of the cross reference, and the reference leads from brief articles to treatise articles, so that a reader who strikes any phase of a subject can follow it through the whole system of the Cyclopedia.

Over 200 contributors, each prominent in his or her work, have assisted in the compilation of information.

A PENETRATING INQUIRY.

MODERN INDUSTRY: In Relation to the family, Health, Education, Morality. By Florence Kelley. Longmans, Green & Co., New York.

THE author presents the paradox of modern industry, saying: "It affords, in more generous measure than the human race has before known, all those goods which form the material basis of family life—food, clothing, shelter and the materials and opportunities for subsistence for husband, wife and children.

"But modern industry tends to disintegrate the family—so threatens it that the civilized nations are, and for at least one generation have been, actively building a code intending to save the family from destructive pressure."

She interprets this code to be made up, among other things, of the compulsory arbitration of labor disputes, workman's compensation and social insurance, factory inspection and compulsory fire precautions, prohibition of child labor, pure food laws and regulation of working days.

She inquires into many phases of industry, explains the deterioration of health occasioned among employees in certain labors, shows something of the work girls and women are doing, and goes into the sociological consequences as shown in marriage and family relations, and touches on the relation that certain employment has to education.

The volume, smaller than is usual, is really a symposium of industrial evils, presented not after the manner of the muckrakers, but as one who is earnest, rather than sensational, in her conclusions.

PUBLISHERS AND AUTHORS.

SAN FRANCISCO may be likened unto a mosaic of life set on a foundation of romance, its surface alluring and its substructure fascinating, with a binding cement of mystery holding together all the strange manners and customs of its cosmopolitan population. In "Bohemian San Francisco, Its Restaurants and Their Most Famous Recipes," Dr. Clarence E. Edwords unfolds living pictures of the queer and quaint foreign quarters of the city, and we are shown the daily life of those who have brought even the environment of mother land and set it down in the midst of a great metropolis. Their foods and how prepared forms a most interesting feature of the book, and through it we may learn of the peculiar secrets which give such exquisite flavor to certain dishes.

Relative to "Germany and the Next War," by Gen. von Bernhardi, Sir Arthur Conan Doyle wrote to the London Chronicle: "I am one of those who were obstinate in refusing to recognise Germany's intentions. I argued, I wrote, I joined the Anglo-German Friendship Society. . . . What brought about my change of view was reading Bernhardi's book on 'Germany and the Next War.' Bernhardi's programme, as outlined in his book, is actually being carried through."

An essentially practical, but nevertheless humorous, private code, suited for telegrams and also, as the compilers suggest, for the brief spaces upon picture post cards, prepared by Constance and Burges Johnson, has just been published by the Putnams under the title of "The Private Code and Post Card Cypher." "This code," write the compilers in their apology, "will aid the perplexed or homesick absent one to put many essential messages into the ten-word announcement of his safe arrival; and it will enable the abandoned one, after she has put her necessary inquiry into eight words, to find two more that will fill out the allowance most delightfully." It is interesting to note that in actual use recently there was sent on a post card a message in code comprising seven words only, which when transcribed enlarged itself to a letter of about 125 words.

Anatole France, who satirizes war in his very recent novel, "The Revolt of the Angels," has repeatedly besought the authorities to make him a soldier and put him on the fighting line, although he is in his seventy-first year. The Minister of War has now accepted his enlistment.

John Lane, the London publisher, recently in New York, said that English authors were bending every nerve to help England win. William J. Locke has taken a number of wounded soldiers into his own house and his wife is personally devoting herself to their care. H. de Vere Stacpoole is doing Red Cross work, H. H. Munro (Saki) is fighting at the front, Sir Frank Swettenham is active in the War Censorship Bureau, and many others are helping by poems and newspaper articles to foster enthusiastic patriotic support.

James Stephens's new book is entitled "The Demi-Gods." To define it is almost impossible. It may be regarded as fantasy or as pure allegory, whichever way it strikes the reader. The demi-gods are three angels who come to earth and are for a period the close companions of one Patsy MacCann and his daughter Mary. These are a pair of Irish tramps, who, with donkey and cart, travel up and down the country in happy, careless fashion, engrossed only with one occupation, that of "a hunt for food," a hunt that Patsy follows "with the skill and pertinacity of a wolf or a vulture."

Somebody recently has said that in the main dead men rule the world. Out of the past come the creeds, the dogmas, and the philosophies shaping the destinies of the race. In the light of this dictum, Dr. Joseph Fort Newton of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, is right in line with a new book which Revell's are now issuing, entitled "What Have the Saints to Teach Us." Dr. Newton contends that they have a good deal, and that men should be as willing to listen to St. Bernard as to Henri Bergson. With Sir Oliver Lodge he maintains that the prescientific insight of the old poets, prophets and saints was of supreme value and its access to the heart of the universe profound. Along these lines Dr. Newton has prepared a volume of rare interest, giving his readers some vivid pictures of the saints of old who won notable victories, even though they sometimes dreamed dreams.

The California Writers' Club, which numbers among its members many noted authors, including Jack London, Mary Austin, Charles Lummis and others of equal fame, held a reception recently in the art gallery of Paul Elder & Co., the San Francisco publishers, to celebrate the publication of "West Winds," California book of fiction, written by members of the club. The entertainment of the evening consisted of dramatic readings of selections from the book, musical numbers and an address on "The Ideal in Works of Fiction" by the president, Dr. William T. Morgan. "West Winds" is proving to be one of the popular gift books of the season.

The philosophy of Paul and Nietzsche contrasted: Digging down behind all apparent and immediate motives in a search for bed-rock influences, thoughtful men have discovered the seed-root of German militarism, and, hence, of the present colossal European struggle, in the pernicious philosophy of Nietzsche. His repudiation of Christianity, his ruthless exaltation of the superman, his preachments of the master morality of brute force, have borne ample and awful fruit in the blood-drenched battlefields of Europe. That this "gospel" of Nietzsche is reared on false and foolish premises, and destined to bring inexorable, inevitable penalty on its devotees, is brilliantly advanced by Dr. W. L. Watkinson in his latest book, "The Moral Paradoxes of St. Paul" (Revell.) The German philosopher holds a very poor opinion of the apostle to the Gentiles, but as Dr. Watkinson bluntly says, it is as if "Oscar Wilde were deprecating Livingstone." In a series of finely written contrasts the famous English preacher pits the philosophy of Nietzsche, the German, against that of Paul, the man of Tarsus.

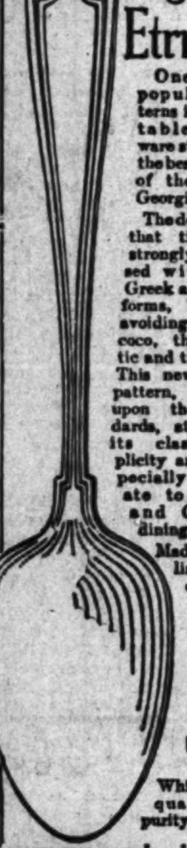
STERLING

The Etruscan



One of the popular patterns in Gorham table silverware stands with the best products of the Middle Georgian Period.

The designers of that time were strongly impressed with pure Greek and Roman forms, invariably avoiding the rococo, the fantastic and the ornate. This new Gorham pattern, modeled upon these standards, attracts by its classic simplicity and is especially appropriate to Colonial and Georgian dining rooms.

Made in Sterling Silver only, and stamped with the Trade Mark: Lion, Anchor and letter G

Which insures quality and purity of design.

We engrave each piece of silver free of charge.

We pack each piece in a pretty blue bag, and then enclose it in a highly finished blue box, which makes a dainty parcel when delivered.

PERSONAL— MRS. MASSON, the noted palmist, of London, England, may be consulted at 322 SOUTH SPRING STREET, by those desiring CAREFUL, CONSCIENTIOUS AND SCIENTIFIC HAND READINGS, FROM ONE OF THE FOREMOST PALMISTS OF THE DAY. The earnest student and thinker will soon learn in his investigations along psychological lines that that which pertains to occult phenomena proper can readily be distinguished from crude and oft-exposed SLEIGHT-OF-HAND TRICKS, the most common of which is the telling of the subject's name, age, etc., AFTER HE HIMSELF HAS WRITTEN THAT information. PALMISTRY HONESTLY PRACTICED WILL NOT tell your name, but it WILL give you information of considerably greater value in every-day life. Your vocation, your present line of work, matters of health and domestic life, financial conditions and ways and means of climbing out of a rut of ill luck into wide paths of success and prosperity, can all be told you through scientific palmistry, WITHOUT A SINGLE QUESTION, WRITTEN OR VERBAL. MRS. MASSON DOES NOT APPEAL TO IGNORANT SUPERSTITION, BUT TO THE FINEST INTELLIGENCE. HIGH-CLASS PATRONAGE SOLICITED.

PERSONAL— HENLEY. HENLEY. LEADING SUCCESSFUL PSYCHIC. ALWAYS .... RELIABLE. HENLEY, MENTAL WONDER OF TODAY. Without asking you a question he gives dates, facts, figures. Are the people pleased? They are simply astounded! AMAZED! They say they never saw anything like it. Spiritualists, scientists, bankers, merchants and people of the highest class of society have had readings with him and pronounce him unequaled in his profession. Readings daily. HENLEY. LARGE PATRONAGE. A SATISFIED PATRON IS HIS BEST ADVERTISEMENT. 317 W. THIRD, NEAR HILL.

PERSONAL — HEIRS. THOUSANDS OF FAMILIES are wanted to claim fortunes. Many now living in poverty are rich, but don't know it. Our 400-page index, entitled "Missing Heirs and Next of Kin," alphabetically arranged, contains authentic list of unclaimed estates and heirs wanted and advertised for in America and abroad to claim fortunes. Also contains Chancery Court of England and Ireland lists, and Bank of England unclaimed dividend list. Thousands of names in book. Yours or your ancestors' names may be among them. Send 2c stamp at once for free booklet. INTERNATIONAL CLAIM AGENCY, 14 Pittsburgh, Pa.

WANTED—

ANOTHER OPPORTUNITY.

"They do me wrong who say I come no more
When once I knock and fail to find you in,
For every day I stand outside your door,
And bid you wake and rise to fight and win.

Wail not for precious chances passed away
Weep not for golden ages on the wane;
Each night I burn the records of the day
At sunrise every soul is born again."

Are you not satisfied with your record of the past? Do you feel capable of realizing upon an opportunity if one is given you? Are you a real man with red blood in your veins, and a determination at the bottom of your heart to make of yourself a success? If you are, I will give you the same opportunity that other men have taken advantage of. If I could point out to you men who since coming with me are earning from five hundred to one thousand dollars a month, would it fire you with ambition to come and do likewise? Regrets over what might have been are a waste of precious time, and so fill your mind that you are not able to hear "Opportunity's" gentle knock when she does pass your way. Tomorrow is past—today is yours. All you need is a good appearance, good manners, and an ability to stick strictly to the truth. If you have these qualifications, and believe in yourself, see me any morning after 9 a.m., Room 828, Los Angeles Investment Bldg.

CLAUDE S. HAMILTON,
General Sales Manager,
LOS ANGELES INVESTMENT COMPANY.

WANTED—SALESMEN—
SALESMEN—BECAUSE!

There's good reason why our real estate salesmen succeed—because, first and foremost, there's method to our organization, founded on the principle of thrift.

BECAUSE we pay the highest commissions.
BECAUSE we do no house-to-house canvassing.
BECAUSE we have plenty of prospects.
BECAUSE most of our property is southwest, but we have it at all points of the compass (no disappointments.)
BECAUSE the terms of purchase—$25 down and $10 per month—meet the popular demand.
BECAUSE home builders have evidenced their preference for our tracts by constructing and maintaining attractive residences thereon.
BECAUSE rapid 5c car lines, with the most frequent service, furnish excellent transportation facilities.
BECAUSE the improvements are in and paid for and it is unnecessary for a salesman to force the purchaser to act against his will—the work is done, he has no fears.
BECAUSE it is not necessary for you to ask your customer to live in a "hand-me-down" house, but we will build him a "tailor-made" one, according to his own plans and ideas.

NOW LISTEN! HERE'S ANOTHER.

BECAUSE we sell our own properties, buy wholesale and offer our homes and homesites at prices that tickle the purse.

We Play no Favorites.

AT STUD.

December 1, 1914.

John H. Attig,
325 Consolidated Realty Bldg.,
Los Angeles, Cal.

Dear Sir:

I have an English Bull Bitch that has been troubled with Eczema and Skin Disease for the past five years, various veterinaries having prescribed for her without having attained any permanent cure or relief. I have used one box of your Eczema Ointment on this bitch (also followed your instructions as to cleansing the animal) and I honestly believe that that care and worry is now over for all time as I have given the disease plenty of time to reappear before submitting this note of appreciation to you for your valued assistance.

I shall take great pleasure in interesting any of my friends who may need such a remedy and can honestly recommend John H. Attig Eczema Ointment to anyone.

With best wishes for the success of your valued remedy and yourself, I am,

Yours very respectfully,
R. G. SHUTE.

Sold only by the manufacturer.
Price fifty cents, postpaid.
Special kennel prices in quantity.

Long Beach.

ANOTHER LINE LOPPED OFF.

Pacific Electric Discontinues Unprofitable Service.

Jitney Busses Playing Havoc with Dividends.

Organize Men's Social Club for Long Beach.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

LONG BEACH, Dec. 12.—Having already given notice of intention of abandoning the three-mile Ocean-avenue line because of the encroachment of the jitney busses, the Pacific Electric is preparing to discontinue service over another of its lines, presumably the East Seventh-street line, for the same reason.

Today a number of business men met to consider the threatened move of the Pacific Electric, which would seriously cripple the city's car service and depreciate values along the route of the line. Representations will probably be made to the City Council and Chamber of Commerce that the 5-cents-a-ride auto must be further curbed.

A Pacific Electric official today confirmed the rumor of the contemplated withdrawal of another city line, leaving the number in operation in the city at six. He refused to name the line which the company would next vacate unless conditions improved.

"The Pacific Electric is a business corporation," said this official, "and like any other business house, cannot continue operations long where there is a loss. It can all be laid at the feet of the 5-cent automobile. We just could not stand the gaff on the East Ocean-avenue line."

It is stated that the company will not totally abandon the line in question, but will operate one car a day over the line, in order that the franchise may not be violated. And the end has not yet been reached, according to the railroad official.

There are now ninety-five autos licensed under the new ordinance to carry passengers in opposition to the Pacific Electric. They have not been required to take out a franchise, run on schedule time, or run to the end of their route. They dodge in and out as traffic demands.

MEN'S SOCIAL CLUB.

A club of business men, to be organized for social purposes, will be formed here, as a result of agitation among merchants and others who have been talking over the project at the meetings of the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association.

Secretary Steepleton of the organization expects that 300 men are willing to join the club, providing it be conducted along lines laid down at the recent meetings. It is proposed to lease or buy commodious quarters where a dining-room or cafe may be maintained. A reading-room, billiard room and other accessories of men's clubs will be features.

However, the club will not have a liquor license. That, the business men say, is not wanted by the men who have been talking the matter over.

CHILDREN FERRIED.

As a result of the storm of yesterday, when a rain which was more copious here than at most Southern California points was enjoyed, the country in the northern part of the city is again flooded, though the situation is not so serious as in other years.

The Board of Education was forced to send trucks to ferry the children to the Burnett school, and at the three new school buildings the water did a great amount of damage by flooding the basements.

The rainfall for the storm was 1.37 inches, and the total for the season, 4.33 inches.

G.A.R. VETERANS ELECT OFFICERS.

SOLDIERS' HOME POSTS PROVIDE LEADERS FOR ANOTHER YEAR'S SERVICE.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SOLDIERS' HOME, Dec. 12.—The several G.A.R. posts and kindred organizations at this branch, have elected officers for the approaching year, as follows: Uncle Sam Post, No. 177, G.A.R., department of California and Nevada, Commander, Myron R. Potts; Senior Vice Commander, J. M. Remley; Junior Vice Commander, O. G. Redfield; Surgeon, H. W. Grable; Quartermaster, Osborne Wilson; Chaplain, C. B. Fay; Officer-of-Day, H. G. Wells; Officer-of-Guard, Alfred McAllister.

Officers-elect of John A. Martin Post, No. 153, G.A.R., are John A. Collins, Commander; John Bigelow, Senior Vice Commander; J. C. McFarland, Junior Vice Commander; G. W. Murray, Quartermaster; John A. Diehl, Surgeon; J. T. Collins, Officer-of-Day, and John Driscoll, Officer-of-Guard.

Hamilton S. Hawkins, Post No. 43, United Spanish War Veterans, Commander, William G. Bryce; Senior Vice Commander, Edwin S. Whitley; Junior Vice Commander, John S. Kopf; Officer-of-Guard, Carl Lindstrom, and Trustee, Thomas Connor. The above-named organization, with a view to aiding crippled members thereof now in the hospital, are about to purchase a wheel-chair of the most modern design for their use.

Newly elected officers of Union Veteran Legion, Encampment No. 138, are John Mayer, Colonel; John Dearbaugh, Lieutenant-Colonel; William Young, Major; W. H. H. Fletcher, Chaplain; C. F. Hite, Quartermaster, and James Dean, Officer-of-Day.

In addition to the several regular weekly entertainments provided free to veterans at this place, several reels of moving pictures taken in the European war are to be shown in Memorial Hall this evening.

Christian Beckler, formerly of Co. E, Ninety-fourth Illinois Infantry, a native of Ohio, in 1908, died while on furlough in Los Angeles, December 2, aged 71.

MOUSE BUILDS NEST IN SKULL.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

EL CENTRO, Dec. 12.—The mystery of the cheeping noises in the valley Chamber of Commerce has been solved. In the display-room is a graphic exhibit. There is a skull of an unknown man found upon the Colorado Desert. Beside it is a stalk of cotton raised in green Imperial Valley. The cotton was raised where the skull was found.

For several days queer noises were heard in the room, but the cause baffled Secretary Place and other officers. Finally W. H. Compton, a director and lecturer for the exposition at San Francisco, decided upon a minute search and in the skull he found a mouse. It had taken some of the cotton and started a nest.

"That man probably did not have rats in the garret, but he certainly has now," commented a man just from Iowa, who was in the room.

HOGGISH IN IMPERIAL.

Hindustan Farmers Pass up Lease When They Learn Pigs are Raised in the Land.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

BRAWLEY, Dec. 12.—"Pigs is pigs" but the mere mention of them blighted a lease-deal for a local ranch woman. She learned that in the mind of a Mohammedan, pigs are an abomination. The leader of a party of farmers from Hindustan was in the offices of Doke and O'Neil to negotiate a lease. The leader was fairly proficient in English and talked to the woman who would lease her ranch. Things were progressing nicely when she made her mistake.

"Its a great place to raise hogs," she said enthusiastically. "Pigs are a big money maker in this valley and you could do well with them."

But the Mohammedan did not "warm up." He grunted an "ugh" and brought the negotiations to an abrupt close. The woman is probably wondering still why her ranch was not leased.

TIGER SCRATCHES MAN.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

VENICE, Dec. 12.—Forgetting the long reach of the panthers in a cage of the Al G. Barnes circus, now wintering on this beach, George Glass, one of the animal-tenders, was painfully torn on the right arm today while he was cleaning about one of the steel cages. As soon as the man cried out in pain, Miss Mabel Stark, a tiger and leopard trainer, ran to his assistance and dressed the bloody wounds in an attempt to stop the flow of blood. The girl went ahead with the work, declaring that she was as well fitted as anyone to attend a person clawed by a beast, as last year she herself had been terribly injured by a tiger. Glass will be able to work again in a few days, but he will keep his distance from the cages of wild animals, and his memory of their claws will probably keep fresh even after the long scratches have healed.

SAN GABRIEL VALLEY FAIR.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

AZUSA, Dec. 12.—Plans for a San Gabriel Valley fair to be held in one of the cities of the eastern part of the county, presumably Pomona, Monrovia or Covina, were discussed and are being arranged by the Federated Chambers of Commerce, Frank Wheeler, Hugh Thatcher, D. J. Shultis and H. L. Evans were appointed to give the project consideration. If consummated, the fair will likely be given just before the annual fair in Riverside in the fall of 1915.

A. J. Hamilton, Supervisor-elect, commends the work accomplished by the organization and its remarkable growth since its organization a few months ago.

RANCHMEN PROTEST.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

LORDSBURG, Dec. 12.—Ranchers living in the Live Oak Creek territory will protest to the Supervisors against being included in the proposed Pomona Valley water protection district. At considerable expense those living along the Live Oak wash have already provided against damage by overflow, some of them putting in concrete flumes costing as high as $2000, and they feel that the larger district will take their good money and give little in return. A petition to be presented to the board when the protests are heard December 14, is being generally signed.

FACT AND COMMENT.

The Fact and Comment man has re[illegible]ly called attention during the [illegible] year to the opportunities for ad[illegible] real estate investments ex[illegible] on account of the comparative [illegible] in market and development [illegible]. The idea was elaborated on [illegible] last week's comments because of [illegible] shortness of the time which will [illegible] before conditions may logically [illegible] expected to show a decided im[illegible], with an inevitable stiffen[illegible] of prices. It is brought up again [illegible] because of its great and growing [illegible].

[illegible] it could be stated with certainty [illegible] the asking price of every piece of [illegible] property in Los Angeles and every [illegible] bit of acreage in Southern [illegible] would on such and such a [illegible] automatically advance 25 per [illegible] owners of real estate would be [illegible] with buyers and realty [illegible] would suddenly find them[illegible] with more business than they [illegible] attend to. The Fact and Com[illegible] man is of course asking the [illegible] to imagine an impossible con[illegible], but anyone who thoroughly [illegible] human nature will admit [illegible] the deduction, considered in a [illegible] sense, is a correct one. [illegible] method employed by con[illegible] of one kind and another that [illegible] is to advertise that promptly [illegible] the stroke of the clock at such [illegible] an hour on a designated [illegible] price of a certain security will [illegible] be advanced." The plan [illegible] been known to fail when [illegible] were selling at all.

[illegible] business of really analyzing the [illegible] processes back of such habits [illegible] may be left to the psy[illegible]. Perhaps it would be well [illegible] the professor explain that [illegible] attitude of the average indi[illegible] which will keep him from re[illegible] clutch upon his pocket[illegible] these times of opportunity [illegible] are few and offerings are [illegible] cheap. The proneness [illegible] to be influenced in a mass [illegible] inconsequential cir[illegible] rather than by their rea[illegible] foresight and by the great [illegible] trend of events, has fur[illegible] theme for many a learned [illegible]

[illegible] to Blame.

[illegible] stated with as much posi[illegible] conceivable in this [illegible] limitations that Los [illegible] Southern California, won[illegible] comparison as has been [illegible] date, are only on the [illegible] real destiny. There [illegible] time in the last ten [illegible] a statement would [illegible] questioned, except [illegible] the type who refuses [illegible] the evidence of his [illegible]

[illegible] and its great back [illegible] been forging ahead at [illegible] set a pace for the rest [illegible] throughout the time [illegible] "financial stringency." [illegible] here has been that [illegible] become so accustomed [illegible] section's progress out[illegible] the high-flying expectations [illegible] optimistic that when con[illegible] reasonably normal they [illegible] the whole machinery [illegible]. Los Angeles, it is true, [illegible] last year's amazing [illegible] building figures, [illegible] the construction total of [illegible] 1914 has been of a mag[illegible] have satisfied any other city [illegible] States in any year, how[illegible]. It is the same in [illegible] every line of business—a [illegible] but not such a falling off [illegible] anxiety for the future. [illegible] few months have been [illegible] world-wide depression. For [illegible] the European war began there had been a more or less pronounced slackening in business activities throughout the eastern and central portions of the United States. As sound teeth are said to ache out of "sympathy" with others that really need the dentist's attention, so may Los Angeles be said to have responded "sympathetically" to the general national mood of gloominess. There is no disposition upon the part of the writer to go into the whys and wherefores of the depression prior to the war. The politicians enjoy that kind of exercise, and it is their field. Possibly there was no excuse for anxiety anywhere in the country—certainly there was none and is none for the comparative lull in business in this part of the United States. If the people of this city had paid less attention to the situation outside and more heed to the opportunities at home, 1914 might have been the greatest year in the history of real estate activity in Los Angeles.

As to Certainties.

The probability that 1915 will be a year of wonderful prosperity for California and especially for Southern California comes as near to being a certainty as anything could well be. The exact day upon which values will stiffen and the market fireworks begin cannot be named for the reason that the return to the anticipated lively times it not destined to come in a day. Things are picking up now, have been gradually picking up, in fact, for weeks and months, as confidence has returned to the country at large, along with the diminishment of the fear that the war will have any adverse effect upon this continent. The crops east of the Rockies are the greatest ever harvested and are being marketed at prices that insure prosperity to agriculturists everywhere. The glow of optimism in the East and Middle West is permeating the land. Crop prospects locally are well calculated to cheer all Southern Californians. Even were the great Pacific Coast exposition years instead of weeks away, this section would need no agencies other than those at hand and visible to insure a revival in all lines of business.

The coming to this city and section of the hundreds of thousands of tourists and exposition visitors who will swarm to the Pacific Coast next year will clinch the region's sure hold on prosperity and bids fair to turn what would inevitably be a good year under any circumstances into a phenomenal period of unprecedented activity. California real estate, both lands and city property, has made good to such an extent that a great percentage of those who visit the section annually as tourists remain as investors or come back as home-seekers or settlers. This fact is attested by the region's enormous yearly growth in population and by its annual material progress, as well as by the records of property transfers. What the coming of such hosts as will pay Los Angeles and Southern California a visit next year will mean may be surmised from the past history of both the city and section under average conditions of travel to this Coast. Add to this 1915 avalanche of actual and potential investors the benefits to be derived from the advent of ocean commerce through the canal following the war, and from other often-discussed sources, and the certainties in the outlook loom still bigger in prospect.

Too Many Shoppers.

The time for those who have any idea of making realty investment in Los Angeles and Southern California to awake is now. The holiday season is at hand and the real revival of business that is bound to send values higher cannot be expected for several weeks at least. Values, it may be put down as an absolute certainty, are lower than they will ever be again, and so surely as Los Angeles keeps on growing and the Southland keeps on developing, the prices of today will appear ridiculously low by comparison with those of a few years hence.

Not only are there too many persons in Los Angeles who are merely holding onto their money in a nameless and inexcusable fear to let loose, but there are also far too many of the class of realty "shoppers." Hundreds of individuals have been snooping around for months looking for "sacrifices," pawing over the goods and wasting the time of owners. Instead of looking ahead with far-seeing assurance that whatever property they buy at a reasonable or bargain figure today is bound to advance at an early date and to make a fair profit for them, these shoppers in real estate have been scenting around for the poor fellow who can't keep his payments up and the chap who is under the spell of the "psychological depression" and wants to get his equity back. It speaks well for the stability of Los Angeles that but few real sacrifices in real estate have been recorded, but not so well for the judgment of investors, that so few of the real bargains have been grabbed up.

NEW VERMONT SQUARE.

New houses were started in New Vermont Square during the week by the following persons: Paul H. Muskat began the erection of a six-room bungalow, to cost about $2000, at No. 2037 West Forty-first street. Reginald Harris began a seven-room chalet, to cost about $2400, at No. 1821 West Forty-first street. Wilber Scholes started a $2500 seven-room bungalow at No. 1724 West Forty-third place.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

TAFT, Dec. 11.—The "capper" placed on the Kern Trading and Oil Company's gusher on section 1, 32-23, two weeks since proved unable to withstand the pressure. A new one has been put on only after the well had flowed madly for several hours and then quieted down on its own accord. So far, the new "capper" has held, and the drillers believe it will continue to do so. The well's outbreak forced the drilling crew to suspend its efforts to erect a new rig over the mouth of the well. Now an old rig on section 25, 31-22 is being taken down to be used on the well.

That some believe that there is a good outlook for 1915 is conclusively proved by the work they are starting, but a study of the market does not seem to bear out this theory at all. The conditions existing for years before the outbreak of the war, even could they be restored, would not seem to warrant extensive development, and such activity appears unwarranted. The oil in stock in the State is over 56,000,000 barrels and the stock is still growing month by month. Nevertheless, a number of companies plan extensive work during the year. Some have already begun, and there is a strong disposition by enthusiasts to give this all the publicity possible.

W. H. Weaver, formerly of Midway, now a drilling contractor at Calgary, Can., writes to Jack Patterson of Taft to the effect that commercial oil has been struck in the No. 1 well of the Moose Mountain Oil Company, forty miles from Calgary. The depth of the well is but 1600 feet, and the oil tests about the same as that of the Dingman discovery well. The find has aroused much excitement, but the weather and other conditions hold back any extensive work at present. In the spring Weaver looks for a boom.

TO BEGIN FINE HOMES THIS WEEK.

WINDSOR SQUARE AND HOLLYWOOD MANSIONS ABOUT TO BE STARTED.

Construction is to be begun this week upon a twelve-room house of the English style planned and to be built by the Milwaukee Building Company for Eugene F. Kline. The site is in Windsor Square. Work will also be started in a few days upon a fine home for Mrs. V. Knudson at No. 211 Vista del Mar avenue, Hollywood. The latter place will contain eighteen rooms and will be of frame and plaster construction. Mead & Requa of San Diego drew the plans.

The contract has been let for a ten-room residence to be built by Eliza P. Houghton at the corner of Tenth street and Westminster avenue. The dwelling will be in the colonial style. The Cooper-Pyle-Clopine Company is drawing plans for an eight-room house which it will build on Westminster avenue for S. M. Cooper. Architects Montgomery & Montgomery are drawing plans for a nine-room residence to be erected by C. H. Jonas on Hobart boulevard, between Fourth and Fifth streets.

The Atlas Building Company is about to start a ten-room frame house for J. H. Snailes in the La Fayette Square tract. Construction is about to be begun upon an eight-room residence for Emil Koch at No. 1527 Sixth avenue. The contract has been awarded for a nine-room house to be erected at No. 2214 Crenshaw boulevard by Edith S. Keeler.

TO START THIS WEEK.

Work to be Begun at Once on Large Store, Theater and Apartment Structure in the Southwest.

Construction is to be begun at once on a two-story brick store, theater and apartment building to be erected by H. A. Church at Forty-first place and Vermont avenue. The structure will contain a theater seating 300, three stores and two five-room flats on the ground floor. On the second story will be nine apartments of two and three rooms each. The building will be 120x100 feet in size. A. H. Knauer drew the plans.

Work will also be started this week on a two-story frame flat building projected by Mrs. Adelia Mize on Catalina street near Ninth. The structure will contain four flats of five rooms and bath each. The exterior walls will be plastered. Frank L. Stiff drew the plans.

UNAWARE OF HONOR.

A signal honor was bestowed upon Fernand Parmentier, a Los Angeles architect, by the American Institute of Architects at the recent annual convention of that body in Washington. Mr. Parmentier was appointed a fellow of the institute, a distinction much coveted by the members of his profession. The fact that he has been thus honored is not known to Mr. Parmentier himself, as he is now serving in the French army in Alsace. Mr. Parmentier is a native of France and responded to the call of patriotism while on a tour of Europe at the outbreak of the present war.

RUSHING WORK ON SKYSCRAPER.

HAAS BLOCK TO BE FINISHED EARLY NEXT YEAR.

Modern Building at Seventh and Broadway One of Noteworthy Improvements of Downtown Section. Bank of Italy to Occupy Part of Lower Story.

With the end that the handsome new downtown skyscraper may be completed and ready for occupancy as early as possible in 1915, work is being rushed on the Haas block at the northeast corner of Broadway and Seventh street. The building is now practically finished as to exterior, although many weeks must elapse before the interior is complete.

The structure is one of the finest and most modern yet erected in the business district and is twelve stories in height. It is of the latest steel frame type and absolutely fireproof. The street fronts are attractively faced with terra cotta. The building has a frontage of fifty-five feet on Broadway by 150 feet on Seventh.

The Bank of Italy, now at the southeast corner of Fifth and Hill streets, will occupy a part of the ground floor of the building, having secured a twenty-five-year lease on the whole story. The bank will sublet four stores on the Seventh-street frontage and will have vault space in the basement. The eleven upper stories of the structure will contain 225 offices, each with direct and alternating current attachments, compressed air, gas, water and extra sewer outlet.

The interior woodwork will be in solid mahogany, the corridors being floored with marble and having seven-foot marble wainscoting. The floor, walls and ceiling of the main lobby will be of marble. Three high-speed elevators will be installed.

The building is owned by Abraham Haas of San Francisco, president of Haas, Baruch & Co. of this city, and a large property owner both here and in the north. The Bay City man is investing approximately $500,000 in the improvement. Morgan, Walls & Morgan are the architects.

CONTRACT AWARDED.

Los Angeles Concern to Install Plumbing and Heating in Mammoth New Downtown Store.

To the Thomas Haverty Company of this city was awarded during the last week the contract for the heating, plumbing, refrigeration and automatic sprinklers to be installed in the new department store being erected by the J. W. Robinson Company at Seventh, Grand and Hope. The amount of the contract is about $65,000.

The foundation work of the store is now well along and preparations are being made for the pouring of the concrete for the huge superstructure. The building extends along the south side of Seventh street from Grand avenue to Hope street and will represent when completed an investment of approximately $1,000,000. Frederick Noonan and William Richards drew the plans. The Haverty award is the last of the major contracts connected with the construction of the store.

TRADES FOR ORCHARD.

Owner of West Twentieth Street Property Concludes Exchange for San Fernando Valley Fruit Tract.

The sale for Millard Fifield to H. J. Rodman of an eight-room, furnished house at No. 2355 West Twentieth street is reported by Albert E. Metcalf, who acted as broker in the transfer. The house occupies a lot 50x128 feet in size between Cimarron and Arlington streets.

The consideration is given at $8000, part of which is represented in the exchange by Mr. Rodman to Mr. Fifield of a six-acre bearing apricot orchard on Encino avenue near the town of Van Nuys, in the San Fernando Valley. The value of the latter holding is given at $4500.

FORM ASSOCIATION.

The ninety or more firms having displays in the Metropolitan Exhibit of Building Materials on the sixth floor of the Metropolitan block have formed an association for the promotion of the interests of the various exhibitors and of the general exhibit. Thomas Fellows has been elected chairman of the association and several committees have been appointed.

HOTEL EXCHANGED.

The John P. Holland Company reports the transfer to William Saulsbury of the Hotel Hawthorne at No. 434 West Twentieth street. The purchaser, who is a Pasadena man, gave in exchange a ten-flat building at Avenue 23 and Hayden street and a residence on East Fifteenth street, adjusting the balance. The total consideration involved is given at $40,000.

FACTORY BUILDING.

Plans are being completed by F. C. Thorne, a local architect, for a two-story brick factory building to be erected by the firm of Wise & Downie on San Pedro street, between Sixth and Seventh. The structure will be 50x150 feet and will cost about $15,000.

PROTEST LEASING BILL.

Citizens of Los Angeles Object to Provisions of Conservation Measure Before Senate Committee.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Dec. 12.—William A. Breckenridge and George C. Ward of Los Angeles appeared today before the Public Lands Committee of the Senate in protest against the leasing provisions of the conservation bill now pending. Ward is vice-president of the Pacific Light and Power Company. Breckenridge told the committee that the Edison company had spent $250,000 on a $6,000,000 project under a revocable permit granted under the law of 1901.

"It is doubtful," he said, "whether we shall go on under our present permit. If this bill becomes a law we shall not go on. There is difficulty in financing the project under the California law."

Witness said that a permit to run not less than fifty years would be acceptable.

OUR idea of a home is one both PRACTICAL and ARTISTIC. By careful thought we manage to instill certain INDIVIDUALITY into each home.

It quite frequently happens that the PROSPECTIVE BUILDER'S IDEAS and PURSE do not correspond. In such cases our PRACTICAL knowledge comes to the rescue, and often where others have hopelessly FAILED, WE SUCCEED.

We build homes from the modern two-room cottage, at $900, to the most elaborate dwelling. It rests with the INDIVIDUAL, entirely, what his home will cost. By concentrating our PURCHASING POWER, combined with our PRACTICAL knowledge, and being in a position to DISCOUNT our BILLS, we can, for a given quality of work, discount our competitors' prices.

We build either by contracts on a fixed fee of 10 per cent. of estimated cost of work, or on our own lots in Los Angeles, Hermosa Beach and San Pedro, on easy terms.

We make no additional charge for our Architectural services if we build, or if we fail to satisfy you both as to price and design.

Our REFERENCES are PEOPLE for whom we HAVE BUILT, who FREELY indorse us.
We make liberal building loans.

FOR SALE— 38th Place and Wilton Place is about the best location for a home in Los Angeles. Lots in this immediate vicinity are priced from $1100 to $1200, but if you will buy mine today I will sell for $825, and you can MAKE YOUR OWN TERMS within reason. This lot has gas, water, electricity, phones, all assessments of every description are paid; the soil and view are exceptional, and the car service the best. Easy walking distance to Exposition Park and Manual Arts School. If you will use a few minutes of your time and investigate this offer today you will find that I have misrepresented nothing—that this lot is actually worth $350 more than I ask. To come, take a W. 39th University car going south on Spring st., get off at Western ave. and walk two short blocks north to the corner of 38th place and Western ave. I will be on the northwest corner all day Sunday (today,) to answer your questions and to prove the truth of this offer. Ask for MR. WARNACK, after today. Call Main 2251, or Home phone F5025.

FOR SALE—
SELECTED TRACTS
ALL PARTS OF SAN FERNANDO VALLEY AT LOW PRICES
ON VERY EASY TERMS.

We represent the owners of about 800 acres of choice land in the San Fernando Valley—six different bodies of land, near Lankershim, near Van Nuys, near Marian, near Zelzah; close to the boulevards, close to the railway lines, some fronting directly upon paved road.

Tracts in any size you want, from one acre upward. Any kind of soil—except bad soil—that you want for any of the San Fernando Valley crops.

The owners told us to put a price on this land that would SELL it. They told us to make TERMS on this, so that the buyers could use about all their present capital to make improvements and plant trees.

Everybody knows that there are more things being pushed forward to help the San Fernando Valley than any other section about Los Angeles. Now is the time to buy, and with these prices, and these terms—you have no excuse for delaying.

FOR SALE—
HAVE YOU SEEN GARDEN ACRES?
!WELL LISTEN!!

It's only 7½ miles from Seventh and Broadway, close to a yellow car line, adjoining the beautiful city of Inglewood, rich, sandy loam soil—no alkali or adobe, Inglewood city water piped upon the streets, and furthermore it is directly in the trend of the city's development to the sea. If Los Angeles grows, and there is no question about that, it must grow over GARDEN ACRES. Therefore an investment today in GARDEN ACRES means in a very few years city property with city prices. If you are looking for a suburban homesite or an investment, you ought to see GARDEN ACRES. Auto excursion will leave our office today at 10:30 a.m. Phone now for your reservation. $250—Christmas Present.
We are offering our subdivision of Beaumont in ranches of 10 acres and up, with FREE WATER. This land is choice sediment soil, and will produce the finest apples, cherries, pears and olives, as is proven by the prizes taken by the orchards surrounding this property; all kinds of vegetables can be grown profitably between the rows of trees before they come to full bearing, and we will set out and care for the property until maturity if desired.

As a special inducement for quick action we will make a present of $250 to each purchaser of ten acres during this month.

Come in and talk it over. Get one of our booklets, you will be convinced there is no better proposition in the State.

SAN JOAQUIN VALLEY—

FOR SALE—1440 ACRES LAKE TULARE LANDS, in Kings county, Cal. No better land in the State. Ditch water-right second only to 700 acres. Over 30 sacks barley and over 20 sacks wheat per acre last season on this Lake land; now rented for this next season, the owner's one-fifth to be delivered at railway warehouse, about sixteen miles, without any expense to him. The owner's share on some of this land last season was over $8 per acre. A good investment for a nonresident. Patent title, clear of all incumbrance. The price is only $40 per acre, one-half cash, one-quarter when next crop is harvested, and one-quarter two years, at 8 per cent. Or will sell for $32 all cash and reserve the next crop. Best buy on the market. Can sell in tracts of 80 acres and up at slightly varying prices. Can trade 400 acres for a good dairy ranch on main line between Los Angeles and Fresno. Or for the whole 1440 acres can take part in same or other good Southern California real property. Give particulars of your land first letter, location, size, improvements, cash price, amount incumbrance, if any, rate and when due. T. S. THOMPKINS, part owner, 116 E. 7th st.

GOVERNMENT LAND—

WITHOUT ANY RESIDENCE OR IMPROVEMENTS YOU CAN BUY DIFFERENT KINDS OF STATE AND GOVERNMENT LAND FOR LESS THAN $3 AN ACRE. Will you accept a Christmas present from your State, or from your Uncle Sam?

They haven't the time to pick it out for you. WE SEARCH OUT FINE BARGAINS for you to select from. With the aid of our maps, and directions, it is easy for an inexperienced, 12-year-old child to find some of this land.

Land is a good friend all the time. LET MOTHER EARTH BE YOUR BANKER. The ownership of land is quite an encouragement, because you have better health, and a more cheerful prospect for the future. Let us help you see, select, and buy your choice.

We have no land to sell; we sell information about State, Indian and United States land. WE OFFER SERVICE. So offer you the benefits of our twenty years' experience in searching records and help you buy direct from officials without subdivision profits.

Most of the big fortunes in America are based on land. Most of the moderate fortunes in America come from free land taken up. You can still get big bargains, wonderful values, FOR A LITTLE MONEY, if you know where they are. We tell you that.

NOTICE—Until December 20, the first payment for our regular service will be only $5; after December 20, $10; after May 1, 1915, $25 will be required of new clients.

Why not accept our expert service at the low price of $5 before the 20th of December? Write us fully with your order as it is to our interest to suit you as well as we have many others.

ORANGE AND LEMON GROVES—
For Sale, Exchange, Wanted.

FOR SALE—

DID YOU EVER FIGURE
HOW TO GET A LEMON GROVE
$0?

Suppose you bought a grove—trees 3 years old in a locality where lemon groves have already proven to be highly productive and highly profitable. Suppose you paid $150 CASH per acre; promised to pay $150 an acre each December in 1917, 1918, 1919, 1920, 6 per cent. interest; moderate charges for gravity water and for caring for the trees.

In 1917 your trees would be 6 years old; in 1918 they would be 7 years old; in 1919 they would be 8 years old; in 1920 they would be 9 years. You would get the crops of lemons in those years.

For Sale, Exchange, Lease, Wanted.

FOR SALE—OR EXCHANGE—CLEARS $900 PER MONTH. LOCATION, 6TH AND OLIVE STS.

We can sell you this hotel for $6000 on account of two deaths in the family. One year ago this month we made them a cash offer of $13,000 for this house and it was refused. The place is 4 years old and has never changed hands. You know what this means. The house is modern.

TO LEASE—TO LET.
We can lease you furnished absolutely the highest-grade apartment-house in this city; second only to the Bryson and Rampart, but at a cheap rental. We also have another one of 60 rooms to lease, furnished, at $7 per room.

90-room downtown hotel to lease at $6.50 per room. Also have one of 20 rooms, and an apartment-house on Alvarado st. The owner will lease below value. Also country hotel, live town; 50 rooms; rent only $125 per month, lease 5 years. Clears $150 per month and will stand closest investigation. Will exchange this for L. A. bungalow or good property. See us if you want the history of the hotel and apartment-house business in this city.

FOR EXCHANGE—
MR. OWNER OF CLEAR PROPERTY.
In these days, clear property has greater buying power than money when the market is brisk.
We have been especially busy lately digging up bargains in equities for clients who had clear property. Bargains are plentiful. Everyone wants to sell; few have the fortitude and good sense to buy. We want clear property, city or country, for deals from $25,000 to $400,000. Some cash is helpful, but not indispensable. Now is your opportunity. Soon prices will stiffen and terms become less lax. See us today.

FOR EXCHANGE—
MR. OWNER OF CLEAR PROPERTY.
In these days, clear property has greater buying power than money when the market is brisk. We have been especially busy lately digging up bargains in equities for clients who had clear property. Bargains are plentiful. Everyone wants to sell; few have the fortitude and good sense to buy. We want clear property, city or country, for deals from $25,000 to $400,000. Some cash is helpful, but not indispensible. Now is your opportunity. Soon prices will stiffen and terms become less lax. See us today.

SOUTHWESTERN SALES COMPANY,
533 UNION OIL BLDG.,
Main 2353. [illegible]
Seventh and Spring sts.

FOR SALE — ALTHOUGH THE BOARD OF TRADE has possession of this business, it is by no means insolvent. The man who owned it died and we are handling it as administrator. The merchandise, consisting of medium priced men's furnishings, inventories about $2300, and fixtures only $115. Splendid location and a big money-maker for someone. It will probably be a few days before the court will order this business sold, but if you are interested, would like to have you look at it now, so we can sell without delay. Place open and operating. Arrangements may be made to inspect it by application to E. F. CHASE, at Board of Trade, 728 Higgins Bldg.

ARE YOU LOOKING FOR BUSINESS INVESTMENTS?

27 years in the business has placed us in a position to advise you to your best interest.

We have a very large list of grocery and hardware stocks, the best locations in the city and outside towns; general merchandise stocks, very attractive locations and can be had at the right price, might exchange; manufacturer's agency with stock on hand, fine prospects; books and stationery, best equipment in city, will exchange; cash grocery just outside city making good money.

You would have to pay a bonus for these locations after the first of the year.

Don't locate until you consult our
Mr. Trowbridge, THE ALFRED E. GWINN CO.,
1020 Marsh-Strong Bldg., 9th and Main.

MAKE A FORTUNE IN 1915—

I want to meet a clean cut man with real estate or banking experience preferred, to join me in the organization of an up-to-date aggressive realty corporation; the advertiser is one of the best-known real estate sales managers in the West, fully competent to handle large transactions; has good following of high-class salesmen, and contemplates doing a general real estate and brokerage business; no investment required except that you must be able to command sufficient capital to finance operations until returns come in; I estimate not over $3000 will be required to put the business where each of us could make $10,000 a year and more. Address in confidence for appointment, Real Estate, box 429, TIMES BRANCH OFFICE.

MR. MERCHANT, IF YOU ARE TIRED OF BUSINESS or the business is lagging and not making any money and you want to get out, we have fine irrigated farm lands, some are in cultivation, all are clear, and plenty of water at all times, located on big railroad. We can handle clothing, dry goods, shoes, hardware, furniture or general merchandise almost anywhere if good, from $5000 to $50,000. E. J. BONHAM, 224½ E. Fourth st., Los Angeles, Cal. Phone Boyle 500.

FOR SALE—ONE OF THE CITY'S LARGEST hardware stores has been assigned to the Board of Trade for the benefit of creditors, and is now being offered for sale to the highest bidder. Splendid downtown location, under very desirable lease. The merchandise, which inventories about $14,000, has been well selected, and is in good condition. This is a business of real merit and can be purchased at a price that is considerable under its real value. The store is now operating, will gladly give further details on application to E. F. CHASE, at Board of Trade, 728 Higgins Bldg.

SOBER, INDUSTRIOUS, ENERGETIC, HONEST MAN. If I can get a man of this caliber, who will invest $2500 in a business, I will fully secure his investment and return it from gross receipts of first sales, which should amount to $2500 first two weeks, and gradually increase. $125,000 gross profits in entire deal, will divide profits equally, fully secure your interests and invest a like amount with one who will become active with me. Address M, box 18, TIMES OFFICE.

FOR SALE—INDEPENDENT DAILY AND WEEKLY with job office, doing over $22,000 yearly business the past 8 years. In county seat of 6000 in Pacific Coast State. College town in heart of fine farming, orchard and dairy section. Has doubled in population the past 4 years and will do it again. 112 residences erected this year. College has 1800 students and city has paved street. Mountain water, no saloons and no finer small community is to be found in the United States. Office has linotype equipment and is a first-class paying proposition, with business constantly on the increase without special effort. Paper can be made either Democratic or Republican to no disadvantage. Great possibilities here ahead of hustlers. Will stand strictest investigation, which is invited. $15,000 cash; $16,000 half cash. You cannot find anything better at the price. If you have the cash, write; if not, save us and yourselves trouble. DO IT NOW, you are not likely to see this adv. again. Address "OPPORTUNITY," care American Type Founders Co., Portland, Oregon.

WANTED—IF YOU DOUBT WHETHER I HAVE the proposition which should net us a fortune, call and see what I have to offer. It talks for itself, and its demand for the household is self-apparent to any man. I've got the perfected machine that does the work, and the testimonials back of it, but I haven't money enough for its manufacture to supply its present demand. For that reason I am willing to give control of my device to the right party, as there is plenty of money in it for us all. Well, what have I? Just what you and I need and also all of our friends. I have a machine that you attach to your ice box in your own home; you then connect it with your electric light cord. Set your thermostat at whatever temperature you desire, and it will manufacture your ice and refrigeration at 50 per cent. less than the present cost. All you need to do is to oil your motor once a month. Noiseless. It works while you sleep, and if you join me now it will make money for us both while we sleep—and plenty of it. Call or address 405 STORY BLDG., Los Angeles.

WANTED—
25 TO 300 PER CENT. DIVIDENDS.
SECURED INVESTMENT.
Investigate. Responsible manufacturing company offers limited amount stock for sale, and places behind this stock valuable real estate in Los Angeles as security. If later dissatisfied you can exchange the stock for the real estate. This opportunity is rare and unusual because you have possibility of 300 per cent. or more on your investment without the usual great risk. If you have $500 or $1000, or more, that you want to double and redouble, see me before it is too late. E. L. MILLER, with HOLMES-WALTON CO., 507 Grant Bldg. A3010, Main 4590.

WANTED—A PARTY WHO CAN CONTROL $5000 to take over the control of one of the best selling household necessities of the day. It is an article that appeals to every housekeeper, and is in use in every home. I can reduce its cost 50 per cent., and greatly increase its convenience. It's not a model or blue print, but a device in practical use today. Its future is self-apparent. Money is needed to manufacture the article, for its demand is already at hand. A fortune is awaiting you. I will be glad to show you this device and its testimonials at your convenience. Address J, box 226, TIMES OFFICE.

I AM GOING TO BUY AN OLD-ESTABLISHED cash business, paying over 75 per cent. net profit. Have not quite enough money to handle it. I invite several others to join me. Full facts and figures can be shown. The assets of this business are the kind you can see, feel, and ride on. The profits can be shown at the end of every day. I am satisfied. Come in and talk it over. P. B. GIBSON, 1011 Trust and Savings Bldg. A4393, Main 4360.

BUSINESS CHANCES—
Wanted and Miscellaneous.

WANTED—TO GET IN TOUCH WITH A MAN WHO has a small amount of money and the ability to complete the marketing of a novelty that has already made a success. This is a legitimate manufacturing and selling proposition requiring little money to handle and no plant. The only reason the owner wishes to consider an outside person is because the work has suddenly assumed such proportions that he cannot handle it without neglecting his regular business. With actual orders, correspondence and goods already on the market this is an opportunity for a man who wishes a comfortable business. Write or phone D. McKINNEY, F1853, Main 1566, 311 E. Fourth st., and an appointment will be arranged.

OTHER INTERESTS OUTSIDE OF THE STATE DEmand the immediate attention of one of the partners in one of the best paying and most high-class office businesses in the city.
To the right kind of a man who can give the right kind of references and who would be satisfactory to the remaining partner, and who has $2500 cash I will sell my one-half interest in this business.
This business is paying every month and there is not one dollar indebtedness against it. Give full information about self with address first letter. Address L, box 33, TIMES OFFICE.

MONEY TO LOAN—
Real Estate and Improvements.

IF YOU FIND IT DIFFICULT TO SECURE A loan on your property, or if you have a good first mortgage to sell, communicate with me at once. If security is satisfactory I have a client who will give you half cash and half in shares of million-dollar local financial institution at close to par, which will net you nearly 10 per cent. in dividends. Will deal with principals only. Apply in writing, giving full particulars. Applications attended to in order received. MR. KING, 1222 Washington Bldg.

SECOND MORTGAGE LOANS—

We make a specialty of quick second mortgage loans in amounts of $50 to $1000; money within 24 hours; one month to one year; city or suburban towns.

We make no charge for title or escrow fees; the borrower receives the full amount in cash without any deductions whatsoever.

Loaning our own funds, we are very prompt and terms reasonable. We deal with owners only, our rates being too low to permit us accepting any loans through brokers.

Mahomet.

WOULD SERVE AS A PRIVATE.

AGA KHAN COMMANDS FOLLOWERS TO AID ENGLAND.

Chieftain Believed to Hold Keys to Heaven and who can Issue Letters of Introduction to the Angel Gabriel is Loyal to King George. Is now in London.

[SPECIAL FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

LONDON, Sept. 26.—Few more astonishing or more significant things have happened since the beginning of the war than the action of that famous Indian dignitary, the Aga Khan, in directing the community of which he is the spiritual head, to place their personal services and resources unreservedly at the disposal of the British government, and in addition to this volunteering to serve as a private in any infantry regiment of the Indian expeditionary force. For this prodigiously wealthy and largely Europeanized native chieftain, as the spiritual leader of vast numbers of Mahometans in Western India, Central Asia and East Africa, is perhaps the greatest power of the Moslem world.

Directly descended, as he is, from Ali, the nephew of Mahomet himself, he is regarded by his followers almost as a god and is believed by many of them to hold the keys of heaven. Many of the curious privileges of his position are not, however, exercised by the present prince. So far as known he has not, for instance, followed his father's practice of giving letters of introduction to the Archangel Gabriel in order to insure special consideration for his followers in the next world.

The territory over which the Aga Khan rules as head of the Ismaelian sects, is not large, but the number of his followers is counted by the hundred thousand and to every one of them his word is law. So great is his influence, in fact, that his friendliness to British rule in India always has been of the greatest value to the government, and will be more so than ever in the present emergency.

In London, which he has visited times without number, and where he is at present, the Aga Khan is the ordinary man of the world, wearing English dress, persona grata at court, and cordially received by the high society of this capital as well as that of Paris. He is so English, in fact, that he is a member of the Marlborough Club, which King Edward founded, and also belonged to the extinct Walsingham Club. He plays golf, used to cycle, and is a keen motorist. He is not especially dark, is decidedly good-looking, wears a fierce black mustache and, in his national dress, looks more like a warrior chieftain than a high priest.

As a man of great wealth and an oriental potentate to boot, his entertainments at the Ritz and other splendid caravansaries are truly brilliant functions. At a recent one Karsavina and Nijinsky danced and a distinguished company was present. The ballroom was lavishly decorated with crimson rambler roses, and the foyer arranged with cool, green palms. Lady Cunard helped the Aga Khan to receive his guests.

Such is the exalted Indian dignitary who is prepared to serve the empire as a private soldier. His family came originally from Persia, but migrated to India several generations back. Queen Victoria admired him greatly and gave him the English title of Highness.

POLES IN FLIGHT; FEAR THE GERMANS.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LONDON, Dec. 11, 3:44 a.m.—A Petrograd dispatch to Reuter's Telegram Company says the Polish town of Lodz at the time of its evacuation by the Russians was completely destitute of food. The population quit the town en masse, fearing the Germans. Thousands proceeded to Warsaw on foot.

Accounts of the fighting between Lodz and Ilow show that the Germans attacked in close formation in the twilight and a fog, hoping to catch the Russians unawares. The Russians, however, were forewarned, and allowed the Germans to advance close, then swept the German lines with 100 searchlights.

Dazzled by the glare, the Germans, in dense columns, offered an easy target to machine guns and rifle fire. They lost enormously and finally retired.

ENGLAND RILED BY CENSORSHIP.

Subject of Muzzled Press is Discussed in Commons.

Recruiting is Stifled by Withholding of News.

Premier Asquith Offers No Solution of Question.

[A. P. FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

LONDON, Nov. 30.—"The Muzzled Press" was discussed by Bonar Law, leader of the Conservative party, in his address before the House of Commons at the recent opening of the special war session and Premier Asquith was asked for a statement on the government's position in regard to the suppression of war news.

"There is a general feeling, which I share," said Mr. Law, "that the press is more muzzled than is necessary for military reasons, and secondly, if that be so, it is disadvantageous from the point of view of every other interest in this country. It may be that to a large extent the government is powerless. Our army in France is only part of a great force, and it would be quite right that we should not do anything that by any possibility could injure the operations of that force, which was against the wishes of the government responsible for the chief part of the force. I quite admit that, but I would like to impress upon the government that where there are not military reasons there can be no other reasons for keeping back information as to what our soldiers are doing. It is bad in every way. It is bad for recruiting. One of the honorable members opposite spoke of the action of the London Scottish. I think we are all proud of them, but they are not the only regiment. The effect of their action was immediately to stimulate recruiting for the London Scottish. There are other regiments to my knowledge representing other districts in the country which have fought as bravely and suffered losses bravely, and the people of those districts know nothing.

"I am sure that nothing would be a greater mistake—I am not suggesting that the government is acting for this reason—than to suppose there would be any advantage, apart from military consideration, in letting the country know there have been heavy losses when such losses have taken place. On the contrary it is good that we should tell them. One of the things which as a nation we have most reason, so far as the civilian population is concerned, to be proud of is that what most stimulated recruiting in this country was not eloquent speeches—or anything of that kind—it was the knowledge of the risks which our soldiers were running which made our recruits join the army.

"Personally I should have preferred, if it were possible, to have accredited reporters at the seat of war. That may be impossible, but I do hope the government will try to give all the information that can be given apart from military considerations, and they will tell the House frankly the principle upon which they are acting in regard to the whole matter. I am quite sure that nothing could be worse than to conceal misfortunes, if we have any, from the people of this country. I do not mean that it may not be right to delay publication of incidents, perhaps for a considerable time for strategical reasons, but I am sure it would be wrong for us to do what may have been right in the case of Japan, to conceal disasters until the war is over. The main object with us would be to prevent a panic, and in my belief one thing which would cause panic would be if the people of this country got the idea that they do not know the whole truth."

The press throughout England has attributed slackness in recruiting very largely to the strict censorship. Consequently Mr. Law was voicing an opinion which has been current in the United Kingdom for many weeks.

"What is the principle which ought to govern us?" Mr. Asquith remarked in his reply. "We should be ready to divulge everything, whether favorable or adverse, subject only to military considerations. I can say with the utmost confidence that as far as we are concerned, and as far as we have responsibility in the matter, that is the principle on which we have acted throughout. Whatever has been concealed, or rather withheld—for I quite agree there is a difference between permanent concealment and temporary postponement—whatever has been withheld has been withheld simply because, in the opinion of our military and naval advisers and ourselves, it was inexpedient that for the moment it should be divulged lest it give the enemy an advantage he would not otherwise have.

"We should all like to know more than we do—I should myself—of the daily progress of the war, the achievements of particular ships, of particular regiments, of particular individuals. Whatever is done must be done by conjoint action, and after due consultation between the allied forces. We must have regard to their interests and opinions just as much as our own.

"While I quite agree that from the point of view of recruiting, in which I take a personal and a direct interest it is indeed desirable that we should have those full, I was almost going to say full-blooded descriptions with which the old special correspondents used to furnish us in wars gone by, special adventures and heroic achievements of this or that regiment, in this or that stricken field, yet when you are dealing with war which extends over a hundred, or even two hundred miles, with telephone, telegraph and other means of communication, the obligations of reticence are far greater than they ever were before, and the field for descriptive writing, admirable as it is in its way and a great stimulus and incentive to patriotic feeling, is a field which is necessarily more curtailed than ever before."

Murray Succeeds Douglas.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

Business Axioms.

TRUE INVESTOR IS THE WISEST.

Man Who Loans for Safety has but Few Worries.

But the Wild Speculator is Always in Trouble.

High Interest and Gilt-edged Security the Rule.

[Copyright, 1914, by C. M. Keys, New York.]

In all the investment markets of America there is today a decided demand on the part of those who have money to invest for a good big rate of income plus a very large degree of safety. It is, perhaps, curious to note that as a result of three months in which there has been no market open for men to trade in and speculate in, the investment public has come to place a relatively much smaller value upon convertibility than it was accustomed to place in previous periods.

As a matter of fact, the very first demand that arose in the markets after seven or eight weeks of almost complete stagnation, was a demand for short-term securities, the idea of the buyers being not to have something that could be sold again, but to have something that could be held until maturity or until paid off. Simultaneously with this demand there was an awakening in the mortgage market, a great many men going out to look for safe short real estate mortgages into which they could put their money with a definite expectation that nothing evil would happen to it for two or three years at least, or until the mortgage had matured.

Gradually as the market was opened up this principle has been extended. In the bond markets of the country they trade in all sorts of bonds, some of them with a daily market under normal conditions, others just a reasonable market and a good many others that could hardly be marketed at all. During the time when the markets were closed up all these classes were about on the same footing so far as market was concerned, and the revival of business began not in the standard bonds that have always been known in the market-place, but in the quiet, unlisted securities which have always been bought and sold purely as investment issues. That was, perhaps, a natural development out of the circumstances, but it was about the last thing looked for by the critics, or, in fact, by the dealers themselves.

The psychology of the investor is a curious psychology. One observes always that men who live in New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Chicago or St. Louis seem to like best of all, in normal times, the standard listed bonds with an active market. If you pin them down to facts you find that the large majority of them have never in their lives availed themselves of that market and sold bonds, or even used them to borrow money on. Nevertheless, they are perfectly willing to pay a much higher price for bonds that are quoted all the time than for bonds of equal security that are not quoted. When, therefore, one comes in contact with investors in smaller cities and more particularly in what is loosely called the country, it is discovered that the value placed upon these daily quotations is in almost direct ratio to the size of the town in which the investor lives and reaches the vanishing point when one comes to the real country investor, who generally wants a mortgage or a very quiet bond secured by a direct first mortgage, the money value of which he will not know at any time during its life time.

It is, of course, not wise to make sweeping deductions from a phenomenon like the strong demand for quiet securities. If one is a dealer in this class of securities and makes a great deal of money by buying and selling them, it is easy and it is comfortable to draw the conclusion that from this time onward the investors of the United States are going to prefer some quiet public utility bonds to the standard bonds of the good railroad systems and the great municipalities. The argument, no doubt, will appear in many forms in the literature of such dealers. Of course, it is not a very sound argument, because the premises upon which it is founded are a phenomenon that has been, so far, of short duration and that itself was caused by extraordinary conditions. In all probability the markets of the world will hardly again be in a normal condition before a great many of the people who now are willing to entertain the idea of buying very quiet bonds and stocks will again come back to their old fields and want their daily quotations. Possibly many of them, in fact, will be dissatisfied with what they have bought during the period of suspended quotations and will seek, quite unreasonably, as free a market in the quiet bonds as they have in the past enjoyed in the others.

There is, however, some good sense to be deduced from the facts in the case. It is a fact, for instance, that people who during this period of disturbance and distress have held perfectly good quiet securities upon which they never expected to get a quotation have enjoyed greater peace of mind and have been less disturbed than men and women whose fortunes were involved in the markets. That is something to think about. It raises the valid question whether in making investments a great many people did not pay a lot for something that they never can use or never do use—namely, the quick convertibility of the bond market. It raises another question—whether the true investor, who puts his money away for safety and for a reasonable income, is not, after all, the wiser man of the two. These are not questions that can be settled offhand by deductions drawn from the present conditions, but, it appears obvious enough that the experience of this year has at least lent further color to the theory of safety and income as against safety and convertibility.

McKittrick.

URGE WORK IN LOKERN REGION.

RESIDENTS FEAR ROADS WILL BECOME IMPASSABLE.

Oil Men Much Interested in Proposed Highway Construction in McKittrick Section—Associated Installs Separating Plant—Belridge Company Adds New "String."

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

M'KITTRICK, Dec. 11.—Oil operators and others engaged in business in the McKittrick and Belridge-Lost Hills districts have addressed to the Kern County Highway Commission a petition requesting that in the award of contracts for portions of the highway between Bakersfield and McKittrick preference be given in the matter of beginning work by providing that the first labor be done between Lokern and Rio Bravo.

The reasons assigned are that when the winter rains set in the road from McKittrick to Lokern will continue to be passable, as will other parts between Lokern and Buttonwillow, but that much of the highway from Buttonwillow to Rio Bravo will become impassable. The distance from McKittrick to Lokern is nine miles, to Buttonwillow thirteen; from Lokern to Rio Bravo about fifteen.

Between Rio Bravo and Bakersfield, sixteen miles, the road is in good condition. There is a great deal of travel between McKittrick and Belridge to Bakersfield, and those who have occasion to use the highway desire to impress the commission with the necessity of improving the section designated to avoid delay and inconvenience, and especially with the fact that this work can be accomplished without interference so far as the building of other parts of the road is concerned.

It is understood that the McKittrick-Belridge-Lost Hills highway will be well looked after by the commission, and their local representatives, and all efforts possible made to meet the necessities and the expectations of the people residing in and doing business in and near the oil fields. When it is remembered that operating in or close to the districts mentioned are such large corporations as the Belridge, the Standard, the Associated, the Union, the Universal, the General Petroleum, the Lost Hills Development and others, it will readily be seen that good roads are an absolute necessity to the general public.

Associated Plant.

The Associated Oil Company has started the installation of a large separating plant in McKittrick field, at station L, and several weeks will be required for its completion. Pipe is being laid from station I to station L, and the work is progressing well. With a capacity of 4000 barrels every twenty-four hours, the plant, which is up-to-date in every particular, will be of much service in connection with the operations of the company in this district.

The East Puente Oil Company, whose property is in the north end of the McKittrick district, having completed the erection of a new rig, will likely begin drilling soon after the beginning of the new year. It is probable that some additional derricks will be built within the course of the next few months.

ITALY'S PREMIER ON THE BUDGET.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

ROME, Dec. 10, 10:10 p.m.—Premier Salandra in the Chamber of Deputies today supported the appropriations requested by the government and favored postponing the approval of the budget for next year. The government proposals were approved by a vote of 329 against 29.

In his speech the Premier said important governmental works had been initiated to help the unemployed. Although the crops of 1914 were sufficient, he added, the condition of the people had been injured by the slackening of commerce due to the war and also by the increased prices of foodstuffs. The government had helped this situation by securing wheat necessary for the army and navy, the personnel of which was more numerous than ever. Other measures were in course of execution, the Premier said, but he would not specify them, as he did not desire to give a clew to speculators of the government's intentions.

LEASES STOREROOM.

Hopefulness.

LONDON STOCK EXCHANGE TO OPEN IN JANUARY.

[A. P. FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

LONDON, Dec. 1.—The success which attended the recent opening of the New York Stock Exchange for restricted trading has further raised hopes among the bigger houses in London that the committee here will soon see its way to follow suit. Some of the more sanguine go so far as to fix the date of reopening at January 4, but still there is no sign from the committee that any action has been taken.

General opinion in the street is that, whatever plan of reopening is eventually agreed to by the Treasury, only a very restricted area of stocks will be dealt in and these on a strictly cash basis.

Some of the smaller dealers are finding quite a good business in the street in all sorts of stocks, ranging from rubber and oil shares to the new war loan, and are not so keen on the reopening as they were at first, because of the fear that business will be so limited.

American securities continue to attract most attention, and as there are more buyers than sellers, prices improve without much business passing. Following are about the current quotations in the street:

Atchison, 91½; New York Central, 82; Pennsylvania, 53⅛; Reading, 71½; Southern Pacific, 84; Unions, 115¾, and Canadian Pacific, 158¾, the last three quotations being ex-dividend.

Returns published by the Mexican Railway (Vera Cruz) for October, showing a net earnings decrease of $126,400, caused a fall of two points in the shares. Among mining shares tins and coppers advanced well in sympathy with a further rise in metal.

Arizona.

VALLEY BANK TO BE REOPENED.

Phoenix Financial Interests will Assume Control.

Plan for Rehabilitation is Already Worked Out.

Poor Paper up to Nearly One Million Set Aside.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

PHOENIX (Ariz.) Dec. 8.—There seems little doubt of the early reopening of the Valley Bank of Phoenix, closed by the Bank Examiner November 10. Capitalists connected with the Gila Valley Bank and Trust Company have set aside all slow and doubtful paper and have contracted to take over the bank and to put in $500,000 cash if the stockholders of the Valley Bank will guarantee the sum of $150,000 and the depositors $200,000. The stockholders in reality do much more than this, for they are to receive a dividend upon their stock only after all other parties at interest are satisfied. The capital stock and surplus of the institution were rated at $300,000. The paper set aside for separate collection and adjustment amounted to $869,000, taken from a total of loans and discounts of about $2,000,000. Last January the deposits aggregated $3,121,628, but this item had shrunk nearly a third at the time of closing.

The plan now being worked out was formulated by a number of visiting bankers, all desirous of continuing the existence of what has been the largest, though assuredly not the strongest, bank in Arizona. Today the Arizona Corporation Commission authorized the formation and operation of the Valley Bank Adjustment Company, in which the bank's depositors will be preferred stockholders to the amount subscribed by each individual, in $5 shares. First the reorganized bank will be paid $212,000, from the proceeds of the paper set aside, then the preferred stock will be paid off and the balance will go to the Valley Bank stockholders, pro rata. Subscriptions are being taken today for the preferred stock on the basis of 25 per cent. of the deposit of the subscriber, though business men generally are offering financial support. It is expected that the guarantee, in the shape of checks, will be complete by Thursday evening.

The magnitude of the situation can be understood by the statement that the 9000 accounts of the bank practically meant a pass book in every home of Phoenix and Maricopa county. Naturally the closure affected business generally, especially coming, as it did, at the time of tax-paying. The bank, founded by Col. William Christy, and maintained after his death by his son, former Mayor Lloyd Christy, and President E. J. Bennitt, had been far too philanthropic in its methods for safety and had been operated for several years past chiefly through the fact that the city and valley had had a season of marvelous growth and prosperity. But through this there had been little charging off of the bankers' "dogs and cats" and so about $300,000 of practically uncollectable paper had been allowed to accumulate. Nothing worse than over-leniency and bad judgment were uncovered in the close investigation that has been had and all was without taint of crookedness.

Visiting bankers have commended warmly the manner in which the city and the depositors have taken the closure and have remarked upon the utter absence of the hysteria that usually attends such occasions. There has been no threat of violence or disorder. At a meeting of depositors held three weeks ago quiet consideration was given plans for helping the bank back into operation and nearly all present offered a part of their deposits to help along the work. Since the meeting the depositors' interests have been in the hands of a committee of their number, which has been working hard, assisted in every way by Gov. Hunt, who was one of the largest depositors; by State Bank Comptroller Callaghan, Bank Examiner Gilliland and Atty.-Gen. Bullard. By this co-operation a receivership now seems to have been avoided.

Los Angeles, Colorado, Texas and Kansas bankers have sought control of the new bank, but it is believed the Gila Valley syndicate is the best that offered. It has a chain of banks throughout the mining sections of the State and is backed by capitalists prominent in the large mining corporations of the State. At its head is W. S. Mills, general manager of the Inspiration Copper Company, for years one of the more prominent financiers in the Southwest.

TO STOP ARMS SENT TO ALLIES.

GERMAN-AMERICAN ALLIANCE PROTESTS AT MUNITIONS GOING TO CANADA.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—E. Frank Carson of Philadelphia, as counsel for the German National American Alliance, submitted today to Secretary Bryan a written protest against the supply from America of arms and munitions of war for the allies. The document set forth that cannon were being made in this country and shipped by trainloads into Canada, together with enormous quantities of ammunition. References also were made to the award of contract to American ship-building concerns for the construction of submarine boats to be used against Germany.

Secretary Bryan said he would investigate before deciding whether he would direct an investigation of the charges.

Takes Oil Output.

The Standard is taking under contract the output of the Maricopa Thirty-six on section 36, 12-24, immediately adjoining the famous original Lakeview property. The Maricopa Thirty-six has two pumping wells. The contract was recently filed with the County Recorder.

The Midway Premier No. 1 "wildcat" well on the McKittrick front is to be redrilled. Good oil formations have been encountered but there are seven strata of water sand within a distance of thirty-five feet, and the problem of shutting this off has proved serious, largely because of the absence of hard shells on which to land the casing. As the first step toward redrilling, the six-inch casing has been shot off at 1600 feet with dynamite.

INDUSTRIAL ADVANCE.

Synthetic Carbolic Acid.

[New York Globe:] It is reported that Thomas A. Edison has discovered a practical way of making carbolic acid synthetically—that is to say, of combining the elements of which it is composed. If this be true, it is a discovery of the highest importance, not merely for its immediate and practical effect, but as pointing the way to the synthetic manufacture of many other drugs and chemicals hitherto imported from Europe, the supply of which has now ceased.

Edison uses nearly a ton and a half of carbolic acid every day in the manufacture of phonograph records. Until the war began this was imported in crystals, which were obtained through a process of fractional distillation from coal tar. Very little of this is produced in America, owing to our coal being unsuitable.

Several ways of making carbolic acid synthetically are known, but none has yet been considered commercially practicable. Edison studied them all, decided which was best and put up a factory in eighteen days that is now turning out a ton of carbolic acid a day.

American-made Camphor.

[Philadelphia Ledger:] The American Camphor Corporation, incorporated for the manufacture of gum camphor, has taken the building on the southeast corner of Lehigh avenue and Edgemont street, which is being fitted as the pioneer plant in the manufacture of this product in the United States.

While its product will be available for pharmaceutical purposes, the corporation purposes catering to manufacturers of celluloid, who take about 80 per cent. of the gum camphor imported into this country.

Equipment for giving the factory an output of 25,000 pounds a day will be installed in a few weeks, and by midwinter the plant is to be in complete operation, consuming daily 3200 pounds of turpentine, the base of synthetic camphor. As a by-product, the company will have a daily production of about five tons of glauber salts, which enters into the manufacture of dyes.

This country's consumption of camphor is estimated at 125,000 pounds a day, of which the Philadelphia factory, when running full, can, it is said, supply about 20 per cent.

Manufacturing Creosote.

[Indianapolis News:] Before the European war the United States imported 60,000,000 gallons of creosote oil from England and Germany annually. Sixty-two per cent. of the creosote used in this country was made by foreign workmen and foreign capital. American manufacturers were providing less than 40 per cent. of the product, and throwing away immense amounts of the coal tars, of which creosote is a by-product, because there was no market for the other by-products of the tars.

But the war changed things. Next year American manufacturers will make 60 per cent. of the local demand, according to plans now being made. They will employ many more American workmen and spend many thousands of dollars preparing their plants for the increased business.

Much of the creosote is used for treating railroad ties. Last year 39,500,000 ties were treated at a cost of 25 cents each. This year there has been a severe shortage following the unsettled trade conditions. Many railroads have been compelled to change their treating systems to zinc chloride treatment, generally considered inferior to creosote.

Ozokerite from Utah.

[Washington Post:] The United States Geological Survey has been making an investigation of the articles upon which we have been dependent upon Europe for our supply. One of the products of petroleum that has been largely imported is paraffine wax. The condition in this trade is rather remarkable because while we have imported the war there has been exported by the United States during the last three years paraffine wax to the value of between $9,000,000 and $10,000,000.

Despite these large exports, natural mineral wax, which is also called ozokerite, is imported, for the reason that its melting point is very high, and though the paraffine wax from petroleum can be produced with this high melting point, the process is difficult and costly. Ozokerite occurs in considerable quantities in Utah, but the cost of extracting it from low-grade material has made it possible for the foreign material, which comes from Galicia, to compete with it successfully.

The domestic ozokerite will probably replace the foreign material.

American Cheese Leads.

[Christian Science Monitor:] American cheesemakers are being advised by the Department of Agriculture that the war in Europe is offering a splendid opportunity to shut European cheese permanently out of the American market, and establish in its place the American article, which is said to excel or rival the imported product in every particular. Imports of cheese from Europe for the last fiscal year aggregated 63,784,313 pounds, and while it is too early to know to what extent this figure will be reduced the department feels the reduction is to be great.

If American farmers will furnish the milk, it is said that the deficiency can be more than counteracted. Already, it is pointed out, American cheeses have been made which rank fully as high as importd cheeses of the same class, but the popular preference has until now prevented the home article from selling on its mrits in competition with that from Europe. With the practical closing of the European markets, however, it is pointed out that consumers will have to take the American article, or go without, and that as a result the way is opened for a campaign for cheese "made in America."

As showing to what an extent American cheese is able to compete with that from abroad, it is pointed out that there is no longer any imported Limburger cheese in the American market. The home product has driven the imported out. This happened many years ago, notwithstanding the fact that many consumers even yet cling to the belief that they are using the imported article.

"There is no reason," says one of the department men, "why it should not now be known generally that the American product is exactly as good as the imported. Moreover, now that some of the more expensive types of highly flavored cheeses are not likely to reach the United States for a long time, the demand for domestic Limburger should be greatly increased. The market thus made should remain a good one long after the present conditions have changed; for, once the consumer becomes accustomed to the American product, he is not likely to abandon it for a more expensive imported one that is no more satisfactory."

This is also true, it is said, of the cheeses popularly known as Swiss. Cheese of this variety is made exactly as well at home as abroad, say departmental authorities. For a time American manufacturers of Swiss cheese were confronted with numerous difficulties, but these have been met, and it is now possible for domestic cheese makers to turn out Swiss cheese of uniformly high quality.

OIL LEADS IN KERN OUTPUT.

FIGURES SHOW TWENTY-SEVEN MILLIONS VALUATION.

Ninety-seven Per Cent. of Total Mineral Production is Petroleum, According to Annual Report of State Mining Bureau—Gas Yield, Half Million Dollars.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

BAKERSFIELD, Dec. 12.—The annual report of the State Mining Bureau shows that the mineral output of Kern county for the year 1913 was the highest in value in the State, the next county on the list being $20,000,000 behind. The exact value of the county's production was $28,406,193, an increase over that of 1912 of $5,309,190. Kern county was also first among the counties of California in mineral wealth in 1912, and for several years previous.

Petroleum is, of course, the leading mineral (furnishing 97 per cent. of the output,) without which the county would rank quite low among the mineral producers. It is also worthy of note that other oil counties, viz.: Fresno, Santa Barbara, Ventura and Orange, none of which produce enough of other minerals to be worth mentioning are all high on the list of mineral-producing counties. An item of some note is that of natural gas, which is valued at a little over $500,000. The oil output was valued at over $27,000,000.

Among the mineral resources developed and undeveloped of this section are antimony, asbestos, barite, borax, brick, clay, copper, fuller's earth, gems, gold, gypsum, iron, lead, limestone, magnesite, marble, mineral paint, natural gas, petroleum, potash, salt, silver, soapstone, soda, sulphur and tungsten.

The commercial production for 1913 was as follows:

Brick, 1625 M., value $22,000.
Clay, 208 tons, value $104.
Copper, 3498 pounds, value $542.
Gold, $649,712.
Gypsum, 10,000 tons, value $22,750.
Lead, 1376 pounds, value $61.
Lime, 135,000 barrels, $91,200.
Natural gas, 7,111,237 M., value $568,899.
Petroleum, 58,698,432 barrels, value $27,038,474.
Silver, $11,851.
Other minerals, $600.
Total value, $28,406,193.

Purchase Mining Claims.

San Francisco and Tulare men have purchased twelve claims in Last Chance Canyon near Koehn Springs from Charles Koehn, now a rancher but a leading operator in mining in the boom days of, Randsburg. M. P. Boag, a San Francisco engineer and inventor of a new process of saving placer gold, is at the head of the syndicate. His method will be used.

The Truth.

SWISS DISPROVE SERIOUS CHARGE.

ALLEGED ROBBERY OF FRENCH RED CROSS REFUTED.

First Stories Insinuated that the Germans had Taken Everything, but Investigation is Said to Have Brought Complete Exoneration for the Accused Officers.

[A. P. FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

THE HAGUE, Sept. 2.—French medical officers and a number of field hospital men who had been taken prisoners by the Germans in the fighting along the Upper Vosges Mountains, were on August 30 turned over to the Swiss authorities at Leopoldshoehe in order that they might rejoin their troops. From Leopoldshoehe the French military personnel went to Basle, and were permitted to go from here to Belfort via Pruntrut. On September 2 the Gazette de Lausanne published a dispatch from its correspondent at Pruntrut, in which it was claimed that "the physicians of the military Red Cross section declared that the Germans had taken everything from them, their surgical instruments, as well as their watches, rings and money."

Interested in this alleged breach of international military law, the Swiss General Staff investigated the cause through the commandant of Basle, and a few days ago sent a copy of the following report to the Gazette de Lausanne:

"The officers wore their decorations of the Cross of the Legion of Honor, had their watches, and their pocketbooks were liberally filled with money. I saw some who had whole bundles of f.1000 bills, and as a favor I changed for several of them f.50 notes. Many of them had money changed at the exchange in the station.

"The best proof that the French were not robbed by the Germans, as has been claimed, is that several of them bought champagne of the best brands to drink with their lunch in the station restaurant."

The report continues with the statement that none of the officers checked their men in cutting off the numbers of their regiments and the buttons from the hoods of their coats so that they might give them to the ladies of the French colony of Basle. The French Consul-Genera[illegible] has expressed his regrets to the commandant for the unseemly conduct of the French troops, and the last of the men of the medical service who were turned over to the Swiss authorities by the Germans were warned by him to conduct themselves more properly.

Reducing Cost of Living.

[St. Joseph News Press:] Chicago is laying plans to reduce the cost of living to its citizens. Chicago spends $321,000,000 a year for food. Only half of this goes to producers. The other half goes to middlemen. By the proper organization of the business of handling this food over $51,000,000 could be saved to the consumer annually, or $21.47 per person. This is the estimate made by the Chicago Municipal Markets Commission, which has just issued a report recommending the elimination of unnecessary waste, middlemen's costs and the like by the establishment of municipal markets and a system of distribution which will reduce to the last possible figure the expense of delivery.

New York Cotton Market.

Furnished by E. F. Hutton & Co., Members New York Stock Exchange, 118 West Fourth street, Los Angeles.]

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—The market here opened steady today in full response to the bullish cables. The buying of October contracts by investors and for foreign account was the main feature. Local shorts also covered, which brought about an advance of 7 to 11 points above yesterday's closing prices. There was less pressure from the South and markets in that section were reported steadier.

LOS ANGELES STOCK EXCHANGE.

National Pacific is Stronger—Investment Gains After Week Opening. Bank Stocks Higher.

In anticipation of the stockholders' meeting Monday, there was something of a flurry in National Pacific Oil stock yesterday on the stock exchange. An advance of a half point was scored, with the close at 4⅝ cents. Los Angeles Investment opened off to 51 cents, but closed 2½ points up. Maricopa Northern was steady at 1 cent. Five thousand shares of McNamara sold at 4 cents, seller five. Improvement in some of the bank stocks has been noted during the week. During the period of the suspension Security Trust and Savings bank stock sold as low as $310. The closing bid yesterday was $347.50, and there were no offerings. Monday's close showed the market $325 bid. German American Trust and Savings bank stock closed $335 bid; it sold as low as $320 during the suspension. First National moved up 2 points in the bid price yesterday. The bond list is strong. The Home Telephone issues are firm as a result of the increase in rates which took place while the exchange was closed. The mining list was quiet.

SALES.

COMMERCIAL.

The week past has seen a few declines and more advances, the declines largely in staple commodities and the advances in fruits and vegetables, mostly. Citrus products have been a trifle weaker on account of an increasing supply in most lines. Oranges and tangerines have shown the most drop. It is figured that the good holiday demand in the next two weeks will cause a slight upward turn in the market. The east is buying very heavily of oranges, grapefruit and tangerines. Lemons are moving slowly. Poor stock is selling as low as $1 a box on this fruit. In the apple list, advances have been the rule. Receipts have been decidedly lower from day to day than any week since the opening of the season. Yesterday 3126 boxes were received. Grapes, persimmons, pears and figs have gone up. Figs are surprisingly in evidence at this date and are averaging $2 on the best quality, two-layer box. Berries still continue to come in and the best stock is worth from 10 to 15 cents a basket.

Receipts of eggs were 98 cases. The local market stayed at 38 and the northern at 42. Butter arrivals were 29,180 pounds and no change in the price was reported. The northern price is 29 cents. Cheese receipts were 1950 pounds. Speculative buying has been causing some marked changes in the northern producing market and at this time, the price has dropped to 12½ on northern fresh, best stock.

Potatoes have been more firm. Receipts were 2550 sacks. The call on spuds was good throughout the week. Onions have gone up and down. The white variety, which is practically cleaned up, has advanced, while the yellows have dropped slightly. Receipts were 180 sacks. Bean receipts were 431 sacks. The market on beans continues firm. Sweet potatoes are very plentiful.

Weekly Financial Review.

CONDITIONS NEAR NORMAL IN THE BUSINESS WORLD.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—Successful resumption of trading in specified listed shares on the Stock Exchange today marked the longest step yet taken toward re-establishing conditions existing before the closing of July 30 on account of the war. The return to employment of the large force of men was the substantial factor in the great increase in cheerfulness manifested throughout the financial district. It was evidence of the confidence which prompted this step, taken in advance of the reopening of the London exchange.

The decision of the leading banking interests that no need existed for the organization of a money pool to provide special credit arrangements was another potent factor in the establishment of confidence. This was further stimulated by persistent reports indicating an early and favorable decision by the Interstate Commerce Commission regarding the eastern freight rate case, now under reconsideration. It was regarded as especially noteworthy that two unimportant failures of brokers marked the extent of the weakness uncovered by the renewal of business.

Under existing conditions, only a few important stocks were withheld from the regular trading list of the exchange, but these, with few exceptions, showed marked advances over minimum prices.

Concurrently, bond prices also manifested perceptible strength and the free absorption of new bond offerings amounting to $15,000,000 offers indubitable evidence of the demand for attractive issues. Strength of German exchange for the greater part of the week was generally believed to represent selling of securities from that source, together with the placing of loans in this market for German interests. The week's operations of the clearinghouse banks showed another nominal loss of cash, a moderate loan expansion and a decrease of almost $7,700,000 in actual reserves. On the whole, however, the domestic monetary situation is stronger than at any time since the outbreak of the war.

DEADLOCK IS BROKEN.

Two Thousand Men out on Strike Since Last April Will Earn Something for the Holidays.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

BELLAIRE (O.) Dec. 12.—The deadlock between miners and operators in the Eastern Ohio coal fields, which has existed since last April, when the miners struck for increased wages, was broken today with the announcement that 2000 men at Fairpoint mine would return to work Monday under the Pittsburgh scale. The men in the West Wheeling mine also will resume on Monday, but on a profit-sharing basis. It was said that fully 16,000 miners were still out, but that if the co-operative plan of the West Wheeling mine proves satisfactory other companies will adopt it.

Berry has already resigned himself to the loss of Walter Schmidt, star of the San Francisco catching staff, and rated by many as the best backstop in the league. He will not lose Schmidt to the Federals, but will dispose of him voluntarily to one of the major leagues. Berry expects to leave for the frost-bitten East next week to put through a deal that will give Schmidt the chance for which he has been yearning. That the catcher either will be sold or traded is certain, Berry says.

Radical Move.

"PRO" IN ONE SPORT MAY BE AMATEUR IN ANOTHER.

Southern Conference Rules that Athlete may be Professional Ball Player and Still Compete for College in All Other Branches of Athletics — New and Sweeping Rule Put Forth.

BY HOWARD W. ANGUS.

THE most drastic move ever taken for common-sense athletics in the United States was made yesterday by the Southern California Intercollegiate Conference.

U.S.C., Occidental and Pomona decided that, so far as they are concerned, a man who professionalizes himself in any sport is a professional in that sport alone and an amateur in every other.

This means that a student can play summer baseball and still compete in football, basketball, tennis, track and swimming. Or he can be life guard at the beach and compete in everything but swimming. They even went so far as to say that a man could take money for playground work and be an amateur.

There never was a logical reason for keeping a man who made his living by one sport from competing for pleasure in all others.

A man making his living by racing in an automobile has no more to do with his sprinting ability than hoeing weeds. Ty Cobb is the greatest baseball player in the world, but may easily be the poorest football player. There is no connection between the two games. Taking money for one should have nothing to do with the other.

Many times colleges and even the DEMONSTRATION OF TRUCK AND CAR ENDS WITH STORM RIDE.

BY AD G. WADDELL.

ONE of the most wonderful motor demonstrations ever given was staged on the Big Bear Valley road last week. A Jeffery "Quad" truck, with a two-ton load, climbed over the 8000-foot summit to Pine Knot Lodge with the roads covered with snow. The following day the truck returned with a load of passengers, during a severe mountain blizzard.

A McFarlan "Six" touring car accompanied the truck and the machine's performance was also remarkable.

BECAUSE.

For the benefit of James Henderson, a motor truck expert of Redlands, who was interested in the Jeffery, as well as for his own satisfaction, Al G. Faulkner of the local agency, staged the mountain run.

The new "Quad" was run empty to Redlands where it was loaded. The truck used was of two-ton type and hauled the heaviest load to Pine Knot Lodge ever freighted over the road on a motor truck of that capacity. When loaded the truck weighed just a trifle more than 9900 pounds.

HAD PASSENGERS.

Raymond W. Seltzer piloted the big car up the mountain and down the next day in the snow. Bert S. Hatfield, Redlands distributor, J. B. Hines and James Henderson, the purchaser, rode on the truck.

H. A. Burgess, Jeffery representative, and Faulkner, accompanied the truck in the McFarlan "Six." As guests of the local dealer, Bub Burman, the speed king, Frank Lowry and Count Rudolph Rovigno rode in the touring car; and had it not been for the excellent driving and iron nerve of Count Rovigno, the entire party might have been locked in Bear Valley all winter.

It was feared by some that the truck would meet with disaster long before the hard going was reached and Faulkner was advised to take off some of the load. At Intake the "Quad" was doing well and the radiator was not even warm.

A short distance beyond Intake the road crosses a wide wash and then follows a steady climb of several hundred feet, with many twists and turns.

Rounding a turn after the last look back down the canyon, the car and truck were in snow. At first the snow was not noticed. The car was equipped with non-skid tires and the soft places were of no consequence. The truck was not equipped with block tires, but carried smooth tread solids on all four wheels.

Clark's Ranch was the first stopping-place and dinner was served at that point.

A mile or so beyond Clark's, the

What About Yale?

CAMP PICKS FIVE HARVARD MEN ON HIS ALL-AMERICAN ELEVEN.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, Dec. 12.—Walter Camp, in picking his All-America eleven in next week's Collier's, has found two western players who have sprouted into football manhood big enough to be placed on the first team. One westerner is placed on the second eleven and three on the third.

The two who measure up to the All-America standard on the first team, are Maulbetsch of Michigan at half-back and Chapman of Illinois at guard. Desjardien of Chicago is placed at center on the second team, while Solon of Minnesota, Halligan of Nebraska and Pogue of Illinois are placed respectively at end, tackle and half-back on the third team.

One of the surprises is that not a single Yale man is given a place on the first eleven and only two are considered good enough for the second, and that winds up the representation of the Elis. Five Harvard men get premier places.

The arrival of the Dodge Bros. car.

Welcomed by Thousands.

GREAT RECEPTION GIVEN NEW CAR IN THIS CITY.

THE keen interest in motor events in Southern California was demonstrated last Wednesday and Thursday at the reception accorded to Dodge Brothers's motor car, being shown for the first time at Harold L. Arnold's salesroom on South Olive street.

Nearly 11,000 persons inspected this latest product of the motor industry during its two days in Los Angeles, the attendance the firsht day being 6798 and 3827 the second day.

At the conclusion of Wednesday's reception, Arnold wired the factory at Detroit, stating the number of people that had called that day. Thursday mroning the following telegram was received from A. I. Philip, general sales manager of Dodge Brothers' factory:

"We heartily congratulate you upon the remarkable reception accorded Dodge Brothers's car in Los Angeles. You have unquestionably estabsilhed a United States' record for one day's attendance."

The count was made by a tallying machine, officially checked and compared, so there can be no question as to the accutacy of the result.

This rectption is all the more remarkable when it is considered that this is nearly the middle of the winter automobile season, when the automobile inetrest is supposed to be at the bb tideof the year. It is a clear indication that the motoring public is keenly alive to the development of every phase of the industry.

The Dodge was exhibited on a raised platform so that the public could inspect every part of the car. Underneath the car, arranged with electric lights, a large mirror was placed so that the smallest detail of chassis construction could be seen.

One of the most interesting features about Dodge Brothers's car and one abou twhichthere was a great deal of question before the car reached Los Angeles, was that of the motor, which is a 35-horse-power, cast en bloc, with high-tension water-proof Eiseman magneto. For several months past it has been reported that the Dodge would have an engine similar to that manufactured last year by Dodge Brothers for the Ford automobile.

The new car is completely equipped with one-man top, full electric lighting and starting system, gasoline pressure feed from tank in rear, body of pressed steel, stream-line form upholstered in genuine leather with cushions deep and comfortable, and wtih the tonneau seat of the unusual width of 46 inches. There is plenty of room in the fron tseat for two large persons in perfect comfort, and with sufficient leg room for the tallest man.

The fenders are of pressed steel, of special oval design, and are attached to the body with dust-proof shields to which the front lamps are attached by a special rattle-proof bracket.

Chrome-nickel and vanadium steel have entered quit elargely into the chassis cinstruction of this new machine, and this in connection with the aluminum crank case, clutch and gear box, has reduced the weight of the car to 2200 pounds. This gives a ratio of one horse power to every sixty-three pounds of car weight.

One of the first determinations in planning the car was to have Timken bearings, full floating rear axle, I-beam front axle, and drop forgings of the strongest possible steel construction. The body is made of one pressing of steel, with no joints in it from one end to the other. This with the steel frame, makes an unusually rigid and strong body construction, which sohuld stand all sorts of rough driving without developing looseness or rattle in any portion of the car.

Novel Plan Success.

TIRE MAKERS ARE HOME MAKERS NEAR FACTORY.

THE plan of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company to provide modern homes for its workmen at actual cost has made such progress that it is regarded as one of the most interesting sights of the city of Akron, O., where the Goodyear factory is located.

Nearly 200 homes have already been completed and occupied by Goodyear families. Many more applications for homes will be acted upon as soon as the return of spring makes building operations possible.

President F. A. Seiberling, whose idea it was, bought several farms at the edge of town, not far from the works. A design for the community was arranged by a famous landscape gardener. Streets were laid out, pavements and sidewalks, sewers and gas and water pipes were put in. The total cost of the land plus the improvements were divided into actual lot prices, without profit. Then contracts for houses were let in large numbers, insuring lowest costs, and the completed properties turned over to workmen and paid for as rent, no deposits required.

One of the strongest features of the plan is that every house has individuality. It in no way resembles the usual "company house." Brick, brick and stucco, and frame are included in the designs, of which there are dozens, and each has its proportions and style.

It is expected that the Goodyear community, built upon the hills just outside the eastern limits of the city of Akron, will finally contain about a thousand homes.

The Connection.

BAKERSFIELD EXPECTS TO BE HIGHWAY TERMINUS.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

BAKERSFIELD, Dec. 12.—If plans formulated by the Inyo Good Roads Club are carried through Bakersfield will be the terminus of the Midland transcontinental road which will here connect with the State Highway to Los Angeles. In a letter, G. W. Scott, secretary of the Inyo Good Roads Club, urging support of the project, outlines the proposed route as follows:

The Midland trail, extending from New York through Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Columbus, Indianapolis, St. Louis, Kansas City, Denver, Grand Junction, Green River, Salt Lake City, Ely, Tonopah and Goldfield, enters California at the center of its eastern boundary.

The first town reached after crossing the State border is Big Pine, Inyo county. Here the motorist will have the choice of two routes. One extends north, via Bishop, Mammoth and Bridgeport to Tahoe, from which points the way to San Francisco would be through Sacramento.

The other route follows the beautiful El Camino Sierra through Independence and Lone Pine to Freemans, where it cuts through Walkers Pass and joins the State Highway at this city. The northern branch would be open only in summer and the remainder of the year all travelers on the great Madland trail would pass through Bakersfield.

MOTOR TRUCKS TO SERVE ON RANCH.

SEVERE DEMONSTRATION CALLS FOR PURCHASE OF LOCAL BUILT MACHINES.

James D. Brandt, a rancher of the Antelope Valley, has placed two Mission trucks in the ranch service. They will be used in hauling farm products and supplies between the railroad and Lancaster.

Brandt had his own ideas as to what a truck must accomplish, and he demanded a severe demonstration. The Mission truck was loaded to capacity and left Los Angeles early in the morning for the run to the ranch.

Through Bouquet canyon no trouble was experienced, in spite of the fact that the roads were in poor condition on account of the rains. From Elizabeth Lake, a little used road was followed to Lancaster, and the truck had to do some heavy pulling before it had completed the trip.

At one place there was deep sand at the side of the road, and the truck was driven into this and forced to plough through it for half a mile.

Brandt was so well pleased with the demonstration that he closed the deal immediately and accepted delivery on the trucks.

HARD SERVICE IS REQUIRED ON RUN.

MOUNTAIN GOING TRUCKS HAVE PROVED SEVERE TEST. FOR TIRES.

According to experts, it is doubtful if any truck tires are subjected to greater strain than those to which the Mount Wilson freight trucks are put. While in the city a few days ago to call on T. J. Stoner, manager of the local Mack and Saurer agency, J. M. Klein, who drives one of the trucks, was telling of the service derived from the Firestone tires with which the trucks are equipped.

"It certainly takes real tires to withstand what those on our trucks have to go through," said Klein. "The Mount Wilson solar observatory has two Macks, a three-tonner and a ton and a half, which are kept busy constantly. We make a round trip over those nine miles every day. The equipment we now have on has done about 4500 miles of mountain work besides the boulevard use to which they have been put. They are still in good condition and I can't tell how long they will last us."

The Mount Wilson Hotel Company also has a Mack truck that is equipped with Firestone tires. This truck is engaged largely in passenger traffic as well as carrying the supplies for the hotel.

NEW SIX MODEL WINS APPROVAL.

Ten-hour Test for Machine Upon Arrival.

Construction Offers Number of Features.

Marketed to Meet Demand of Six Enthusiasts.

The Overland Six has passed muster. J. W. Leavitt, president of the J. W. Leavitt Company, Coast distributors for the line, has pronounced it the best Overland ever built.

When the car arrived Leavitt took it out to see what it was capable of. He drove it for ten hours, up hill and down hill, over rough roads, through mud, chuckholes and ruts, in the open country and in the crowded traffic.

With its full complement of seven passengers, it was driven at touring speed over the rough roads, and the passengers were able to lean back in comfort all the way.

The construction of the car was one of the most pleasing features. The new six is not a flimsy car, and it is not an overweight car. The front axle is large enough to provide a big margin of safety. The full floating rear axle with Timpken bearings provides safest rear-axle construction.

The motor is of the Continental type, six cylinders, cast in blocks of three, with a bore of three and one-half inches and a stroke of five and one-quarter inches. The wheel base of the car is 125 inches. The tires are 35x4½.

The left-hand drive, center control, three-speed gear set, and all equipment is the same as the Overland four.

The car was marketed to meet the demand for a light six-cylinder car at a popular price, and should take its place with the Overland four in the American car market. The car is furnished in one body design only, the seven-passenger touring type.

AFTER THE BUSINESS.

The Chandler Motor Car Company, through the foresightedness of its export manager, W. S. M. Mead, has commenced an active campaign of sales in South America. Mead is one of the oldest and most experienced export men in theautomobile business, and had planned a European trip for this fall, but the outbreak of hostilities on the continent early in July caused the postponement of the journey. Quick to realize the possible benefits from the severing of trade relations between South American countries and Europe, he immediately arranged a trip to South America by way of the West Indies.

BATTERY MILEAGE RECORD.

Local-built Electrics Hang up Enviable Scores on Day's Run for Owners Which is Finished in Pouring Rain Over Slippery City Streets on Single Charge.

THE most remarkable performance with electric pleasure cars that has ever taken place occurred last Saturday on the Beardsley electric owners' tour to Orange county and return. Fourteen Beardsley electric pleasure cars and one Beardsley electric truck participated.

The run was a round trip from Los Angeles to Santa Ana and Orange. This course is quite hilly and is not an easy trip for an electric to make.

The distance covered on the day's trip was eighty-three miles. The party returned to Los Angeles about 6 o'clock in the evening, and were tendered a banquet as guests of the company at the Log Cabin Inn on West Adams street.

After a dinner and programme the owners resumed the day's run to compete for the highest mileage scores. A silver medal was offered for all cars reaching ninety miles, and a gold medal for all cars reaching 100 or more miles, and the remarkable part of the day's run was the fact that every car participating exceeded ninety miles.

It was necessary to complete the day's run in a pouring rain and over slippery streets. However, the cars did most remarkable work, and the highest score of the day was captured by Miss Lillian Wayland, No. 171 South Grand avenue, Pasadena, with her Beardsley electric brougham, which is one of the first models built by the local company. The car has been in use about one year, and this car made the remarkable score of 112.1 miles.

Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Jenks of Hollywood, with their brougham, ran a close second, making a score of 106.5 miles.

John T. Shannon, electrical engineer for the company, in a Victoria, ran third, with 105.8 miles. Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Bosworth in their Victoria ran 104.1 miles. Dr. and Mrs. R. Garton in a brougham ran 103.9 miles. A brougham owned by Col. and Mrs. W. H. Holabird ran 101 miles, and one of the same model cars owned by Mrs. B. W. Marks ran 100.3 miles.

Miss Wanda Stutz of No. 1739 West Adams street, while accustomed to another make of electric, just purchased a Beardsley electric the day before the tour, and with only a few minutes' practice accompanied the party and made a score of 100.1 miles.

Other owners who completed the run with from ninety to 100 miles to their credit were:

Mrs. Volney S. Beardsley, Mrs. Jessie R. Barnhardt, Mr. and Mrs. C. Specht, J. W. Munro, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Walthew and a Victoria belonging to Mrs. E. L. Conger.

A committee of three disinterested men acted as judges. All speedometers were sealed in the start in the morning and the seals were not broken until the batteries were exhausted.

The average mileage of all cars participating on this day's tour was 100.1 miles, which, for a single charge and over country roads, is the most wonderful performance ever accomplished wtih electric cars. It establishes a world's mileage record that will probably not be equaled for some time to come. It has been the talk of Los Angeles during the past few days, and while it is possible, perhaps, to especialy prepare one electric placed in the hands of an expert driver to obtain mileage equal to that obtained by these cars, it is remarkable when one stops to think that these cars are all stock models and were not driven by experts, but by the owners themselves.

A complete list of the party who participated in this tour and banquet follows:

Mr. and Mrs. Volney S. Beardsley, Col. W. H. Holabird, Dr. and Mrs. R. Garton, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Bosworth, Mr. and Mrs. C. Specht and grandson, Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Jenks, Mr. and Mrs. G. E. English, Mrs. Cora Stutz, Miss Wanda Stutz, Mr. Rocco, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Walthew, Mrs. Jessie R. Barnhardt, Mrs. Estabrook, Clifton C. Edwards, Mr. Hyatt, J. U. Wayland, Miss Lillian Wayland, Miss Kuehmsted, J. W. Munro, Mr. Broadbent, Miss Fanny Lockhart, Miss Ethel C. Strobl, Mr. and Mrs. A. Carman Smith, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Solomon, Mr. and Mrs. Sidney L. Palmer and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Horn, Mr. N. F. Lewis, Mr. Frank Davis, Mr. Dane Mitchell, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Gossel, Mr. and Mrs. Oris Mitchell, Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Sorg, Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Gates, Mrs. Grace Love, Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Miller, Mr. and Mrs. B. W. Marks, Dr. and Mrs. N. W. Gardiner.

This performance is one of which every loyal California citizen should be proud, as the Beardsley electric is manufactured in Los Angeles for the California trade, and is fast becoming known as one of the most popular cars on the market.

NEWEST CLOSED MODEL OF LINE.

The latest enclosed Hudson car for the 1915 season has arrived. The new model is known as the cabriolet or convertible roadster. It is built on the Hudson light six-40 chassis with 123½-inch wheel base. The motor on the new model develops more than forty horse power.

This convertible roadster furnishes two cars in one. It is one of the handiest and most popular of the late models of the Hudson line.

The car seats three adults. The folding top can be quickly adjusted to convert the car from a closed coupe into an open roadster.

The use of three-point ball bearings with adjustable cones has survived in bicycles until the present day.

NO MOTOR CAR COULD BE MORE EXCLUSIVE, COMFORTABLE OR EFFICIENT THAN THE EIGHT CYLINDER CADILLAC COUPE, SEDAN OR LIMOUSINE.

Qualities essential in an enclosed car are:

Style and finish,
Ease and Comfort.
Reliability and Efficiency.

The body types of the new Cadillacs represent the most advanced conceptions of the designers' art and the builders' skill.

You are at once impressed with the handsome lines, graceful contour, and the rich, dignified appointments.

There is nothing left to be desired or obtained.

With the super-smoothness of the eight-cylinder engine, the yielding springs, the deep soft upholstery, the quiet richness which surrounds you, mind and body are enveloped in an indescribable sense of relaxation and ease, almost oblivious to the mechanical means which gives you motion.

Cadillac reliability and efficiency are known and appreciated qualities. There is no better built motor car in the world.

Considered from any standpoint there is nothing in the motor car market to equal the Cadillac enclosed models for 1915. You know this to be true, so why consider any other make?

GREAT GROWTH IS TALE OF MACHINE.

AMERICA'S FIRST CAR IS NOW LEADING PRODUCER IN INDIANA.

The Haynes Automobile Company is now the biggest producer of motor cars in the State of Indiana, according to Froman Speers of Bekins-Speers, distributors for the Haynes in Southern California. During the past three months, according to statistics, more cars have been shipped from the Haynes factory than from any one of the fifteen Indiana automobile companies.

During the months of September, October and November, the Haynes factory has continued to run twenty-four hours a day in order to fill 1915 foreign orders. The Haynes Automobile Company has manufactured automobiles continuously for the past twenty-two years, and while very conservative, has had a steady, consistent growth until it now surpasses all the other companies throughout the State of Indiana in the number of cars produced.

The progressive automobile manufacturer has come to realize that the permanency of his business depends upon the service that the particular car gives, and the service given the owner. The automobile owner is entitled to more attention from the producer since he has a bigger investment at stake than have the customers of many other industries.

HARD TIRE TEST COMES TO CLOSE.

It is reported that within the next week the officials of the Western Auto Subcasing Company will bring to a successful conclusion the most revolutionary tire service test which has ever been made.

This test is novel for several reasons. In the first place the test has been made by private individuals on their own cars and under their own observation. Second, the resultant mileages show service from two to five times in excess of any previous mileage, and in the third instance because this service was given uninterrupted by any of the prevailing accidents such as blowouts, rim-cuts or punctures.

The tires that underwent this test were of all makes, sizes and styles, and were used to the last shred of fabric in their construction. They were used and gave constant service until they literally fell off the wheel rims.

Los Angeles Dealer Visits Chicago and Places Big Order for Immediate Delivery of Many Touring Cars and Roadsters—Coast Success Due to Standardized Features.

The general manager of the Golden State Motor Car Company, E. S. De Tambie, returned to Los Angeles last week after a brief visit to Chicago, where he visited the Partin-Palmer factory and superintended the consignment of several large shipments of Partin-Palmers to the Pacific Coast. Orders for an additional 300 roadsters and 150 touring cars were also placed with the factory during Mr. De Tambie's visit.

The equipment and efficiency of the Partin-Palmer "20" has also been increased through the addition of the nickel-plated bumper and the adoption of the Ensign carburetor for all cars sold on the Pacific Coast. The Ensign carburetor is manufactured in Los Angeles, but has already won national recognition.

One of the strong features of the new carburetor is the fact that it contains no springs. The first order of 500 carburetors to equip the present shipments of Partin-Palmers has already been made and mechanics of the company have been busy night and day at the Golden State Motor Car Company's headquarters installing the carburetors on the cars for delivery.

With the increased capacity of the Partin-Palmer factory immediate deliveries on all cars purchased on the Pacific Coast is made possible, giving the new roadster a great advantage in the local field. The standardized features and the construction of the roadster model have been one of the principal reasons for the success which the car has met on the Pacific Coast.

CLOSES STRENUOUS SEASON WITH WIN.

GREAT INTEREST IN THE RACE GAME SHOWN BY NUMBER OF CONTESTS.

When Eddie Hearne drove his speedy Case car eight miles in 6m. 32s. at San Antonio, Tex., the other day, defeating a large field, he won the last big circular track race of the season.

How extensive is the interest in racing in this country can be seen from the fact that during the last season this same car was used in 203 races, totaling close to 5000 miles of actual speed competition.

In the telegram just received by the local Case agency, the Hollingsworth Motor Car Company, from Hearne, himself, the latter speaks gratefully of the work which the car did for him throughout the season. It was used in all the 203 races and never gave the slightest trouble.

Herne is a strong advocate of the Rayfield carburetor, and used it on the Case in every race during the 1914 season.

LATEST ADDITION EIGHT MILE COURSE FOR A

THE latest addition to the already large list of mountain boulevards in Southern California is the eight-mile auto road through Griffith Park.

What this road lacks as to scenery is made up by accessibility. The entrance is from the northern end of Western avenue. On the other side of the park it can be reached from the Los Feliz road, taking the route past the municipal golf links.

Last Monday Don Smith in a Chandler Six drove over the road on an inspection trip. The surface was [illegible]

AUTO ENGINEER WOUNDED SOLDIER.

In a letter from Mrs. Rene Petard, it is learned that Rene Petard, chief engineer of the L-P-C Motor Company, makers of the Lewis Six, was severely wounded in the battle of the Meuse.

In a charge against the intrenchments of the Germans Petard was wounded. A piece of shrapnel struck him in the left shoulder, fracturing the collar bone and arm.

Petard is now in the military hospital at Chantillion sur Seine, and it will be several months before he will be fit for duty. Petard went through the battle of the Marne, and, in fact, all important engagements, including the battle of the Meuse, where he was wounded.

The New One.

BIG SIX LIMOUSINE IS AUTO ROW ATTRACTION.

THE Peerless "48" limousine is here. This handsome "big six" enclosed car arrived at the salesrooms of Smith Brothers last week, with a seven-passenger "48" touring car.

The new models are among the finest the Peerless people have yet produced. The outside finish of the limousine is blue and black, with a cream panel. The interior finish is in light gray broadcloth of the whipcord pattern.

The appointments are perfect. The lighting includes a dome light and two Pullman reading lights. A flower vase is another pleasing refinement.

The exterior lighting includes electric head lights with dimmers, electric carriage lights at the doors of the limousine, and an electric tail light.

The touring car, with its handsome finish and upholstering of the best leather money can buy, is also a beautiful car.

A carload of the new "light six" Peerless cars also arrived. These new all-purpose cars have proved very popular in Southern California, and they have performed some remarkable test demonstrations. On a recent run from Los Angeles to Riverside and return by San Bernardino, with no especial precautions regarding gasoline consumption, the car averaged 14.9 miles to the gallon of gasoline.

Both the Peerless light six and the Peerless big six seem destined to be rapid sellers in Southern California this season.

LATEST ADDITION TO TRUCK FIELD.

MACHINE JUST ARRIVED TO BE USED IN THE LIGHT-DELIVERY FIELD.

One of the latest arrivals on the local automobile row is the new 1915 Buick truck. This newest addition to the Buick family is bound to be a big contender for high honors in the light delivery car field.

In commenting on the new truck, F. S. Howard, manager of the Howard Automobile Company, says:

"The new Buick truck has just arrived and we have hardly had a chance to try it out, but as for power and ease of handling, it exceeds by far our fondest hopes. Just as the new truck was when received from the factory, it took a load of 1500 pounds up the steepest hills to be found around Los Angeles, most of them on high gear, without even slowing down."

Season's Best.

ROAD CHAMPION NOW DE PALMA.

Eastern Critic Names Great Italian Driver.

Oldfield's Title Holds Out Against Field.

Pullen's Place Second with Two Victories.

Motor Age of Chicago, which for the last six years has named the road racing champion each season and whose finding is accepted as authoritative by the motoring public, this week announces that the 1914 title goes to Ralph De Palma. De Palma won three of the season's classics and finished fourth in two others.

Eddie Pullen is classed as runner-up.

As for Barney Oldfield, Motor Age says: "The six starts of the master driver of the world netted him one first, two seconds, one third, one fourth, and one time not finishing." Surely that is a showing which entitles the veteran to some consideration so Motor Age hands out to Barney that jewel, the consistency title.

This is the second time that De Palma has been adjudged road race champion, the other time being in 1912. Of the champions named in the last six years three have been from Los Angeles: Bert Dingley in 1909, Harvey Herrick in 1911 and Earl Cooper in 1913. Ralph Mulford was champion in 1910.

No attempt is made to pick a track champion, but if one were to be named this season it would be an easy matter as Bob Burman, the world's speed king, has broken practically every track record this year.

ECONOMY SCORED AGAINST ODDS.

With seven passengers, extra tires and a load totaling 5582 pounds, the Cadillac eight made a wonderful record in the recent economy contest held at Harrisburg, Pa. The route of the run was through 111 miles of mountainous country, with many steep climbs, and the Cadillac averaged seventeen miles to the gallon of gasoline.

This is a good record for any car carrying seven passengers, and answers the question motor car buyers have been asking since the car was announced: "Will it be economical with fuel?" The run was over all sorts of road, and not once from the start did the driver have to shift gears. The flexibility of the eight greatly decreased the gasoline consumption.

Arthur Bull, one of the most experienced automobile salesmen of the city, has joined the force of Hawley, King & Co., in the capacity of traveling representative. Bull will attend to the outside business of the company in conjunction with Robert Howland, and will look after the needs of the sub-dealers who handle the National, Oakland and Saxon cars.

Auto Club's Verdict.

COURT DECISION DOES NOT SETTLE QUESTION.

THAT the decision of the Appellate Court in the Merced case does not set at rest the question of which shall rule the speed limits of motorists in California, the State or municipalities, was the startling announcement made yesterday by officials of the Automobile Club of Southern California, representing 6500 motorists south of the Tehachepi.

One gleam of light seen through the tangle of possibilities for litigation in the future is the fact that a long step has been taken toward abating the "regulation-for-revenue-only" nuisance, which has annoyed California motorists for many years, according to Edward G. Kuster, counsel for the Automobile Club.

It is the opinion of the club's legal department that all cities in Southern California operating under freeholders' charters may enact such reasonable traffic regulations as they see fit. This means that the "lid" will not be lifted in California so far as speed limits in these cities are concerned.

"Experience has shown that the notorious evils arising from local traffic regulation have not occurred in the charter cities, but rather in the incorporated villages that have made a law of necessity and have sought to 'regulate' through traffic with a view less to bona-fide regulation than to the enrichment of the municipal treasuries," said Mr. Kuster. "This is the evil which the decision of the District Court of Appeals will abate, even though the opinion does contain a general qualification which may require more or less additional litigation to render specific."

TEST CASES.

That one test case, and perhaps more, will be necessary before the matter is cleared up is the belief at the auto club headquarters. Motorists for this reason will be working out the problems involved in finding out whether or not the town through which they are passing is a charter city or not and deciding whether or not their view is obstructed. The motorists are thrown upon their own good judgment.

Speeding on the Speedway at Venice will not be "done" this winter, for, unknown to many, Venice is operating under a charter, and, according to the present judicial light thrown upon the subject, is qualified to make its own speed laws regardless of the Motor Vehicle Act. Many motorists are looking up Vernon to see if it operates under a charter.

A paragraph in the opinion of the Merced case is pointed out by Mr. Kuster as foreshadowing future difficulties, refering particularly to the "exceptional-conditions" clause, which is as follows: " . . . we are of the opinion that the Motor Vehicle Act was intended to provide uniform regulation to govern all persons in operating motor vehicles in incorporated cities and towns, unless it may be where some exceptional conditions in such cities and towns demand a lower rate of speed in some parts thereof than is prescribed by the State law and such conditions clearly appear."

POINT UNSETTLED.

"Probably each cross-roads town will deem itself blessed with some 'exceptional condition' or other which will entitle it to enact traffic regulations in conflict with the State law, and to gather in the fines for violation thereof," Mr. Kuster said, "and it will probably require considerable litigation to determine just what the court meant by that quoted dictum in the Merced case, implying that under certain exceptional conditions local regulations, even in non-charter cities, may supersede the State law.

"Whatever may be the force of that qualification by the court of its decision, I am personally of the opinion that no exceptional conditions are present in such municipalities as Compton, Watts, El Monte, Covina, Azusa and similar municipalities, to justify a departure from the general rule announced by the Appellate Court in the Merced case.

"Although I have said the question is not altogether set at rest, I am of the opinion that unless this decision should be reversed by the Supreme Court a long step has been taken toward abating the regulation-for-revenue-only nuisance, which has annoyed the motorists of California for so many years."

The Automobile Dealers' Association of Tulsa, Okla., has been reorganized and is planning a "big and better" automobile show next year.

But the only one you ever hear of is Pike's Peak, because it has been so widely advertised and talked about.

The 1915 APPERSON line is THE HIGHEST PEAK in the automobile horizon of to-day, from a standpoint of the number of superior qualities at moderate prices.

Purchasers of APPERSON JACKRABBITS do not buy one-third advertising and two-thirds car, but receive a dollar's worth of material, design and workmanship for every dollar paid.

The building of four and six-cylinder APPERSON CARS at prices which prohibit competition, is a monument to twenty-two years' experience in motor car building; the fruit of a lifelong knowledge of the value of metals; and is made possible only because of an organization drilled in the school of quality production.

For the Winter—

CLOSED CAR COMES WITH ATTRACTIVE FEATURES.

THE first 1915 Cadillac eight-cylinder enclosed car has arrived in Los Angeles. This latest product of the body builders and designers of the Cadillac coach department is worthy to take its place in the long line of Cadillac cars, each of which has shown improvements over the one which went before.

The eight-cylinder limousine combines the improved methods of engine construction, the driving qualities of the eight-cylinder motor and the refinements of the 1915 season in coach work.

A large number of styles in upholstering are offered for the choice of the purchaser. The standard is a taupe Frisette. A belt line of inlaid Circassian walnut adds to the richness of the interior finish.

The windows, which are equipped with heavy silk curtains, are of heavy crystal plate glass, seven-thirty-seconds of an inch thick, set in cast aluminum frames. They are rubber-stopped to prevent rattling and to make them weather-proof.

The driver's compartment is upholstered in straight-grain, smooth-finished leather. In addition to the standard lighting equipment, two quarter lights and a dome-light, interior and two pillar lights are added. In the windshield the upper portion is double, providing clear vision when it is raining. The lower half swings inward to provide ventilation.

[illegible]AYS SMALL BASEBALL LEAGUES TOO AMBITIOUS.

[illegible] of players were reduced [illegible] the meeting of the minor [illegible] in Omaha, writes J. B. [illegible] in the St. Louis Globe-Democrat. This may not be the part of [illegible]. Minor league salaries on the [illegible] are not too high. The average [illegible] C and D salary is $125 a month [illegible] duration of the season of four [illegible] half months. That makes [illegible] salary of the primary [illegible] player about $700 a season, or [illegible] for fifty-two weeks of the [illegible] as much as the player gives [illegible] time to baseball, what he may [illegible] the off season between October and March 15 being negligible, [illegible] a year represents his sole [illegible].

[illegible] not very well live on less. [illegible] any sort of an upstanding [illegible], and no other is worth [illegible] a baseball player, he will [illegible] less. Indeed, unless the [illegible] has prospects of "going [illegible]" he will not accept from [illegible] as his income during a [illegible].

[illegible] is much better driving a [illegible]. A clever young man [illegible] $18 a week fifty-two [illegible] year. That is $946, more [illegible] average class C or B league [illegible] players. So, unless [illegible] future in baseball," the [illegible] who chooses that professional salary of from $700 [illegible] is making a mistake. [illegible] collegian baseball offers [illegible] remuneration. But the col[illegible] not play professional baseball [illegible] the end of the college year. [illegible] best the boy who went [illegible] college year would get [illegible] two months' work, July and [illegible] the smaller minor leagues.

[illegible] EXCEPTIONS.

[illegible], there is a peculiar breed [illegible] men who spend their lives [illegible] meager minor leagues. I [illegible] many of them, men who [illegible] 50 years old, who looked [illegible] drew small salaries, were [illegible] had families, owned their [illegible] cottages and worked about [illegible] small capacities in the [illegible]. They were small ball [illegible] small spirits, small men, good [illegible], fathers and husbands, [illegible] will not make a [illegible] appeal to the high-spirited [illegible] who plays the na[illegible] game of "getting the money" [illegible] worth.

[illegible], the profession of baseball, [illegible] of the major leagues, is not [illegible] while. Even in the class-AA [illegible] a good player may be found [illegible] for $1500 to $1800 a year. [illegible] man who is content to set [illegible] of $2400 a year on his life's [illegible] foolish. I know that the aver[illegible] in the United States is [illegible] about $460. Few of the [illegible] who adopt baseball as a [illegible] may ever attain to an in[illegible] a year outside of the [illegible]. Just the same, the young [illegible] sells his future for $2400 a [illegible] making a bad bargain. He [illegible] at least aim higher, even if [illegible] lose.

[illegible] see how the class-C and [illegible] can very well cut salaries. [illegible] paying little enough to at[illegible] boys now. The result [illegible] salaries will be to drive [illegible] young men out of the game [illegible] bring the "lot loafers" who [illegible] to accept anything that [illegible] offered. These "lot loafers" in [illegible] all cheap labor, will [illegible] more costly than the demanding young fellows. They won't [illegible] many games and the trans[illegible] their contracts will not sell [illegible] much. So the class-C or D [illegible] may reduce its pay roll $2000 a [illegible] and drive out two or three [illegible] whom it could have sold [illegible] $3000 to $4000. There is [illegible] in that.

[illegible] collegian joins his team in [illegible] will have to forego three [illegible] of college work. To make up [illegible] he must return to college [illegible] years instead of the regular [illegible]. There must be a [illegible] profit in baseball sufficient to [illegible] in protracting his college [illegible].

[illegible] that the years of baseball [illegible] make it unprofitable [illegible] the profession unless its [illegible] very much larger than [illegible] other professional life. [illegible] average player must sup[illegible] his own and that of [illegible] the playing season. [illegible] purchasing or saving [illegible] salary. Then, if he is to [illegible] $1500 to $1800 of the [illegible] he is keenly aware [illegible] he can not hope to [illegible] the modest emolument be[illegible] of 30. So if he is any [illegible] it all be safe about se[illegible] means of livelihood. It [illegible] difficult for the best sort [illegible], and they are the only ones [illegible] to secure permanent [illegible] will pay them as [illegible] baseball and which [illegible] promotion and sub[illegible].

[illegible] TOO AMBITIOUS.

[illegible] trouble with many of [illegible] is that they are too [illegible]. For towns with popula[illegible] can make daily [illegible]. Yet there are hun[illegible] towns in the smaller [illegible] remains almost the sole remunerative date on their schedules. It would pay these small cities to play but three days a week. They would save traveling expenses by so doing. The total receipts at the season's end would be quite as large as if they played every day. Expenses would be cut almost in half. Some money could be made by playing exhibition games at smaller towns about the larger cities on the league circuit.

Then many leagues take a classification entirely too high for their ability to pay salaries. Take the Illinois, Indiana and Iowa League, Three-I's, for instance. It was a class B league, with a salary limit last season of $2200, and next season of $2500.

The population of the cities in this league varies between 25,000 and 80,000. Its salary limit is as high as that of the National League, New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, etc., was between 1892 and 1900. The National League individual salary limit in those days was $2400. It is safe to say that the salary lists of St. Louis, Baltimore, Louisville in those years did not exceed $2000 a month each. That is no more than the average salary list of the Three I clubs will be next year.

In 1898 Mr. Von der Ahe, owner of the St. Louis National League baseball club, enjoyed the services of Breitenstein and Peitz, the crack young battery of the league, for a total of $2100, $1050 each.

Breitenstein and Peitz were at that time equal to the great Boston battery of Leonard and Cady, in 1914. The pitcher was the best left-hander in the National League. Peitz was really a much better catcher than Cady now is. It is safe to say that many class B batteries got twice as much salary in 1914 as Breitenstein and Peitz got in 1893. This was more than these leagues could endure. But the trouble was not with the players. It lay in the club owners classing their leagues too high.

CLASS TOO HIGH.

Leagues like the Three-I cannot pay class B salaries. They can pay class D salaries. In everything but classification and salaries the Three-I was a class D league. Its troubles have been due to the bad judgment of its club owners in classing themselves too high. Many other leagues are in the same boat.

From $700 to $1000 a season is salary enough for leagues under class B class. They can not pay any more and succeed. The class A leagues have not been paying players too much. Cities like Providence, Louisville, Indianapolis, Buffalo, Kansas City, Baltimore and Minneapolis paid players from $1500 to $2000 a season twenty-five years ago. They may not have made much money doing it. They did not lose a great deal. Population and interest in baseball have grown greatly in twenty-five years. If it was possible for these cities to pay players from $1500 to $3000 a year twenty-five years ago it should be possible to pay them that much today.

Classifications, not salaries, should be lowered. It may be said that a lowering of classification would automatically lower salaries. Not all. Players whose salaries exceed the revised classification could be asked to accept reductions, and, if they refused, could be sold, or if it was not possible to sell them, released with the proviso that they could not engage themselves with another club in that particular league. It would be hard on the clubs to lose these players perhaps. Yes, but not so hard as in keeping them and failing to pay them.

SUGGESTED LIMITS.

Speaking broadly, it might be said that leagues and players should be classed thus:

Class	Salary under
D	$1000
C	1200
B	1500
A	1800
AA	2400

Salaries are unreasonable only in the major leagues. The average good "regular" who has had four or five years' finishing in the majors, who hits from .250 to .280, is worth about $3500 a season. An average first-class pitcher is worth from $3500 to $4500. An exceptional man like Speaker is worth $5000. A very exceptional man like Cobb is worth $7500, as is a great pitcher like Walter Johnson or Alexander. A really wonderful man like Mathewson may, through compounded virtue of long and extraordinary service, be given $10,000 a season.

There were many $3500 men drawing $6500 last season. Baseball cannot afford to pay salaries like $18,000 (Speaker) to any man. Even $12,500, to the great Cobb, is too much. It is "not in the game." Even if it is it is not the player, as is commonly supposed, that draws it. Cobb did not draw it for Detroit last year. The complicated fabric and structure of baseball, its eminence as the national game, general public interest in the sport, which is due to the game, not to any player or players, newspaper publicity, convenience and comfort of parks, above all the positions of the team in the race, not the exceptional merit of the individual player, is what fetches the money to the box office.

CLUB CONTEST CLOSES SUNDAY.

The landmark contest of the Automobile Club of Southern California is to close next Sunday with a photograph of a Mitchell car. William R. Ruess, local distributor for the Mitchell and Stearns-Knight, has offered $100 for the identification of his photograph in addition to the regular prizes offered by the Auto Club.

The contest was to have closed today, but on account of the rain of last week it was impossible to get the photograph of the landmark chosen by Ruess and the Mitchell will not appear until one week from today.

Use Your Mitts.

EVERY AMERICAN MAN AND BOY SHOULD BOX.

[JACK SKELLY, IN THE "YONKERS HERALD."]

"IN PAGAN mythology, a hero was an illustrious person, mortal indeed, but supposed by the populace to partake of immortality, and after his death to be placed among the gods."

It is absolutely essential that every nation should infuse heroism into their young men, in order to be able to defend their country and hold their strength among other powers of the world by their fighting valor.

This gallant, courageous fighting spirit has been strenuously exhibited by the wonderful heroism shown in the ghastly struggles now going on in Europe between the leading nations of the world.

Personally, I'm not a warrior nor a believer in wars, but if conflicts come from a foreign foe we must face the invaders and defend our homes, and our helpless women and children. This is the natural and unwritten law of every man who has healthy red blood in his veins.

War to me is an ungodly horror! It is a relic of barbarism! It is a terrible slaughter and sacrifice of human life! As Gen. Sherman said: "War is hell!"

During the past three months millions of heroes have gone to an untimely and atrocious death on the bloody battlefields of the beautiful countries across the deep Atlantic.

For what? Simply because of the insane jealousy of a few chesty, egotistical kings and emperors.

But we've not as yet reached that acme of civilization in which all disputes, competitions and jealousy can be settled by just and honorable arbitration.

SHOULD EVERY AMERICAN BE A SOLDIER?

Many of our prominent military experts are just at present advocating the drilling of all our able-bodied citizens in the arts of war. So that we may become a great military power; with a vast army of trained men ready to defend our country from an invading foe. It is not a bad idea in these troublesome times. In fact, it would undoubtedly be a great protection to us against war with other jealous nations.

We should not only have a mighty army, but also a great navy, big and powerful enough to sweep any enemy from our shores. We should always be prepared to defend and protect our own.

Training our young men in naval or military tactics would do no harm. It would give us considerable more national strength, valor and vigor.

Proper physical training of any description is bound to increase the prowess of any nation. We should become a great nation of athletes, just as ancient Rome and Greece were in their days of glory and fame. Just as progressive Japan is today.

The wonderful effect of proper training has also been shown by the great German army that has been battling furiously against such tremendous odds, during the past few moons. By their marvelous endurance and almost irresistible energy, the Kaiser's millions of warriors have not only surprised the world, but all the leading military experts of creation.

Sad as the frightful slaughter may be in Europe, we cannot but admire the gigantic fighting done by the well-trained German soldiers. They are certainly a revelation to us all in this modern warfare.

FIRST TRAIN OUR BOYS IN BOXING.

If you want to make a good, game, healthy, powerful soldier or sailor, let him become a proficient boxer. There is no exercise that will physically develop a boy or a man better, in every way, than the manly art of self-defense.

It will teach him how to battle individually and collectively, with the real fighting spirit. It will give him speed, grit, endurance, nimbleness and self-confidence.

Besides, boxing will educate his eye, quicken his brain and develop his body into symmetrical and muscular proportions. It is indeed the grandest exercise in the world for all mankind.

Already our army and navy have turned out many worthy boxers who have made good in the professional ring. Such men as Tom Sharkey, Sailor Burke, Gunboat Smith, George Siddons, Soldier Barkfield, Sailor Fritts, Sailor Ed Petroskey and a host of others.

In fact, there's not an army post or ship that has not many expert boxers to keep the boys hustling with the big mitts.

SHOULD FOSTER BOXING.

The more boxing we have in the army and navy the better fighters we'll have. Besides, it will improve the physical, and, I might say, the mental condition of our soldiers and sailors possibly 50 per cent., as active sparring is one of the best antidotes for a sluggish brain and liver as well.

Uncle Sam, as I have said before in these columns, should have expert boxing instructors attached to every regiment and battleship, to teach and encourage the manly art to his fighting men. Every one of them should be a well-trained boxing athlete.

TEACH SCHOOL BOYS ALSO.

One of my pet fads, which I have been advocating and preaching about for years, is boxing in the public schools.

It is the most harmless sport in the world, carried out under proper supervision and with competent instructors to teach it.

Even the children in the kindergarten classes are not too young to start in the game. It will tend toward making them healthy and active in many ways.

If the parents of the millions of school boys throughout this country could only be made to realize the benefits derived from proper boxing exercises they would be just as strong advocates of the sport as I am.

But the vast majority of them, I'm sorry to say, are absolutely prejudiced against the manly art. Most of them consider it a low, brutalizing, vulgar and disgraceful sport, simply because they do not understand the real benefits of the manly exercise.

These narrow-minded or uninformed fathers and mothers should consult such authorities on boxing as Col. Theodore Roosevelt, A. Drexel Biddle, the Philadelphia millionaire, who has started boxing in almost 500 Sunday-school classes throughout the United States, or the present Prince of Wales of England. All these three are expert gentlemen boxers, and are indeed strong patrons of the noble art of self-defense.

BOXING IN HIGHBROW SCHOOLS.

There's hardly a great university, college or high school in this country, England, France, Australia or Japan where boxing is not taught or practiced more or less. Nearly all of these highbrow institutions have well-paid "sparring professors" who teach the students the fine and artistic points of the art.

If boxing is considered one of the beneficial physical accomplishments of a university student, why should it not be likewise for the boy who can only afford a common school education?

But boxing should not be confined to any class. If Uncle Sam wants us to be a fine, strong, healthy nation of trained athletes, with the grit and physique to shoulder a musket and defend our country at the blow of the bugle, let him encourage and foster the manly art. Let us have just, honest boxing laws that will help to develop the grand old sport in every nook and corner of this grand republic.

The sale of rubber tires is now officially prohibited in the German empire, excepting motorcycle and bicycle tires. Private individuals desiring to purchase tires for their cars must apply to the military authorities, who will decide whether and to what extent private requirements can be met from repaired, retreaded and second-hand tires.

NEW HOME FOR MOTOR BRANCH.

The local Apperson agency is no longer located on West Pico street. The new salesroom and service station is on South Flower street, below Pico. For several months the local Apperson house has been operated as a factory branch under the management of Harris Hanshue with Harvey Herrick as an assistant and the growth of the business of the branch called for larger quarters and the building formerly occupied by the National agency was leased.

Superlative Beauty Coupled With Chandler Mechanical Excellence

WE have no fear of leading you to expect too much in the Chandler Closed Cars for 1915. They have all the quality, comfort and luxury which heretofore have been found only in the highest priced cars. We are sure you and your family will be delighted with them.

The foremost designers of America and Europe have contributed to these designs and the result is a beauty of line and proportion never before equalled. The interior finish, the roominess, the completeness of the appointments, the perfect electric lighting and the ease with which these cars can be ventilated, leave nothing to be desired.

But the Chandler Closed Cars are more than simply beautiful. They represent the utmost of efficiency and economy. The Chandler policy of light weight has been strictly followed—light weight without the sacrifice of one degree of strength or durability.

Aluminum Used in Body Construction

Aluminum has replaced steel throughout in the construction of these closed bodies. Their light weight allows them to go anywhere a touring car can go, and makes for the economy of operation which has always been a distinctive Chandler feature.

The large, roomy 7-passenger Limousine weighs less than 3200 pounds, while the Sedan and Coupe are well under that figure. The Cabriolet weighs less than 3000 pounds—actual scale weights.

Mechanical Efficiency

The extreme flexibility, the smooth flowing power, the silence and absence of vibration of the Chandler make it an ideal car for city driving. Its economy of operation is one of the wonders of the motor world.

THE BRISCOE CAR is a French car. Benjamin Briscoe took engineers and assistants to France. They worked with leading French engineers. They designed this car, built it, and tried it out in France.

In the eyes of all it was conceded to be a marvel.

It has Smooth Propulsion. And every motorist in the world wants that extremely Smooth Propulsion which the French cars possess. At all speeds, under all conditions of roads, the BRISCOE runs like a French Car.

And being designed by foreign artists it looks like a French Car. Its appearance takes it out of the ordinary, no-style, low-value class.

It's what you might call the "ALL-weather"—this Studebaker Four is. Built to give just as good service and just as much pleasure in December as in June. And you know, there's much comfort and too much convenience in having a car at this time of year to miss it.

It's the best of the whole year's driving—and with a car like this Studebaker FOUR, it's doubly delightful. For the Studebaker with its over-measure of power picks up and goes wherever you want to go, careless of the roads and the weather. And the one-man top and the stowaway curtains give you all the protection, all the comforts and the conveniences of a much heavier, closed car.

—BUT without the expense of the HEAVY car. For with all its rigidity and all its safety and ease of control, this FOUR has been so deftly balanced and aligned that upkeep costs are lower.

You'll see how handsome it is when you come in—but won't you come in soon—TODAY—and know how it lightens your upkeep bills

STRANGE ADVENTURE OF PINKEY AND HIS FRIENDS.

THIS is the story of how twenty-four innocent mud hens spoiled a perfect day for M. P. ("Pinkey") Snyder, president of the California Savings Bank, golf enthusiast and mighty nimrod.

In company with Wesley Roberts and M. P. Gilbert, Snyder went to the classic game preserves of the Lomita Gun Club, where he successfully bagged the limit of twenty-five spoon bills, or maybe it was teals; at least, they were supposed to be toothsome and edible. Roberts and Gilbert were not so successful, and Snyder gloatingly marched around his friends in narrowing circles while he triumphantly displayed his gorged bag of birds.

"In addition to being a mighty hunter," said Mr. Snyder modestly to his friends, "I am also some golfist. Do either of you two gentlemen, by the way, play this difficult game?"

The friends did, and it ended by them accepting the invitation of the bank president and former Mayor of Los Angeles to go to the San Gabriel Valley Country Club that same afternoon, and while the chef was preparing the spoonbills (or maybe teals) in the most approved manner, the three friends would make the rounds of the links, during which time, Mr. Snyder modestly informed them, they could, by watching closely, absorb much of the most difficult technique of the ancient and honorable game.

Unknown to Mr. Snyder, a second bag had been smuggled from the Lomita club preserves by Roberts and Herbert. In this bag were twenty-four of those feathered bipeds called mud hens, which resemble nothing more closely than India rubber, both in the odor they give off while being cooked and in their toughness.

As the three gentlemen walked out to the first tee, and each followed with a good drive, Gilbert remembered suddenly that he had business at the clubhouse, and, excusing himself, hastened back. The two bags were interchanged, and the tough old mud hens went to the chef, accompanied by a good-sized piece of paper which was good for cash at any bank. The chef grasped it immediately—both the mud hen substitute and the currency; and Gilbert, grinning like a cat that has just discovered the cream jar to be uncovered, hastened to join his two friends.

Suffice it to say, that Mr. Snyder, bank president, etc., walloped his two friends earnestly over the course and finished something like two or three up, or whatever a winning score in golf is suposed to be.

Modestly he encouraged their game and promised that at a future time he would again play with them, and the party returned to the clubhouse with appetites whetted to a fine edge for the teal—or maybe spoonbills.

As they entered the clubhouse they noticed a strong odor and the chef, discreet man, bounded wildly out of the culinary department into their presence, and, calling upon the gods to corroborate him, declared that the devil or one of his emissaries must have entered the batch of birds and turned them into horrible things, the odor of which was ruining his kitchen.

Mr. Snyder investigated, and found mud hens where his spoonbills (or maybe teals) should have been. Without a word he conducted the chef outside to the rear of the kitchen and there, on the woodpile, closely questioned that worthy. A large bill changed hands, and the chef, being a discreet man, turned State's evidence. He informed Mr. Snyder that one of the second batch was a genuine luscious teal, and was just ready to be served, while the rest were lowly mud hens.

Snyder returned to the dining-room, and, with a smile loudly ordered dinner served.

Gilbert and Roberts were game, but the mud hens were too much, and they finally surrendered and humbly asked Mr. Snyder for a helping from his teal.

Did they get it?

They did not.

NEW FIELD FOR AUTO BUILDERS.

SIX-CYLINDER OFFERING LATE PRODUCT OF EASTERN MOTOR PLANT.

The Paige Detroit Motor Car Company has entered the six-cylinder field. Successful in the four-cylinder market for several years, with the production growing each year, the company has decided to place on the market a six-cylinder car.

The car, which will sell for $1395 at the factory, is powered with a Continental motor, 3½x5¼, with the cylinders cast en bloc. Cylinders and the upper half of the crank case are cast as a unit. The water jacket heads are cast as another unit and are bolted to the cylinders by twenty-two bolts.

All valves are on the right-hand side, and driven by a single camshaft, which receives its power through spiral gears running in oil.

The motor is started and lighted by the Gray & Davis two-unit system. The ignition is by Bosch magneto.

Less than fifteen trotters won $5000 or more on the Grand Circuit in 1914.

An Important Question.

AUTO CLUB OFFICIALS TO ASSIST MOTOR CAR OWNER.

MOTORISTS who are dissatisfied with the present formula for rating the horse power of motor vehicles will be represented at the coming meeting of the Legislature, according to a statement made yesterday by Fred L. Baker, president of the Automobile Club of Southern California. Or, if motorists in general are pleased with the present rating such communication will be made to the Legislature by auto club officials. In other words, this organization will represent Southern California before the executive body of the State.

That the only way motorists can hope to secure a hearing representative of the majority of the automobile owners in California is by appearing as a unified body, was the consensus of opinion given yesterday by officials and directors of the auto club. To this end, a call will be issued in the near future for all complaints to be sent to the club headquarters, where they will be tabulated and filed.

Every effort will be made to secure the opinions of the greatest possible number of motorists south of the Tehachepi, and it is possible that all motoring organizations in the State will combine under the leadership of the Automobile Club of Southern California in an effort to secure, in part, a fair deal for the motorists.

"While various dealers and individuals are declaring that an injustice is being worked upon the automobile owners of the State, they have offered no solution of the matter, and so far as we have been able to determine, from expert opinion, there is no immediate solution," said President Baker yesterday. "It will remain for the Legislature to decide what the motorists should have. To the end of securing these rights, the automobile club will place the services of its department at the disposal of Southern California motorists, who have given thought to their wishes, as representative at the Legislature."

Just what can be done in the present situation was outlined yesterday by Edward G. Kuster, counsel for the auto club:

"Nothing can be done at this time to prevent the State Board of Engineering from adopting such horse power formula as it sees fit, provided only that it acts in an honest discretion in its choice of such formula. The State Motor Vehicle Act provides that the horse power of every automobile sought to be registered shall be determined by the State Department of Engineering, and in the language of the act, "such determination shall be final and conclusive.

"Last year the department selected the A.L.A.M. formula as its basis of computation. For the coming year it has adopted a new formula, which uses the length of stroke of the motor as a factor in determining horse power, with the result that many cars with the new type, small bore, long-stroke motors, will be assessed a larger tax than under last year's formula.

"Unless the new formula has been adopted arbitrarily and is without any merit whatever from an engineering point of view, I am of the opinion that the State Board of Engineering is within its powers.

"If the motorists of California are dissatisfied with the situation, their remedy is to appeal to the Legislature at its coming session and to ask for an amendment to the motor vehicle act, taking from the State Board of Engineering its present discretionary right to determine upon a new formula annually, and declaring in the act itself what rating is to be used. Most of the States which have adopted a horse power excise tax upon automobiles provide, by statute, what horse power formula is to be used."

REAL SAFETY AT FIRST ATTEMPT.

TIRE CONCERN GIVES DRINKING CUP TO EVERY EMPLOYEE IN SERVICE.

Frank R. Carroll, manager of the local branch of the B. F. Goodrich Rubber Company, has just received fresh evidence of the interest this company takes in the welfare of its employees.

Each employee has received from the factory a collapsible nickeled drinking-cup with the words "Safety First" upon the cap.

Manager Carroll says that the company realizes that little acts of this kind are fully appreciated by the employees and it brings a greater sense of loyalty and support among the personnel of the force.

Warned to Stay off Dangers of Tioga Pass.

The Tioga Pass road, via the Yosemite Valley, is not practical as a route for eastern motorists coming to California during the winter months.

This was determined last week when a party of motorists in two little Maxwell machines braved the heavy snows of an early storm and ascended several miles up the Tioga road, only to be completely blocked by a four-foot wall of snow on the highway. The drifts in several places were many times as deep.

"Bill" La Casse, one of the best known mountain drivers in the West, engineered the expedition for the Maxwell Motor Company. The object of the trip was to determine if the Tioga offered a feasible entering lane into California. The cars performed wonderfully in getting as far as they did over the slippery grades and through the heavy snows.

The real start of the trip was made from Merced. La Casse drove the leading car, accompanied by Carl Bohart and Jack Griffin. In the second car, piloted by Barry Cool, were Burleigh Davison and "Jim" Nordell.

A heavy rain storm was shedding moisture in the valley, and all along the line ranchers and rangers sought to dissuade the party from continuing. At the first big grade, between Merced and Coulterville, the real test of the U. S. nobby tread tires used was made, and it was decided to make the entire trip without resorting to tire chains.

HARD GOING.

Beyond Coulterville and into Crocker's Camp the cars were pushed over grades and through snow. The explorers pushed on in spite of their handicaps, and arrived at Crocker's in time to hear a warning message being flashed over the telephone asking camp attendants and saw mill employees to be ready to go to the rescue of the "fool auto drivers."

From Tioga the trail was axle deep in snow, and Charles Bull, one of the pioneer rangers of the Yosemite country, blazed a route on horseback past the Tuolumne big trees, through Crane Flat, and across the northwestern side of the Yosemite Valley onto the Tioga road. Here he refused absolutely to allow the pathfinders to court death further.

The Tioga would make a great summer road only. The State maintains a good highway from Mono Lake on the eastern side clear to the summit. The Tioga road company keeps its grades in good order on this side.

The Tioga road is every bit as good as that coming in via Lake Tahoe, says La Casse. The Yosemite Valley is as much an attraction to easterners as Tahoe, and if the civic organizations in the San Joaquin Valley would get busy in time, the route could be opened up to catch a fair share of the 1915 automobile travel.

SUNNY LAND FOR OLLIER.

L. J. Ollier, general sales-manager for the Studebaker Corporation of America, is to spend Christmas in Los Angeles. For many years Ollier was one of the most conspicuous figures in California automobile circles as the manager of the Los Angeles branch of the Studebaker interests and his many friends here are planning a great reception for him when he gets back to the land of oranges and sunshine.

AUTO CLUB MAPS MOTORING GUIDES.

The route and map service department of the Automobile Club of Southern California has completed a series of fifty-five strip maps, covering the route of the national Old Trails road from Kansas City to Los Angeles, together with side trips to the Grand Canyon and into the State of Colorado.

These maps are drawn to scale and provide accurate and authentic guides for motorists over the 3000 miles of roads.

They indicate the location of all towns and cities, and by a system of symbols note the points at which gasoline and oil are obtainable. The maps will be bound in pocket size and distributed among motorists.

Furthermore, Salt Lake intends to make a "paying team" a permanent institution in that city—do things on a big town basis, as it were.

Mr. Vandeventer, who is still in the city, is hanging on with grim determination, and expects to remain until he gets a definite answer. He looks for this next week, and is confident that it will be favorable.

THE MANAGER.

Cliff Blankenship is tentatively slated for the management of the Salt Lake team. Blankenship, in addition to being the Christopher Columbus of Walter Johnson, has long been identified with the Union Association, and is the loud noise in Salt Lake baseball.

By one swish of a Waterman, Henry Berry yesterday ceased to be the owner of the Los Angeles baseball team. Meaning that the legal parchment, transferring the property to Tom Stephens and Tom Darmody was signed. This simple act, the final one in the greatest deal in the history of minor league ball, was followed by the election of Darmody to the presidency of the Angels.

HURRY CALL FOR OWNERS.

Motorists should not delay in getting their number plates for 1915. Applications have been coming into the office of the Southern California Division of the State motor vehicle department at the rate of about 1000 a day, but it is believed that there will be a great deal of congestion later on. The office of the department is located at 1140 South Olive street.

As an emergency measure occasioned by the European war, the government of Newfoundland has increased the rates of duty on a number of articles, including all motor vehicles and rubber tires. This makes the duty on automobiles 45 per cent., an increase of 15 per cent. over the old rate. The duty on rubber tires is raised from 40 to 45 per cent.

New Amateur Ruling.

A.A.U. have threatened to take this stand. But when the showdown came, somebody always got cold feet. Everybody has been standing around waiting for somebody else to do it first.

Warren Bovard, graduate manager of the U.S.C., was responsible for the suggestion. He had asked that men who play summer ball be allowed to compete for the colleges. Occidental favored the scheme at first, but Pomona opposed it.

"Why should a man who is a professional in baseball be a professional in football and track?" asked Bovard.

"No reason," answered the faculty representatives.

Prof. Arnold was immediately ordered to change the agreement. He will draft the new amateur amendment and submit it to the three institutions.

There will be no hitch. It will be a law in a month's time. The slate will be wiped clean.

U.S.C. also asked that the rule barring freshmen be abolished, but Occidental and Pomona sat down on that proposition with force.

"We are willing to do everything for the conference but strangle," said Bovard. "This freshmen rule looks to me like hanging ourselves. I warn you that we will use freshmen when we play the Oregon Aggies next fall. We're not going to be beaten by them when we have sensational players in the bleachers."

He argued that Stanford and California, without the freshmen rule, would drain the south of its athletes and that Whittier would get all that was left.

Occidental and Pomona will consider Bovard's remarks. The feeling seems to be that freshmen should be allowed to compete against each other, but not be allowed to play on varsities, except with outside schools.

Throop was admitted to the conference with the same standing as Whittier and Redlands.

Seward A. Simons, president of the local branch of the A.A.U., will referee all conference track meets.

The student managers are to confer with him on the way to settle the "official" difficulty in football. He may be selected to name the referees and umpires for next fall.

M'FARLANE THE MEDAL WINNER.

Terrific Handicap Accounts for Victory.

Judge Frederickson Turns in Best Score.

Henry Newby Wins Annandale Match.

BY ALMA WHITAKER.

S. F. McFarlane wins the honors in the Julius A. Brown cup competition at the Los Angeles Country Club, with a net 72.

It is a medal play handicap event which occurs four times a year, chiefly to encourage the long handicap men, who usually respond by winning it. S. F. McFarlane has 24 handicap. E. S. Rowley won it last time with a net 71 on 18 handicap.

MANY ENTRIES.

There were 105 entries yesterday, notwithstanding the rain had made the course very heavy going. The majority of the scores were just like that, but a few fortunate strivers managed to save the club's reputation.

Judge Frederickson's gross 77 was the best score of the day. And but for three bad holes—the eleventh, twelfth and fifteenth—the judge was certainly playing in his old championship form. E. H. Bagby, who played with the judge, had a gross 86, which should morally have been a par, for the heavy course affected his game not at all, but never a pesky putt but what ringed the cup tantalisingly. St. Andrew was pulling for the judge.

ALMOST.

For some time it seemed that A. W. Bumiller was the winner, with a net 74, twelve handicap—about the best game Bumiller has known. Charlie Hopper's 76 on sixteen handicap and C. W. Roberts's 76 on eighteen handicap are both deserving of honorable mention, especially as they won third place in the sweepstakes, wherein A. W. Bumiller captured the lion's share and Judge Frederickson came second.

Roger Lapham's 80 was second best gross, and considering he and Macbeth finished after dark, that was quite creditable. Macbeth was among the scores of modest ones who preferred to hide their shame and turn in no cards.

Other long handicap men to break 80 were Lee A. Phillips, with 94-16-78; W. S. Bickslar, with 93-14-79; W. H. Spinks, with 86-8-78, and H. W. Howard, with 91-12-79. C. A. Henderson, Thomas McCall and C. W. Pickell each managed to achieve 80 on their respective handicaps.

It was very cold at sundown and everyone came in with that blue friz look, and talked about plowing through the snow. But the rain has done any amount of good and already the entire course has a soft green coat that augurs well for the tournaments in January.

THE OTHERS.

Other players participating were C. W. Chase, I. W. Shirley (who won the recent fall handicap in such glowing style,) A. H. Wilson, Y. L. Mott, C. B. Paul, J. C. Niven, L. T. Bradford, George R. Kuhrts, H. B. Brown, J. S. Hunt, N. H. Foster, J. W. Long, J. W. Wilson (the new captain of the team—he made a net 82,) F. E. McMullen, S. C. Ward, D. N. Baker (who seems to have resumed his 18 handicap status,) R. H. Ingram, S. C. Wilson, Joseph Ball, S. S. Parsons, L. L. Elliott, M. P. Gilbert, W. R. Millar, M. E. Ginn, J. H. Moulton, G. B. Ellis, W. W. Butler, R. J. Cash, F. H. Edwards, W. R. Leeds, A. L. Schwarz, E. T. Scherer, H. A. Barclay, H. M. Eichelberger, D. Benbroke, B. W. McCausland, C. K. Knappe, J. H. Barham, S. P. Hunt, Albert Crutcher, J. E. Cook, Edward Tufts, Artie Schafer, Frank Griffith, H. W. Waddell, W. E. Dunn, W. A. Barker, Earl Cowan, V. Howard, Guy Cochrane, Gurney Newlin, S. Haskins, F. Lyman, J. Slauson, J. A. H. Kerr, C. W. Pendleton, S. Cole, A. M. Strong, M. Gray, F. Gillelin, W. W. Woods, A. J. Waters, Vernon Goodwin, E. T. Pettigrew, E. T. Noyes, F. P. Newport, Thomas Ridgeway, M. P. Snyder, David Barry, C. B. Eyre, C. W. Pickell, C. A. Smith, H. D. Requa, W. H. Holliday, E. S. Rowley, M. C. Howard, Walter Van Pelt, B. Campbell, J. V. Baldwin, T. B. Crane, T. R. McNab, L. L. Shiller, H. H. Stone and the inseparable persons, the Rev. Lloyd Darsie and Rev. C. T. Murphy.

ANNANDALE GOLF.

They likewise had a large entry for the match play against bogey at Annandale, which was won by Henry Newby with 7 up. They were allowed half handicap and Newby had a medal round of 82. That's the second win Mr. Newby has had this month.

Eric Kobbe came second in honor with 3 up, with a medal score of 88—only one more than N. P. Mears, the ex-champion, who made an 87 and finished 1 down.

A TIE.

It was slow going, of course, and Charles H. Biggar's 80 was the best gross of the day, giving him a tie for third place with 4 up on bogey. The Rev. W. H. Cornett and Craney Gartz both finished 4 up, with medal rounds of 82 and 80, respectively.

A. A. French went round in 81 for 2 up, and the 1-ups were John P. Cudahy, with an 85; Dr. West Hughes with an 86, and Frank D. Tatum with 85. Ford Cornett finished even, and all the rest of the seventy-five entries were down, some of them very.

AT THE MIDWICK.

Le Roy Armstrong and C. W. Hunt, Jr., tied for the club cup at the Midwick and will play it off. Mr. Hunt also leads in the weekly sweepstake. There were sixty entries for the club cup event.

The mixed doubles tennis tournament resulted in a win for Miss Elizabeth Sherk and Robert Pitcairn, Jr.

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—Capt. Johnny Evers of the Boston Braves, who is ill with pneumonia at a local hotel, was said to be resting easier today, having passed a comfortable night.

GREAT HENLEY REGATTA DEAD.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LONDON, Dec. 12, 7:10 p.m.—The Henley regatta, England's classic rowing event, will not be held next year. The stewards decided unanimously today to abandon it in view of the conditions brought about by the war.

Truck Demonstration.

first real deep snow was encountered. The party in the touring car were out of luck. Faulkner had no chains and even the non-skids failed to get traction on one sharp turn where the water falling off the trees had turned the snow into a slippery ice bed.

EASY FOR "QUAD."

For the truck it was easy. With chains on all four wheels the truck rambled up the mountainside with its heavy load, but the touring car was stuck. Count Rovigno then volunteered to drive the car around the turn and to the summit. He was given the wheel by Faulkner at once.

After roughing the ice with rocks, the whole crew shoved on the machine from the rear. A foot at a time the car moved ahead as the wheels spun over the ice. Each foot gained was insured when a large rock was used as a block on the rear wheels.

Finally the tires took hold and the Count never stopped until he had reached a level spot, several hundred yards farther up the grade.

On up to the summit, the car met with no serious obstacles. The sun had dropped out of sight, leaving the sky tinted and the lights in the cities below were just beginning to vie with the stars as the truck and car crossed the summit and headed down toward the lake.

MUCH SNOW.

The snow was heavy on the other side of the mountain, but the motors made light of the difficult roads. The party in the touring car arrived at Pine Knot first and were eating supper when the truck arrived with its heavy load.

Log fires were built in the cabins and the men retired early. There were some motion-picture people at the camp waiting for a storm that would make good "snow stuff," and a few mountaineers. Bub Burman was just about as popular at Pine Knot as B.V.D.'s in Siberia. In fact that whole motor party was welcomed like a set of revenue officers at a moonshine camp.

That evening, several hours were spent in arguing the merits of the modern motor truck against the primitive horse stage with the members of the mountain colony.

Early the next morning snow began falling. The artists of the film profession put on the camera paint and went to work. Faulkner was advised to go out over the desert road by way of Victorville and the stage was called off.

SUPPLIES LOW.

There were visions of being snowbound in Bear Valley for the winter with only a scant supply of food and it was decided to drive down the shortest route in the shortest time possible. Several long strips of rope were purchased from the store-keeper and these were wrapped around the tires as substitutes for skid chains.

Burman, Lowry and Faulkner all passed the buck as drivers and Rovigno took the wheel. Seltzer piloted the truck and Henderson, Hatfield and Hines stayed with him on the open wagon.

The top was put up on the McFarlan, but the side curtains were left off as the passengers wanted to be ready to jump if the car started to go over one of the 1000-foot drops along the slippery road.

Before leaving the party invaded the store and purchased woolen socks, which were worn over shoes, and bandanas, which were wrapped about faces. An extra supply of blankets for robes was also secured, but at that it was a cold ride.

BURMAN SCARED.

Snow drifted into the car from all sides and at the summit it was banked up more than a foot deep on the road. Rovigno drove at about four or five miles an hour, but Burman said afterward that he was frightened for the first time in his life in an automobile. Around the corners, deep with snow, the car and truck crept. Time and again, the wheels would slide out toward the edge in spite of the heavy rope on the tires.

The party got out just in time. The McFarlan will in all probability be the last car into Bear Valley before the opening next season, and it is doubtful if another machine will get out, unless over the desert road.

Even after the car had passed Clark's ranch and several miles below had crossed below the snow line, there was great danger. The slippery clay roads were just as dangerous as the snowbanks, but at last the valley was reached and the passengers breathed freer.

EXCELLENT DRIVING.

The truck followed and the driving of Seltzer was equal to that of Count Rovigno. The car brought the mail down and the sack was left at East Highlands.

Bob Burman said that it was the most remarkable demonstration of motor truck and touring car he had ever seen, and admitted that with all its hardships, he would not have missed the trip for the price of his own racing car.

H. A. Burgess, the Jeffery factory representative, was more than delighted with the remarkable showing and when James Henderson signed the check for the truck Al G. Faulkner was as delighted as anyone.

The report had been circulated here that the party was lost in the mountains and a searching party was out looking for the members while they were speeding over the boulevards between Redlands and Los Angeles. Knowing the danger of the mountain snowstorms, friends had phoned up to the lodge for the men in the party. When told that they had left, the friends began to worry, not realizing the time required to drive down the mountain in the snow.

Americans have not attempted to enter the market for motor trucks in Turkey. Most of the trucks so far sold have been bought by the army and it was reported that the Ministry of War would soon be prepared to receive bids and try cars submitted as samples, with a view to purchasing 100 motor vehicles of various sorts. The trucks previously purchased have had a capacity of two to five tons and of ten tons.

The Des Moines Automobile Dealers' Association has announced that its sixth annual show will be held from March 8 to 13.

PHILLIPS WINS REDLANDS GOLF.

And Cuts His Handicap Down One Point.

Soggy Greens Spoil Classy Exhibition.

Five Players Fail to Hand in Their Cards.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

REDLANDS, Dec. 12.—Morris Phillips won the weekly "sweeps" and likewise lowered his handicap this afternoon at the Redlands Country Club.

The scores were far from good because of the soggy greens, heavy from the recent rains, and the wonder is that Phillips was able to turn in a gross score of 73. The performance lowered his handicap from two until he will now play one from scratch. He should be a scratch player.

L. R. Gay won second place in the afternoon play. Another of the standbys of the golfing fraternity returned to the fold in the person of F. B. Lindsley, who, in a few weeks, will be playing his old game.

The fact that five players failed to finish shows how the course was. E. A. McDonald, last week's winner, did not finish his round, nor A. E. Sterling, S. Williams, A. C. Cameron and R. Hornby. The scores made were:

	Total.	Handicap.	Net.
M. S. Phillips	73	2	71
L. R. Gay ..	90	12	78
F. B. Lindsley	92	10	82

FRESHMEN TAKE TRACK HONORS.

HUN BABES TAKE MOST OF THE MEDALS IN THE CROSS COUNTRY.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CLAREMONT, Dec. 12.—Berry of the freshmen class won the cross-country race for novices at Pomona College here today. Atkinson and Bircsall, also freshmen, finished second and third, while Walden, a sophmore, was third. There were seventy-five entries.

The race was over a course three and one-tenth miles long. Berry's time was 17m. 27s., or an average of 5m. 38s. to the mile.

All letter men were barred from the race. Berry, running for Redlands High School last spring, set a new world's mark for preps in the mile at Stanford. Atkinson hails from Santa Ana, where he ran the quarter-mile.

REVOLVER MEN WILL PRACTICE.

TRI-SERVICE MATCHES CAUSE ENTRANTS TO GET BUSY.

Militiamen of infantry, cavalry, naval and artillery organizations are to do revolver practice today at Eastlake range, in preparation for the team tri-service matches set for next Sunday.

Col. Schreiber is qualifying a team from his regimental staff, on which he expects to shoot himself, in the event that an injury to the trigger hand of Capt. Moulton keeps him out of action.

Ensign Koebig is coaching a team from the naval militia battalion as a unit, while Capt. Gunn and Capt. Ford themselves take charge of competitors for positions on their respective cavalry and artillery teams.

CHIEF JOHNSON BEHIND THE BARS.

DEFIED AUTHORITIES AND RAN AWAY BUT WAS FOUND AND JUGGED.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

WINNEBAGO (Neb.) Dec. 12.—"Chief" George Johnson, the Indian Federal League pitcher who defied the authorities at Winnebago, Neb., to arrest him and made his escape after an accidental shooting which resulted in an injury to a bystander, was placed in custody here today. He is charged with disturbing the peace and resisting an officer. He gave his bond for appearance in court later.

VENTURA WILL PULL OFF RACES.

SEVERAL HARNESS EVENTS ARE SCHEDULED FOR NEW YEARS DAY.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

VENTURA, Dec. 12.—The Seaside Park Driving Association has arranged for a number of fine races to be pulled off on New Years Day in this city at Seaside Park. The races will include a free-for-all trot or pace for $100; 2:22 pace or trot for $100; half-mile running dash for a purse of $75, and a polo team match between the teams of Joe Donlon and E. S. Farmer. Entries will close the 24th inst.

KOLEHMAINEN IS RECORD-BREAKER.

FLYING FINN CRACKS RECORD FOR SIX MILES CROSS COUNTRY.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—By winning the national senior cross-country run of the Amateur Athletic Union over the six-mile course at Van Cortlandt Park today in 33:36, Hannes Kolehmainen, the "Flying Finn," wearing the colors of the Irish-American Athletic Club, established a new record for the course.

Kolehmainen led all the way, winning by about sixty yards from Arthur J. Fogel of the Irish-American Athletic Club, who finished second, about thirty yards ahead of his clubmate, Thomas Baird.

IT'S KIND O' EARLY FOR THIS BUSINESS BUT I'M SURE THERE'S NO ONE HOME AN' IF I HURRY I'LL GET AWAY WIT' IT ALL-RIGHT!
GEE WHIZ! THEY'RE COMING BACK ALREADY! ME FOR BEHIND THIS SOFY!
SH, CHILDREN, THERE MAY BE SOMEONE UP-STAIRS SO WE'LL PUT THESE PACKAGES UNDER THE LOUNGE UNTIL TO-MORROW!
I HEAR SOME ONE UP-STAIRS! I KNOW! I'LL PUT THIS UNDER THE LOUNGE UNTIL TO-MORROW! THEN I'LL PUT THEM AWAY IN A BETTER PLACE!
SOMEBODY IS COMING IN! I'LL PUT THESE UNDER THE LOUNGE UNTIL TO-MORROW! I DON'T WANT ANYONE TO KNOW WHAT I GOT!
UNDER THE LOUNGE IS A GOOD PLACE UNTIL I HAVE MORE TIME TO HIDE THEM!
DID YOU EVER SEE HOW THEY'RE HANDIN' THINGS TO ME! DIS IS MY LUCKY NIGHT!
IT'S FATE! DAT'S WOT IT IS! AN' I AIN'T GOING TO REFUSE ANYTHING!
I SHOULD HAVE BEEN HOME TO GO SHOPPING WITH THEM THIS EVENING! I HOPE THEY'RE ALL ASLEEP!
AS I LIVE, SANTA CLAUS!
I WONDER WHAT'S IN THEM!
AHA! I THOUGHT I HEARD SOME NOISE!
SO THAT'S THE WAY YOU ARE SNOOPING AROUND AFTER OUR CHRISTMAS SECRETS! SHAME ON YOU!

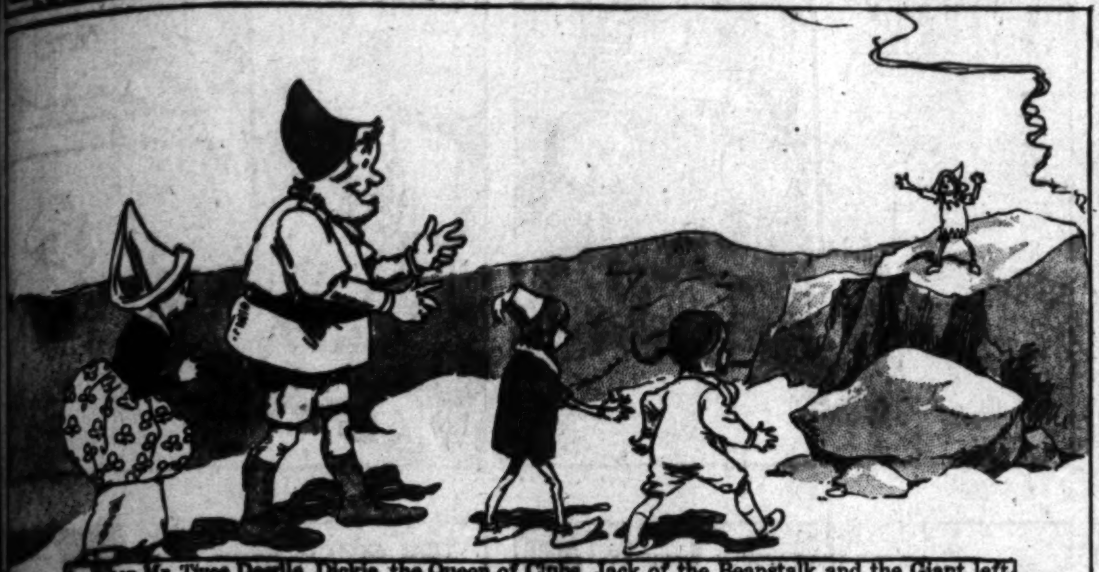
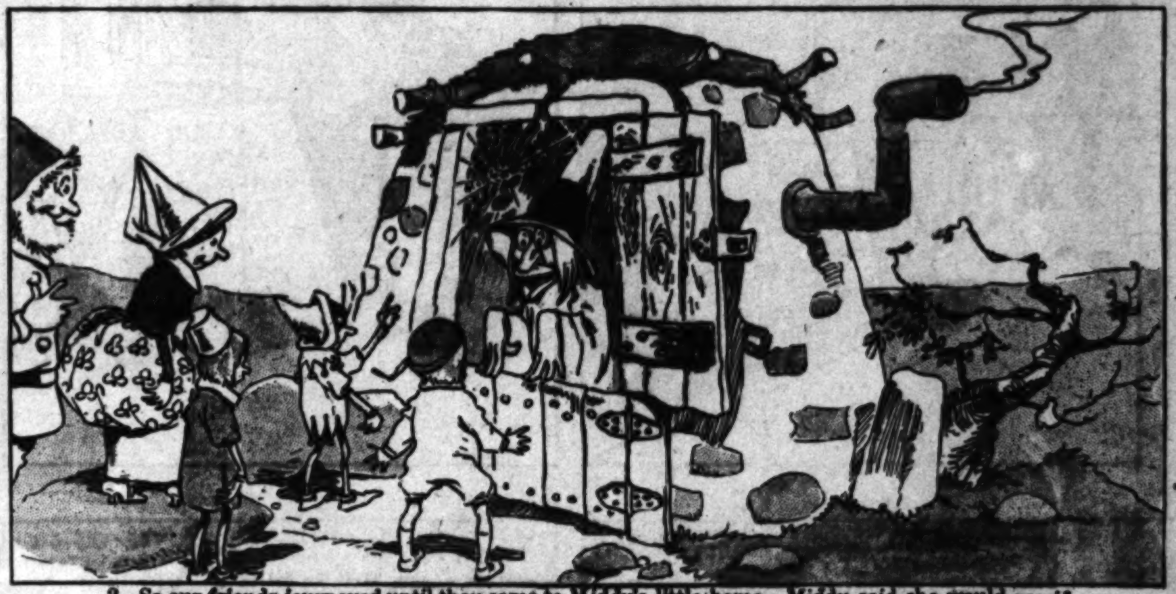
MR. TWEE DEEDLE.

BY JOHN B. GRUELLE.

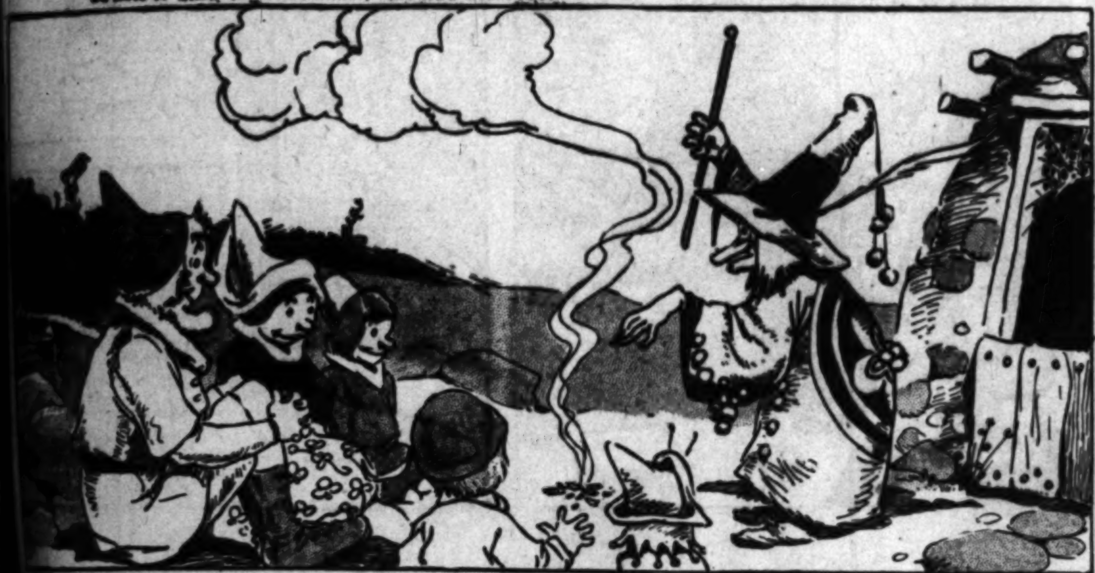
THE ADVENTURE IN WHICH JACK OF THE BEANSTALK FINDS HIS FATHER.



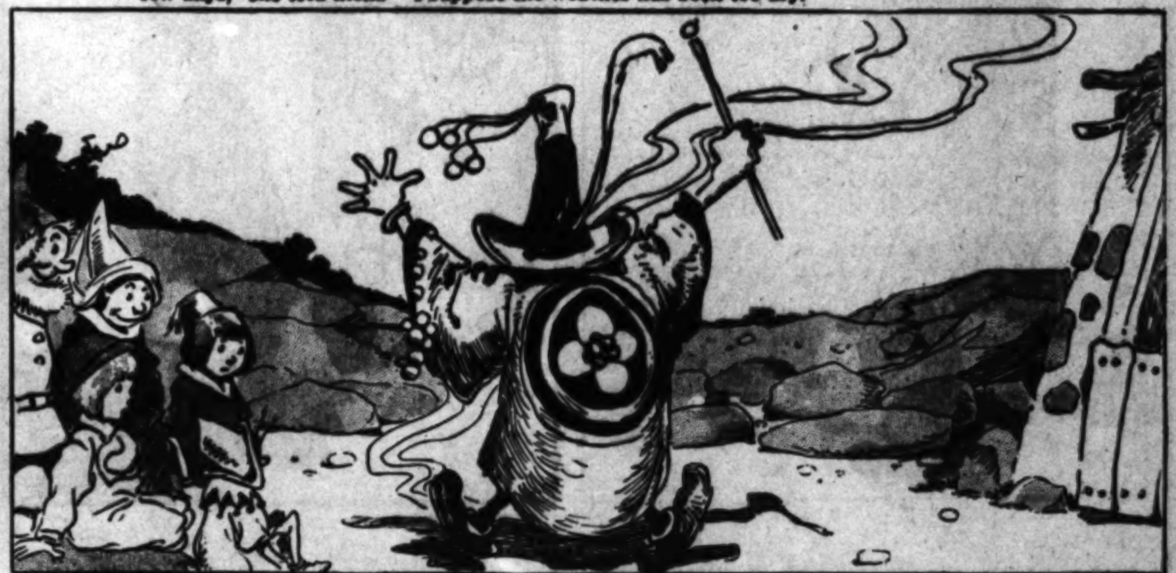
1—When Mr. Twee Deedle, Dickie, the Queen of Clubs, Jack of the Beanstalk and the Giant left the home of Sinbad, the Little Old Man of the Sea told them that if they would travel straight east for six miles they would come to the home of Middy Bubble, the enchantress, who might be able to find Jack's father, who had been lost.



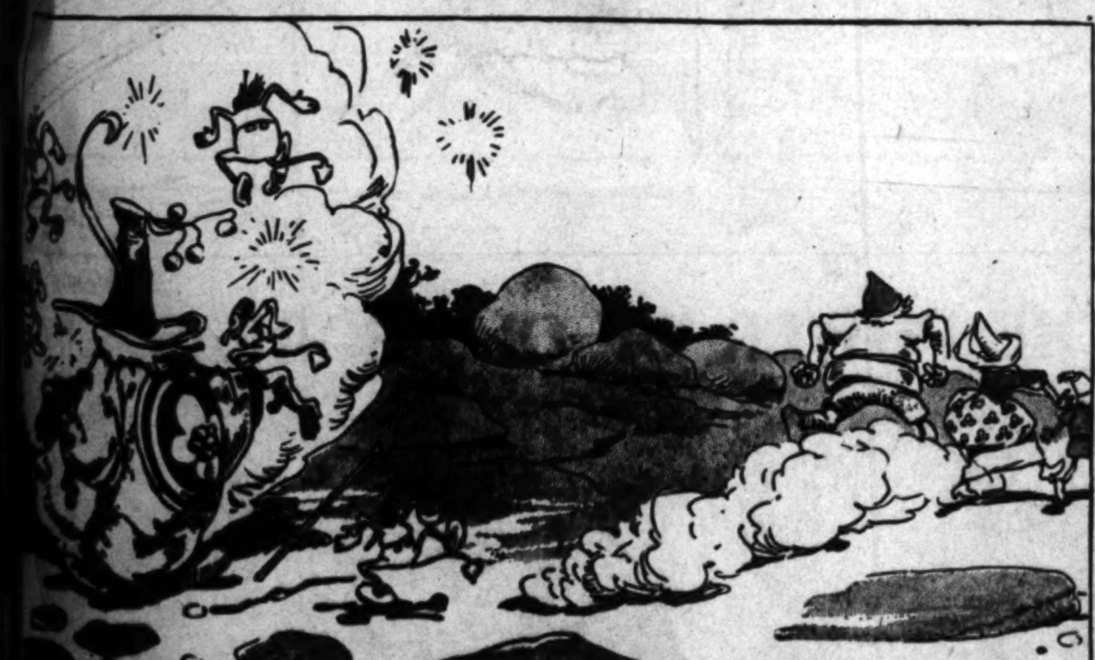
2—So our friends journeyed until they came to Middy's little home. Middy said she would see if she could find Jack's father by her magic. "My magic has not been working very well the last few days," she told them. "I suppose the weather has been too dry."



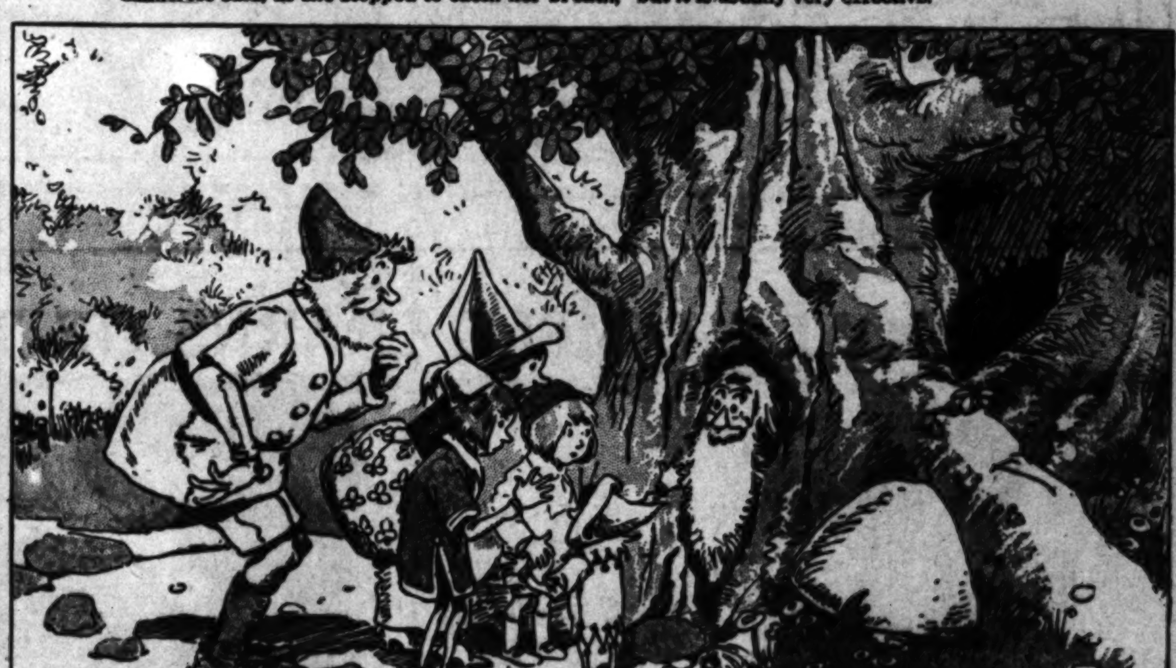
3—But Middy Bubble said she would see, so she kindled a tiny fire out of sandalwood, and as the smoke wreathed up into the air she sang a weird song.



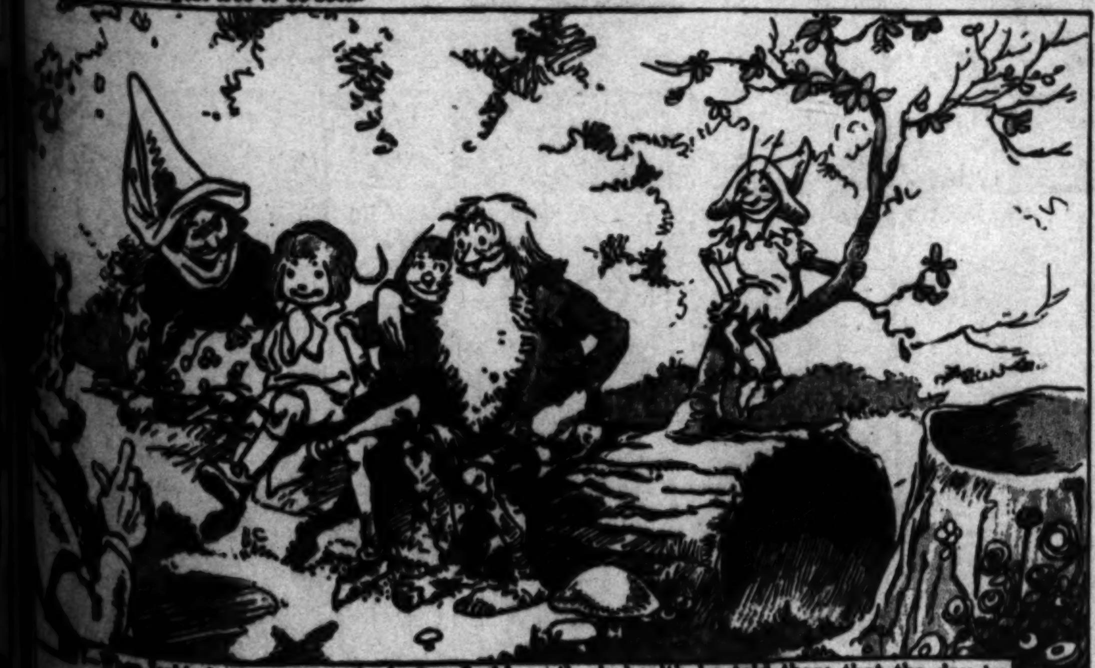
4—"Quacky, wacky, dinky doodles; clinky, clanky, pudgy poodles; poodles, pudgy, clanky clinky; doodles, dinky, wacky quacky!" she sang over and over. "It isn't a very pretty song," the enchantress said, as she stopped to catch her breath, "but it is usually very effective."



5—"Ah!" Middy Bubble exclaimed, as a number of tiny figures came out of the smoke and flew around her, "they tell me that Jack's father is shut up in the trunk of a tree only a thousand feet from here!" "Thank you!" called our friends as they started on a run in the direction of the largest tree to be seen.



6—"I'm so glad to be rescued!" said Jack's father. "I've been in this tree for two hundred years and, except for the kind birds and squirrels bringing me food I should have starved to death long ago! I shall never go hunting after birds or squirrels again," he said, "for it is cruel."



When Jack's father had inquired after Jack's mother's health he told them that the day he started hunting he fell asleep with his head on the branches of a tiny tree, and that he must have slept fifty years or more, for when he awakened he found that the tree had grown up all around him and he could not get out.

8—Of course, Jack and his father were anxious to get home and, as the Queen of Clubs thought her subjects might be getting anxious about her, she decided that she would return with Jack, his father and the Giant. So Mr. Twee Deedle and Dickie climbed upon a large boulder and waved to them until they were out of sight.

COMMON SENSE in the HOME
EDITED by MARION HARLAND

AS TO CHRISTMAS PRESENTS.

WHAT are you planning to do about Christmas presents this year? Some weeks back—along in the summer, in fact—we had a talk on holiday gifts with suggestions as to how to choose and make them. But that was before the war cloud had rolled over Europe and shadowed even the people on this side of the water. Has the war changed your attitude with regard to Christmas giving?

Only a few days ago I heard a woman utter her feelings on this point. She is a member of a family who have always made much of the Yuletide, both in the way of home pleasures and of liberal present bestowal, and she spoke slowly and regretfully, after reading an account of the sufferings from cold and hunger of the distressed Belgians.

"If we only had the courage to do it, we would make a change in our Christmas customs this year," she said. "We would pledge ourselves to give no presents which would cost more than 50 cents or a dollar each, even to our dearest and best, and we would send the remainder from our Christmas money to the poor sufferers on the other side. We could show just as much love and thought by a card as we could by an expensive present, and we could save a lot that would bring help to the needy."

It sounded rational and plausible and at first several persons present seemed disposed to adopt the idea. But a common sense man in the company spoke up decidedly.

"Have you thought of what your plan would mean to the working people if it were carried out?" he asked. "Do you know that trade has fallen off so much already that shopkeepers are reducing their force and that if every one were to cut down on Christmas gifts for the sake of helping the unhappy foreigners, it would bring need and suffering to our own doors? If ever there was a Christmas when we should give to the full extent of our means, it is the one that is coming."

How many of you have thought about that when you made your decision to make few Christmas presents or none at all this year?

I grant that on the face of it there seems a certain incongruity in sending gifts when we know of the need about us on every side. We feel as if we had no right to give or take pleasure while there are those to whom our money might mean relief from cold and hunger. Yet, on the other hand, the money we pay out to workers in any class stands for self-support and comfort.

Can we not make our Christmas giving fulfill the two ends of helping workers and bestowing happiness on our families and friends? Can we not choose our presents in such a fashion that they may mean aid to the needy as well as gratification to those we love?

An illustration of the sort of thing I mean was given me a while ago by a friend interested in charitable efforts. She was on the committee of a Christmas sale which was started for a charitable end a little late in the season, when there was not much time left to make the articles required to supply the tables. In order to secure these several girls who were out of work were engaged by the day to sew on such useful articles as children's frocks, aprons, household linen of all sorts, to embroider doilies and bureau covers and the like. The money for the enterprise was bestowed by a wealthy woman and the items made were to be sold at the bazaar. In this way two methods of help were engineered.

Something of the same kind may be done by all of us. Do you know some poor woman who can do dainty needlework and who has been impoverished by the war distress? Give her some of your Christmas sewing to do. Your friends who love your presents because they contain the work of your own fingers will value them all the more because the stitches have been set by some one who without your help would have had no Christmas dinner for herself or her household.

Tell a friend that you will have a new set of napkins she has bought for her family use hemmed and marked as your Christmas gift to her. Tell another that you will have her initials embroidered on her latest dozen of towels as a Christmas remembrance. She will be none the less delighted because your gift takes this form than if you gave her something less useful and which would not stand for assistance accorded some one in distress.

Make your gifts practical, so far as you can. Somehow it seems more in harmony with the prevalent state of mind than to bestow giddy and useless trifles. Until you come to think of it you have no idea of how many tokens you can find which will give work to those who need it and bring pleasure to your friends.

I spoke a while ago of household linens as among the things made for a Christmas sale. There are numbers of these articles, of which no one ever has too many, which would furnish employment to workers and delight the hearts of those who receive them much more than showy and less sensible gifts. Sweeping sheets, for instance, made of unbleached cotton sheeting and bordered with red, that they may not be confused with bed linen; dusters of cheesecloth or of flannelette; duster bags to suit the rooms in which they are to hang; clothes bags, marked with the initials of the one who is to receive the gift; handkerchief bags, for soiled kerchiefs, guimpes, collars, and other small lingerie; shoe bags, both those that hang in the closet for an assortment of footwear and also those for carrying a single pair of shoes in traveling; cases for brush and comb, for handkerchiefs, for gloves, for veils, pincushion covers, bureau covers, sofa pillows, etc. And I have not begun on doilies, centerpieces, guest towels, Turkish towels with embroidered initials or monograms, washcloths, similarly marked, or any one of dozens of other useful and delightful items, including the always popular handkerchiefs of all styles and manners of marking. When you once begin on useful presents there seems no end to them.

Last year I heard a woman declare that for her Christmas presents she wanted no merely ornamental or useless gifts. "Everything I wish to belong to one of two classes," she asserted, "the useful articles, like things to wear or to use in my house; or the things which will be disposed of and put out of the way, like flowers or fruit or something in the line of food. Don't give me pictures and bric-à-brac and ornaments or other trifles which will clutter up my house and I shan't want to throw away because I love the persons who gave the things or because I will hurt some one's feelings by casting them out."

There is a good deal of force in her position, and when the gifts can be made by some one to whom the work will bring help in purchasing necessary food and clothing the presents possess a double value.

"But I can't afford to have my gifts made," I hear a Cornerite say. "It is as much as I can do to pay for the materials, let alone the work on them. I had planned to knit or crochet or embroider some little thing and make my work constitute the value of the present."

That is all right. The material you buy for the present helps to set money in circulation, even if it be only a small amount. If every one would do her share in proportion to her ability the heart of the manufacturer and of the retail dealer would sing for joy and the discharged employés would have [illegible] back to the work [illegible] food and clothing.

MARION HARLAND'S HELPING HAND.

"SOME time ago I wrote asking you to help me find a home for my 8 year old boy. You published my request, but the only reply came from too far away to be of any help to me. It is almost impossible for me to keep him with me and make a living. I could perhaps find a home for the boy through some charity organization, but I don't want every one to know my business. I hate to give the child away, but I would not interfere with the management of any one who took him to a good home. He is a healthy, good looking, and intelligent boy, and I want to give him every opportunity possible. I know I can't give him the attention he needs and no matter who had him I would still be his mother. You can see the confidence I place in you when I think you can get this matter straightened out, but I hope the request will be printed soon, so that I can get an answer and settle the question before long.

"AN ANXIOUS MOTHER."

In the first letter which came from this correspondent she stated that the boy's father had been dead three years, that she is anxious to raise him up to be a useful citizen, and that she hoped there may be some couple living in the country who would care to take the child for their own and bring him up well. I print this request here in the hope that some one may see it and feel disposed to take the boy. It is a terrible strain for a mother to yield her child under any circumstances and the only thing that makes it tolerable is the faith that he will be better cared for by strangers than at home, and that they can give him the opportunities she is unable to provide. I will be glad to give this address of "An Anxious Mother" to any one who wishes to correspond with her with an idea of adopting her boy.

Directions for Pie Crust.

"I am always much interested in the Helping Hand and often wish I could assist in some way. Not long ago some one asked for directions for making pie crust. Those given in reply were excellent, but much too expensive for the average housekeeper. So I want to tell you how I make a paste that is good and also inexpensive. I give the proportions of ingredients so that any one can make as much or as little as is wished. I use the following myself, in a family of five, three of whom are men, and we all like it: For two and a half cups of sifted flour take two-thirds of a cup of lard. Add a level teaspoon of salt and work lightly with the finger tips until the mixture is like meal. Then moisten the flour with half a cup of cold water. This paste is little trouble to make and is excellent. Also let me tell the sisters of a unique combination for fruit jam; at least it was new to me. I got it out of a story I read. Pick over two pounds of grapes, heat until soft, and put through a sieve. Add only a small cup of water when you start to cook. When you have put them through the sieve set them on the stove again and thicken with ripe pears cut fine, adding three cups—a pint and a quarter—of sugar. Stir smooth and cook down about one-half or a little less. It is good. If I am not too far away I would like to contribute some books, music, and magazines. I will be glad to do so and also to pay charges upon them. K. B."

This is a helpful letter, clearly and wisely written, and I am glad to use it. I am also much obliged for the offer made in the concluding paragraph. It is likely that there are those who would be thankful to accept the offer she makes of books, magazines, and music. I hope they may fall to those who could not get them without availing themselves of K. B.'s kind willingness to pay the charges on her gifts. I will be happy to supply her address to those who wish it and will write for it inclosing a stamp for reply.

Another friend is moved to send a recipe for Never Fail pie crust:

"Sift half a teaspoon of salt and an eighth of a teaspoon of baking soda with one heaping teacup of flour. Work five heaping teaspoons of lard into the flour, working it in lightly with the finger tips. Do not knead it, as that would hurt the globules in which the lard is encased. Add enough sour milk to make the pastry of a consistency to roll; usually three tablespoons are enough. This depends, of course, upon the size of the teacup used in measuring the flour. Roll half of the pastry for the bottom and half for the top crust of the pie. Do not fold the pastry over and roll again, as that spoils the flakiness of the crust. That is why it is necessary to cut the pastry in half, so that the top crust will not be rolled twice; use half the pastry only if you are making an open pie and spread the pastry on the bottom of the pie tin, first turning this with the bottom side up. This will insure an even, deep crust, free from air bumps. I have used this pastry for ten years and have never failed to turn out rich, flaky, delicious pie crust. Here is a suggestion which may be of use to some one: It is on how to mend skirt hangers. If you break your skirt hanger, do not discard it. Run each piece of the broken rod into opposite ends of an empty spool, so that the ends of the rod meet in the center of the spool. Then drive four matches into each end of the spool. They will fill the hole so tightly that the rod cannot move. Trim off the parts of the matches protruding beyond the spool and tie a twine around the spool to hang it by.

"MRS. B. C."

Again I am glad to offer my thanks for the helpful suggestions. The pastry recipe is new to me and I shall try it at an early day. These two sets of instructions come in with especial timeliness at this season, when preparation is under way for Christmas pies and the weather makes pastry less of a drain upon the digestion than at any other time of the year.

Creamed Mushrooms on Toast.

"I would like to offer a recipe of my own for cooking mushrooms. I cannot tell you how to be sure they are not poisonous. I only know which are edible and which are not. They bring a big price in the markets, so are quite a luxury. As they cook down to little or nothing it is well to know a way to make them go as far as possible. Every one who has eaten them at my house says they like them better as I cook them than in any other manner. For creamed mushrooms on toast, peel the largest mushrooms, being careful to break each one open through the center to be sure there are no worms inside. Don't let any water touch the mushrooms until you are ready to cook them. Have ready a large frying pan with a good amount of butter and fat smoking hot, wash the mushrooms thoroughly, so there will be no grit with them, drain, and then put into the hot fat, stirring and turning the mushrooms continually for several minutes, or until all are well seared with the fat. Cover and cook slowly two or three minutes longer; then add hot water sufficient to cover them almost entirely; cook fifteen minutes longer. Add salt, pepper, and a slight grating of nutmeg. Add more water if necessary and enough canned milk to make a rich gravy. Thicken with a little flour and just before taking up the dish squeeze over the mushrooms the juice of a small lemon and pour all upon hot buttered toast. My family care for no meat or vegetables when they can have all they want of this dish, which we think fit for a king. Next time I will give the recipe for cooking Belgian hare if you care to have it. AUNT MAUD."

Those of us who are not able to gather mushrooms for ourselves sometimes purchase them in the markets and we are glad to have so good a recipe for preparing them—a recipe which has borne the test of trial in a family. The recipe for Belgian hare will be welcomed when it comes, and it is quite possible there are enough housekeepers able to get the hares to make its appearance helpful. I regret that I cannot follow out the request made by others and repeated by "Aunt Maud" that I should give the name of the place from where the letters come, but I can only give to her the same reply I make to others, that it is against the rules of the paper.

Substitute for Ear Trumpet.

"To the deaf who cannot afford ear trumpets I wish to say that they should not be discouraged. I have had several relatives who were deaf and spent many dollars trying to secure something which would enable them to enjoy conversation in the home and with friends, but nothing ever proved so helpful to them as a pasteboard tube, such as calendars are mailed in. These are known as mailing tubes and cost practically nothing. I am sure you can easily get one, and I would suggest a tube of medium size as being easier to handle. You can cover it with black ribbon or silk and tie a piece of ribbon around the middle, to hang it over your arm when you are shopping. I know the tube to be satisfactory, as one relative who lived in our home used it entirely.

"E. E. H."

Such advice as this is bound to be helpful and I only hope many may see it and make use of it. A while ago a correspondent advocated rolling a thin sheet of celluloid into a cornucopia and using this instead of the ear trumpet manufactured especially for the deaf, and the suggestion seemed excellent. The counsel given by E. E. H. is even simpler, and I shall be interested to learn if it is followed and with what success. While any appliance of this kind is less valuable than the ability to read the lips, it may yet serve as an assistance to those who have not acquired lip reading.

Could Make Good Use of Pieces.

"I saw in a recent issue an offer by Mrs. M. L. P. to give a bundle of silk and velvet pieces. I would be glad to get them, for I am a poor woman with three children and I could make good use out of the pieces. MRS. F. H."

I am sorry that the pieces had been given away before this application arrived, but I hope it may meet the attention of some one else with pieces to bestow. I will gladly send the applicant's address to any one who writes for it, inclosing a stamp. Please do not send parcels of this size to the office of the paper but secure the address directly from me and then send to the correspondent who has made the request.

Sits All Day with Nothing to Do.

INEXPENSIVE GIFTS IN LITTLE TIME

Designed by Anne J. Loos

WITH nearly two weeks before Christmas, you have probably finished the big presents that are on your list. The little remembrances are now in order. Perhaps you have decided to give calendars and cards. How foolish! Why not make something that will not be duplicated, and in its folds have something of yourself? It is an easy matter if the designs are before you, and here they are. Little gifts can be made in a short time, and will be worth much in the estimation of the recipients.

The heart-shaped design is for a sachet bag. It should be transferred on sheer linen and a double piece cut so there will be a back for the bag. The design is a conventional one, and can be worked in any color in solid stitch. Another easy and a much quicker way is to outline it in one shade of heavy silk and fill in the places with seed stitches in a different color. Seed stitches are small back stitches in parallel rows. The dots in this design can be eyelets, so that the color of the inner lining will show through. One very effective piece of work had some of these forms done in cut work. The lines were buttonhole-stitched and the linen between the sides was cut out. This showed the silk beautifully. Place a china silk lining over the thin layer of cotton batting on which you have sprinkled some sachet. This design is a good one for a needle case also. It should be cut out and lined with a piece of cardboard between the linen and the lining. The edges should be turned and whipped over at the edge of the board. With heart-shaped leaves of flannel and ribbon to tie together the book, this is a fine remembrance for one of your sewing circle.

The square with the design in the corner is a corset sachet. This should be cut of fine linen, so that it can be washed. You will see that there is allowance made for the turned-in edge, which is folded so that it matches the scalloped sides. The dashed line through the center shows the fold. The design should be done in solid work in quick stitches. The over-and-over stitch is used for the edges of the butterfly wings. Outline the stems and make the dots in eyelets. The corset sachet is good when in white. The edge is scalloped in buttonhole stitches, and the other folded sides are stitched down in running stitches over the white silk pad that has the scent on it. In this way it can be removed and washed. This is tucked in the front at the top of the corset and gives that perfume, faint and delicate, that many women like.

A money bag is always welcome. It can be of heavy linen, and when cutting it make two of the shapes. The upper side has the design on it. Here again is a simple design. The flowers are to be done in color in solid stitch, with outlining for the stems. The scallops are buttonholed and the eyelets at the top are also done in buttonhole stitches. The two pieces are stitched on the machine or in firm back stitches, so that there will be no danger of the receptacle coming undone. In it bills can be kept. A ribbon or strong silk tape can be attached to the top, and this must be long enough for encircling the neck in a loose line. At the back you can add a small safety pin that can be used to pin this bag to the inner side of the corset and thus make assurance doubly sure.

For the woman who is a great visitor the case for toothbrush and tooth paste is excellent and very easily made. Cut it double the width shown, allowing for the hem suggested. The edge, which is really the flap if the brush be short, is to be done in solid stitch, with good effect in color. The scallops are buttonholed and a snap fastener attached to the sides so that the ends can be closed. A little sprig of holly or mistletoe is another suggestion for decorating the flap.

While we are discussing cases of this character let me remind you that they should be lined with rubber, which can be regular rubber sheeting or the more expensive oiled silk. The other suggestion is for the washcloth, and is made in a form that is shown. Allow for the hem, and sew the straight edge up along the sides, making the decorated edge come over it, and button or fasten with a snap. The design can be done is bright red, with green leaves and stems. The berries should be solid and the leaves the same. The edge of the flap can be in green or brown. The material for this case is practical when of natural linen, that can be purchased for as low as 15 cents a yard. Think how many of these gifts can be made from a yard of linen!

I strongly recommend that this type of gift be the kind that you make. It is practical, it is inexpensive and it holds in its work an expression of the giver that will be valued long after the article has worn out. In the general cutting down of money for Christmas gifts I think that this page has the best answers.

A Handy Christmas List

ALWAYS the day after Christmas we make resolutions for the next Christmas. "Never again," say we, "will we be caught in such a chaotic whirl of a hundred and one things to do and buy at once. We will take heed," we rashly resolve, "to the expressed wishes of various relatives and friends throughout the year and jot their preferences down in a little notebook. Then," we further resolve, "we will religiously buy a gift or so each month, so that there will be little but the wrapping and the labeling to do when the holiday season is actually here."

And when December descends upon us we are, as of old, again in the whirl of a hundred and one things to do and to buy at once. This is when the printed Christmas list is a friend in time of need, for instead of racking our brains to know what to buy for Uncle Henry and Uncle Edward and Aunt Juniper and Aunt Arabella and all the little cousin offspring too numerous to mention, we have but to turn to the saving Christmas list for suggestions, and the problem is solved. Such a list is the following one. As the problem of gifts for men is the most serious because most limited, it is well to begin upon the masculine list first:

How to Transfer

PLACE a sheet of impression carbon paper between your fabric and the newspaper design, the latter on top. With a sharp pencil or a glass-pointed pen go over the outline. The design will be transferred to the material and will last until worked.

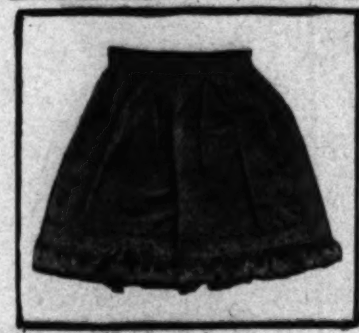
A New Tray

[illegible] trays is becoming [illegible] rather than [illegible] popularity, and [illegible] will see more of [illegible] gift tables [illegible] at any previous [illegible]

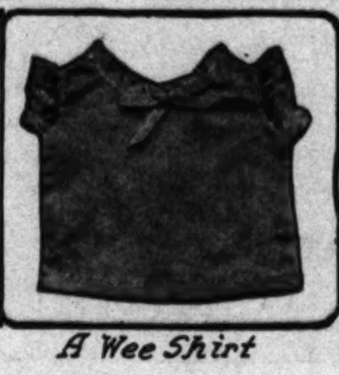
[illegible] the fad new trays [illegible] or brocaded silk; [illegible] upon various [illegible] is yet used. This [illegible] trays with trans- [illegible] glass, dimi- [illegible] gave the [illegible] of a picture. A layer of silky [illegible] between the two glasses to form a background, and upon this background are placed pressed ferns and sometimes gorgeous butterflies in artistic arrangement.

A new French tray has made its appearance. The double glass bottom incloses a background of yellowed lace (white lace can be tea-dipped for the purpose), and upon it is placed a border of wrapped silk roses in an old-rose shade, with pale green stems of silk-covered cord and leaves of silk ribbon connecting the roses and thus forming the border. A mahogany frame should be used for the tray. If a lighter wood is used the roses should be in pale pink.

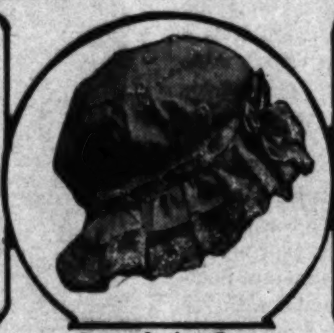
DRESSING THE CHRISTMAS DOLL



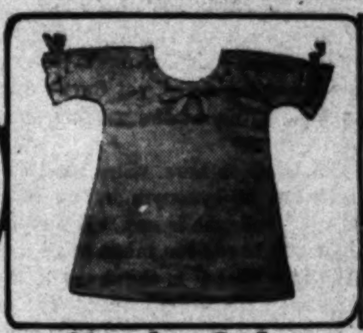
The Petticoat



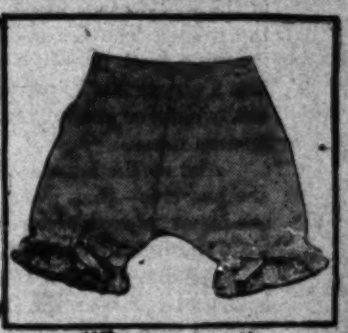
A Wee Shirt



Boudoir Cap



Slumber Robe



"Panties"

WHETHER Santa Claus or just plain Mother dresses the Christmas doll, the important little lady is a matter of much concern, and most important, outside of the color of her eyes and hair, are the contents of her wardrobe and the garments in which she is to make her Christmas morning debut.

If Dolly cannot be undressed and redressed, and than undressed and redressed all over again, she is not half the pleasure she should be to her newly acquired mother. That is why her underclothing must be carefully considered. The undergarments shown in the illustrations are simple and plain compared to what they might be if there were more time between now and the great day, but with so many things to do and so many gifts to get ready in a few brief days, neither Mother nor Santa will have much time for quantities of hand embroidery or elaborate frills. The little garments shown are ones that can be made in a "jiffy," and yet please the heart of Dolly's little mother, and (how could we forget) Dolly's own.

The tiny boudoir cap is the most elaborate piece of the little set. It is nothing more, however, than a circle of material (the size cut according to the size of the doll's head) edged with lace. A band of beading is put about the plain circle at a sufficient distance inside the edge to form a ruffle to fall over Dolly's face. When a ribbon is drawn through this beading the edge of the circle itself forms the ruffle. The material used in the cap is not cut from under the beading. This beading may be applied by hand or by machine. Machine stitching is really better, as it will not tear out too easily when the little mother draws the ribbon up to make the cap fit Dolly's head or after the cap has been laundered. A little circle of outline stitch in colored silk forms the crown of the boudoir cap, and tiny six-petaled flowers of French knots, with centers in the same stitch, are scattered over the cap. The embroidery may be entirely of one color or the petals of blue, the centers of the flowers in yellow and the small amount of foliage of pale green. Pink silk can be substituted for the blue petals of the flowers. An edging of outline stitch may be put about the hem of the ruffle where the lace and material join if there is time in the busy holiday season.

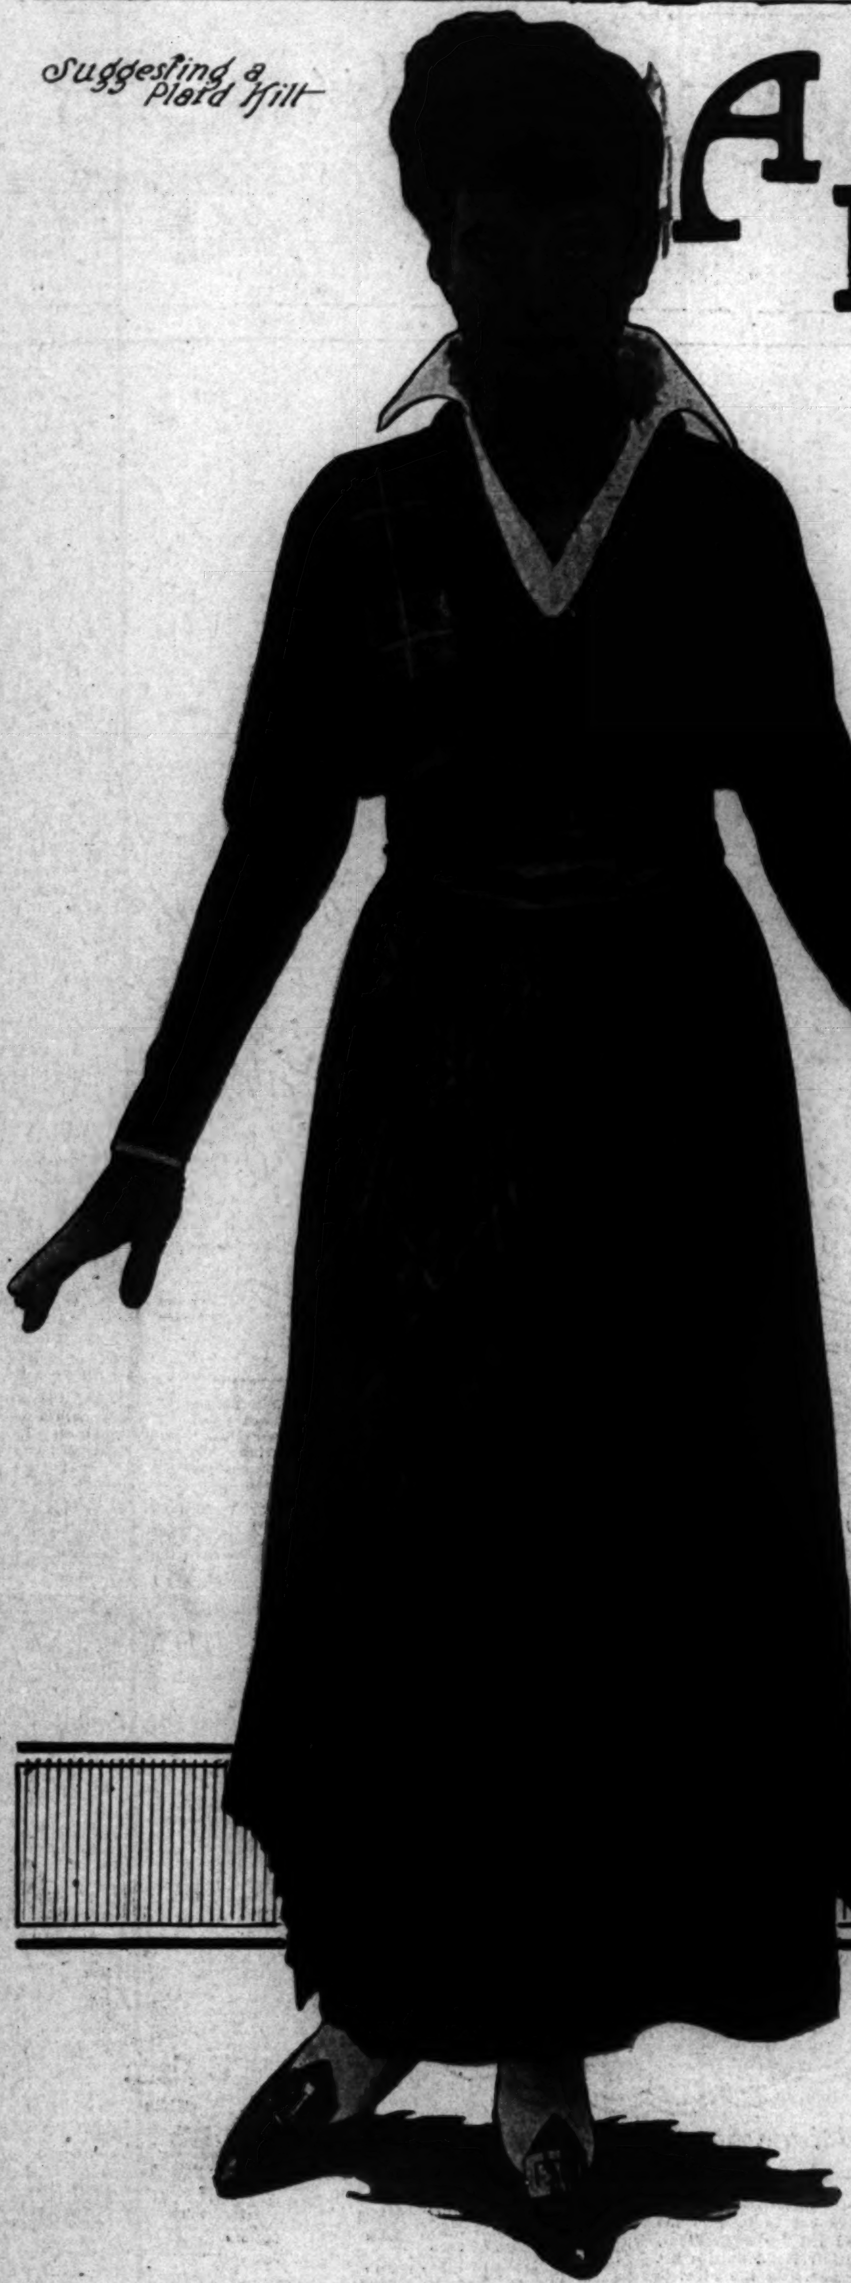
The tiny slumber robe may be cut in one or two pieces. The one-piece pattern would have under-arm and side seams, while the two-piece pattern would have shoulder seams as well. If there is sufficient material for the one-piece cutting, the little robe will have a less "patchy" appearance. About the round neck are embroidered little blossoms which may be either wild roses or forget-me-nots, according to the color, pink or blue, that is used. Lace beading edges the neck. If there is lace and to spare, the beading in turn may be finished with the lace edging, as are the sleeves. The ribbon in the beading, in all instances, should match the color of the embroidery. The little lingerie skirt is simplicity itself. It is, of course, daintier if made by hand, but the shortness of time makes sufficient excuse for machine stitching. It is quite short and comes just below the waist line, so that it may be caught to the band of the petticoat. Buttons and buttonholes, the buttons on the shirt and the buttonholes in the band of the little petticoat or panties, will prevent the small shirt from riding up and thus exposing Dolly's pink little body beneath a thin dress. Beading and ribbon are used for the round neck. This, too, may be edged with a lace edge. No beading is used at the armholes, although this can be added, if there is sufficient time and material. The shirt can be made either of one or two pieces of material, as in the instance of the slumber robe.

Miniature panties are cut quite after the fashion of daughter's own, having two side openings which may fasten to the little shirt with buttonholes, the buttons being upon the shirt. Ruffles of lace and beading are used for the legs, and ribbon to match that used in the other garments is placed in the beading at the top of the ruffles.

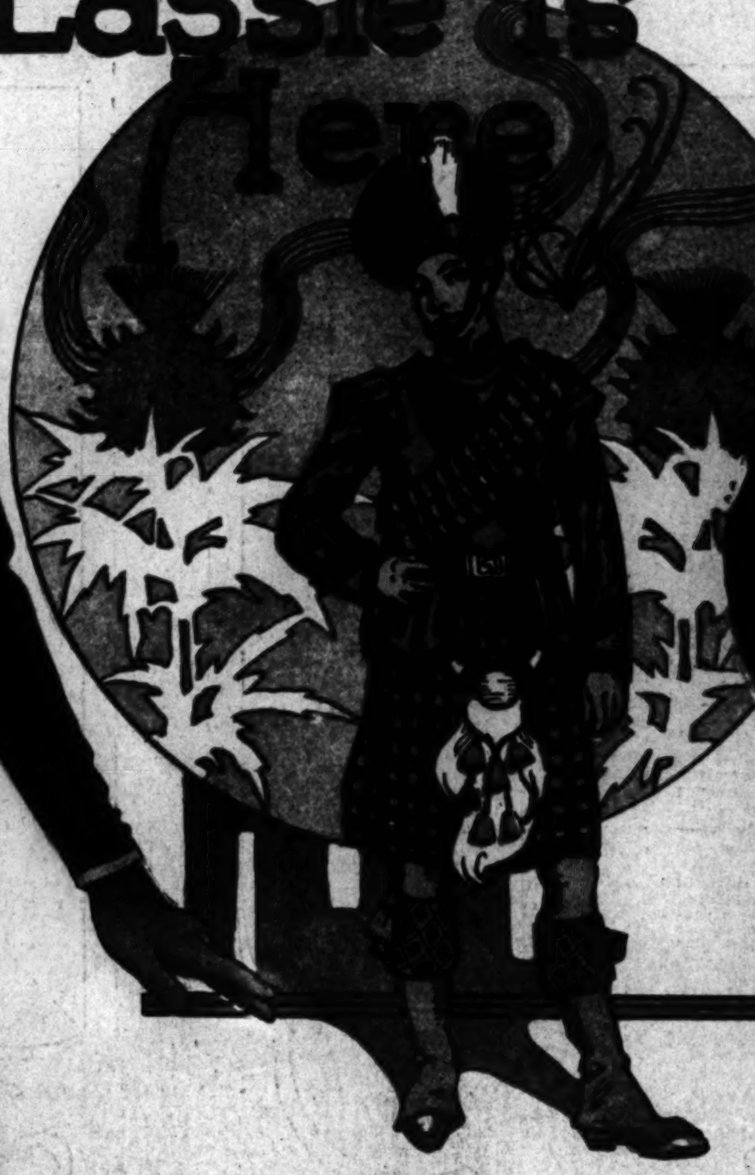
A plain strip of material fulled to a tiny band, which fastens with button and buttonhole, makes Miss Dolly one petticoat. The hemmed edge is ornamented with lace edging and beading to match, and is further enhanced by an outline stitch to hide the stitching in the hem. This outline stitch matches in color the ribbon run through the beading that heads the lace ruffle.

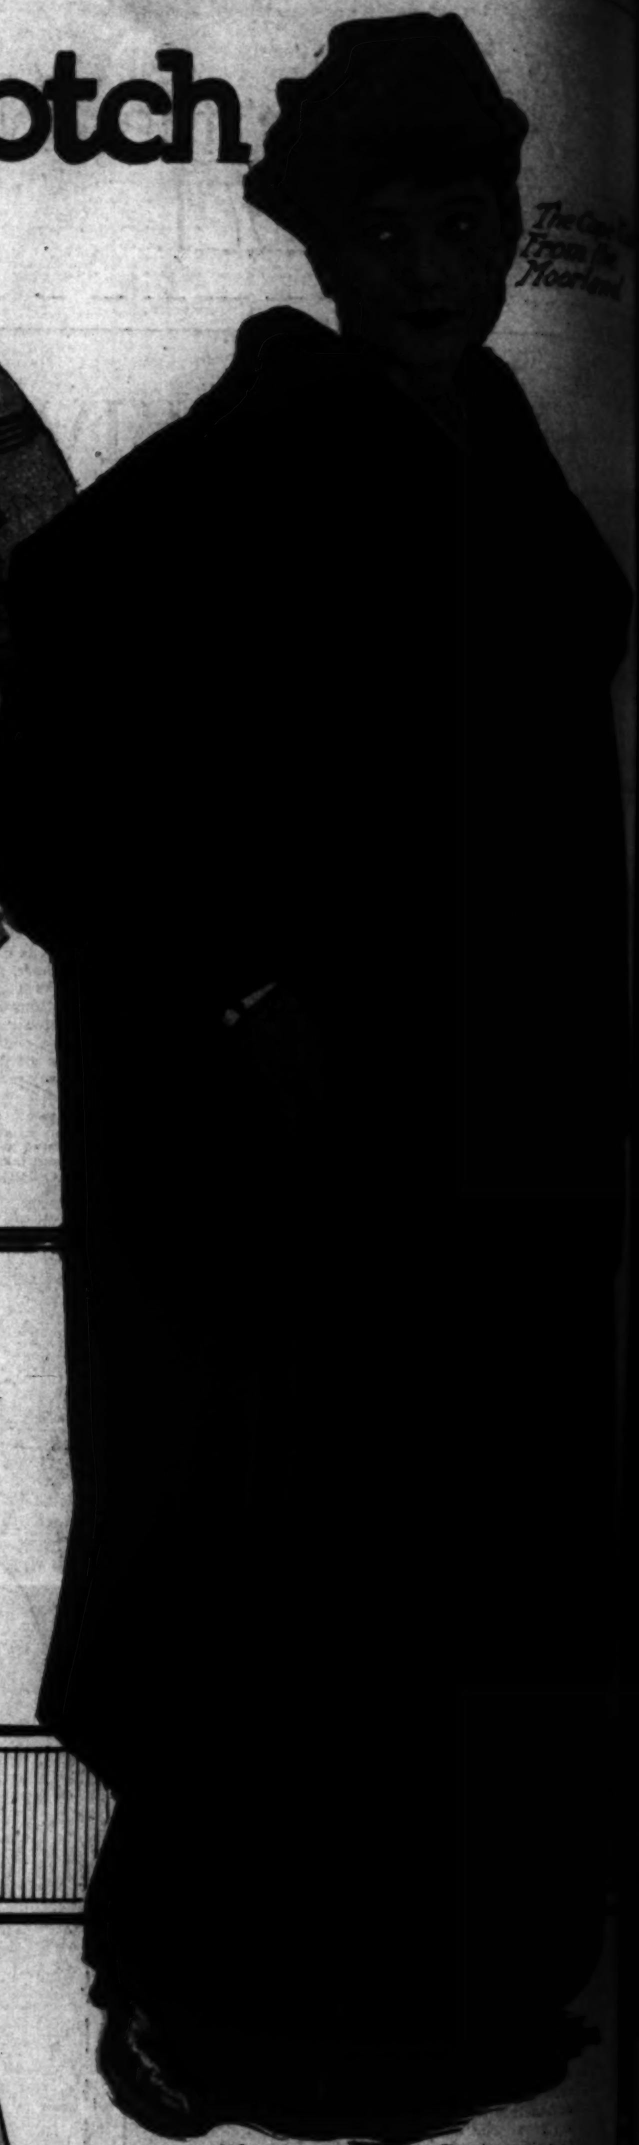
It is well to have two sets of underclothing for a doll, so that a child may occasionally have that most delightful of privileges—"wash day." It is quite humiliating to have to put one's children to bed while their clothes are being made presentable. The finer the white material used, the daintier, of course, will the set be.

A Bonnie Scotch Lassie Is Here



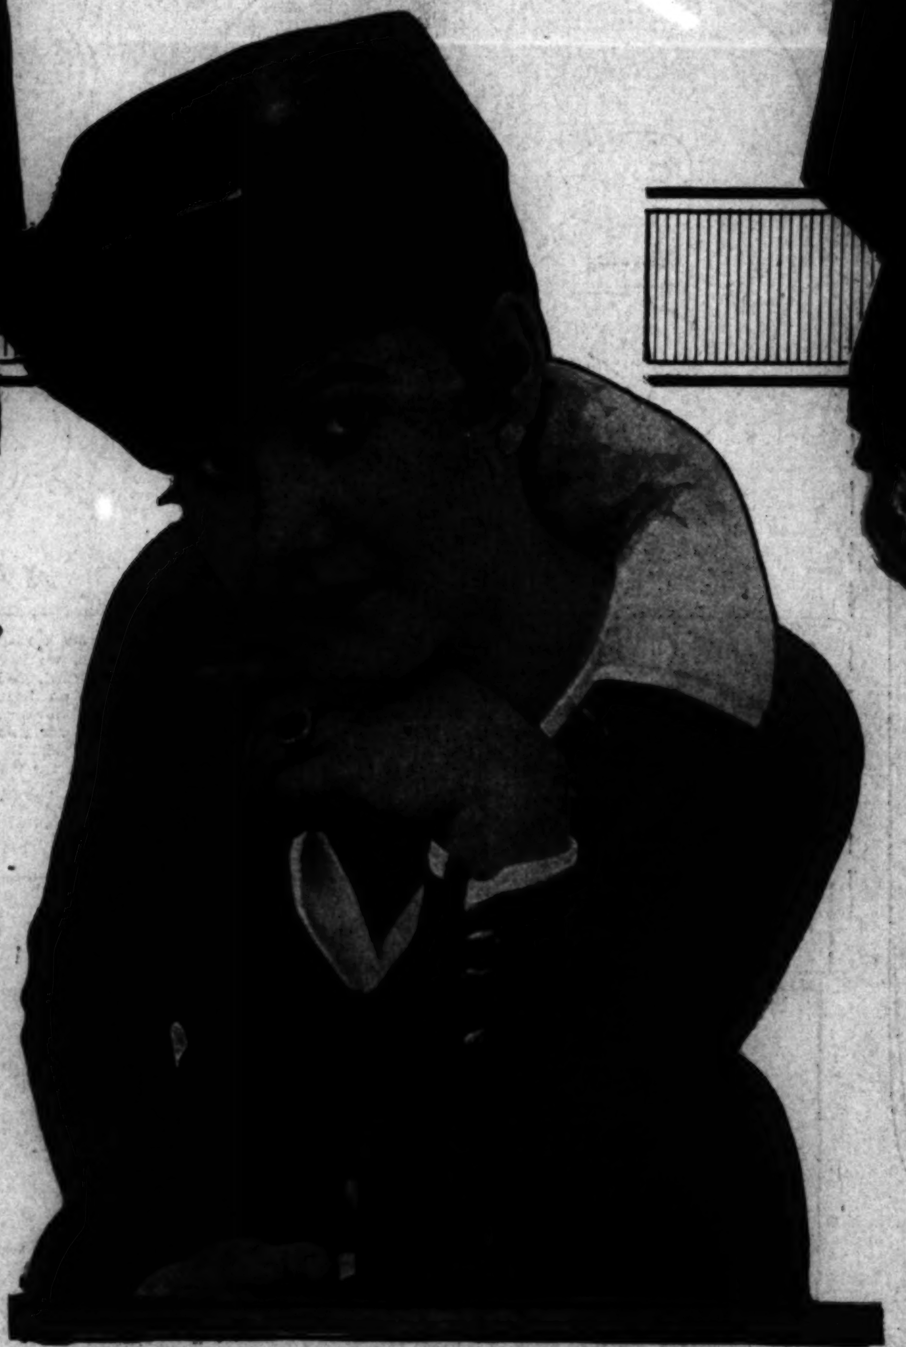
Suggesting a Plaid Kilt





The Cape From the Moorland

A Glengarry Cap



Oh, wert thou in the cauld blast
On yonder lea, on yonder lea,
My plaidie to the angry airt,
I'd shelter thee.

WHEN Bobby Burns offered his plaid to his queen, who, he said, would be "the brightest jewel in my crown," he little thought that he was suggesting to designers the beauty and charm of styles from his beloved land of Scotland. He never surmised that some day the bonnie Scotch lassie would be an important factor in the styles of the well-dressed world. And although the "angry airt" is not worrying the women who are adopting the Scotch fashions, and although it is a feminine trait to refuse to recognize "misfortune's bitter storms" when it is a question of choosing a becoming dress, yet Burns would take off his hat, whatever shape it happened to be, at the wisdom and the beauty of modern dress.

And so the bonnie Scotch lassie is here. She is neat; she is pretty; she has chic—that word that has no synonym in the English language; she is not so expensive, and, above all, she is new. It has been a long time since the styles from the highlands have been taken in all their expressions.

The queer part of this style is that it is the dress of the men of Scotland that has been the inspiration for these styles. The laddie with his "bonnet with a lofty plume, and on his breast a plaid," is one of the sources and a decided authority in this matter. Look at the pictures and prove it.

The Glengarry bonnet is with [illegible] all the attraction of the real cap. [illegible] down the back like the original. [illegible] can, in a mysterious manner, make [illegible] It has not the ribbons hanging [illegible] but the shape is here, and the [illegible] on its heels. It is in black velvet [illegible] of gilt braid at the top.

From the moorlands comes [illegible] that is of Scotch woolen and has [illegible] draped over one shoulder in the [illegible] plaid. It has easy comfort in its [illegible] the "cauld blasts" in a manner that [illegible] poet.

And the Scotch dress of green [illegible] a bonnie thing? It has a pleated [illegible] over the upper part of the skirt [illegible] without the cumbersome folds and [illegible] course. There's simplicity in this [illegible] the fresh air from the mountains; [illegible] styles are stamped with a direct[illegible] that have caught the characteristic[illegible] landers.

Is there going to be a bonnie [illegible] home?
